Eyewitness Story of Greek Victory

ITALIAN PLANES IN SWARMS FAIL TO SAVE KLISURA

Tribune Man Tells Tactics That Won.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH GREEK ADVANCED TROOPS NEAR KLISURA, Albania, Jan. 9 [Delayed].—For the last two days I have watched Greek troops rolling forward relentlessly against odds to take the key town of Klisura in what the general commanding the operations told me was "the most important battle of the war to date." [Klisura fell to the Greeks Friday].

All roads out of Klisura are now under Greek artillery fire. Hundreds of prisoners and gains up to six miles in two days over slopes covered with mud and snow are the Greek score.

Greeks' Chief Objective.

I could see the Italians moving atop the mountain, which was the Greeks' chief objective. As the last of them disappeared into the woods and bushes—roughly a mile from where I stood—I could see the Greeks charging across a clearing after them. Heavy bursts of mortar fire caused a momentary check, and then the attacks were resumed. The mortar fire ceased. Rockets swept into the air and the officer beside me said:

"We have cleared that hill. Now they are going for the one on the left. They are sweeping them back into the valley."

Below us a steady stream of Italian prisoners was seen across the hillside moving toward the rear, bedraggled, bearded, dragging their feet, and begging cigarets from passing Greek soldiers.

Hour's Artillery Preparation.

The battle started far to our right yesterday [Wednesday] morning after one hour of artillery preparation. Before daybreak Greek forces moved forward against Italian mortars and machine guns and pressed steadily forward to bring the right of the line around toward the Klisura road. A little after 11 o'clock, as the sky cleared, waves of Italian planes began appearing, as many as 33 in action at one time.

I passed that night in an Albanian peasant hut as the guest of a kindly, mustached Greek major who told me, "You will have a good alarm clock tomorrow." [Thursday.]

He was right. At 6 o'clock there was the sudden growl of gunfire. It was an Italian mortar. Then a terrific crash was heard from below—Greek howitzers smashing Italian positions before the attack.

Flashes of Heavy Guns.

As we arrived at the advanced post at 8 o'clock flashes of nearby guns were followed by the sound of shells overhead and then far away explosions. Below us the battle continued to develop, with the Greek forces farther away and gradually bringing their line to the Klisura-Berat road.

All day there were continued Greek successes. The general in command greeted me with a broad smile. "Now you have seen how Greek troops do it," he said.

Before leaving the actual battle zone I saw something of the price of war, walking among the unburied dead of both sides.

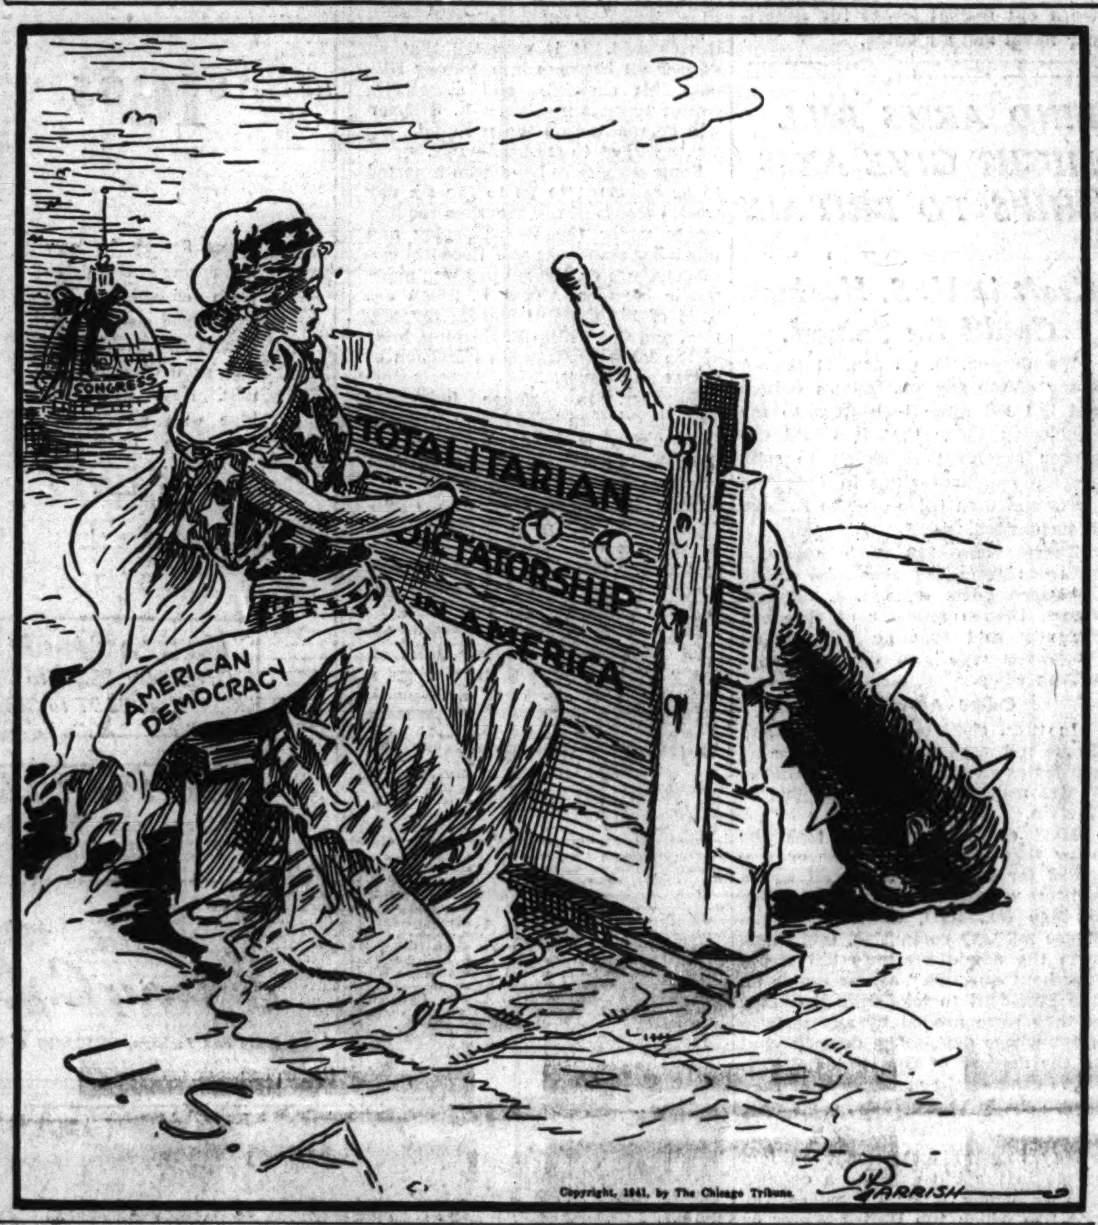
Most of the dead had been buried, even under fire, but scattered along one little patch of mountainside I saw 23 lying where death overtook them in a machine gun or mortar post, or with little heaps of hand grenades beside them—Italians trying to stem the advance, and a few of the Greeks who fell as they charged forward.

Picture of Sweetheart.

One young Italian still clutched a photograph of a pretty girl which was inscribed, "To my big boy, from your Anna."

Most of the dead had had no time to think of photographs or anything else. They lay contorted under bushes or in shallow pits where they were handling their guns when they were struck.

THE PROPOSED FIRST STEP IN FREEING THE DEMOCRACIES OF THE WORLD



Windsor Visits Air Races; All Is Confusion!

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11. — The duke of Windsor almost broke up the air races here this afternoon when he arrived unexpectedly for his second visit to Florida since he became governor of the Bahamas. He was not accompanied by the duchess and remained only two hours, never leaving his box in the grandstand, until he boarded the amphibian plane that returned him to his island domain.

The duke's arrival was really a surprise even tho the air race management had talked hopefully of the possibility.

Privately the race authorities admitted that altho an official invitation to attend had been extended to the duke and duchess weeks ago by Governor S. L. Holland of Florida, they had heard no word from Nassau.

Decision Is Sudden.

At noon however, Capt. Vyvyn Drury, the duke's aide, wirelessed Claude Pullen, head of the air race association, that the duke had suddenly decided to attend the races. A Bahamas Air service amphibian plane, Drury said, would deliver him at 2 o'clock on the field, flying 58 miles from Cat Cay, where the duke and duchess have been fishing for the past week.

With this short notice the race management and the Miami police department managed only to achieve a state of confusion. The patrolmen, who were on hand to form a human barrier at the plane, safely deposited the duke in his box but cut off Pullen and other race executives who had attempted to greet him. It was 10 minutes after he was seated before they managed to fight their way to his side.

Asks to See Stunt Flyer.

Meanwhile the 12,000 race spectators ceased to watch events transpiring over the airport and craned their necks and pushed their way into a vast throng around the grandstand. Pullen finally signaled the band at the public address system microphones and they broke into "God Save the King," to the accompaniment of general cheers.

The duke, wearing a yachting cap and a light gray flannel suit, acknowledged the cheers and asked that the show go on. Specifically he asked to see the stunt flying of Vincent Burnett of Richmond, Va., one of the country's outstanding aerobatic experts. Burnett's act was moved up to the next event on the program.

Windsor showed his interest by rising from his seat as Burnett's plane looped, rolled, and performed inverted maneuvers close to the ground. The stunting was followed by two races and the plane in which the duke arrived was wheeled up for his departure.

No Naval Base Decision.

In the shadow cast by his airplane's wings he granted a brief press interview. While his pilot, Charles Collar, warmed up the ship's two Wasp motors.

"Nothing as yet has been done about establishing your new naval air base in the Bahamas," he said. "I'm still waiting for some decision on the location of the base by your President. The first location considered was turned down by the navy.

"I can't tell you anything more about my interview with the President. For the real lowdown on that I refer you to the British embassy in Washington."

Gently urged by Drury, he then boarded the ship and left at 4 o'clock. The flight to Cat Cay was made in 31 minutes.

South Africa's Job in 1941: Whip Italians in Ethiopia

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Prime Minister Jan C. Smuts of the Union of South Africa broadcast today that South Africa's rôle in 1941 would be to help clear Ethiopia and British Somaliland of Italian forces. "That is the task to which South Africa has dedicated herself and all her resources," he said.

LANDON WARNS OF PERIL IN U. S. GOING INTO WAR

Fate of Republic at Stake, He Says.

Bishop Quits War Bloc

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 11 [Special].—Asserting he is disturbed by the rising tide of war hysteria, the Rt. Rev. Frank E. Wilson, D. D., bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Eau Claire, tonight withdrew permission to use his name on the letterhead of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. The bishop, who was a world war chaplain with the A. E. F., has been a member of the interventionist organization since its inception. "The bill now before congress vesting the President with unprecedented powers, seems to me no less than preposterous," Bishop Wilson wrote. "I am more concerned over such trends within our own country than I am over threats from abroad."

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 11 [Special].—The national security of the United States does not depend on Great Britain's victory in the war, Alf M. Landon declared in a speech here tonight. The question of this republic's survival, he said, will be decided at home.

Alf M. Landon.

If we enter the war to defeat totalitarianism abroad, Landon warned, we will strengthen its hold here. He predicted that the addition of a long war to President Roosevelt's personal government, with the suspension of the bill of rights plus a postwar period's economic suffering and racial hatreds, may put the republic "thru the rock crusher."

Rips Warship Proposal.

Landon, in an interview before his speech, asserted that administration plans to allow repairing and outfitting of British warships in United States ports would "import the war into America." He said he had made a preliminary study of the "lend-lease-sale" plan of aid for England and had concluded that President Roosevelt was "jumping over the ocean."

"Step by step," Landon added, "he's leading us into war." The 1936 Republican Presidential nominee remarked that the President's proposals were unusual "coming from a man who 60 days ago was promising peace. Landon asserted that the broad powers sought in the bill would result in "a national dictatorship."

"Stop Kidding Ourselves."

In his address, delivered at the Alexander Hamilton club's annual dinner, Landon told his audience it is time to "stop kidding ourselves" about giving aid to Great Britain.

"Let us," he said, "face frankly the question: Is a British victory essential to America's security? If it is, and if we are going to adopt that policy, the sooner we end our indecision the better, because the more effective we will be, especially in the highly important coördination of our efforts with Great Britain's. But I do not believe that a British victory is essential to our security.

"I think our difficulties would enormously increase if Hitler should win. You can't have good relations when there is no trust, and we cannot believe his official statements. If he wins, we certainly will be living in a world doing business on a government controled barter basis.

If Britain Wins.

"Also, if Britain wins, we may do so, to some extent. Of course, if Britain wins, it will be much easier to uphold the Monroe Doctrine. We will be much more secure in the essential raw materials we do not possess. And the chances for working out world collaboration for peace and

A Bill to Destroy the Republic

[AN EDITORIAL]

Mr. Roosevelt calls it: "A bill to further promote the defense of the United States and for other purposes." It is, truthfully, "for other purposes." Many congressmen, when the bill came to them from the White House, said they were astounded. That in itself was a remarkable commentary on the measure. When Mr. Roosevelt astounds congress, after its experience with him, he is indeed astounding.

This is a bill for the destruction of the American republic. It is a bill for an unlimited dictatorship with power over the possessions and lives of the American people, with power to make war and alliances for war. With this power, Mr. Roosevelt could do almost anything, notwithstanding, as is provided, "the provisions of any other law."

Mr. Roosevelt's power to do anything he pleased with the person and property of an American citizen to aid any governments he pleased to aid in any conflict which he chose to make his own would be unlimited.

Under this bill Mr. Roosevelt might "from time to time promulgate such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper to carry out any of the provisions of this act and he may exercise any power or authority conferred upon him by this act thru such department, agency, or officer as he shall direct."

From that cradle the American dictator will arise. Congress is asked to abdicate. All other laws are to be suspended. Mr. Roosevelt decides and his decision is final.

He would not exercise his authority subject to other laws which might define and limit him. He would be above law. The Johnson act would be repealed, the neutrality act would be repealed, and there would remain no restrictions whatever upon the executive. He could dispose, in any fashion he chose, of the products of American arsenals and shipyards, "or otherwise procure" any material he decided to transfer as he pleased, for what he wanted to take or for nothing at all, to any government he named.

This act, by extending the executive's power beyond its already dictatorial potential, would make Mr. Roosevelt the sole controler of American destiny. It would complete his authority over the productive capacity of the country, over its resources and its man power. Already he can take possession of plants and already he has begun to conscript men.

Can this bill be enacted? Observers in Washington think that the house of representatives will submit. Mr. Roosevelt says that there can be no delay and it is feared that the house will abdicate. In the senate there are men who say they will fight every inch of the way before they vote to deprive congress of its voice and vote in this crisis. They may succeed and they may not.

The growing passion which is becoming heedless of the consequences is clamorous, and resistance in Washington has a desperate case. The supporters of the bill are of two kinds. One element would put the republic's future at stake and would willingly change its form of government, accepting a dictatorship if by this sacrifice they could help England. That, for them, is paramount and nothing weighs against it.

The other element seeks any method by which the form of government can be changed from one requiring the consent of the governed to one requiring their submission. They think they have created the climate in which free society will wither and die and in which a society governed by edict and not by law will flourish. They have waited for this opportunity and here it is.

Many people have been blinded by their fears and their emotions. They do not see the consequences which are about and upon them. They can be swayed to accept almost anything. The people of Great Britain and of our neighbor Canada were proud of their free institutions, of their rights, immunities, and privileges under law, but they have seen how war has deprived them of some of their most cherished ideals and practices. It is possible now for their people to be put in concentration camps without trial, merely by the word of authority, and that will happen here.

We are in an atmosphere in which men are animated to acts their sober judgment would reject as unjust and inhuman. War will do that to ordinarily fair minded people of honest and honorable conduct.

The German reichstag and the Italian chamber of deputies consented to their own destruction. The Russian duma died, but it did not consent. Is the American congress to abdicate and consent to the destruction of the republic? For national defense are we to spend billions and "for other purposes" open our arms to the invading system of government?

FISH OPENS FIRE ON ROOSEVELT WAR MEASURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—The first verbal gun in the impending battle of oratory over the aid to Britain bill, which will keep the air waves burning during the next few weeks, was fired tonight by Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.].

"Under the specious guise of aiding democracies abroad," Fish said in a radio broadcast, "the bill is a complete and total abrogation of democracy at home. It is totalitarian technique in its most brazen form, placing the 90 per cent of the American people who oppose war 99 per cent of the way into Europe's and Asia's wars.

"If this bill passes in its present form, the congress might as well dissolve, as it would give the President full and complete control over the destinies of our people in both domestic and foreign affairs."

ROW PAVES WAY FOR FULL DRESS HOUSE BATTLE

Hurried Committee Action Blocked.

Warship Plan 'Illegal'

New York, Jan. 11 [Special].—Dr. Philip C. Jessup of Columbia university, one of America's foremost authorities on international law, asserted tonight that the opening of America seaports for the repair and reconditioning of British warships, proposed by President Roosevelt, would constitute a clear violation of international law. "There can be no argument about it," he said. Dr. Jessup has been a member of the Columbia university faculty since 1925. He is a divisional director of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and was at one time a solicitor for the department of state.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—President Roosevelt's request for unprecedented powers to extend aid to nations at war with the axis powers encountered its first congressional obstacle—an entirely unexpected one—today.

The house military affairs committee voted 15 to 4 to demand control of the measure, introduced yesterday, which would clothe the President with unlimited authority to manufacture and procure war munitions, to dispose of them as he sees fit to any nation he chooses, to give away military secrets, and to open American ports to the warships of Great Britain.

Rayburn Refers Bill.

Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.] had, in accordance with administration desires, referred the bill to the house foreign affairs committee, headed by Representative Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.], one of the most rabid interventionists in congress. The measure would have been pushed thru this committee and brought hurriedly to the floor for action by Jan. 21. Bloom already had ordered a hearing on the bill for next Tuesday and had hoped to complete hearings by Thursday.

Today's action of the military affairs committee paved the way for a fight in the house Monday. Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] was directed in a resolution adopted by the committee to move that the bill be withdrawn from the foreign affairs group and sent to his committee.

If Speaker Rayburn overrules this motion, May was instructed to appeal to the membership from the decision of the chair. May said he will demand a roll call vote on the motion if this course is necessary. Such a vote might furnish the first true picture of house reaction to the bill, which has been assailed by noninterventionists as creating a totalitarian dictatorship in the United States.

National Defense Matter.

May said the administration bill "is a matter of national defense altogether and deals entirely with military matters—the disposition of war and navy supplies." Precedent was clear, he said, for sending such bills to his committee rather than to the foreign affairs committee.

"Why, under this bill, the President could give away a whole navy and all of the army supplies," he commented. "We would be stripped stark naked."

If the military affairs committee gains control of the measure, its progress thru the house will not be as rapid as had been expected by administration leaders, it was conceded. The committee is particularly desirous that the army get its expansion and equipment program into full swing and would be reluctant to give Mr. Roosevelt the power to ship to Great Britain war materials needed for national defense.

Vote Against Committee Action.

The four members who voted against the committee's action are Representatives Paul J. Kilday [D., Tex.], R. Ewing Thomason [D., Tex.], J. Joseph Smith [D., Conn.], and Walter G. Andrews [R., N. Y.]. They argued that the state department's wishes should be followed in selecting the committee to consider the measure.

After an informal meeting of his committee this afternoon, Chairman Bloom served notice that his group will resist any attempt to take the bill from its jurisdiction. He predicted that the house will reject May's motion to withdraw the measure from the foreign affairs committee and send it to the military affairs committee. Bloom went ahead with plans to start hearings Tuesday with testimony by the secretaries of war and navy, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau.

Two amendments to the bill appeared to be gaining favor. They are:

1. A two-year limitation on the power to be conferred on the President.

2. A requirement that the military and naval chiefs be consulted in determining how much defense materials can be spared.

There also was criticism of the phrase "or otherwise dispose of" in the section authorizing Mr. Roosevelt to "sell, transfer, exchange, lease, lend, or otherwise dispose of" defense articles. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said the bill should be clarified so this phrase could not be interpreted to permit the outright gift of supplies.

Demands Reasonable Security.

Senator George predicted that the bill will be amended to require "reasonable security" from Britain in return for the materials loaned or leased.

"Some type of formal security for whatever passes to foreign nations should be in the bill—and, I believe, will be in the bill when it passes the senate," George declared. "It would have to be the best security that could be given, but that does not necessarily mean money.

"If we could have some interests in the tin and rubber production of the British, it would be a good business investment for us."

The American people, George stressed, do not want to make a "parsimonious deal" but they are entitled to reasonable security.

Hull Raps Berlin Protest.

Secretary of State Hull made a caustic reply when asked about German press criticism of the provision in the bill permiting British ships to make repairs or obtain supplies in American ports. The Germans said such a provision would be a clear violation of international law.

"Do you mean that the Berlin press is upholding international law?" inquired Hull. "If they are, then we all shall be doing so soon."

The opening of American ports became a subject of much discussion in diplomatic circles. It was suggested that the course of the war at sea might be greatly affected if Latin-American nations were to follow the example of the United States. As far as this side of the Atlantic is concerned, major raids on British shipping have occurred south of the equator rather than in the north. There was no early indication of what trend South American reaction might take.

STRIKE AVERTED AT AN AIRCRAFT FACTORY IN N. Y.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—A threatened strike involving orders for $7,750,000 worth of army and navy aircraft engines was averted today when after negotiators finally cracked a wage dispute deadlock at a Fairchild corporation plant at Farmingdale.

Shortly before dawn John R. Owens, labor relations assistant of the National Defense commission, emerged from a 36 hour conference to announce a settlement.

The dispute centered principally upon demands of the United Automobile Workers of America [C. I. O.] for higher starting wages in the company's Ranger engineering division.

AMERICA FIRST CRY: DON'T LEND NATION INTO WAR

Rally U.S. Against F. D. R. Arms Dictatorship.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman of the America First committee, appealed last night to "Americans who still value their liberty" to flood Washington with protests against President Roosevelt's aid to Britain bill.

"The America First committee will oppose this bill with all the vigor it can exert," Gen. Wood said in a statement. "We must swamp this or any other suggestion that American democracy cannot be depended upon to protect itself in its own way."

Demands for "full, separate and open hearings" on the measure have been wired the chairmen of the senate and house foreign relations committees, his statement declared.

Says Bill Abandons Democracy.

Following is Gen. Wood's statement:

"The tragic irony of this bill is that it seeks to protect democracy by abandoning democracy. We would lose the fight before it began. The President is not asking for a blank check; he wants a blank check book with the power to write away our man power, our laws, and our liberties.

"In a few brief provisions this bill wipes out every safeguard we have devised to protect our nation in times like these. In effect, the bill gives the power to make a military alliance of his own choosing and to implement that alliance in whatever way he sees fit. The power to make such an alliance means war.

"Is that what the people want? The decision is still up to them.

"Never before have the American people been told that they must place their destiny in the hands of one man. The fact that such a bill could have been introduced is a sign of loss of faith in self government from those who sponsored it.

Asserts Nation Won't Run.

"We cannot believe that the American people or their congress will run away from their rights and responsibilities like a flock of frightened sheep. This is no time to retreat from democracy.

"The America First committee will oppose this bill with all the vigor it can exert. We have already wired the chairmen of the senate and the house foreign relations committees demanding full, separate and open hearings.

"We urge Americans who still value their liberty to flood Washington with protests that will swamp this or any other suggestion that American democracy cannot be depended upon to protect itself in its own way."

Seek 150,000 Protests.

A goal of 150,000 protest letters in three days was set by Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the committee.

"Our own defense is certain to suffer if the bill is passed," Gen. Hammond said. "America's first need is for an impregnable national defense. We must be able to protect ourselves against any aggressor or group of aggressors. We will not be able to do that if we are going to wage this 'war by proxy' on behalf of England."

Mrs. Janet Ayer Farbank, vice chairman of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee, urged immediate protests to prevent the jamming of the Roosevelt bill thru congress.

"Our senators and representatives must be shown that the people of Illinois are unalterably opposed to a measure conferring such unwarranted power upon the President," she said.

James Jenkins, chairman of the America First chapter's labor division, attacked the bill as the 'forerunner of totalitarianism."

"If it passes the rights of organized labor will vanish one by one," he said. "I do not believe that the workers of Illinois want to make this great sacrifice for England or any other nation."

Sees "Excuse" for Hitler to Act.

Amos R. E. Pinchot, New York attorney and member of the America First national committee, wired Gen. Wood that the Roosevelt measure would give Hitler "an excuse, if not a duty, to act against the United States."

"Recently the President's course has been such that if Hitler were not, for reasons of his own, as anxious to keep out of war with the United States, as Roosevelt is to get in a war with Germany, we would be fighting now," Pinchot wired.

The America First committee contends that any aid to England which goes beyond the limits of cash and carry trade weakens national defense and threatens immediate involvement in the European war. The Chicago chapter now has approximately 15,000 members.

100,000 ASK F. D. R. TO QUIT TAKING SIDES IN THE WAR

More than 100,000 signatures demanding that President Roosevelt refrain from taking sides in the European war and cease inflammatory denunciations of belligerents have been obtained by the Citizens Keep America Out of War committee, William J. Grace, chairman, said yesterday. He said petitions were signed by 98 per cent of the persons asked.

The petitions state that America's resources of men and materials must be used in building our own defenses to meet the threat of invasion. Under all circumstances, the petitions assert, the door must be kept open for all possible discussions of peace.

TRINIDAD BASE SITES PICKED BY U. S. AND BRITAIN

Lease Negotiators Will Fly to London.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—The state department tonight announced settlement of the dispute with Great Britain over the proposed United States naval base site at Trinidad.

The British were persuaded to abandon insistence that the base be located on a swamp along the west coast that would involve reclamation of 25 miles of mosquito breeding marshland.

It was felt here that the British were seeking to have the United States remove a local pest hole under the guise of promoting the defense of the western hemisphere. American naval officers had said that the site was absolutely unfit for defense needs.

Air Base in Deal.

The Trinidad sites, according to the announcement, include an area of 11 square miles on the northwestern peninsula for a naval base, another area of 18 square miles in the center of the island for the main United States army air bases, and a small area elsewhere for an auxiliary air field. In addition the United States will have supply wharves, water supply facilities, and recreation fields.

Earlier in the day Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced three American officials will leave for London by Clipper plane next Friday to negotiate the formal leases under which Britain made eight defense bases available to this country on its territory in the western hemisphere in return for 50 American destroyers.

At the same time Hull said this country has no intention to pay property taxes or import duties to Britain on the bases which range from Newfoundland to British Guiana. Department officials acknowledged that British customs officials had attempted to collect such taxes.

Lawyer in Party.

The officials named by President Roosevelt to execute the formal leases are Charles Fahy, assistant solicitor general of the department of justice; Col. Harry J. Malony, representing the war department, and Commander Harold Biesemeier representing the navy.

They will draw with British representatives the terms of the 99 year leases for bases at Newfoundland, Bermuda, Nassau, Jamaica, Trinidad, Antigua, St. Lucia, and British Guiana.

In the meantime work will continue on the bases as the British government had agreed that work could be begun on the base sites without the execution of the written leases.

American planes and naval vessels are using some of the bases in the conduct of the neutrality patrol.

Asserts Cuba Will Side with U. S. if It Goes to War

HAVANA, Jan. 11.—If America is involved in war, Cuba "will be found at the side of the United States in defense of the ideals of liberty, democracy and justice," Carlos Saladrigas asserted today in behalf of President Fulgencio Batista, who is ill with a cold.

Craft in U. S. Harbors Could Be Seized.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—A study of the administration's British aid bill led some legislators to the conclusion today that it would empower President Roosevelt to seize foreign merchant ships in American ports and turn them over to Britain, if he desired.

There were 266 such vessels—refugees from the war—tied up in American ports on Jan. 1. Ronald Cross, British minister of shipping, recently said that he was casting "covetous eyes" on the axis ships among them.

Called Act of War.

In turn, spokesmen in Berlin and Rome indicated that it would be regarded as an act of war if the United States made these craft available to Britain.

Most congress members took the view that the extent of power proposed for President Roosevelt was a delicate question of law, but Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the house military committee, told newsmen the administration's bill would "without question" confer power on the President to take over the ships if they were needed by any government whose defense he deemed vital to the defense of the United States. Some others said privately that they concurred in this opinion.

May Quotes Passage.

May based his statement on language in the bill defining a defense article, among other things, as any one "to which the United States or any foreign government has or hereafter acquires title, possession, or control."

The refugee fleet includes 27 Italian vessels, two German, and 41 Danish, the latter regarded by Britain as of "enemy character."

REPORT DEFENSE BUREAU SEEKING SIX DAY WEEK

Patriotism and Urgency Bases for Plea.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 [Special].—An appeal on grounds of patriotism and the "terrible urgency" of the situation to all industry engaged in national preparedness projects to end the two day week-end and go on the six day week will be made soon by the new office of production management, it was learned tonight.

Industry will be urged to pay the usual time and a half for overtime after 40 hours to enable the nation to speed its rearmament program and to increase the output of supplies for Britain.

The appeal has been in the mind of William S. Knudsen, dictor general of production on the the four man superdefense organization, for some time, it was said. It is expected that an agreement between him, Sidney Hillman, his associate, and secretaries Frank Knox and Henry L. Stimson will be reached on the proposal.

Object to Overtime Pay.

Some employers have been reported to be reluctant to go to the six day week because of the overtime requirements under the Walsh-Healey and fair labor standards act. Recently correspondence on the subject was made public between Alfred P. Sloan Jr., head of the General Motors corporation, and Col. Philip B. Fleming, head of the labor deparament's division of wages and hours.

However, in defense industries labor spokesmen have been willing to have union members work longer than the 40 hours a week provided the overtime payments were made.

Some industries producing equipment for the nation in military needs already are working men more than 40 hours. The machine tool industry is working three shifts a day and in many cases a seven day week.

The aircraft industry is working beyond 40 hours. Other industries already working more than 40 hours a week include electrical machinery, foundries, hardware, and heavy equipment.

Consider Longer Day.

It is not assumed that all the industries can go on the six day week at once. Some of them may approach the problem of maximum use of machine and man power by extending the eight hour day several days a week, with the usual overtime pay.

In some cases employers who have wished to go to a three shift basis have found that they would have to spread their supervisory forces thinly over their entire operations. The defense commission is trying to help employers solve this problem.

In an address in New York before the National Consumers' league, Fleming said objections to the 40 hour basic work week were coming not so much from manufacturers as from sideline theorists. He opposed any extension of the work week without overtime pay.

FIND ARMY WITH ONLY DOZEN A-1 PURSUIT PLANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—It was reliably reported today that the army has but 12 fighting planes equipped with self-sealing gas tanks, armor plate, and the fire power required in modern warfare.

The army has acquired only a dozen of the last minute combat planes, altho the 18 billion dollar rearmament program has been under way since July 1 and American factories are turning out almost 1,000 planes a month.

It also was reported reliably that the army will have only 50 of the latest type fighting planes on hand by next April.

The navy air force is in the same state of unpreparedness. The navy on Jan. 1 had on hand 2,590 planes. Its goal is 16,000 planes. Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, told a house investigating committee that "very few" of these are fully modernized planes. He said the only modern planes in the navy had been delivered recently.

Officers Silent on Number.

Air corps officers met with silence questions regarding the report that only a dozen completely modern fighting planes are numbered in the air force. They would not deny the report, altho they refrained from giving it confirmation.

A few months ago, reports that the army had less than 250 modern planes of all types met with the same treatment. Later it was acknowledged that the air force numbered only about 200 planes on a par with the latest models developed abroad—and this included the "flying fortress" bombers.

The British recently complained that American planes are not fit for war use. They declared the planes lack fire power and modern protection. It also was said that American plane engines lack horse power.

These complaints effected a change in the design of planes now being manufactured. Most of the American planes shipped to England have been used for training purposes. The latest models to reach England have been described as fit for combat.

Britain Gets Lion's Share.

Virtually all of the modern planes being produced in this country are going to Britain. The United States army is receiving training planes as its share of the aircraft being manufactured in this country.

The unpreparedness of the American army and navy air forces is expected to be the subject of repeated congressional inquiry during the present session. At present the house naval affairs committee is surveying naval aircraft in its study of naval defenses.

The house military affairs committee had announced it would undertake a thoro investigation of the army defense program, which would include army aircraft, but the inquiry has been halted for the time being.

Senate committees are expected to go into action in the near future.

'Free French' Ask Sailors at Alexandria to Join Fight

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP).—Vice Admiral Emil Muselier, commander in chief of the "Free French" naval forces fighting at Britain's side, tonight broadcast an appeal to men of the inactive French fleet at Alexandria to join the struggle. French units there were disarmed after the French armistice. Muselier said the "Free French" fleet has 30 men of war and 80 merchantmen in service and that all save 50 of the merchantmen are manned by French crews.

SEES HIGH COURT SHIFT ITS POWER UPON CONGRESS

Jurists Quit Ruling on Policy, Lashley Says.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 11 [Special].—With the Supreme court apparently having adopted the attitude that legislation relating to national social and economic change is a "matter of policy" and hence not subject to judicial review, "a new and wholly unique responsibility" has been shifted to congress, which now is "the court of last resort" in testing the validity of such legislation, Jacob Lashly of St. Louis, president of the American Bar association, said here today.

Addressing the New Jersey State Bar association, Lashly declared that this shift of responsibility has placed power back in the hands of the people, who "will need disinterested leadership more than ordinarily in these confused and dangerous times." Such leadership, he said, can be provided by lawyers.

Finds Much Confusion.

Discussing the lawyer's place in national defense, Lashly said he had found "a great deal of confusion and fear."

"We need leadership," he added. "I have some hope that lawyers will answer the call. On them rests a new responsibility of explanation, analysis, and exposition to hold up the meanings of democracy."

Leading up to his discussion of congress' new responsibility, he discussed the system of checks and balances contained in the constitution, emphasized that the system needs constant attention and, if neglected, would destroy itself.

Conscious of Responsibility.

Evidence that congress is conscious of its responsibility, Lashly declared, was seen in a passage of the Walter-Logan bill, which died "an untimely death." The bill, designed to provide judicial review of the actions of administrative agencies, seemed intended "to redeposit power in the judicial arm," he said.

American government has shifted its primary solicitude from the individual to the group, Lashly said. He pointed to "the rise of pressure groups and their various demands upon the government, especially that the judicial department stand aside and allow the legislature and the executive branches to furnish economic rehabilitation and social security to them and their members unhindered by constitutional limitations or restrictions."

DEARTH OF BARRACKS RETARDS DRAFT, SAYS DEPUTY U.S. DIRECTOR

Gen. L. B. Hershey.

One hundred and fifty thousand National Guardsmen would be in the army today if there were barracks in which to house them, according to Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, deputy national selective service director, who stopped here briefly yesterday on his way to a meeting of Illinois draft board heads in Springfield. Gen. Hershey was hopeful that the army's housing problem would be "under control" by the middle of February.

Draft quotas are being filled chiefly by volunteers, he said, adding: "We really havent had to produce men. The number of volunteers has been so heavy the first three months that the draft boards haven't run into their biggest trouble yet."

Gen. Hershey termed the public's acceptance of selective service as "the most remarkable phenomenon I've ever seen."

"We have less difficulty from parents than we expected," he said. "They seem to take the draft as a patriotic gesture and think the year's training will do their boys good."

BRITAIN FAVORED IN SHIFTING ODDS OF GEN. STRONG

Rates Germany as Horse of Fading Color.

Brig. Gen. Strong.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 11 (AP).—Brig. Gen. George V. Strong, former chief of the general staff's war plans division, offered his "personal and private opinion" today that on Jan. 1 England stood a 55-45 chance to win the war with Germany.

Gen. Strong, now commander of the 7th Corps area, with headquarters here, explained in an interview that his odds were 70-30 on Germany last June 1, but by Sept. 1 they had dropped to 55-45, still on Germany. Then they switched and England became his favorite. He was in England as an American observer for several months last fall.

Expects Desperate Move.

He predicted that a balance of military factors shifting toward the British, plus a possible critical shortage of German oil and gasoline supplies, will cause Germany to try desperately for a knockout by summer.

The most serious menace to England, Gen. Strong said, is Germany's counter blockade and the sinking of British ships by submarines, surface raiders, and planes.

He said any invasion of England would be a desperation move and added there was no reason to believe rumors that an invasion had been started last fall and turned back.

Gen. Strong also predicted the war will develop into a two front fight, with the second front in Italy, the Balkans, or the Near East. This woud help England because Germany probably would be pressed for "usable" troops, Strong explained.

Criticizes the Italians.

Possibility of an Italian collapse, he said, cannot be excluded.

"The plain fact is that they [the Italians] have no guts for fighting," the general asserted. "They do not like the punishment that fighting means. They are fine when the bands are playing and the sun is shining. But when they have to go up against the things they found in Albania, or a first class military force as in Egypt, they do not do well.

Altho he declined to explain details, Gen. Strong said it will be "only a matter of time" until the British defense against night bombing" will be comparable to the present defense against day bombing."

RADIO GUIDES ROBOT AIRPLANES IN TESTS AT MICHIGAN FIELD

Detroit, Jan. 11 (AP).—Robot planes, controled by radio from another airplane or from the ground, are undergoing experimental testing by the army air corps at Selfridge field, headquarters of the 6th pursuit wing.

Four ships, completely equipped for robot flight, are at the field now, and more are expected from the Texas bases weher they were developed.

For test purposes a pilot is carried in the robot plane during flight. A flip of a switch and he can take over manual control.

Sending apparatus installed in the observer's cockpit of an observation plane, or in a truck on the ground, enables a pilot to maneuver the robot plane from a distance. He can control the robot plane as long as it remains within sight.

London Trade Council Hits Food Trust in Meat Scandal

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The London trades council today protested against the "scandal" in the muddled meat supplies of Britain. It expressed concern specifically with price reduction and equal distribution thru the removal from power of those linked with combines and the food trust.

ALERT WATCHERS SAVE LONDON IN 2D NAZI FIRE RAID

Quickly Put Out Hundreds of Blazes.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—German bombers tonight kept rooftop watchers and fire fighters in all parts of London busy putting out hundreds of incendiary bombs during an intense raid which lasted nearly four hours.

For a while the constant droning of airplanes, the clattering of incendiaries, the thunderous roar of high explosive bombs and the barking of antiaircraft fire seemed to indicate one of London's worst raids was in progress.

However, the rooftop watchers and civilians were on their toes and most of the fires were quickly brought under control. As a result, the attack did not achieve the destructiveness of the fire raid on Dec. 29.

Thousands of Bombs Fall.

Thousands of fire bombs were loosed over the whole London area but only a few big fires resulted. These were quickly brought under control.

One hotel received a shower of incendiaries, which were quickly pounced on by a fire squad and caused little damage. One shot thru a ground floor window with the force of a projectile from a gun and set fire to a private printing press, which was destroyed. Others fell in the hotel court, with several piercing the fabric roofs of parked automobiles, setting fire to the upholstery. These were smothered before the gas tanks ignited.

Writer Helps Put Out Fire.

This correspondent was en route to The Tribune office when a "Molotov breadbasket" burst almost over an automobile, scattering fire bombs all around. Most of them fell on the road where they were quickly extinguished by passersby, with the correspondent lending a hand. One incendiary slithered under an automobile which the owner had left locked and with the brakes on. Unable to push the car clear, we took hold of the bumpers and running boards and lifted it off the fire, which was then promptly snuffed out.

Some fatalities were caused during the raid when one explosive bomb crashed thru the roof of a subway used as an air raid shelter and another hit a bus.

Sweeps Sleepers from Platform.

The bomb which hit the subway, burst in a ticket office. The blast swept thru the subway, lifting sleeping shelterers from the platforms, and sweeping suitcases, blankets, gas masks, hats, and other articles away with it.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent was on the scene shortly afterward and found the occupants somewhat dazed. They were seeking their belongings before settling down again to sleep. Those who had retrieved their blankets wrapped them tighter around themselves for protection against chilly drafts from the hole above.

Up above again, the correspondent saw a fire truck hauling back a bus loaded with passengers which had just managed to stop after its front wheels slid over the edge of the bomb crater.

From the supper hour until almost 10 p. m., an endless chain of Nazis sprayed the city. The rumble of exploding bombs came from several areas soon after the start of the raid and large numbers of planes could be heard overhead. Some of them were believed to be British night fighters.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 18 [By Air Mail].—Flying nets, like the advertising streamers carried by airplanes in America, may be used by the British to combat the menace of night air raids. Among the plans being discussed in air circles is a system which visualizes use of planes considered too slow for combat use, which would be sent up to pull nets back and forth at various heights to enmesh enemy raiders.

The principal of this plan is similar to the advertising streamers seen by Americans at public gatherings, except on a vastly larger scale. Pilots believe an old multimotored plane could pull a net 100 times as large as the plane. Hence, the pilot would have a 100 to 1 chance of catching a raider against the chance of colliding with it. In case of a collision, it is pointed out, the trade in destruction would be a junked plane for a modern bomber, making the British easy winners.

•Holds Morale May Decide War.

One thing that may foretell a quicker outcome of the war than generally expected, should another severe winter be experienced in the belligerent countries, is public morale. Informants who have reached Lisbon recently from Germany report that an undercurrent of discontent is beginning to be heard. The reason given for this is twofold:

FIRST—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler has not made good on two promises—that the war would be over in September and that no enemy plane could penetrate the German air raid defenses.

SECOND—The strict food rationing in Germany is causing bitter complaints. The Germans' chief complaint, as I learned when I was in Germany last July, is not for themselves, but for their children. They say the rations are sufficient for adults but not for growing children.

Therein lies the key to the German morale. While the British are receiving some wicked punches, they look on the ruins of their homes or stores with full stomachs, as compared with the Germans.

Bombs Help British Morale.

The destruction of property in England is having a directly opposite effect on the British morale than Hitler expected. A good example of the present status may be gained from a conversation between two elderly women sitting by the fire in the drawing room of a hotel on the coast of southern England.

The air raid siren sounded and antiaircraft fire was heard, but the women made no move toward the shelters. One lady remarked:

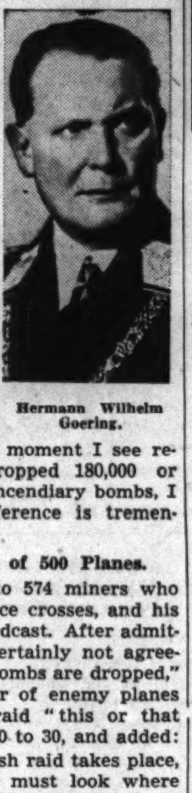
"My, my, I do hope they won't do to this town what they did to Southampton last Sunday."

"Well," the other replied, "if worse comes to worst, we simply will have to become human moles and burrow into the ground until it is over."

FOES' RAIDS RUIN NO MAJOR PLANT, GERMANY CLAIMS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of the German air force, today declared it is impossible to compare Britain's air raids on Germany with the German aerial attacks on England.

"When I get reports in the morning about the number of English planes that flew into Germany and the number of bombs they dropped—maybe 200 or 400 or 600 incendiary bombs—and when at the same moment I see reports that we dropped 180,000 or 220,000 or 240,000 incendiary bombs, I must say the difference is tremendous," he stated.

Goering spoke to 574 miners who received war service crosses, and his remarks were broadcast. After admitting that "it is certainly not agreeable when enemy bombs are dropped," he put the number of enemy planes which generally raid "this or that German city" at 20 to 30, and added:

"When an English raid takes place, remember how it must look where our 300, 400 or 500 planes have attacked, especially since every one of these planes carries 10 times as much as the British planes because, thank God, the distance to England from the bases we conquered is only one-tenth of the way the English must fly."

No Major Plant "Eliminated."

Goering said that "here and there an enemy bomb may have caused delay in a German plant, but no single armament plant of importance has been eliminated." In England, he claimed, 60 to 70 per cent of the armament centers have been impaired or destroyed.

He appealed to the country's 900,000 miners to "continue to further increase their achievements."

Of Britain's shipping Goering said: "The number of these vessels will grow less and less until at the end none of them is left—that must be and will be achieved."

BERLIN FORESEES AXIS AIR BLITZ IN MEDITERRANEAN

Hits on Four British Ships Claimed in Rome.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—A series of attacks by Italian-German air squadrons on British sea communications in the Mediterranean is expected in Berlin, following the announcement today that the German air corps recently dispatched to the Mediterranean had made its first successful attack on British naval units off Sicily yesterday.

The Germans are confident that they will succeed in disrupting British sea communications between the western and eastern Mediterranean, which would greatly hamper the British advance in Libya.

Use Powerful Bombs.

The claim that two British aircraft carriers were damaged by German and Italian planes evoked special satisfaction here. [A cruiser and destroyer also were hit, the Italians said.] Thanks to its three aircraft carriers stationed in the Mediterranean, the Germans hold, Britain has been able to maintain sea communications between Gibraltar and Alexandria.

The German air force, it is believed, employs bombs which are many times more powerful than those used by the Italians. A direct hit by such a heavy bomb on an aircraft carrier probably would necessitate repairs lasting several weeks. Also, such a heavy bomb falling into the water close to a ship has the effect of a torpedo when it explodes, thru its impact on the water.

Italians Claim 4 Ships Hit.

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP).—In a communique stressing the "fraternal, close coöperation" of the Nazi air force with the Italians in the first action for the Germans in the Mediterranean, the Fascist high command today said that four British warships had been struck in an attack delivered yesterday. The detailed results, the Italians said, were these:

An aircraft carrier hit by an Italian aerial torpedo, a cruiser struck by two heavy bombs from Italian dive bombers, a second aircraft carrier hit by heavy Italian bombs; one of these aircraft carriers hit also by both heavy and medium German bombs, a destroyer hit by the Germans.

Admit Stiff Resistance.

The Italians acknowledged that British fleet guns and British planes offered a "violent" reaction to the German-Italian assault, but claimed nevertheless:

"All our planes returned to their bases."

The first clash, the Italians reported, took place 10 miles northeast of Linosa, an island near Malta and south of Sicily. The second engagement was reported 40 miles southeast of Pantelleria, south of Sicily, while the third bombardment was reported southwest of Malta.

An account of the engagement by Stefani, the official Italian news agency, said the British warships were protecting a convoy apparently bound for Egypt when the Germans and Italians fell upon them. The attacks, it was said, were launched by two Italian torpedo planes, which swept low to discharge their projectiles while British planes swarmed up to the counterattack.

Column of Smoke Seen.

A communique said a big column of black and reddish smoke arose from the stern of the aircraft carrier after the torpedo attack. Two battleships were accompanying the carrier when the attack was made, the Italians said.

Virginio Gayda, the authoritative Fascist editor, indicated without elaboration that a further attack had been made on the British fleet today.

Closer home, the Italians reported shooting down a British plane in the Gulf of Naples, and said the British raided the port of Palermo, Sicily, yesterday evening, causing some damage to docks but no casualties.

Geneva Has Five Alarms.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 12, Sunday (AP).—Five air raid alarms in Geneva last night and early today set a record for any Swiss city in a single night as waves of unidentified planes were reported over the western tip of this neutral country. The planes were said to be passing toward Italy and back. Reports reaching Berne said the northern Italian industrial city of Turin was being bombed.

NAZI BOMBS RAIN ON PORTSMOUTH; CASUALTIES HIGH

PORTSMOUTH, England, Jan. 11 (AP).—This British naval station, one of the Nazi air force's sorely tried targets on the short hop across the channel, bore the deep new scars today of the Luftwaffe's "one-town-a-night" blitz attack.

Leaving the rest of Britain in relative peace, Nazi planes streamed in over the south coast thru Friday night and dropped hundreds of fire bombs and high explosives on Portsmouth and its 250,000 inhabitants.

Several large stores and six burned-out movie theaters were among the damaged buildings. Some residential areas were cleared because of the danger of unexploded delayed action bombs.

Heavy casualties were reported in one air raid precautions post, said to have suffered a direct hit. "Good neighbor groups" of firemen and rescue workers, many from nearby towns, were credited with having prevented heavier destruction.

The homeless were collected at special centers to receive food and clothing.

[Rigid British censorship was applied to reports on the raid. The first page of one dispatch to the Associated Press contained only one word—"Portsmouth." All else had been deleted. In Berlin, authorized Germans said the Portsmouth raid was highly effective.]

120,000 MORE SIGN FOR WAR DUTY IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP).—Half of Britain's "36s"—men born between July 1 and Dec. 31, 1904—and 20 year olds, born between Nov. 10 and Dec. 31, 1920, a total of about 120,000, registered for military service today.

Altho official figures are lacking, it is estimated more than 4,000,000 men now are registered. A total of 3,675,000 were reported under arms on Dec. 20, 1940.

The men more than 30 who registered today were the first permitted to apply for vacancies in civil defense—the auxiliary fire and first aid services and the police war reserve—instead of for the army, navy, or air force.

ITALIANS MAKE NO MOVE TO AID TOBRUK FORCES

Libyan Base Expected to Fall as Did Bardia.

CAIRO, Jan. 11 (AP).—Italy's Marshal Rodolfo Graziani made no move today to relieve his beleaguered garrison at Tobruk, 80 miles inside Libya, but the British moved up troops and guns under massive air protection and plopped shells into the seaport's semicircle of defenses from four carefully placed batteries.

The guns of Tobruk replied, but aside from these artillery duels there was no fighting on the fourth day of the siege. R. A. F. patrols were out all day yesterday on the road west of Tobruk leading to Derna, where British mechanized ground forces also are operating, but there was no conclusive engagement with Fascist airmen.

Despite his tremendous losses, Graziani still has a considerable army to the west, but the fact that it is not coming up leads the British to believe that Tobruk will fall as did Bardia, Sollum, and Sidi Barrani before it.

More Than 40,000 Prisoners.

The size of the Tobruk garrison is not known here but it is believed smaller than that of Bardia. The latter turned out to be considerably larger than the British anticipated, for official figures released today put the captured, dead, and wounded there at 2,041 officers and 42,827 men. Of these more than 40,000 were prisoners, for the Italian dead and wounded at Bardia did not exceed 2,000. Total Italian losses in the last month are figured at somewhere around 83,500 dead, wounded, and imprisoned, from five regular divisions and three Black Shirt brigades destroyed by the British.

Figures for total equipment captured since the British blitzkrieg began in Egypt are: Light tanks, 162; guns of all calibers, 589; artillery ammunition [rounds], 30,000; machine guns, 600; light machine guns, 700; rifle and machine gun ammunition [rounds], 11,000,000; lorries, 1,700.

Another General Seized.

A special British communique announced that "yet another of the Black Shirt [Fascist militia] generals who absented himself just before the capture of Bardia has been retrieved while trying to escape on foot toward Tobruk."

While the North African armies maneuvered today for the grand assault on Tobruk, the middle east command announced a continuance of "vigorous" patrol action against the Italian masters of Ethiopia.

No details were given of the thrusts against the Ethiopian part of the Fascist empire—thrusts made from the Sudan and Kenya frontiers.

During the day the R. A. F. announced new and widespread attacks both in Libya and in Ethiopia. In Libya, it was stated, "a number" of Italian planes were destroyed at Berka, and at Benina an airdrome, runways, hangars, and aircraft on the ground were hit.

Italy Reports Artillery Action.

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Italian high command today reported "artillery actions" at Tobruk, in Libya, and near Jarabub, more than 150 miles to the south.

On the score of Fascist losses in North Africa, the high command announced that 77 soldiers had been killed, 307 wounded, and that 343 were missing during December, and that naval losses for that month were 119 killed, 82 wounded, and 172 missing. Casualties among land forces in East Africa were put at 41 killed, 54 wounded, and 25 missing.

[These figures, vastly at variance with those of the British, would not cover Italy's loss on Jan. 5 of Bardia.]

All Jews Banned from Italian Customs Jobs

ROME, Jan. 11.—Jews are forbidden to take part in any branch of the customs administration, according to a ministry of interior ruling published today. The ban includes the so-called "discriminated" Jews, who have special privileges because of army or party services in the past.

Britain's Trade Mission Goes to Bolivia from Chile

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Jan. 11.—A British commercial mission headed by Sir Henry Chilton arrived tonight from Chile and was greeted by high government officials. Some papers reminded Bolivians of the important British investments in the country which have contributed to the nation's industrial development.

CANADA PLANS A SERIES OF PLANE BASES TO ALASKA

To Make Them Available for U. S. Aircraft.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 11 (AP).—A plan to construct a series of air bases between the United States border and Alaska will be announced shortly by the Canadian government, it was reliably reported today. The bases will be built by Canada, but will be available for use by United States military planes.

The project will provide the United States a safe year-round airway to Alaska for single or large squadrons of fast pursuit planes.

An existing commercial route already is being flown winter and summer, but pursuit planes have a short range and thus better facilities are needed to insure adequate landing space and radio guidance.

Facilities for Bombers.

The new bases also will be equipped to handle the largest bombers, which fly long but need longer runways when they land.

The existing commercial line operates two or three times weekly from Edmonton to Grand Prairie to Fort Nelson and thence to Whitehorse by way of Watson lake and Teslin. It connects at Juneau with Pan American, which, however, suspends operations in winter. From Whitehorse the line runs to Dawson and thence to Fairbanks.

To Extend Beam System.

Planes already can fly a radio beam to Edmonton and it is understood that beams will be installed over the whole route. Small, short-range pursuit ships thus would be able to fly from Selfridge field, Michigan, for instance, on a radio beam the whole way to an Alaskan base. The route also is feasible in summer for seaplanes, because of numerous lakes.

U. S. Would Welcome Bases.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Use of a string of Canadian built airfields between the United States and Alaska, such as reported planned by the dominion, presumably would be welcomed eagerly by the army and navy.

There was no official indication, however, that the plan reported from Ottawa represented an agreement with the United States.

Gen. George C. Marshall, war department chief of staff, disclosed this week that the United States now has increased forces in the territory to 3,000 troops and added that the force "represents a development more important than the numbers would indicate." He said the army's share of the new Alaskan defenses was ahead of schedule.

Building New Bases.

The army is building a $13,200,000 air base at Anchorage and a $4,000,000 "cold weather experimental station" near Fairbanks. The navy is building three air bases on the Alaskan coast for which $17,125,000 has been appropriated.

There have been proposals for joint construction by Canada and the United States of a highway link across British Columbia and the Yukon territory. Anthony J. Dimond, Alaska's delegate in congress, and champion of the highway proposal, said recently such a road could be constructed in possibly 18 months at a cost of $30,000,000.

Virginia Ruth Brewer Cox.

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 11 (AP).—The death of H. F. Cox, 19 years old, who was stabbed with a pocketknife in the presence of his 14 year old bride of a week, resulted in the filing of a murder charge today against the farm youth's father-in-law.

The prisoner, E. T. Brewer of Ector, Tex., said the family had been looking for the girl, Virginia Ruth, since she disappeared on Monday from Ector High school, where she was an honor student. The girl's parents located the bride and bridegroom yesterday at a residence.

"We had pulled our girl from his side and he made a lunge for me," Brewer was quoted by Detective A. C. Howerton. "I raised my left arm to ward off the blow and struck him with my pocketknife."

Cox's jugular vein was severed. His father was reported in a state of collapse. Another son was killed last month in an automobile accident.

CHINESE CLAIM JAP TROOP TRAIN BLASTED BY MINE

HONGKONG, Jan. 11 (AP).—More than 300 Japanese soldiers were killed or injured and a quantity of war supplies destroyed when a Japanese troop train struck a Chinese mine on the Peking-Hankow railroad in North Hupeh province, the Chinese Central News agency reported today. The locomotive and 13 coaches were reported wrecked. The same agency also reported that a Japanese transport carrying troops and supplies sank in the Yangtze river off Hanking on Jan. 1 after striking a Chinese mine.

AIR BLOWS PACE GREEK OFFENSIVE AIMED AT BERAT

Heights Captured North of Fallen Klisura.

ATHENS, Jan. 11 (AP).—Mopping up operations, in which the Greeks have captured about 100 more Italians and additional quantities of war material, were reported by the high command tonight.

Altho its communique mentioned only "restricted local cleaning up operations," dispatches from the front reported progress during the day from captured Klisura toward Berat under cover of low flying Greek and British warplanes.

Heights dominating the road toward Berat, about 30 miles north of Klisura, were reported occupied with the capture of additional prisoners and materials, among which the communique listed 10 mortars, many machine guns, and automatic rifles.

Find Many Italian Dead.

An earlier Athens radio report had said the Greeks found 400 Italian dead in one part of the abandoned Klisura lines and that many wounded, abandoned in the retreat, were being cared for by Greek field surgeons.

Altho no gains were reported elsewhere on the Albanian front, the Italian position at Tepeleni, another stronghold guarding a highway leading to the important port of Valona, was said to be weakening.

Italians Report "Local Actions."

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Italian high command said today that "local actions" had taken place on the Albanian front, where fighting continued in the 11th army sector. Elsewhere, the communique said, Greek attacks were repulsed.

Bound for Athens, Nazis Say.

KRAJNSKA GORA, Jugo-Slav-German frontier, Jan. 11.—German army contingents entering Italy are "bound for Athens," according to information obtained here today. German frontier patrols are discussing the German campaign against Greece, it was learned, and German infantrymen moving into Italy thru the Brenner pass and the Carinthian alps are reported to have told patrols and railroad men that "we're bound for Athens."

In this little Jugo-Slav mountain town, the inhabitants work and sleep to the accompaniment of the sound of airplane engines overhead—the German bombers and troop transports flying to northern Italian bases, and returning to their south Austrian bases for new loads of troops and explosives.

ITALY ACKNOWLEDGES CASUALTIES OF 12,377 IN WAR WITH GREECE

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP).—Italian casualties in the war against Greece from the start of hostilities Oct. 28 to Dec. 31 were announced officially today to be 12,377 men, of which 2,081 were listed as killed, 6,515 wounded, and 3,781 missing. These included 58 Albanians killed, 53 wounded, and 108 missing. Italian authorities contrasted the figures with reported British estimates of 35,000 Italians wounded and Greek announcements that 14,000 prisoners had been captured.

The high command announced that the Italian air force lost 289 men in December, including 72 killed, 99 wounded, and 118 missing.

STRIKE AGAINST ORDINARY PAY IN AIR RAIDS; WIN

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP).—Railway workers at the east end docks won concessions today in a strike against carrying out "highly dangerous" compulsory fire watching duties at the ordinary rates of pay.

They decided to return to work Monday after the company withdrew the compulsory fire watching plan and agreed to a readjustment of pay for such duties. At the same time civil defense workers—including firemen, stretcher bearers and rescue squads—presented to the home office a plea for a $2 a week pay increase because of mounting living costs.

The base pay of the workers is $13 weekly.

REDS REBUKE U. S. CRITICS OF TRADE DEAL WITH NAZIS

Russia to Make Treaties 'As It Pleases.'

MOSCOW, Jan. 11 (AP).—The government and party press of the soviet union spoke out sharply today in justification of the new economic deal between Germany and Russia and rebuked British and American statesmen who may consider it warlike.

Furthermore, the newspapers declared, Moscow will make additional trade treaties in 1941 as she pleases, with nations both at war and at peace.

[Buenos Aires sources have indicated that Russia is sending a mission there to buy much Argentine wheat that might be sent to Germany.]

"It is time," said an editorial in Izvestia, the government organ, that the world understands the U. S. S. R. follows an "independent policy and will continue to follow it."

Both Izvestia and Pravda carried editorials that cast new significance on the expanded German-Russian trade pact signed here Friday, under which Germany is supposed to receive, principally, increased supplies of soviet wheat.

U. S. Aid to Britain Cited.

"There are," said Izvestia, "in Britain and the United States, some leading statesmen who believe that the United States, in full conformity with international law and the position of neutrality, may sell to Britain everything—including even warships—whereas the soviet union cannot sell to Germany even cereals without violating the policy of peace.

"These strange contentions provide a curious example of juggling with international law and neutrality and can only have the meaning of a political maneuver."

To refute "hostile" press suggestions that German-Russian agreements are directed against the third powers, Izvestia went on: "In the course of 1940 the soviet union concluded, and intends to conclude in 1941, economic treaties and agreements with other states, both belligerent and nonbelligerent."

Reds Deal for Baltic States.

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (AP).—Informed sources disclosed today that the German-Russian agreement signed yesterday in Moscow provides that Germany is to have no direct commercial relations with Russia's absorbed Baltic states after Feb. 11.

Germany heretofore had a big trade and heavy investments in the Baltic states acquired by Russia—Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia.

Germans called the trade accord a "100 per cent barter agreement—no gold, no credits needed, none wanted."

In a general way the trade pact binds Germany to deliver machinery, while Russia sends products for "sustenance and war production."

Grain Shipments Rise.

Informed sources said they understood that "Russian grain shipments to Germany, in progress almost a year, had been raised appreciably." As for oil from Russia, these sources declined to elaborate.

Details of handling goods by rail as well as on the Baltic and Black seas and the Danube river are being worked out, it was said.

It was said trade negotiations between Germany and Italy would start Jan. 21.

Report World Trade Path Open.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The German radio said tonight that, under the new German-Russian economic agreement, "Russia will be open to the transit of goods from Germany to distant countries."

Leahy Is Confined to Bed with Cold; Continues Work

VICHY, France, Jan. 11 (AP).—The United States ambassador, Admiral William D. Leahy, was confined to bed today with a severe cold, but continued his work, associates said, while propped up with pillows.

Population Trends

How the total population of the state has grown since it passed the one million mark in 1860.

Final figures released today by William L. Austin, census director, showed the state's rural areas grew more rapidly than the urban centers, reversing a trend that had continued from 1830 to 1930.

Illinois' population as of April 1, 1940, was 7,897,241, an increase of 266,587 over the 1930 total of 7,630,654. The increase was 3.5 per cent.

In urban areas the 1930-1940 increase was 3.1 per cent, compared with a 4.6 per cent increase in the rural areas. In 1940 residents in urban areas numbered 5,809,650, or 73.6 per cent of the Illinois total, and rural residents numbered 2,087,591. In 1930 the urban population was 73.9 per cent of the total.

The census bureau said the first enumeration of Illinois was in 1810 when the territory had a population of 12,282 for an area larger than the present state. Illinois became a state with its present boundaries in 1818 and its 1820 population was 55,211. The population passed 2,500,000 between 1860 and 1870; passed 5,000,000 between 1900 and 1910, and mounted over 7,500,000 between 1920 and 1930.

Illinois has a land area of 55,946 square miles, the present population representing a density of 141.2 inhabitants per square mile.

40,000 GERMANS READY TO LEAVE BALTIC HOMES

Last Repatriation Ships Expected This Week.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 11.—Another fleet of German steamers is expected to arrive in the Baltic harbors of Tallinn and Pernau, Estonia, and Riga, Windau, and Libau, Latvia, next week to complete the repatriation of German Balts. The persons they will take to Germany are the descendants of Germans who conquered the Baltic provinces seven centuries ago. A year ago Germany repatriated 60,000 from Latvia and 14,000 from Estonia.

The new migration will include Germans who have intermarried with Letts and Estonians. Parents of nationalities other than German who have sent their children to German schools in the Baltic states are also permitted to apply for German citizenship and many are doing so.

40,000 to Be Moved.

Preparations are being made to convey 40,000 to 50,000 refugees from the Russian occupied Baltic states to the lands Germany recovered in the Polish corridor. When the Poles obtained their corridor to the Baltic sea, they forced the evacuation of more than 2,000,000 Germans from the provinces, which are being partly colonized by the German Balts.

The plans of the remaining Germans to depart has deepened the despair of the Lithuanians, Latvians, and Estonians. Ever since the Russian army occupied the Baltic states and overturned their governments, the inhabitants have been praying for Adolf Hitler to rescue them from Josef Stalin. Since its arrival last July in Riga, the Russian G. P. U. [secret police] has executed 1,200 Latvians, and 8,000 families have been arrested and transported to provinces in the interior of Russia.

Because of the disorders and hysterical scenes that took place at the Riga railroad station when trains guarded by the G. P. U. were packed with exiles, the soviet government is now using the steamer Josef Stalin to convey the prisoners from Riga to Leningrad. The steamer is loaded and departs at night. There have been even more executions and exiles in Estonia.

Property Owners Yield.

German Balts who refused to obey Hitler's call and join the emigrants a year ago included the majority of large property owners. Their total holdings in the Baltic states, including real estate, factories, and farms, are valued at more than $100,000,000. Both the Germans and the Russians are keeping secret the terms of their agreement concerning compensation for these properties, which include most of the large industrial plants. The repatriates are permitted to ship to Germany enough furniture for a three room apartment.

Altho many of these Balts declared that they would never abandon their homes, they are now eager to leave. Since the arrival of the Russians the price of provisions has risen to the Moscow level. Clothing prices are even more fantastic. A yard of woolen material now costs $100 at the normal rate of exchange, and a man's overcoat costs $600. The same price level prevails in Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia.

AUSTRALIA SETS UP VAST PLANTS TO SUPPLY ARMS

War Brings Industrial Revolution.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 11.—Australia already is committed to a war expenditure of more than $650,000,000 in the year ending next June 30. During the whole of the last war, the nation spent about $875,000,000.

The new program has propelled Australia into an industrial revolution. At a cost of $165,000,000 she has established an armament industry surpassing India's in magnitude of output and second only to Canada's among the dominions.

Since Essing Lewis, director general of munitions, assumed control of munitions production, assisted by eight other leading industrialists, a new pace has been set in the rate of output. Airplane engines were in production within six months after receipt of blueprints from overseas and a huge factory now is being equipped for the manufacture of optical glass aircraft instruments.

Grow Food for Britain.

Hundreds of thousands of Australians have been employed in this new industrial activity and in growing food for Britain. A total of nearly $49,000,000 will be spent this year on new munitions establishments. Australia maintains a steady supply of munitions to Britain and also exports to New Zealand, India, the Straits Settlements, and Hong Kong.

Orders totaling $6,500,000 have been placed for construction of Australian machine tools for new defense workshops. Motor body and automobile assembly workshops are delivering scores of vehicles to the army daily. There is a steady supply of stores and equipment for technical units.

Factors that assisted in this impressive record are the steel industry, capable of producing more than 1,500,000 tons of high grade steel yearly, and the manufacture of hundreds of components for munitions, machine tools and aircraft in hundreds of private factories.

Armed Forces Expand.

There also has been a rapid expansion in the armed forces. More than 120,000 men have enlisted in the Australian imperial force, the vanguard of which played an outstanding part in the capture of Bardia, Libya. Reenforcements are being enlisted at the rate of 5,000 a month. The program for building three destroyers and 50 mine sweepers, half of which are for the United Kingdom government, is proceeding. A number of vessels already have been launched. The air force is 11 times stronger than it was before the war, having a personnel exceeding 40,000.

The air force was strengthened in 1940 by the delivery of 100 Lockheed-Hudson bombers from the United States. Training aircraft are being produced at the rate of four a day, and designs are being perfected for a high speed bomber.

NORSEMAN MUST DIE FOR ATTACK ON NAZI SOLDIER

ARENDAL, Norway [via Berlin], Jan. 11 (AP).—A 25 year old workman, Rolf Hansen, was sentenced to death today by a court martial, charged with attacking a German soldier.

Hansen was said to have left a Christmas party intoxicated. When the soldier asked him what time it was, according to the charge, Hansen struck the German. The soldier drew his bayonet, the court found, and then Hansen pulled out a pistol and shot the soldier thru the lung. The soldier is recovering.

Col. Donovan Begins Tour of British Libyan Front

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 11 (AP).—Col. William J. Donovan, who is regarded as personal representative of United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox, set out into the desert today for a tour of the British front in Libya.

HITLER'S PAPER BIDS ROOSEVELT READ T. R.'S WORDS

BERLIN, Jan. 12, Sunday (AP).—A front page editorial called "Thus Spake Roosevelt" in today's issue of Voelkischer Beobachter, Adolf Hitler's newspaper, cites excerpts from speeches of Theodore Roosevelt and declares it would be worth while for Franklin D. Roosevelt to re-read that "elegant bundle of spoken wisdom."

The article, which reflects German pique at recent talks by the United States President, quotes Theodore Roosevelt's Chicago address of April 2, 1903, in which it said he declared that "Great statesmen of a great people owe it to the nation's self-respect to speak politely of foreign powers."

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, discussing the proposed United States law to give President Roosevelt authority to broaden aid to Britain, described a clause that would permit belligerent warships to be repaired in United States shipyards. Dienst aus Deutschland, well informed press service, called attention to the 1907 Hague convention, under which such service was to be refused in neutral harbors.

GREAT POWERS MUST HAVE WAY, BULGARIAN SAYS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 11 (AP).—A member of the government majority in parliament declared in effect today in a newspaper article that Bulgaria must open her doors, if requested by a great power. Presumably he was referring to speculation over German troop transit thru Bulgaria to Greece and the Dardanelles.

Official circles, however, said the author of the article, Deputy Christo Stateff, wrote purely as a private citizen and they reiterated that Bulgaria's policy was one of consistently seeking peace. Stateff wrote that "under the present circumstances, the policies and desires of all neutral states are entirely dependent upon the military and diplomatic moves of great powers." He added that neither political idealism nor political manipulation "can prevent events when, with a bloody fist, they knock on closed doors. . . . We must receive events with open eyes if we want to be realists and guard our own interests."

Kidnap Wealthy Chinese Businessman in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Jan. 11 (AP).—T. C. Pan, wealthy Chinese businessman, was reported kidnaped today by five men who broke into his home in the French quarter. Ransom was believed to be the motive. Pan's brother is closely connected with Wang Ching-wei, leader of the Japanese-sponsored Chinese régime at Nanking.

Four Shoot Way Out

An ex-convict and a police character were in custody last night as suspects in the holdup of a Blue Island gambling house and tavern. They are Peter John Montana, 25 years old, who said he lives at 1639 Orchard street, and Joe Muscarello, 29, who gave 2413 South Spaulding avenue as his address. Blue Island police said they found $400 of the $600 loot in the men's pockets and that some of the 30 patrons robbed identified them.

Four bandits invaded the gambling house and tavern operated by Gus Gurgel at 12834 South Western avenue in the suburb, early yesterday. They slugged Policeman Fabian Mitchell and fought a gun battle with six other Blue Island police. A patron, Michael Margold of 2250 Prairie street, Blue Island was wounded slightly. The bandits fled. Montana and Muscarello were seized soon afterward by Capt. William Hankey of the Blue Island police and Chief John Piza of the Calumet Park police. Montana, the ex-convict, served a year in Pontiac on a charge of petty larceny and a year and eight months in the Bridewell on a similar charge. Muscarello served two years in the Bridewell on a charge of robbery.

IRISH TO DEMAND GUILTY PAY FOR AIR RAID DAMAGE

DUBLIN, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Irish government announced today that the "external government concerned" would be asked to accept liability where "the origin of bombs or other weapons of aerial attack dropped on this country can be established" and added:

[After announcing identification of certain bombs and aerial sea mines dropped last week in the Dublin area as of German origin, the Irish government ordered a protest at Berlin. German sources denied responsibility.]

ALASKA COLONY DEBTORS FACE OUSTER THREAT

Men Fighting Contract Given 30 Days to Pay.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 11 (AP).—Col. O. F. Ohlson, president of the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation corporation directorate, today threatened ouster action within 30 days unless Matanuska federal farm colonists' seeking to invalidate their land purchase contracts make token payments to show good intentions.

Ohlson said that between 40 and 45 colonists have been working on the Anchorage air base project and have earned about $1,800 each in the last six months, but that some "refuse to pay their debts and are neglecting their farms."

Confer on Land Use.

His announcement followed a conference last night at which a committee submitted recommendations on land-use problems in the valley.

The recommendations, making no reference to threatened court action to test validity of the contracts with the government, were submitted by Lawrence Arndt, formerly of Forest county, Wisconsin, and Henry La Rose, former Price county, Wisconsin farmer, two of the colonists. The committee included representatives of the colonists, the University of Alaska extension service, the Matanuska experimental farm, the Alaska fire control service, the Alaska road commission, the Matanuska Valley Farmer's Coöperative association, and the ARRC.

Colonists' Demands Told.

Almer Peterson, territorial legislator and attorney for protesting colonists, said after the meeting that the ARRC directors had nothing to offer to meet colonists' demands for debt readjustments, itemized statements of obligations, and a guarantee of title in fee simple when the contracts are paid.

KILLER TO MAKE CLEMENCY PLEA TO GOV. RIVERS

Hearing Is Granted After Fee Disclaimer.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 11 (AP).—Gov. E. D. Rivers announced tonight he would hear Richard G. Gallogly's personal plea for executive clemency from a life sentence for murder Monday.

The retiring governor said he "understood the Atlanta Journal has complied with my condition that they print certain affidavits, and I am therefore granting Gallogly his request to appear before me and make a personal statement."

Yesterday Gov. Rivers told Gallogly's family he could not hear a new clemency appeal unless the Atlanta Journal printed affidavits that no fees were involved, signed by eight persons he designated. He said the Journal, formerly owned by members of Gallogly's family, had imputed a pardoning racket to the governor.

$1,800 Fee Paid to Lawyers.

Today the Journal printed affidavits signed by Gallogly's mother, Mrs. Worth Yankey, his wife, John A. Brice, John Paschall, George C. Biggers, and C. E. Gregory of the present Journal staff, and James R. Gray and Inman Gray who formerly were connected with the paper.

Mrs. Yankey said she had paid $1,800 to a law firm for services in a previous clemency hearing, but that she had neither paid nor promised to pay any one in connection with the present appeal. The others attested they had no knowledge of any fees paid or to be paid.

Gallogly was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1928 for the holdup slaying of a drug store clerk. At that time the Gray family, of which he is a member, owned controling stock in the Journal.

Killed for Thrill.

The state charged the killing climaxed a series of "thrill" robberies while Gallogly and George Harsh were students at Oglethorpe university.

Gov. Rivers also disclosed that he had taken under advisement an application from Harsh, son of a wealthy Milwaukee, Wis., family, for a full pardon. Harsh was convicted and sentenced with Gallogly to a life term for the same slaying. Since his parole Thanksgiving day, Harsh has been employed by a doctor here. His application for pardon said he wanted to enroll in college to complete his education and take up the study of medicine and surgery as a life work.

The governor exhibited affidavits from the Harsh family today similar to those printed in the Gallogly case.

Singing Lady Weds

IREENE WICKER HAMMER.

Quincy, Ill., Jan. 11 [Special].—Ireene Wicker, original Singing Lady of radio fame, was married this morning in Elkton, Md., to Victor Hammer of New York City, according to word received here by the bride's mother, Mrs. Kenner Seaton. Mrs. Seaton is spending the winter in Quincy, her former home.

Victor Hammer is part owner of the Hammer Galleries of New York.

Ireene Wicker is a native of Quincy, and both she and her mother return here often to visit. She was divorced in October, 1937, from Walter Wicker, of Chicago, and awarded the custody of their two children, Walter Jr., now 19, and Nancy, 15. Mrs. Seaton said that Victor Hammer has been a friend of the family for several years.

BUNDESEN FINDS CITY FREE OF FLU EPIDEMIC SO FAR

Chicago thus far has escaped the "mild" form of influenza epidemics which have been reported prevalent in other parts of the country. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said last night there has been the usual seasonal rise in colds in Chicago, but there is no indication at present of pneumonia or influenza cases in large numbers.

Health officials at La Grange, Ind., said that 142 pupils, a third of those in the La Grange school, and three teachers and an administrator had influenza. At Lansing, Mich., Dr. H. A. Moyer, state health commissioner, said a mild form of influenza had spread thru Michigan until epidemic proportions had been reached. He added that few cases had developed serious complications.

In Boston, Mass., 18,000 children were absent from school the last two days because of illness. Officials were hopeful that classes could be resumed Monday. About 2,500 mild influenza cases were reported in Connecticut. There were 13,526 cases recorded in Arkansas between Dec. 14 and Jan. 4. Cases were reported also in Georgia, Louisiana, and South Carolina.

Attorney General Cassidy to Rejoin Old Law Firm

Attorney General John E. Cassidy announced yesterday that he will return to the private practice of law at the expiration of his term in office tomorrow. He will rejoin his former associates, Louis F. Knoblock and John F. Sloan Jr., under the firm name, Cassidy, Knoblock and Sloan, with offices in Chicago and Peoria.

PROBE $75,000 MYSTERY BLAZE AT SPICE PLANT

An investigation was underway yesterday into a 5-11 fire which swept thru the four story building of the Kearns and Smith Spice Company, Inc., at 10 West Kinzie street early in the morning. Damage was estimated at $75,000.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan asked the investigation after the first firemen who arrived told him the flames seemed to burst forth from all four floors simultaneously.

Earle R. Downes, assistant corporation counsel assigned to fire investigations, questioned Arthur C. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the company, and ascribed the fire to an undetermined cause. He said the investigation would continue, but that he had found no evidence of incendiarism.

The blaze, which may have started with an explosion on the first floor, was discovered by a North Western railroad switching crew, which turned in the first alarm.

Dutch Consul General Gets Leave of Absence

John Vennema, consul general of the Netherlands in Chicago for 26 years, announced yesterday that he has been given a leave of absence at his own request. J. I. Noest will be acting consul.

3 Seized in Police Chase Admit 14 Street Holdups

Three suspects captured in a stolen car yesterday near Lavergne avenue and Maypole street after police fired a warning shot have confessed 14 recent street robberies, according to Policeman Michael Fleming of the Fillmore street station. The three identified themselves as Earl Warren, 17 years old, and Arthur Warner, 18, of 2948 Polk street, and Robert Van-Kuren, 18, of 15 North Kedzie avenue.

Getting Up Nights Nervousness and Kidney Strain

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. Worry, Colds, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded. Fourteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Money Back Guarantee

Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the Kidneys flush out excess Acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. A printed guarantee with each package of Cystex insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, under this positive money back guarantee. Don't take chances on any Kidney medicine that isn't guaranteed. Get Cystex from your druggist today for only 35c. The guarantee protects you.

DEMOCRAT ASKS ASSEMBLY QUIZ OF GOV. STELLE

Rep. Perry Wants Facts Put on Record.

Investigation of the acts of outgoing Gov. John Stelle, especially during his "100 days" as governor, will be sought tomorrow by a member of his own party in the Illinois house of representatives, Joseph Sam Perry [D., Glen Ellyn]. Perry said yesterday he will introduce a resolution asking for an inquiry of broad scope.

Joseph Sam Perry.

Informed of Perry's statement, Gov. Stelle said:

"I don't like to answer a cry baby. The more you answer one, the more he cries."

Perry, a follower of the late Gov. Henry Horner, frankly admitted that he might not now be attacking Stelle but for the fact that the governor has fired some of Perry's friends. Perry opposed Stelle's choice for house minority leader, W. O. Edwards of Danville, who was defeated at the opening of the session a few days ago.

Asks Fair, Open Hearing.

"If Stelle is guilty of actions alleged in countless newspaper stories it should be made a matter of official record," said Perry, former master in chancery and one time coal miner. "If he is exonerated in a fair and open hearing, I will support him for governor in 1944."

Stelle's activities as lieutenant governor, with the duty of presiding over the senate, and as acting governor should also be brought into the investigation, Perry said.

"It has often been charged that Stelle was deeply involved in the oil business and blocked regulatory legislation, while he was acquiring land leases in the Illinois oil fields," Perry said.

Won't Be Kicked Around.

"The public has the idea that things haven't been right. Frankly, Stelle and I are having a fight, but the public needs to get some benefit out of such fights. I'm not going to be kicked around just because he's a big boy and I'm a little boy in politics.

"For some peculiar reason, investigations of the state administration during the last two years have always been stopped just when it seemed that they were about to reach Stelle."

Perry said he would ask that the proposed investigating committee be composed of four Democrats and three Republicans. This would make it clear that persecution was not the aim of the quiz, he said.

Wants His Hands Untied.

Friends of Perry said he had not pressed his own chances of winning minority leadership because he did not want his hands to be tied by that office as party spokesman. Perry was indorsed by the nonpartisan Legislative Voters' league during the 1940 campaign, being described as "active and energetic with qualities of leadership."

During the primary Stelle replied to charges pertaining to oil by saying that he owns no wells outright but belongs to syndicates having interests in nine wells.

TWO VOTE FRAUD FIGHTERS BECOME FATHERS AGAIN

Harry Pope Jr. and Wade Fetzer Jr., co-founders of the Chicago business men's 1940 election committee, which guarded the polls against fraud in the November election, were receiving congratulations yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pope became the parents of a girl, Katherine Adele, Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Fetzer became the parents of a boy, Peter Otis, yesterday morning. Both babies were born in Passavant hospital.

Mrs. Pope is the former Elizabeth Scott Hansen. She and her husband live at 58 Lakewood drive, Glencoe, with their other children, Alison Scott and Nancy Elizabeth. The Fetzers live in Sunset Ridge road, Northbrook, with their other children, Wade III. and Nancy. Mrs. Fetzer is the former Florence Otis.

DEMOCRATS OUT, BUT 'TWAS FUN WHILE IT LASTED!

Recall Anecdotes of Statehouse Reign.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—Democrats are breaking up housekeeping at the state capitol after occupying the ornate old building for eight years, and their enforced leavetaking is recalling dozens of anecdotes connected with their occupancy, some of which failed to get into the news when they occurred.

For example, there was the dilemma that faced the late Gov. Henry Horner when the fence at the state fair grounds was to be painted. Two equally good Democrats—the late Richard F. Kinsella of Springfield and Representative Matt Franz of Chicago—each wanted to do the job, and their claims were so firmly presented that eventually the distracted chief executive split the work. Kinsella's crew painted one side of the fence while Franz's men swiped brushes on the other side—the jobs being done simultaneously.

Thus, each deserving Democrat won at least half his point and it is denied here that the two crews worked a few feet apart, without speaking, until the work was done.

Kielminski in Tight Spot.

All of the statehouse workers were delighted a few years ago with the solution made to the problem presented by the impressive weight of Senator Peter P. Kielminski [D., Chicago] whose bulk isn't far from 375 pounds.

Altho the senate chairs were—and still are—ample for his colleagues, they were a tight sequeeze for Kielminski and, to make it worse, when he leaned back too impetuously the swivel bar sometimes broke precipitating him to the floor with a sound reminiscent of the fall of a 90 foot smokestack.

Repetition of this spectacular incident finally brought a decision and a mammoth thronelike chair was constructed at a cost of several hundred dollars, which permits the senator the same relaxation his brother solons enjoy. It looms in the front row of the chamber and if Kielminski ever leaves the senate it is likely the chair will go with him.

The Honest Plumber.

Probably the most ostentatious entrance any legislator ever made into the statehouse was that of Representative W. H. Owen [D., Duquoin], the "poor, but honest plumber," as he called himself. Owen, who lasted only one term, marched to the capitol two years ago, wearing overalls and carrying a pipe wrench over his shoulder, at the head of a hillbilly band. But those who had expected further colorful conduct on his part were disappointed for Owen hardly opened his mouth on the floor during the ensuing session and left his overalls at home.

The Democrats will leave one lasting reminder of their occupancy on the capitol grounds. Not long after Gov. Horner took office in 1933 the late Justice Normal L. Jones of the Supreme court called his attention to an almost forgotten statue, virtually hidden by vines and shrubs on the edge of the lawn. When the foliage had been removed, it turned out to be a squat and truculent appearing life size figure of Stephen A. Douglas, the Democrat and "little giant" of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates.

The governor was quick to see the injustice of this obscurity and before long the figure was hauled forth and mounted on a pedestal directly in front of the capitol steps in almost as prominent a place as that occupied by O'Connor's brooding statue of Lincoln a little distance in front of it.

A Call for Mr. Otis!

Horner also liked to tell the story of the time he and three friends were caught in the executive mansion elevator, between floors, and after considerable yelling, managed to attract the attention of Clarence, the colored butler who has been a fixture at the mansion for more than 30 years.

Clarence was ordered to summon the elevator maintenance man without delay, since the car was small and neither the governor nor his guests were slender persons. Clarence returned to shout up the shaft, "Mr. Otis can't come personally, governor, but he's sendin' his best man!"

Accused of 'Agarophobia.'

The portly Senator Kielminski was a leading actor in another senate incident during the 1935 session when the philosopher-politician, T. V. Smith, then a senator, was hurling big words at the Nash-Kelly machine. One day Smith told a long allegorical tale—by way of accusing the Chicago leadership of "agarophobia"—and in the course of the story said he had had a dream of meeting a big rat.

The allusion wasn't clear to Kielminski, but he took no chances and rising to his feet announced that no man could call him a rat, either on or off the senate floor.

The slender Senator Smith hastened to assure his colleague that he didn't have that thought in mind at all, and if he had, he'd have chosen a far larger forum than the senate in which to hurl it.

Other highlights included the appearance of Sally Rand, the fan dancer, before the legislature in 1935—escorted by Senator, now Representative, James J. Barbour [R., Evanston], who wore a cutaway coat for the event; and the self-assignment of auto license No. 1 by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, who placidly asserted that he had saved himself a lot of trouble by slapping the plate on his own car.

Reweds Comedian

VIRGINIA LAUREL.

Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 11 (AP).—Film Comedian Stan Laurel, 50 years old, remarried the second of his four wives, Virginia Ruth Laurel, 41, of Beverly Hills, Cal., in a surprise ceremony today. They were rewed at the Hitching Post wedding chapel by the Rev. Albert C. Melton of Immanuel Community church, using an old fashioned gold ring. They were first married in Mexico in April, 1934, and divorced in December, 1936. Laurel and his fourth wife, Vera Illiana Laurel, Russian dancer, were divorced in 1939. The couple will remain here until Monday before returning to Hollywood.

De Luxe "Torpedo" Six Two-Door Sedan $874* (white sidewall tires extra)

MANY PEOPLE FIND it hard to believe that a new Pontiac "Torpedo" costs as little as it does. That is easy to understand. Pontiac looks like a lot of money. Big, substantial and handsome as it is, it gives the impression of being far beyond the means of most buyers. And the luxury of its bodies by Fisher adds definitely to that impression.

In reality, however, Pontiac prices are within reach of any new car buyer. They begin at $828 and progress upward in very easy stages. What's more, owners say that their Pontiacs are very economical to operate. If you're planning to buy a new car soon, be sure to consider a Pontiac "Torpedo." It's built right and priced right to give you more for your money.

GREEN CHOOSES FIVE TO HELP HIM FILL STATE JOBS

Hopes to Improve Caliber of Pay Rollers.

Governor Elect Dwight H. Green announced yesterday the five members of the advisory employment committee on which he pins his hopes of improving the caliber of state pay rollers while holding political friction to a minimum. The announcement was made as Green vacated his preinaugural headquarters in Chicago. He will take the oath of office in Springfield tomorrow.

The advisory committee will deal with more than 9,000 applications for jobs which already are in Green's hands and with several times that number which are in the hands of various G. O. P. county chairmen. It will be the duty of the committee, Green said, to examine the qualifications of applicants and make recommendations to him.

Statement by Green.

"These gentlemen on the committee are representative of various sections and elements in the state and are recognized for their professional and business standing," a formal statement by Green said.

The members are:

John T. Dempsey, young Chicago attorney, who became chairman of the Republican Cook county central committee following Green's victory in the primary last spring.

Ben L. Berve of Rochelle, chairman of the Republican state central committee, who managed Green's primary campaign in northwestern Illinois. He is the head of his own insurance firm at Rochelle and is a friend of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden.

Alfred F. Schupp of Joliet, Will county G. O. P. chairman and president of the Illinois Association of Republican County Chairmen. He would represent the interests of this organization of the 102 county leaders.

Frank G. Thompson of Mount Vernon, a member of the state central committee who formerly was Jefferson county chairman and a member of the house. He would be a spokesman for southern Illinois.

William M. Marks of Lake Villa, a farm manager who is Lake county chairman and a close associate of Richard J. Lyons, who aided Green's fall campaign after losing the primary to him. Marks' presence on the committee is regarded as a unifying measure for the party.

Dempsey Hinted as Chairman.

The governor elect hinted that Dempsey probably will be the chairman. This caused some disappointment to friends of Berve who had considered him in line for the post. Green gave no clews as to who will be secretary. Plans for the first meeting are to be announced later.

Establishment of the advisory committee is unprecedented. Heretofore small groups at Springfield have handled patronage matters. There has been no indication that the new committee plans to be stationed there. Altho four of the five are downstaters, in recognition of the heavy G. O. P. vote outside of Cook county, considerable traveling would be required for meetings.

Useless Jobs to Go.

"The committee is in full accord with my determination to effect rigid economies in the cost of government," Green's statement said. "The first step must be a reduction in pay rolls and the elimination of every useless job and of every political pay roller who is not necessary to efficient government."

Green explained that this does not mean that the committee will map out the pay roll cuts, but that it will be expected to work with this end in mind.

"In selecting this group to represent me, I know I am realizing my desire to treat every one fairly," he said. "A great deal of my time must be given to the study and preparation of a legislative program which demands immediate action. For that reason I cannot meet every one and personally determine their merits tho I would be happy to do this if I had the time."

Reports Loss of $3,300 Rings in Store Washroom

Mrs. Stanley Goodfriend of 5114 Greenwood avenue reported to police that she lost two diamond rings valued at $3,300 yesterday in the washroom of a North Michigan avenue store. Mrs. Goodfriend, the wife of an executive of the Illinois Watch Case company, said she removed the rings to wash her hands and that they were gone when she remembered them and returned to the washroom.

2 STATE G. O. P. OFFICIALS TAKE OVER IN CAPITAL

Treasurer and Auditor on Job Early.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—Incoming Republicans began to take over sections of the state government from retiring Democratic office holders today—two days in advance of the inaugural of Governor-elect Dwight H. Green and other G. O. P. candidates who swept the state last Nov. 5.

Treasurer-elect Warren Wright and Auditor-elect Arthur C. Lueder took staffs of accountants into the offices they will occupy to receive an accounting of cash and securities from the incumbents, Treasurer Louie E. Lewis and Auditor Edward J. Barrett. The process will take about 12 hours.

Wright announced the appointment of C. G. [Guy] Willard of the First National bank, Chicago, as chief revenue clerk—the No. 1 post in the treasury, and Willard assumed direction of the accountants who checked over the state's fiscal property.

Turns Over 242½ Million.

Treasurer Lewis, who will leave Springfield Tuesday for his home in Christopher, where he publishes a weekly newspaper, turned over a balance of $242,418,407.21 to Wright's men. This huge sum is on deposit in about 200 state and national banks thruout the state. In the treasury vaults in the state house was $109,843.67 in cash which Lewis said was about the average always on hand.

The largest balance in the treasurer's account was $187,156,629.16, the amount in the unemployment compensation fund. Road funds totaled $14,109,472.50, and general revenue—the working cash fund—contained $6,130,579.94.

Wright entered the office he will occupy for two years accompanied by Attorney Harold T. Halfpenny of Chicago, who will serve as his legal counsel temporarily.

Securities Biggest Item.

The biggest item Auditor Barrett's staff turned over to Lueder's accountants was $22,000,000 in securities deposited by Illinois trust companies. Furniture and fixtures were also an item since the auditor's office, unlike the treasurer's, is spread over three or four rooms in the state house and the new armory.

The general Democratic exodus extended to the executive mansion where, at Gov. John Stelle's request, Adjt. Gen. Leo Boyle directed the National Guard's property officer, Maj. Marshall Buck, to check over mansion furnishings, silverware, and table linen. In accordance with custom this list will be checked by Governor-elect Green when he and his wife take possession of the big, old, 22 room house Monday.

Governor and Mrs. Stelle plan to move tomorrow to the same hotel which will house Governor-elect and Mrs. Green and their two daughters after their arrival tomorrow evening. Thus the mansion will be vacant for one night.

Order Restricts Visiting Hours at Fort Sheridan

Visiting hours at Fort Sheridan were restricted yesterday by Lieut. Col. Fred During, executive officer. The new orders limit persons entering the reservation for sightseeing purposes to one hour each from noon to 5 p. m. Commercial callers may enter the post during the same hours on weekdays only. Those desiring to call on enlisted men may do so from noon to 11 p. m. weekdays and from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m. Sundays.

LANDON WARNS OF PERIL IN U. S. GOING INTO WAR

Fate of the Republic Is at Stake, He Says.

"But none of these things threatens the security of the republic as much as would our becoming involved in another European war. There isn't a navy or a combination of navies in the world that can seriously menace our shores or those of the countries north and south of us, unless the entire English navy is surrendered intact. If England is in such shape that this is probable, then she is past help.

"We have a great and a very real interest in English success. But to say our national security rests on her victory is a misstatement. Even if England wins this war, and the President assures us she will, we are bound to suffer great economic and social disturbances for many years to come.

"Still Greater Disturbances."

"If Hitler wins, it will be a new and terrible era for a time, and we will suffer still greater economic and political disturbances for many years. But in the end free labor will always whip forced labor, and without going to war to do it.

"But if we get into this war with fighting forces, when the end comes we will suffer the greatest economic, social, and political disturbances.

"Add a long war to the President's personal government, with the suspension of the bill of rights and other constitutional safeguards—more short cuts in the name of emergency—and more blank checks by the congress to the chief executive—and representative government in this country will be on thin ice. Then add also a fourth term, plus the terrible economic suffering and racial hatred of minorities which will be the aftermath of our participation in the war, and the republic may well go thru the rock crusher. In defeating totalitarianism abroad, we will strengthen its hold here at home."

Landon warned of the attacks on liberties that will be attempted under the smokescreen of national defense.

"Already the Civil Liberties union," he said, "is warning of curbs on the freedom of labor and minority groups. Even a few months more of what we are doing now will mean economic chaos and a regimented society, when the end comes, unless we plan wisely now.

"Already force and terrorism, which are the foundation of the dictator's strength, are in evidence in this country. Already force and threats have been used by administration spokesmen to gain political support for the administration in political campaigns and in legislation.

Question of Survival.

"No, the question of the survival of the republic is not going to be decided in England. It will be decided here, with the question of our methods of aiding Britain playing a vital part in that decision."

He said recognition must be given the fundamental fact that the United States is an indivisible economy, as well as an indivisible union of the states.

"This calls for treatment of agriculture, labor, industry, and finance no longer as separate problems but as inseparable parts of the common national interest," he asserted.

"It is rather obvious, whatever happens, that the capitalistic system is going thru a wringer, but the question remains to be decided, again and again, whether the republic is going to go thru a rock crusher. When clothes go thru the wringer they come out clean and new, ready for more wear. But rocks going thru a crusher come out broken up.

"We're Living Deliriously."

"To state our present position in the simplest terms, we are living deliriously and dangerously upon a war boom bubble, ready to burst upon the first prick of peace. The longer the war boom bubble goes, the worse it will be. The aftermath may be accompanied by nearly as grave dangers to our form of government, to our way of life, to our individual liberties and basic personal rights, as the war period itself.

"By that time, whether we have participated in the present European and Asiatic wars or not with our navy and troops, the entire economy of the United States will have been built upon—and built up high, wide, and handsome—upon a war economy.

"Will government be prepared for the change from a wartime boom to a peacetime economy? Will industry be prepared? Will labor be prepared? Will finance be prepared? Will the farmer be prepared? Will the party in power be prepared? Will the opposition party be prepared?

Postwar Coöperation.

"Here are some questions worth thinking about and worthy of the highest type of leadership now in preparing to work out the answers. Unless industry, labor, agriculture, finance, and political leadership are willing and able to coöperate in the postwar period, the only answer to the postwar problems will be a complete regimentation by government—and a personal, one man government, at that.

"We, as Republicans, as the opposition party, have a responsibility that our leadership be planning, and planning with leaders of the groups I have named, for this period of transition, so that there may be unity in working out the postwar period.

"But we have immediate jobs ahead of us. The United States is facing a decision whether we in the western hemisphere shall try to preserve intact here in the new world the democratic principle of government or whether we shall become, forever and a day, a party to old world power politics.

No Security Thru Force.

"Neither nations nor individuals can become assured of any kind of security thru the use of force to try to guarantee security to others.

"Thru a contagion of fear, peoples all over the world have become hysterical about security—about economic rather than political security. There is no economic security for the masses except that which comes thru retaining and exercising political power the average citizens have acquired thru popular government. All of us are certain to lose much of the political powers we possess if we are drawn into this war. Therefore there is nothing so important to all of us as to remain at peace until we are forced to fight for our own political security.

"I believe our way of life will be made easier if England wins. But the all-important determination for us is to make ourselves strong enough to preserve that way of life, no matter who wins the war."

BAR CHIEF NAMES ILLINOIS COURT PROCEDURE AIDS

Jacob M. Lashly, president of the American Bar association, yesterday announced the appointment of the following members of the Illinois bar to the state committee on improvement in judicial procedure:

Albert E. Jenner Jr., Chicago, chairman; C. V. O'Hern, Peoria; Prof. Oliver L. McCaskill, Urbana; Orville N. Foreman, Jacksonville; Clarence W. Heyl, Peoria, and Prof. Walter V. Schaefer, Thomas L. Owens, Harry N. Gottlieb, George I. Haight, and Charles O. Rundall, all of Chicago.

The state committee will coöperate with the national committee of the association in aiding national defense by improving the administration of justice. Judge John J. Parker of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals is chairman of the national committee.

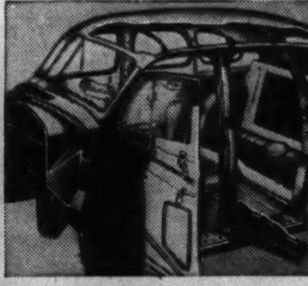
NEW 1941 CHEVROLET
Only lowest-priced car with this smart, safe, soundproofed "BODY BY FISHER!" of the same type and size featured on higher priced cars

STYLE THAT'S OUTSTANDING
Fisher design, Fisher styling and Fisher craftsmanship impart beauty and luxury so notable that the new Chevrolet for 1941 fully merits the title—"Style Car of the United States."
You ride in the body of your car as you live in the rooms of your home; and you ride in outstanding beauty, comfort and safety when you ride in a new Chevrolet with Body by Fisher!

CONCEALED SAFETY-STEPS (instead of old-fashioned running boards)
Concealed Safety-Steps (instead of old-fashioned running boards) at each door of Chevrolet's Body by Fisher are a modern style note of this modern car. They look better—stay cleaner—and provide safer, easier entrance and exit.
"3-COUPLE ROOMINESS"
The new bodies are longer, larger, wider—with more foot room, more shoulder room, more seating room—with "3-couple roominess" in sedans—and space to spare in all models, regardless of type.

DOUBLE-PANELED STEEL DOORS
The doors are of double strength. . . . Their outer steel panels are stoutly reinforced with inner steel panels ribbed and braced to provide maximum rigidity. . . . Naturally, such doors are safe, silent, close with a business-like click.
You'll Say "FIRST BECAUSE IT'S FINEST!"

BOX-GIRDER BRACING
Strong, rigid box-girder bracing at all vital points—top, floor, front, sides and rear—helps to make Fisher all-steel bodies for '41 the strongest and safest bodies ever built.
SOLID STEEL TURRET TOP
Chevrolet's solid steel Turret Top contributes immeasurably to the strength and safety of the body structure as a unit, serving to bind together the strong steel sides with a protective covering of reinforced steel.



ULTRA-SAFE UNISTEEL CONSTRUCTION
Chevrolet's smart new bodies by Fisher are of Unisteel (one-piece steel) construction throughout . . . with cowl, roof, floor, side and rear panels all welded together to form a single integral structure—ultra-safe Unisteel construction.

ORIGINAL NO DRAFT VENTILATION (together with thorough insulation throughout)
Original Fisher No Draft Ventilation, assuring full comfort for driver and passengers, winter or summer—and heavy insulation of body and floor against heat, cold and noise—are additional features of this "best of all motor car bodies."

QUAYLE DECIDES LOAN TESTIMONY WAS A 'MISTAKE'

Says Some One Else Dealt with Reynolds.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Oliver A. Quayle, general manager of the Democratic national committee, told the senate campaign committee today that he had "made a mistake" in testifying two days ago that he personally arranged for loans of $300,000 for the 1940 Democratic campaign from R. J. Reynolds.

Reynolds, the Democratic committee's new treasurer, testified yesterday that it was Wayne Johnson, finance director of the committee, who had arranged the loans in a telephone conversation with Reynolds at Winston-Salem, N. C.

"A Very Hectic Time."

Corroborating Reynolds' testimony, Quayle said today that "this was something that happened at a very hectic time some months ago," adding that there was "no reason not to tell the entire details."

Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.], a member of the senate campaign committee, broke in to say that Quayle was "guilty of perjury," and accused him of "trying to shield Johnson of collusion in this matter."

"I deny any such——," Quayle shouted.

"You can deny to Doomsday," Tobey interrupted.

"There could be no purpose for concealing these facts," Quayle replied. "Evidently I made a mistake. I talked to Reynolds many times. I was making telephone calls all over the country trying to raise money 16 or 18 hours a day."

Previous Testimony Quoted.

Tobey read from Quayle's previous testimony in which he detailed telephone conversations with Reynolds to make the loan.

Quayle said that 20 persons were working to raise money at Democratic headquarters and that when he used "I" in his testimony he did that because he was in charge.

"It's the acme of evasion for you to say we are not to take your testimony at par and that 'I contacted him' means some one else did," Tobey shouted.

Tobey fired a series of questions about contracts for radio broadcasts of President Roosevelt and his supporters, dates of these, amounts paid and when. Quayle said he could not answer from memory, but promised to supply all data from records.

Exceeding the Limit.

Tobey charged that Reynolds' loans to Democratic state committees in Illinois, New York, and New Jersey had been arranged to keep the Democratic national committee from exceeding the $3,000,000 limit imposed by the Hatch act.

Chairman Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] of the investigating committee told reporters that the committee had assembled much evidence, and it was "apparent that both parties far exceeded the $3,000,000 limit, not by their own expenditures as a committee, but by utilization of various devices for raising and spending money."

The chairman said that the "Republicans avoided the $5,000 limit on individual contributions by having persons of great wealth send large sums in contributions of $5,000 or less to many separate committees and state organizations."

This was done, he said, by the "du Ponts, the Pew family, the Rockefeller family, and others."

Names N. Y. Group.

Gillette cited the United Finance committee of Metropolitan New York as an example of how the Republicans had "avoided" the $3,000,000 limitation. He said this New York group reported in October it had collected and spent $1,398,000, "and its final report will be close of $2,500,000."

Gillette said incomplete reports of expenditures by various political committees totaled $21,746,475. This, he added, did not include expenses of "local political groups" or of individual candidates for the senate.

After a brief executive session, Gillette said that as far as he and the committee were concerned the "Quayle incident is closed."

Plunge Thru Ice

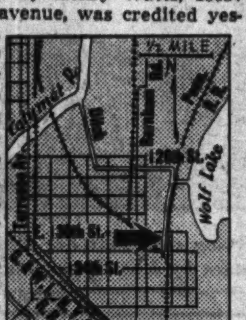
[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Henry Watts, who ducked into icy water and took Eugene ashore.

Fast work by Henry Watts, 13037 Green Bay avenue, was credited yesterday with saving the life of one of two brothers who tumbled into Hyde lake, 130th street and Mackinaw avenue, when the ice on the lake broke beneath them.



Arrow locates Hyde lake.

The boys are Eugene Giemzik, 9 years old, and Richard, 8, of 13542 Buffalo avenue. Police said they were playing with a group of children when the ice broke. As they plunged into the water their playmates ran for aid to the nearby home of Watts, a watchman.

Watts hastened to the lake. Richard already was ashore, but Eugene was beneath the water, which was just over his head, with only his hand above water. Watts ducked into the water twice before he pulled the boy out. Then he took both boys to his home and, after giving Eugene artificial respiration, put both to bed.

Dr. Ravenna Gets Award for Rheumatic Fever Study

Dr. Paolo Ravenna of Michael Reese hospital was announced yesterday as the recipient of the first fellowship given by trustees of the Chicago Heart association in memory of Morris Fishbein Jr., for research into the causes of rheumatic fever. The memorial fund was started in 1929 after the 12 year old son of Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, died of rheumatic fever.

WHAT $50,000 LOAN? O, YES, SAY DEMOCRATS

Leaders Vague on Details of Reynolds Deal.

Illinois Democratic party officials exhibited airy vagueness yesterday concerning the $50,000 sent in by R. J. Reynolds of the North Carolina tobacco family, and the Democratic national committee to help win the state last fall for President Roosevelt. The United States senate campaign investigating committee has not received a report on the contributions or expenditures of the Illinois Democrats.

Joseph E. Knight.

Joseph E. Knight of Dow, secretary of the state central committee, said: "I never spent a dollar of it." He said he turned over the $50,000 in two checks, for $25,000 each, to Charles Bliss of Taylorville, manager of the downstate campaign.

"Business Deal," He Says.

"The check from Mr. Reynolds for $25,000 was an outright business deal," Knight asserted. "It was a loan, and I believe we were given six months to repay."

Asked whose obligation it is to repay, Knight said that he supposed it is the debt of the state committee.

"I never knew the committee had to make any report," Knight declared. "Anyway, Charlie Bliss had the spending of the money. He was the downstate manager."

Bliss, reached in Taylorville, said the $50,000 was spent for "general campaign purposes," and added:

Report Not Yet Prepared.

"I don't believe the entire report on the expenditures has been prepared or submitted as yet."

This concurred with the complaint of Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], chairman of the senate investigating committee, who said in Washington that he would demand an explanation of the Illinois committee for its report of no income or expenditures during the campaign.

Bliss went on to say that he couldn't give a complete accounting of the funds until a report is completed by the finance committee of the state committee. And he does not know when this will be completed, he said.

Arthur A. Sullivan, chairman of the state committee, said Friday night that he was "satisfied" that the $50,000 never appeared in the committee's accounts. He added that Ludwig D. Schreiber, committee treasurer, recently told him there never was more than $100 in the committee account.

III. BRITISH-AMERICAN WAR FINANCE.

For several years before the United States became a belligerent in the world war Great Britain and France had been selling large amounts of their war bonds to American investors. Entry of the United States into the war made it necessary for our government to call upon the people for vast sums of money. In order to raise such funds it was necessary to close our financial markets substantially to all other borrowers.

But at the same time the need of Great Britain, France, and the other allies to raise funds had not diminished. And so the United States government undertook to borrow enough for our war efforts and enough more to buy the bonds of the allies which could no longer be sold in the investment market.

Between April 6, 1917, and the armistice on Nov. 11, 1918, the United States government borrowed 18½ billion dollars. Of this amount 11¼ billion was for its own war expenses, and 7¼ billion for loans to the allies. As evidence of the loans the treasury held bonds of the borrowers bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

The debts to the United States owed by the various countries on Nov. 15, 1918, were as follows:

Great Britain	$3,696,000,000
France	1,970,000,000
Italy	1,051,000,000
Russia	187,729,750
Belgium	173,380,000
Cuba	10,000,000
Serbia	10,605,000

With the war over the understanding was that the loans to foreign countries would stop. But immediately requests came pouring in for further peace loans to rebuild devastated areas, to rehabilitate the wounded, to reëstablish people in their old home areas, to provide feed until it could be produced, and to strengthen the currencies. And so after the armistice peacetime loans were made totaling 3¼ billion dollars. Of this amount a little over 2½ billion dollars was in cash and ¾ of a billion in the form of war supplies and relief supplies. The two largest beneficiaries of the postarmistice loans were France, which obtained nearly 1½ billions, and Great Britain, nearly 600 million dollars.

But advances made after the armistice were not confined to France and Great Britain and the countries which had fought with us against Germany. The succession states received advances to put them on their feet, and there were even funds for countries which had fought against us.

Those are the loans about which we have heard so much. Interest payments were made as long as loans were being increased. As our government was obliged to meet the interest promptly on the money borrowed for our allies, many people right after the war thought that the allies should at least meet the interest on their bonds held by our treasury. However, Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass was quite persuasive in urging that we should be generous with our debtors during the reconstruction period, and let them have 2 or 3 years of grace on the interest. His wishes prevailed.

However, once they were allowed to stop paying interest it was hard to get them back into the habit again. Under the Harding administration an act was passed creating the World War Foreign Debt commission, with power to enter into agreements with the allies for the payments of their debts to us, provided that the funded debt should not be extended beyond June 15, 1947, and the rate of interest should not be less than 4¼ per cent, as compared with the 5 per cent rate in effect on the original obligations.

Little was done about it until our government began to talk about a sort of Johnson act depriving debt defaulters of access to our financial markets. A British commission finally arrived and late in 1923 a settlement was arranged, which congress approved. This was necessary, because the terms were more generous than had been provided in the act creating the debt commission. The British were given 62 years within which to pay. The interest was cut from 5 per cent to 3 per cent for the first 10 years and 3½ per cent thereafter.

Funding agreements were made also with 14 of the other foreign countries which had borrowed from us. The terms for each nation were fixed after careful consideration of its capacity to pay. Italy got off easiest and had its interest shaved from 5 per cent to 0.4 per cent.

Payments under the funding agreements were made when due until June 15, 1931. The declaration of a one year moratorium by President Hoover at that time meant that no payments were required thru the middle of the next year. On Dec. 15, 1932, Great Britain, Italy, Czecho-Slovakia, Finland, Latvia, and Lithuania made payments. Great Britain made a token payment of 7½ million dollars in 1933—nothing since. On Jan. 1, 1941, the debt of Great Britain with accumulated interest amounted to 5¾ billion dollars.

Failure of the borrowing countries to meet payments on their debts resulted in the Johnson act of 1934, which denies access to our capital markets to nations which are in default on debts to the United States government.

The British were obligated to pay annually only 32 millions on the principal and interest of about 150 million dollars. They claimed such payments were beyond their ability, altho more than 5 billion dollars has been mobilized for payments here for war purchases. They refused to discuss with our government a reduced payment basis. The other nations except Finland took the same line and as a result our treasury now holds nearly 14 billions worth of defaulted promises by foreign governments.

THIS DEMOCRACY.

A student of the election returns, having done some figuring, finds that the Illinois vote was the highest percentage of state population in the country. It was 53.4. Nevada, where the total population could be put in a fair sized Illinois town, swung 53 per cent to the polls, and Indiana was third with 52 per cent. And so on down the list of states in what are diminishing returns until the solid and nonvoting south is reached, where the percentage of the vote to the population becomes almost negligible in numbers, however powerful in authority both at home and thruout the nation.

South Carolina turned out 5.2 per cent; Mississippi, 8 per cent; Georgia, 10 per cent; Arkansas, 10.3 per cent; Alabama, 10.4 per cent; Virginia, 12.9 per cent; Louisiana, 15.7 per cent; Texas, 16.2 per cent; Tennessee, 17.9 per cent; North Carolina, 23.3, and Florida, the highest, 25.7 per cent.

The southern picture of representative democracy seems to be in an early 18th century English frame. The land owning Tories then controled the suffrage and the growing industrial centers didn't have it. But the land owning Tories were paying the freight—having the taxable values. The government hadn't yet discovered how to put the income tax bee on the Whig industrialists and commercial class.

Here in Illinois we have an Old Sarum in the 5th congressional district, where Adolph J. Sabath has a tight little pocket of 50,177 votes. It has been observed that Mr. Sabath's district about measures up to his stature as a congressman, but that doesn't make either one desirable exhibits of representative democracy. However, the nation-wide tabulation of vest pocket districts reveals that eight states, with a total of 77 districts, show an average of less than 37,000 votes per congressman. Half sized as Mr. Sabath is, he can still look over the heads of many of his associates. Illinois hasn't had a congressional reapportionment for 40 years and, in consequence, altho it leads the nation in percentage of votes to population, its internal arrangement is an absurdity by any fair standard of representative democracy.

We are hearing a great deal of democracy these days and we take little time off to define it. Sometimes it appears to be a theory of government by executive edict. The man at the top makes a decision and the people below begin to move about like regiments of ants, obeying commands in this direction or that. Possibly because of this we don't say so much any more of representative democracy and are paying little attention to the departure from it. Representative democracy is hardly served by the 5.2 of voting population in South Carolina, and it doesn't grow any stronger when 10 men in one political unit have only as much to say thru congress in Washington as one man in another.

What kind of democracy are we trying to make work, the edictal kind or the representative kind?

WAR'S GIFTS TO EUROPE.

Lenin was the first gift of the other world war to Europe. He was Germany's gift to Russia to do what he did in breaking down the Russian front. The bolshevist terror was the price Europe paid for that German victory. Russia, in a few generations removed from this Red episode, had been progressing out of feudalism. It had seen the emancipation of the serfs, the development of industries, the growth of a political consciousness, and the raising of many institutions, local and national, of a freer government. If the war had not given bolshevism the opportunity for which men, theretofore obscure exiles, had been looking, Russia today might have been an advancing member of a peaceable Europe.

Another war gift was Mussolini to Italy where, in changing his rôle from that of socialist equalitarian to that of Fascist autocrat, he made use of the war's social and political wreckage and confusion to set up a system of government almost as obnoxious as that of the soviets.

Another war gift, arriving much later, was Hitler to a Germany shattered alike by war and peace. These three war babies now govern Europe by force. Before the rulers went to war in 1914 civilization on the continent seemed to be about to justify much of the rarest optimism. The average man, whose privileges had been few and whose status had been rigid, was finding his way to the place in the sun about which his obstinate rulers had been talking for themselves. Political control with its attendant social and economic benefits was flowing in broader channels to greater masses. Then came the war, reaffirming the dominance of the ruling classes and enforcing their discipline upon all.

After the war the weakened peoples couldn't regain what they had lost and now their civilization bows to the despotic products of a conflict which didn't end with the peace.

Editorial of the Day

WHITE HOUSE MOVES TO LONDON.

[Bucyrus (O.) Telegraph-Forum.]

Commenting upon a national issue some time ago, Harry Hopkins said that the American people are "too damned dumb," but they are not going to be "too damned dumb" to interpret President Roosevelt's appointment yesterday of Harry Hopkins to go to London as the President's personal representative. This move is just another, and one of the biggest moves to date, to link peaceful America with warring Britain. Step by step Mr. Roosevelt has been doing everything possible under the power of his office to further involve the American people in a foreign war. He admitted in his announcement of the appointment that he wants personal contact with Downing street.

The President said that Hopkins will not have the authority of an ambassador and that he will have no powers. Does he think that the American people are "too damned dumb" to remember when Hopkins went to Chicago last summer prior to the so-called Democratic national convention? Up to the last minute before nominations Franklin Roosevelt maintained that he was not seeking a third term, yet he had Hopkins on the job laying the groundwork for a third term nomination following a prearranged "We want Roosevelt" cry thru the auditorium from the lips of Chicago's superintendent of sewers, who was planted in the basement.

Where Hopkins goes, the people are not "too damned dumb" to know, he goes to do Mr. Roosevelt's bidding. He is going to London to personally guide this country closer to war. The President says that Hopkins is going to London to "talk to some old friends" of his. If such conversations were to be merely friendly ones he could use trans-Atlantic telephones for hours for thousands of dollars less than it will cost Hopkins to make the trip. Who are these friends? What is there to talk about? The people who are paying for this trip have the right to these answers.

NORWAY KEEPS UP THE FIGHT

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON—Despite the fiasco in Norway, the Norwegian campaign indirectly is paying big dividends to Britain. By adding Norway to her allies, Britain gained what might prove to be a vital factor toward victory—nearly four million tons of ships and the skilled crews to man them. This is half of the total shipping—eight million tons—that Leslie Hore Belisha told commons while he was war minister had been acquired by Britain from her allies. The Norwegian shipping includes 2,300,000 tons of tankers. Largest and most modern in the world, they are regarded as a great asset in supplying the fleet, merchant marine, royal air force, the army, and industry.

What the additional shipping means to the British cause may be gauged by a statement of A. V. Alexander before he became first lord of the admiralty for the second time last May. He said Britain's shipping strength had been reduced from 24,000,000 to not more than 11,000,000 tons available for carrying cargoes overseas. This, he explained, was due to the fact that great ships such as the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, now in troop transport service, had been immobilized because their size made them an easy target for submarines. Other vessels, too, were taken out of the commercial services for use as transports or merchant cruisers, or for other purposes.

Norway's contribution to the war effort is being furnished gladly, not only by the king and government but by the shipowners and crews.

The Norwegian government established here is a labor government. It was formed originally in 1935 and reconstructed in June, 1939. It is almost identical in membership with the government in power in Norway at the time of the occupation. Its members were recruited from labor ranks or professions.

The premier, John Nygaardsvold, was originally a sawmill worker and spent 10 years in America working on railroads and highway construction. Between sittings of the storting [parliament] he continued at his job in a sawmill. The minister of finance, Oscar Torp, was an electrician; Sverre Stostad, minister of social affairs, has been a clerk in the social security department; Halvadan Koht, minister for foreign affairs, was a professor of history at Oslo university.

Trygve Lie [pronounced Lee], minister of commerce, now serving here as minister of supply, is a lawyer who represented labor unions. Besides being minister of supply, he is deputy foreign minister.

Nils Hjelm Tveit, minister of education, is an ex-barrister and judge; Hans Ystgaard, minister of agriculture, is a farmer; Col. Syungberg, minister of defense, is a professional soldier; Olav Hindahl, minister of works, is a linotype operator.

Three ministers without portfolio have been added to the Norwegian cabinet here. They are Arne Sunde, member of the Liberal party, bank chairman and former minister of justice in the previous government; Maj. Sven Nielsen, a Conservative, and Anders Fjedstad, a farmer, member of the Agrarian party, chairman of the Farmers Coöperative, and Norwegian consul in Paris.

Two ministers were left in Stockholm. They are the minister of commerce, Anders Frihaven, and a minister without portfolio, Joan Ludo Monincydr, a shipowner. Jakob Vik, farmer, minister of welfare and member of the Agrarian party, was unable to get away from Norway.

• • •

Norway is giving important aid to Britain in addition to her shipping. The country's gold reserve was brought to England before it could fall into enemy hands, and there are substantial Norwegian investments both here and elsewhere that can be drawn on in case of need.

By accepting sterling in payment for carrying cargoes, the Norwegians here are lightening the strain on British financial resources, particularly as it applies to foreign exchange.

The fact that Norway supplied more than enough sailors to man her own ships in warfare against Germany is important. The French and Belgians also supplied shipping, but they have not been able to provide skilled crews for all of their vessels. Norwegian airmen, a small Norwegian army and units of the Norwegian navy are here, all coöperating with British forces.

Norwegians are manning motor torpedo boats and minesweepers. The Tribune correspondent has talked to Norwegian enlisted men who are on active naval service off British shores, keeping a constant vigil in their small M. T. B.'s for a sign of the German invasion armada. They have made numerous raids on German shipping along the French coast. Some have carried out land sorties on German occupied territory. They also pick up British or German pilots shot down into the sea in air battles.

A small army force was evacuated from Nordland with the government after fighting the Germans near Narvik. The Norwegian troops fought well in comparison with the allied forces who came to their aid. When the Germans appeared in too great strength they broke up and reformed in forest and mountain trails and hindered German operations. They won a notable victory above Narvik. A small force under Gen. Fleischer ambushed and annihilated almost a thousand Germans who attempted to capture Tromso. These veterans have been reorganized and reëquipped here and recruits are being trained. They are holding a part of the British coast.

Norway shares with Holland an unique experience. Both sovereigns and their cabinet ministers can be said to have been on the firing line before they escaped to England.

For days in their trek from Oslo the king and cabinet of Norway were subjected to bombardments and machine gun attacks by German bombers. Trygve Lie told of an attack that lasted more than two hours. The Norwegians were lying in a wood north of Oslo. They sought refuge in every available crevice, and the king and the crown prince were hiding under a fir tree. After each wave of bombers passed over and dropped bombs or fired machine guns, the wood rang with shouts:

"Are you all right there?"

"I'm all right; how are you?"

Happily, no casualties had been inflicted.

When the British decided they could no longer continue the fight in Norway, the king and his government decided to move to England to continue the war.

In the exodus Norwegian ships were used exclusively. Lie told THE TRIBUNE he encountered no shipowner or seaman who did not want to go with the government. In fact, he said, he had to plead with some owners and crews of coastwise shipping to remain behind to serve those dependent on sea communications for food and supplies.

"Of the 30,000 sailors manning Norwegian ships now operating under the government established here," Lie added, "not one has expressed a desire to go back, altho many are anxious concerning the welfare of their families.

"I have a daughter, 9 years old, who remained with an aunt because I could not bring her with me."

Lie stated that Norwegian shipping had been exceptionally lucky in escaping the ravages of German submarine, surface raider, and aircraft attacks.

"I really am not concerned about losing ships," he said, "but my heart goes out to the sailors. I was one once."

Lie pointed out the high standard of living in Norway before the war.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT.

THE question, "How tall should I be?" may be answered, "As you are." Stature is only relative. After all, one is about as important in this world as his abilities determine. In fact, among geniuses there is very little difference between the tall and the short altho the former have a slight [4 per cent] advantage. In other words, great height—in and of itself—does not insure extraordinary mental ability. There is a tendency, however, to larger frames as people are better nourished, happy, and when there is plenty of work to do. The reason seems to be that with peace of mind and some exercise food is used more effectively—giving the organs and tissues of the body free play for development.

Most of us follow the physical pattern of our parents. In this same connection it should be recalled that a mother who is diminutive may give birth to sons who will shoot up to the six foot or more class. A new environment, with a better diet, will result ultimately in a superior race physically. In the time of Richard III., the English warrior averaged 5 feet 6 inches, while the Roman army established a minimum of 5 feet 7½. Today in Great Britain the level has reached 5 feet 7.6 inches.

Of course we know that glands govern growth. The pituitary, the boss of the lot, exercises a control over the skeleton that is almost uncanny. It accomplishes this end by reflexly stimulating other structures to do better work. But this is possible only in the presence of an adequate supply of vitamins [particularly B] as well as a generous allotment of minerals [chiefly calcium].

As a rule height is fixed by the 17th birthday for girls and about the 22d year for boys. Beyond these ages elongation of the frame is proportionately small. This slowing down process may be looked upon as the opening chapter of maturity, which will persist for about 25 years longer. If an increase comes later it will be but a fraction of an inch.

Few of us realize, however, the necessity of exercise and the establishment of a correct posture. Stretching the spine over its entire length, maintaining elastic joints and tissues, will do much for body balance and actually encourage it to lengthen from one-half to nearly an inch. We can stand and think tall, with the abdomen retracted, the shoulders squared, and the chin drawn backward and parallel with the floor. In like fashion one can slouch and lose an equal amount in altitude.

For those who are short and have the urge to be tall there is much consolation in the world leadership exhibited by men who are below the average. For example, Stephen A. Douglas was 5 feet 4 inches; Oliver Wendell Holmes was 5 feet 5 inches, while Napoleon, Linnaeus, Mozart, Gibbon, Michelangelo, and Gen. Philip Sheridan were from two to five inches below the standard. Among modern characters mention may be made of Mussolini, who is 5 feet 5; Irving Berlin, 5 feet 4; Mayor La Guardia, 5 feet 4; and Adolph Zukor, 5 feet 2 inches.

Perhaps in this machine age we need less of brawn and more of brain. That is, to be alert, expert, and resourceful is more essential than to possess huge bulk. No! The pint sized man does not need pity. He has practically the same chance to become distinguished—even eminent—as his beanpole brother.

NUMBNESS.

G. T. writes: What causes the gums and teeth to become numb at night?

REPLY.

Perhaps they need rest—just as does the balance of the body. With quiet, they too may fall asleep. Of course, pressure on the nerve of feeling may be responsible. A softer pillow should help.

PUFFY EYELIDS.

A. R. writes: Why do eyelids swell?

Inadequate elimination of fluids—which may be one of the early signs of kidney trouble. Correction can be brought about with good medical management.

NO DANGER.

No.

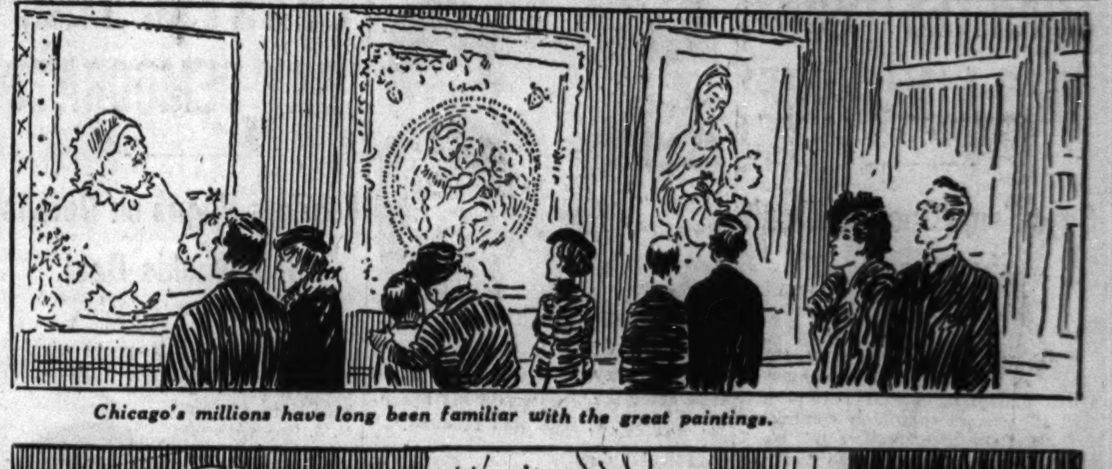
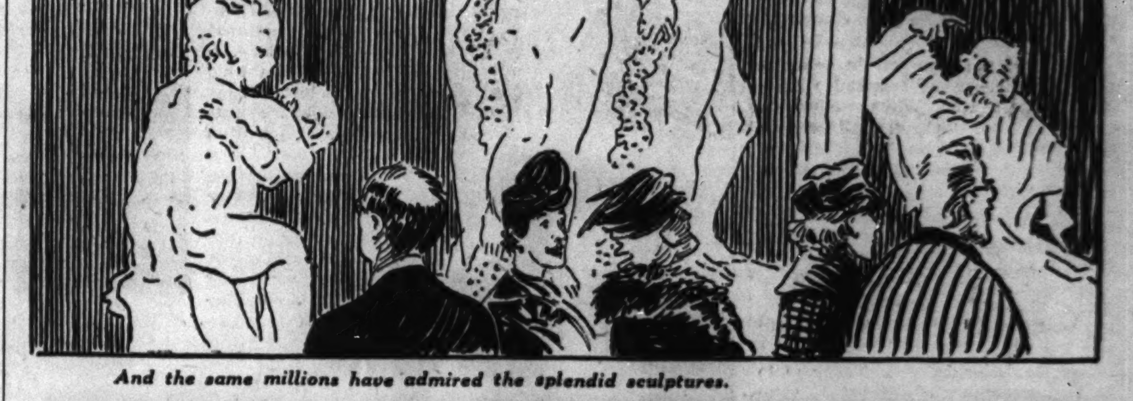
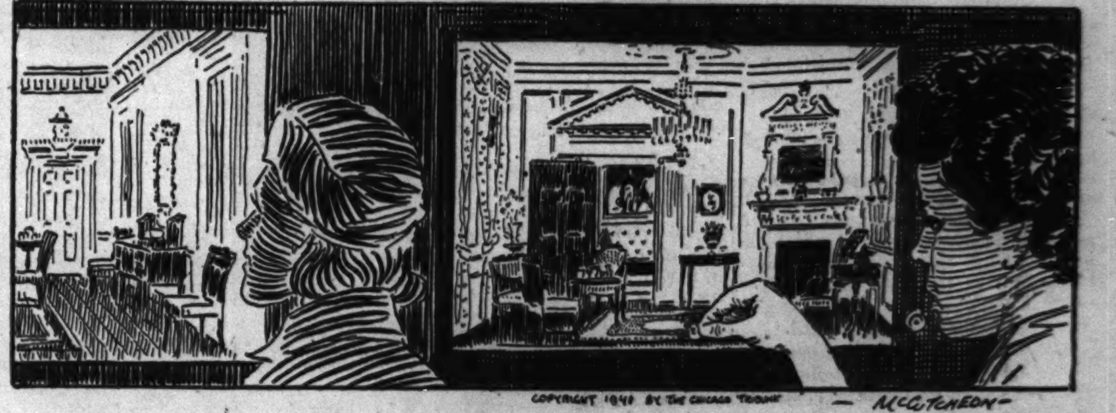
A NEW ART JOINS THE OLD MASTERS AT THE ART INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO



Chicago's millions have long been familiar with the great paintings.



And the same millions have admired the splendid sculptures.



COPYRIGHT 1941 BY THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE
McCUTCHEON

Now a third and most deserving contender for Chicago's favor is the group of 37 beautifully exquisite American rooms in miniature by Mrs. James Ward Thorne.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

SOME APPLAUD AND SOME DON'T.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Things have come to a pretty pass in this country when the members of the loyal opposition cannot even refrain from applauding a message read by the President without being publicly castigated by the President's wife as being unpatriotic.

Mrs. Roosevelt should realize that there may have been some Democratic solons who applauded not because they thought the message so good but because they were mindful of the watchful eyes of the purge cats who constantly haunt their lives and probably figured that he who applauds and runs away will live to applaud another day.

Most Republicans, not having the Damoclesian sword hanging over their heads, could afford to consider the message on its merits, and not as politicians.

Mrs. Roosevelt should also remember that, even tho the Roosevelt family seems well on the way to acquiring a life tenure in the White House, still the President of the United States has not as yet come as close to attaining the status of Deity as has the emperor of Japan. This may come in the fourth term, however, and with it, compulsory applause, under the supervision of the elder stateswoman, Eleanor.

EDWARD A. JOERS.

WHY APPLAUD?

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 8.—The first lady should not worry about the dearth of applause on the minority side of congress. She is smart enough to know that it is no lack of sportsmanship. She is smart enough to know that many intelligent, honest, and sincere Americans feel deeply that the President was not the choice of a free people in the election, even less a free choice of his own party in a farcical convention. However, more important: What was there in his speech for an American to applaud?

S. S. G.

QUESTIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—"We shall never acquiesce in a peace dictated by aggressors and sponsored by appeasers," said F. D. R. These days things happen in Europe in the most unexpected manner. For instance, who would have predicted a few months ago that Stalin and Hitler were going to be allies? Who would have predicted that France would be no more? So, if by any chance England tomorrow accepts a dictated peace, are we going to declare war against her? Then again, knowing that a dictated peace, no matter who does the dictating, means another war in another generation, are we going to stand by a peace dictated by England?

D. A. R.

A FORECAST.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Jan. 8.—President Roosevelt says he believes in free speech. So does the writer. Here is a prophecy.

In American histories to come—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be honored as the man who tried in vain to save his country from destruction in the bloody, endless wars of Europe.

Mr. Roosevelt will go down as the most obedient and gullible spokesman the British government has ever had.

We will go down as a once great people grown so soft that the loss of liberty failed to arouse us, until too late.

THE FIREWORKS BILL.

Edwardsville, Ill., Jan. 7.—I read with great satisfaction your editorial of Jan. 6 on the fireworks bill. The Illinois Firemen's association indorsed this movement at its October convention and will present to this session of the legislature a bill prohibiting the retail sale of fireworks.

The Illinois Firemen's association is composed of some 465 fire departments, including yours in Chicago. This association of over 14,000 firemen is anxious that this much needed bill be passed.

JOINT TENANCY.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother, a widow, owns a bungalow which during the lifetime of my father was held in joint tenancy. After the death of my father she was the sole owner.

1. Since then we have learned that we could dispense with probate by creating a joint tenancy [2] naming one of the children co-owner with mother. She has made a will dividing her estate equally among her children, but as it now stands her estate would have to be probated and to avoid that we think a joint tenancy would be best.

3. Is it necessary to employ an attorney to handle this for us or can we take care of this ourselves, going to the city hall and having them record this change? Of course, we understand there will be a charge to have this change recorded but we feel it would be less if we took care of it ourselves, providing this is possible, if we know how to go about it and just where to go.

H. B.

1. Correct.

2. Obviously this would be trusting everything to the child so selected. Experience has shown that such an arrangement leads to trouble in a large proportion of cases.

3. We are not in a position to estimate your experience and resourcefulness in such a transaction.

Offhand it would seem preferable to make all of the children parties to the joint tenancy instead of selecting one.

If the deed expressly provides for "joint tenancy" as distinguished from "tenancy in common," then on death of one of the tenants the title will go to the survivor without necessity for probate and to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first [33 C. J. 908,915]. The half that thus passes by survivorship is subject to inheritance tax.

If title is already in one of the parties, the creation of the joint tenancy involves an intermediate conveyance to a third party, who will then reconvey to the intended joint tenants, using a joint tenancy form obtainable from a stationer. Make sure that the third party is not subject to judgment liens.

As to personal property, the Illinois statute says that the "will or other instrument in writing" must express "an intention [presumably that of the previous owner] to create a joint tenancy . . . with the right of survivorship." The mere fact that money is deposited to the account of "A and B" or of "A or B," or that A and B have joint access to a safety box containing bearer bonds, would not be enough. 3 C. J. 908, 915; 19 C. J. 473.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BROKER'S COMMISSION.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I signed an agreement with a Chicago real estate agency to sell my home at a given price. Real estate man to receive his 5 per cent commission of my price if sold. He accepted a down payment. Then contracts were drawn between myself and buyer by the agent. In case the buyer refuses to go thru with his part of the contract and the real estate agent is still holding that down payment, I would like to know how much the real estate agent can claim, since he has not completed the sale? Can he claim his 5 per cent of this down payment money, the same as he would if he had closed the deal?

B. H.

Under the ordinary contract employing a broker the broker has earned his commission if he produces a purchaser able and willing to buy at the seller's terms, and this is even more clearly true if the seller accepts the contract. Subsequent default by the buyer would not cut off the broker's right to his commission. Ordinarily the broker's commission is a first charge against the earnest money.

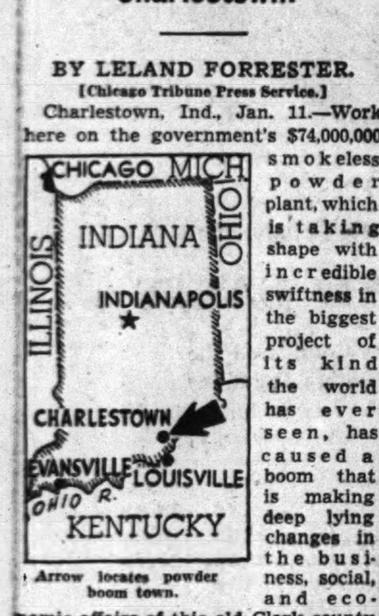
POWDER PLANT BUILDING BRINGS BOOM TO INDIANA

16,000 Men Employed at Charlestown.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Arrow locates powder boom town.

Charlestown, Ind., Jan. 11.—Work here on the government's $74,000,000 smokeless powder plant, which is taking shape with incredible swiftness in the biggest project of its kind the world has ever seen, has caused a boom that is making deep lying changes in the business, social, and economic affairs of this old Clark county town.

Last summer Charlestown still was a quiet community of 950 persons, mostly the families of retired farmers, and corn was waving in the fields that lay just to the east across a highway. But on Oct. 1, 41 men moved into the fields to break ground for the 5,000 acre government project, and the boom was on.

Working Day and Night.

Today more than 16,000 are working day and night on ground where crops had flourished thru all of Charlestown's nearly 140 years of existence, and the population of the town stands between 3,500 and 4,000. [Most of the workers have had to go to nearby centers, including Louisville, Ky., to find housing. Many are in farm homes.]

Caught in a whirlwind of activity Charlestown is trying, still a little dazedly, to adjust itself to the problems—and benefits—that have been dumped upon it by the boom.

There is no phase of the community's activities, no life pattern of the individual resident, that has not in some manner been changed or colored in the reflection of the government's vast undertaking.

Two Pupils Per Seat.

In the schoolhouse on one side of the public square, pupils are sitting two each in seats built for one—bright eyed, traveled youngsters from the hundreds of trailers mingling with children of the town's long time residents.

Business houses are thriving as never before.

In homes that were never opened to roomers in the past, families have reshaped their living habits to accommodate strangers, and even the banker is proud of three "fine young men" who have the freedom of his house. [Some of the residents have crowded 4 to 16 men in one room at $4 to $5 a head per week without meals.]

Some farmers, particularly the younger ones, have left their fields to become laborers at the plant. On other farms the "board and room" business has become the chief interest.

No longer a village where most faces are familiar, Charlestown has become a town of strangers who keep the stores busy and, on payday, swamp the bank and rush to the post office or Western Union's trailer office to send money "back home."

Despite the influx of the thousands of workers into the area, necessitating social and economic readjustments, Charlestown has had no vice problem.

Tax Bills Increased.

The swift increase in population has raised the tax bills of the property owners, and has caused concern over sanitation facilities, but the latter problem is said to be in hand.

Charlestown's water plant, built three years ago amid warnings that the cost would make the town go broke, is making money on the sale of water to the powder plant contractor, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc.

The tax problem of finding a way to replace revenues to be lost thru removal of the thousands of acres of plant site land from the tax rolls as the government takes it over is worrying the county assessor more than it is the town board of Charlestown. The assessor, M. A. Badger, at Jeffersonville, county seat, said no solution has been proposed.

More Trailers Than Houses.

Trailers—There are more than twice as many trailers as houses. Homes number about 250. The number of trailers in the town limits is estimated at 600, of which 400 are connected with electricity and are served by the local branch of a power company.

The bank—The First of Charlestown, the only bank, is so busy that it has had to increase its staff from two members to three, and is preparing to add a fourth. S. E. Bolly is president. He said the bank cashes about 30 per cent of the pay checks issued by the powder plant contractor. The checks range from $24 to $70 each week and average about $45, Bolly said.

Many of the workers make deposits at the bank. Some, he said, are making payments on homes in other states, trailer dwellers being among these. Friday is payday, Charlestown's busiest day.

Town's Eating Places.

Besides Lutz's place, there are two restaurants, five hamburger stands, and one beer tavern. There are no places licensed to sell mixed drinks. Two stores sell packaged liquors.

The school—Charlestown has a consolidated school which includes six grades and high school. Before the boom, enrollment was 380. Now it is 540.

The postoffice—J. C. McKillip, postmaster, has increased his working force from three to eight members, and has persuaded the government to expand the postoffice at a cost of $4,000.

Stores Busy Places.

The stores—It's hard to catch a store without two or three customers, at least, at any given time. Some stores reported their business has as much as tripled since the powder plant project got under way. Others couldn't be more specific than to say, "Business is much better."

The mill—Charlestown has a feed and flour mill which also handles coal. It is the Charlestown Milling Co., Inc. W. E. Bolly son of the banker, is president of the mill.

"We're three times as busy now with our coal business as we were a year ago," said the son.

The $74,000,00 powder plant will not be the last of Charlestown's experiences with government projects. Another plant, where powder will be loaded into silk bags for big guns, is to be built near the present project. The cost will be between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000.

At Charlestown, Ind., Powder Plant

An average of 2,700 cars pass thru the gates of this parking lot at Charlestown, Ind., bringing workmen who are constructing a new government powder plant and powder bagging plant near the town. Employes are checked at the gates by identification badges.

A view of one of the 17 trailer camps near Charlestown. The village has turned into a city of industrial activity. Some of the workmen live in tents, some in trailers, and one worker parks a township school bus in the lot.

CARTER HARRISON NEPHEW KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Preston Carter Harrison, 19 years old, son of the late William Preston Harrison, Los Angeles art patron, and nephew of Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue here, was killed in an automobile accident near Pomona, Cal., yesterday. Young Harrison was driving alone, according to word received here, when his car ran into the rear of a truck. He was a student at Pomona college and was believed to have been driving to Los Angeles to visit his mother, Mrs. Ada Marie Harrison. His father, a retired real estate dealer and honorary art curator of the Los Angeles county museum, died last June. He was a former Chicago resident.

GOVERNOR ELECT PLANS FIGHT FOR SEAT IN MISSOURI

Democratic Legislature Overrides Election.

Forrest Donnell.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 11 (AP).—Governor-elect Forrest C. Donnell tonight cast aside plans to be inaugurated Monday and declared he will take his fight for the office to the state Supreme court.

The Webster Groves Republican announced his decision 12 hours after a night-long session of the legislature had refused to certify his apparent election over Lawrence McDaniel, Democrat.

Text of Statement.

In a statement, Donnell asserted:

"The returns of the election of Nov. 5, as opened last night in the presence of a majority of the two houses of the general assembly of Missouri, showed that the highest number of votes for the office of governor of Missouri was received by myself, that number being 3,613 greater than the number received by my Democratic opponent. . . .

"Notwithstanding . . . clear provisons of law, the speaker of the house did not declare me to have been elected."

Democrats Bar Inaugural.

Donnell's hopes of being seated Monday exploded at dawn today. The legislature adopted a resolution ordering a Democratic controled committee to conduct a contest "in each of the 114 counties and the city of St. Louis."

Earlier the Democratic majority of both houses denied him a certificate of election with the adoption of a canvassing committee report which said it "has found alleged mistakes in the returns and has been advised of various irregularities, illegal votes, alleged violations of the law . . . fraud and the illegal use of money."

CALL ARMY'S BAN ON DIET OF BEANS HALF BAKED IDEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Removal of beans from their established position on the army mess table today rallied congressmen from Michigan, a leading bean producing state, to champion the lowly fare as the author of all American victories from the revolutionary war thru the world war.

Capt. Ira K. Evans of the army quartermaster corps confirmed reports that the bean, present on almost every mess table in the past, has been routed by progress. Modern refrigeration and transportation are now bringing fresh vegetables and fruits to army mess tables the year round.

"I fought for months on beans," said Representative Jesse P. Wolcott, Port Huron Republican. "The bean must be restored to its honored place."

Representative Fred L. Crawford, Saginaw Republican, inserted into the Congressional Record the following outburst from no less a poet than Robert Browning:

"He knew the right thing, did it,
And thanked God when 'twas done.
But of all he had to thank for,
My fancy somehow leans
To thinking, what most moved him
Was a certain meal of beans."

HUDSON WINS SAFETY AWARD FOR SAFEST BODY DESIGN

THE SAFETY ENGINEERING TROPHY AWARDED TO 1941 HUDSON MOTOR CAR FOR EMINENCE IN SAFE BODY DESIGN
HUDSON

YOU ride in super-safety in a Hudson . . . winner of the 1941 trophy (shown at left) awarded by Safety Engineering Magazine and its publishers, the Alfred M. Best Company, America's foremost insurance analysts and recognized leaders in the promotion of safety.

You drive with super-safety, too . . . protected by feature after feature found in no other automobiles built today. Patented Double-Safe Brakes, for example! If hydraulics should ever fail (as they can in any car, through leakage due to accident or neglect), you just push farther on the same foot pedal . . . and STOP.

Come and see the car that tens of thousands have chosen for style and beauty. Come and enjoy the ride that former owners of other cars tell us is the smoothest, most comfortable on the road today. From Hudson's 31 years of engineering leadership comes an all-around value which we believe cannot be matched anywhere else.

Forget the Clutch Pedal with Hudson's Vacumotive Drive—only $27.50 extra in any 1941 Hudson. Ask for demonstration.

STATE APPROVAL OF STONY ISLAND PAVING IS ASKED

Contractors in Combine Await G. O. P. Action.

BY HAL FOUST.

Oscar Hewitt, city commissioner of public works, sent a recommendation to Springfield yesterday asking the state highway department to approve the award of a $202,526 contract to the American Asphalt Paving company to pave Stony Island avenue from 87th street to 94th street.

State approval of the contract is required because the job is to be financed with the city's revenue from the gasoline tax.

Action on the recommendation will be Gov. Dwight Green's first official business relating to the paving industry in Cook county. The industry was dominated for many years by the late Mike Carrozzo, boss of 25 unions, who has been succeeded by his attorney, Sam Kart.

Contractors Await Action.

Keenly interested in what Springfield will do are contractors who have enjoyed paving contracts in Cook county by coöperating with materials companies and insurance agents, all contributing to the Democratic political machine. They are speculating on whether the Republicans will play ball with the old combination.

Analysis of the bids on the Stony Island avenue project indicates the prices are such, possibly thru foresight, that it will not be difficult for the new governor to approve the contract. The contractors are not putting Mr. Green on the spot on his introduction to the Cook county paving business.

Hewitt described the prices as reasonable. On a comparable unit basis they are 9.8 per cent lower than the average paid thru the board of local improvements [not under Mr. Hewitt] for the last four city jobs of the same type. They are 4.3 per cent lower than for the last two state contracts for this type of paving in Chicago.

Prices Top Last County Job.

The unit prices, however, are 1.9 per cent higher than that paid by the Cook county highway department for its latest job of this type—the paving of Pulaski road from Belmont avenue to Cermak road. Hewitt said a squabble between rival materials interests might have affected prices on the Pulaski road job.

The Stony Island contract is for an asphalt surface on a concrete base. This is the same type that was adopted by the Cook county board last October for the Pulaski road contract notwithstanding charges this marked a revival of the asphalt paving ring that had been dominant since the death of Carozzo last August.

A contract for paving Lincoln avenue with concrete without asphalt was cited last fall to show that gas tax funds were being tapped for an extra $168,539 to put an asphalt surface of questioned value on Pulaski road. Concrete without an asphalt surface likewise might cut the cost of the Stony Island slab more than 18 per cent, it was said.

Bidders on the Stony Island proposal were familiar figures in the Cook county paving business. In addition to the low bidder, the American Asphalt Paving company, bids were entered by the Sensibar Engineering and Paving company, the Standard Paving company, the Midwest Construction and Asphalt company, White Consolidated, Inc., and the Barber Construction company, all of Chicago.

Bids Form Pattern.

The five bids other than the one slated for the contract formed a pattern such as might have resulted had some one told the other bidders "Let the A company be low at about $202,500; B will bid more than $207,000; C will bid over $208,000; D, over $209,000; E, over $210,000, and F, over $211,000." Any such conversation would be collusion, a criminal violation of the statute providing for competitive bidding. By coincidence, possibly, the high bids were $207,368, $208,637, $209,346, $210,893, and $211,764.

There were 26 items in the proposal. All six bids were on identical quantities and identical specifications. In reaching these different totals, the bidders used different prices on items that are of standard price. For the 14,100 barrels of cement, for example, probably to be delivered from the same bins by the same trucks regardless of who the purchaser might be, the quoted prices were $2.24, $2.25, $2.27, $2.28, and $2.30 per barrel.

"My concern," said Hewitt, "is that the public pay a reasonable price for its pavement. The low bid for the Stony Island job is reasonable, so I am recommending the award of the contract."

W-G-N TO OFFER MISS NIESEN AND GYPSY ROSE LEE

Krupa Also Scheduled Thursday Night.

Gertrude Niesen, singer; Gypsy Rose Lee, strip tease artist, and Gene Krupa, the drummer, will headline the In Chicago Tonight program over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 7:30 to 8 p. m. next Thursday.

Miss Niesen will be in Chicago until Friday, when she will open an engagement in Cincinnati, O. Miss Lee headlines the entertainment at Michael Todd's theater-café. Krupa and his orchestra are featured in the Panther room of the Hotel Sherman.

Star on W-G-N Program.

Miss Niesen will renew her acquaintance with Orchestra Leader Harold Stokes on whose Romance in Rhythm program she starred last March. Her songs range from classical to torch numbers. Since her debut at the age of 16 she has enjoyed steady success on the stage and screen.

Just what a strip teaser can do on a radio program may be a mystery to some, but not to listeners who heard Miss Lee on the program Your Music I. Q. last Monday over W-G-N. She revealed not her figure but an intimate knowledge of music and a keen wit. She also is an author, having sold the rights to a detective novel which she is writing.

Krupa Proficient With Symphonies.

Krupa is best known as a swing drummer, but he is equally proficient with symphonic arrangements and has a standing offer from Leopold Stokowski to perform on the drums at any time with any group with which Stokowski is associated.

Physicians estimate the energy expended by the 145 pound Krupa during two swing numbers equals that needed for a mile run or a five minute handball game at top speed.

The producer of Thursday night's show will be Lou Jackobson.

MISS HELEN DICK BECOMES BRIDE OF A. WERK COOK

Jane McIntosh Marries John E. Sheldon.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Before a simulated altar flanked with tall white candles and trees of white cyclamen, Miss Helen Dick and A. Werk Cook repeated their wedding vows at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Rev. W. Oliver Brackett performed the ceremony, one of the most fashionable of the winter season, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blake Dick Jr. of Lake Forest.

The bride's gown of ivory satin was styled with rich simplicity and had long sleeves and a square neckline. Bands of satin strips about the neckline, sleeves, and skirt were underlaid with heirloom rose point lace, the gift of her grandmother, the senior Mrs. Dick. The latter's wedding handkerchief was made into a Juliet cap for her grandchild, who attached to it a long veil of rose point. The bridal bouquet was of valley lilies.

Attendants In Ivory Velvet.

Mrs. Albert Blake Dick III., the matron of honor, and Miss Anita Smith, the bride's cousin and maid of honor, were dressed alike in ivory velvet.

At the wedding and reception, Mrs. Dick Jr. wore a pale blue crepe gown and brown velvet hat. Mrs. Dick Sr. wore a black velvet gown.

Mr. Cook, who is the son of Andrew E. Cook of Los Angeles, had Wyndham Hasler as his best man.

A gate cottage on the grounds of the De Forest Hulburd home in Lake Forest will be the couple's home when they return from a three week trip to Mexico.

Jane McIntosh Weds Bostonian.

For the marriage of Miss Jane McIntosh, daughter of the Arthur T. McIntoshes of Kenilworth and Barrington, to John Ellsworth Sheldon, also at 4:30 yesterday, the little Methodist church in Barrington was decorated with evergreen boughs, white candles, and white chrysanthemums. The ceremony, at which the Rev. Alexander Milmine of Elgin officiated, was followed by a reception in the Barrington Hills Country club. After their return from a wedding trip to Palm Springs and Sun Valley, Mr. Sheldon and his bride will live in Boston where he is in business with his father, Percy E. Sheldon.

The bride's gown had a white velvet bodice and full white tulle skirt. She wore a long tulle veil and carried a bouquet of white hyacinths. Miss Mary McIntosh, who was maid of honor for her sister, wore a violet velvet gown and hat and carried a bouquet of blue forget-me-nots and purple violets.

Bridesmaids Wear Blue.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Lyman Smith, Mrs. Dudley Milliken of Needham, Mass., Mrs. Hoyt Thompson, Miss Virginia Cardwell, Mrs. Norman Perry Jr. of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Charles Sprague, of Milton, Mass., Mr. Sheldon's sister, wore blue velvet gowns and hats and carried bouquets of purple violets.

James Howe of Boston was best man for Mr. Sheldon and John Madden of Newton Centre, Mass., Palmer Futcher of New York, Charles Sprague of Milton, Mr. Sheldon's brother-in-law, and the bride's brothers, Arthur T. McIntosh Jr. and Gilbert B. McIntosh, were ushers.

W-G-N PRESENTS MARION CLAIRE, GORIN IN 'SARI'

"Sari," Emmerich Kalman's operetta replete with lilting melodies, was presented last night on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Igor Gorin, Viennese baritone, sang the rôle of Pali Racz, King of the Gypsies, and Marion Claire sang the title rôle—that of a girl adopted in infancy by Pali.

Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N operatic tenor, was heard as Lacsi, Pali's son and the latter's rival for Sari's love. Earl Wilkie, sang the part of the King of Massilia.

The show was produced by William A. Bacher. Henry Weber conducted the W-G-N Concert orchestra, and Robert Trendler was choral master. Michael Wilkomirski, played special violin solos in the operetta.

NEWS FOR EXECUTIVES

Some time ago, when we suggested that an hour's dancing was the ideal way to keep fit, we set aside several private classes exclusively for business men. Since then, so many prominent people have found Arthur Murray dancing lessons to be good for tired nerves—such pleasant exercise—that we now devote separate studios to executives. You are cordially invited to drop in for a private guest lesson and see how much you can learn, what fun lessons can be—how much you can save while rates are 20% less. No appointment necessary. Open daily until 10 P. M. Sundays 'til 7 P. M.

"YES . . . the laundry is easier on me, and easier on my clothes!"

Mrs. Martha Stewart,
7801 W. 66th St.
Bedford Park,
Argo, Illinois

This voluntary statement by Mrs. Stewart tells what she discovered about laundry service, why she is a satisfied customer.

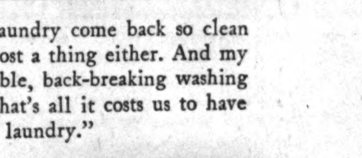
"I never realized home washing was harder on clothes until I began using laundry service. One day I bought some towels, gave half to mother who washes at home. Even though our towels were used oftener than mother's, mine were in good condition a long time after hers were worn out. That convinced me—home washing's not only hard work, it's hard on clothes, too."

THIS WEEK

Enjoy

A 10 MINUTE WASHDAY

"For 10 years I've watched our laundry come back so clean and nice. In all that time I've never lost a thing either. And my what a relief it is to be rid of miserable, back-breaking washing . . . for only 75 cents a week. Yes, that's all it costs us to have everything washed so carefully at the laundry."



"Doing the wash at home doesn't pay . . .
The Laundry's an easier, better way"

Your Clothes Are Always Washed in RAIN-SOFT Water at the LAUNDRY

Chicago's modern laundries soften all water they use to the zero-point, to protect your clothes and get them spotlessly clean. Because this water is rain-soft, the laundry can use milder soaps . . . another protection against washing wear, another assurance of CLEAN clothes. The laundry uses as many as 10 to 12 complete water changes in washing a single batch of clothes.

There's a Laundry Service to Fit Every Budget

Laundry prices today are low, and there's a service to fit every need, every budget. You can choose from many services . . . from damp wash only, to everything washed and ironed. Rid yourself of washday drudgery NOW.

Beneath each puzzle is an informative item. The missing words will appear automatically as you solve the puzzle.

The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000 in cash prizes for the best solutions to these puzzles—now appearing DAILY in the Chicago Daily Tribune. This offer is open to everyone everywhere. It's FREE—no strings—no catches. Just amuse yourself. You may win as much as $1,000!

The Rules:

Who Can Enter? This offer is open free to men, women, boys and girls everywhere—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families.

What to Do? Each week day a Crossword Puzzle will be printed in the Daily Tribune until 40 have appeared. Each puzzle contains the missing words of the informative item beneath the puzzle. Solve the puzzles, find the missing words and write them in the spaces provided. Missing words will appear automatically as you solve the puzzles. Hold all answers until you have the complete set of 40. Do not send them in separately. You may send facsimiles if you wish. It is not necessary to solve ALL correctly. Prizes will be paid for entries ranking highest.

Where to Send? Mail your entry by First Class Mail to "Flag Puzzles," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. With your entry send a letter giving your name and address and stating in 25 words or less why you like to live under the protection of the flag of the United States. Letters will be considered only if two or more persons submit equally correct solutions to the puzzles; in which event judgment will be based on sincerity and originality. Entries must be in by midnight one week after Puzzle No. 40 has been printed.

Judgment: Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree that the judges' decisions will be final. 430 cash awards totaling $5,000 will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of puzzles. No one shall be entitled to more than one prize. Elaborate entries will receive no more consideration than simple ones. In case of ties duplicate awards will be paid.

COUNTY'S BUDGET TOPS 23 MILLION; SEEK REDUCTION

Total Exceeds '41 Income by 5½ Millions.

Cook county department heads have requested appropriations which, if granted, would result in the biggest county budget in a nonelection year since 1930, it was learned yesterday.

The tentative budget set for 1941, as completed during the day by County Controler Richard J. Daley and based on requests of department heads, sets up appropriations totaling $23,099,153—only $6,306 less than last year's record breaking budget, which included nearly a million dollars for election expenses.

Estimated revenue for 1941 is 17½ million dollars, 5½ millions less than the total of requested appropriations. Requested appropriations previously have been estimated at 21½ million dollars, and the present total of $23,099,153 represents an increase of approximately 1½ millions.

Hearings Open Tomorrow.

The county commissioners will hold their first public hearings on the budget at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. Faced with the problem of balancing increasing expenditures against dwindling revenues, the commissioners say they will be able to balance the budget.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, and Commissioner Daniel Ryan, acting chairman of the finance committee, predicted last night that the necessary reduction in expenditures could be effected only by cutting salaries or lopping off payrollers.

The gravity of the county's financial dilemma has been aggravated by several factors during the last decade. One of these is the decrease in assessed valuations in the county—from 4 billion dollars in 1929 to 2 billions at present.

Tax Rate Remains Same.

The tax rate of 28 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the county has remained the same, and the effect has been to halve county income from this source. At the same time, delinquent taxes have been piling up until now more than half a billion is owed.

Penalties resulting from these delinquencies became one of the principal sources of income for the county after 1935. Revenues from this source amounted to nearly 8½ million dollars—or nearly 40 per cent of the total budget—in 1937, 1938, and 1939. Now, however, penalties which accumulated during the depression are nearly all paid up.

Revenues from penalties dropped to 7 millions last year. Smith said he expects the 1941 yield from penalties to be only 6 millions. The income from fees, the other principal source of revenue, remained practically constant during these years.

Tax Collection Rate Low.

The low rate of tax collections, which never averaged better than 85 per cent during the last 10 years, also caused the county's resources to shrink.

Despite these failing revenues, expenses of county government have increased steadily from the low of $17,500,000 in 1933.

Revenues from all sources were sufficient to balance the increasing appropriations and to retire some of the debt until 1939. Unpaid bills and judgments in that year amounted to less than 2 million dollars. Since then the debt has climbed back to 4 millions.

Confronted with these prospects commissioners yesterday were emphatic in saying they would slash the proposed appropriations to a size commensurate with income.

Ready to Cut Own Pay.

Smith and Ryan said they would show the way to all county pay rollers by accepting voluntary reductions of 10 per cent in their own salaries. Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke said he thought every county employé earning more than $175 a month should receive a cut. He said this could be done by introducing a five day week.

"We'll have to cut corners," Commissioner William Busse said. "I'll vote to lop off all the services and jobs that are not absolutely necessary."

Commissioner Edward M. Sneed said he favored any measures that would balance the budget. "If anybody's salary is cut, I want mine cut," he said. "Big fellows should take it as well as the little ones."

BOOKIE JOINT HAS BUSY DAY; RAIDED TWICE

Business was brisk yesterday in a basement handbook at 411 South Wabash avenue. Two police details raided the establishment within 45 minutes, and each found bet taking in progress. Five employés were arrested in the two raids.

The first detail, from the central police district, was directed by Capt. Thomas Duffy. Those seized in its raid were Joseph Capinegro, 714 South Oakley avenue, and Thomas DeCapo, 246 West 23d street.

This pair had hardly been locked up when the second squad, from Commissioner Allman's office, made its entrance and found business going along as usual. These raiders were unaware there had been a previous raid. The men arrested by the second squad were Vincent Sarno, 4144 5th avenue; Michael Skeege, 246 West 23d street, and Peter Scotti, 436 West 31st street. The five were held without booking.

COURTNEY STAFF GETS TWO HOUR LECTURE ON PEP

The 180 employés of the state's attorney's office got a two hour yecture yesterday from First Assistant Wilbert F. Crowley. During the meeting the iron gates at the entrance to the offices were barred, and politicians, bondsmen, and other visitors waited outside,

Crowley said the staff assembly was one of many pep meetings to be held, and that from now on his assistants will be asked to turn in daily work sheets. The meeting was called at State's Attorney Courtney's request, he said, altho Courtney himself was not present.

The assistant state's attorneys also were told, according to one informant, that they must cut down on continuances of cases whenever possible, refuse to agree to nol pros a case unless there is no other alternative, and that when a defendant is acquitted of one charge others should be brought if he is believed guilty.

5 BANDITS, ALL IN TEENS, ADMIT 30 ROBBERIES

One Helped Gang Before Deserting Navy.

The Summerdale police reported yesterday that 30 robberies on the north side in the last two months had been solved thru the arrest of five young bandits. One of the youths is a deserter from the Great Lakes naval training station. Two others recently returned from a joint honeymoon trip which was financed by robbery proceeds. All confessed their parts in robberies, the police said.

Those in custody are John Carroll, 18, of 5942 North Paulina street; Robert Petraborg, 18, of 5108 Glenwood avenue; Dale Williams, 19, of 5107 Kenmore avenue; Raymond Roden, 17, of 2417 Gunnison street, and Edmund Burke, 19, of 1546 Ardmore avenue.

Wife of One Also Held.

The police also held Williams' wife, Dorothy, 20, who married him a month ago. Roden's bride of three weeks, Betty, 17, was not held because of her age. Both women said they did not know of their husbands' crime activities.

Petraborg, who enlisted in the navy last September and deserted a month ago, said he committed several robberies while in the service. He told police he obtained leaves of absence, changed to civilian clothes and assisted his companions in holdups.

Burke was arrested early last week for the theft of an automobile and placed on probation for a year by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court. Later Sergeants William O'Brien and Eugene McNally learned that the car had been used in a north side robbery.

Three Seized in Police Trap.

The officers laid a trap and with the aid of Detectives Peter Kules and Louis Miller seized Petraborg, Roden, and Williams when the three returned to Williams' apartment Friday night after having committed three robberies. Some of the loot was found in their possession.

The trio implicated Burke in two robberies and he was rearrested. The arrest of Carroll and Mrs. Williams followed. Burke admitted the two robberies and three auto thefts, the police said. Altogether, police asserted, more than 15 automobiles were stolen by the youths. The honeymoon trip of the two couples was made in a stolen car, the youths said.

DR. V. R. EDMAN TO BE WHEATON COLLEGE HEAD

Dr. V. Raymond Edman.

Dr. V. Raymond Edman was named president of Wheaton college by the board of trustees yesterday. The announcement was made by Herman A. Fischer, Chicago attorney, who is board chairman. Dr. Edman has been acting president of the college since Jan. 20, 1940, when he succeeded Dr. J. Oliver Buswell Jr. He came to the school as associate professor of political science in 1936 and was made chairman of the history and social science department in February, 1939. He is a world war veteran, and has been a Bible teacher, pastor and missionary.

ACTS TO COLLECT $265,877 TAXES FROM AL CAPONE

J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, yesterday asked the clerk of the federal district court and the United States marshal to collect $265,877 from Al Capone, former gang chieftain. The government won a judgment for that amount against Capone last August in a suit to collect income tax payments evaded in the years 1924 thru 1929. Austin Hall, assistant United States attorney, said an unsuccessful search had been made in Chicago, since the judgment was granted, for property owned by Capone. Execution of the judgment will permit the government to confiscate Capone property wherever it might be found in the United States.

GOV. HOLT PICKS FORMER HEAD OF BAR FOR SENATE

Clarence E. Martin.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 11 (AP).—Clarence E. Martin, former American bar association president, was appointed U. S. Senator today by West Virginia's retiring governor—presaging numerous complications when the incoming administration announces its choice.

Homer A. Holt, who will leave office Monday, announced he was making Martin's appointment effective "upon the occurance of a vacancy," which will be when Governor Elect M. M. Neely steps out of the senate.

Neely has declared he would name his own successor. Holt and Neely have led opposing faction of the Democratic party.

Observers here felt that with two appointments, the senate itself must decide the issue. Neither side has declared publicly anything about the legal grounds for the appointments.

It is reported that Neely's choice for senator would be President Joseph Rosier of Fairmont State Techers college.

TWO CHICAGOANS ON HONOR LIST OF YOUNG LEADERS

Two Chicagoans, Henry T. Heald and Lyle M. Spencer are among the "10 outstanding young men of 1940" selected yesterday by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. Heald, 36 years old, is president of the Illinois Institute of Technology. Spencer, 29, a director of Science Research Associates, is a specialist in popularizing scientific vocational guidance for youth.

SILVER SKATES ENTRIES CLOSE AT MIDNIGHT

LIST OF TEAMS SWELLS IN RUSH AT DEADLINE

OpenTrialsSaturday in Garfield Park.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the last day boys and girls of Chicagoland may enter the Silver Skates Derbies which will be held next Saturday and Sunday in Garfield park. All entries, individual and team lists, must be mailed before midnight to be included in the groups eligible to compete in the eight races.

Pete Miller.

Even if it becomes necessary to postpone the events annually sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., because of inclement weather, no post entries will be permitted. The list of contestants, now being compiled by the clerks, determines skaters' eligibility even if the Derbies are not held until near the end of winter.

Events Can Be Shifted.

While the races may not be held in Garfield park, which is best equipped to handle the thousands of boys and girls annually seeking Silver Skates, the events can be shifted to a flooded area in another park.

Hundreds of entries have been received in the last few days since coaches and managers of teams invariably wait until the last week to submit their lists.

There are no restrictions for competition in Silver Skates races except that all skaters must be amateurs. Those 16 years old and over also must register with the Illinois Skating association, which sanctions the meet. Registration may be made on the day of the preliminaries and permission is granted to compete in all sanctioned races for one year.

Swift Playground Enters 50.

Among the list of parks and playgrounds which submitted entries earlier in the week were Mozart, Audubon, Waters, and McCormick playgrounds, and Brands and Eckhart parks. Twenty skaters from Division and Homan, who compete under the club name of Aces, also are entered. Fifty have entered from Swift playground.

The club which has the largest number of contestants in the preliminaries receives a silver cup. This was won last year by the Tilden Skating club. The Walter Eckersall memorial team trophy goes to the squad scoring the largest number of points in the eight championship races. Five places are scored in each on the ratio of 50, 40, 30, 20, and 10 points.

C. Y. O. Defends Title.

The Catholic Youth Organization is defending team champion. The Northwest Skating club quite likely will make a determined bid for the cup this week.

The qualifying distance and the championship distance for each age class follow:

Derby—	Preliminary.	Final.
Boys midget	110 yds.	220 yds.
Boys' juvenile	220 yds.	440 yds.
Boys' junior	440 yds.	½ mile
Boys' intermediate	½ mile	1 mile
Men's senior	1 mile	2 miles
Girls' junior	220 yds.	440 yds.
Girls' intermediate	440 yds.	½ mile
Girls' senior	½ mile	1 mile

There are 48 major prizes, six for each Derby. Three of these are skates, silver for the winner, chromium for the runner-up, and bronze for the skater finishing third. The incentive for all youngsters, however, in addition to the bronze souvenir buttons, is the gold medals awarded to the winners of all preliminary races.

The contestants competing in the four Derbies next Saturday—boys'

Red Wings vs. Blackhawks.
Americans vs. Rangers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Giacomo Vincenzo Orlando, the "unwashed ogre of the bluelines and last of hockey's bad men," and his associate Detroit Red Wings, including his lovable manager, John [Blasphemous Jack] Adams, will appear against the Blackhawks in Chicago Stadium tonight in what sketchily is billed as a hockey match.

They will appear, that is, unless they are arrested en route or are belatedly set down by President Frank Calder of the National league, known as "the grand old man of hockey."

It is not likely that the rowdy pair will be arrested before the game, nor is it probable that hockey's grand old man will do anything to disappoint the anticipated capacity crowd which obviously is fretting for an encore to the hoodlum skit Orlando and Adams put on when the Red Wings were here on the night of Jan. 1.

Customer Is Slugged.

On that occasion Giacomo Vincenzo climaxed a night of bullying little Doug Bentley of the Hawks, and other fighting, by crumpling Charles Y. Freeman Jr., a spectator, who since has become known as "the king of the gold coast hecklers." Orlando dropped Boxholder Freeman with as pretty a left as ever hit a wagging chin, precisely on the button.

Orlando has explained in all cities he has visited since the assault that he clouted Freeman because Freeman had hurt his feelings by calling him names. Lovable John, Giacomo's boss, has testified that he incited Orlando to the violent act against the spectator because he thought the boxholders on the Warren avenue side of the Stadium were massing to lynch him [Adams].

Noisy Night a Certainty.

No hockey game in recent memory has had such a smokeup as tonight's affair. Like many grudge buildups, the expected rioting may not materialize, but nothing less than the noisiest night in the history of the Stadium rink is a certainty.

Observers are trying to determine in advance if Giacomo has been softened up a little by the stir over his hoodlum behavior or simply is conserving his resources for a big night tonight. The able young athlete, native of Italy and childhood resident of Montreal, has played in three games since he went berserk here and hasn't drawn so much as a minor—2 minute—penalty in any of the three contests.

Takes the Scientific View.

Joseph [Guiseppe] Farrell, Hawk press agent, is clinging to the thought that some of the folks who will be in the red seats at the Stadium tonight will be there to view scientific hockey play. Guiseppe's associate, Leo [The Shadow] Hayden, has just brought in the following from Mr. Farrell's pen:

"Both teams [the Hawks and the Red Wings] are basking in the sunlight of unbeaten runs. The Wings have gone thru the last eight games without suffering defeat, and the Hawks have not been beaten in their last three engagements. The Hawks' comparatively tiny string, however, looms in a big way, for two of their clashes were away from home, against the Boston Bruins, champions of the league and the greatest scoring unit in hockey, and the world champion New York Rangers. They also beat the Montreal Canadiens Thursday night, 3 to 1, a team that won, 7 to 5, in their last previous meeting. In all these games Sammy Lo Presti, rookie goalie, was in the nets.

Wings Take Four Straight.

"The Wings are the possessors of another string, a most humiliating one so far as the Hawks are concerned, for to date in the four clashes between the teams the Wings have asserted their prowess over the Hawks in no uncertain manner, having won four victories in the four tries. In winning the four games the Wings have made 15 goals while the Hawks made four, one in each game. Last season the Hawks defeated Detroit six times and played the Wings to two ties in eight engagements."

LOYOLA'S WENSKUS TRIES TO TIE UP A DUKE

Billy Myers and Three Sox Sign Contracts

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Twenty-eight members of the 1941 White Sox now are eligible for free room and board at the Pasadena, Cal., training camp, which will have its annual inaugural next month under the management of Prof. James Dykes.

The list of signed performers was increased by three yesterday when documents bearing the signatures of Pitcher Orval Grove, Infielder Warren Lorenz, and Outfielder Chester Hadjuk reached the desk of Vice President Harry Grabiner.

Progress also was reported from Cub headquarters, General Manager James Gallagher receiving acceptances from Shortstop Billy Myers, taken from the Reds in trade, and Bob Sturgeon, another shortstop who was shipped away last spring because of his fondness for fielding errors.

They're All Chicagoans.

Grove, Lorenz, and Hadjuk, all Chicago boys, aren't expected to start a blaze in the Sox camp, but they have future possibilities. The Sox have been schooling Grove for almost two years, so he's fairly well along in his prep work. He was at Oklahoma City last season, winning 10 while losing 9 for an earned run average of 2.89. Hadjuk, who is a first baseman as well as fly chaser, was called in from the Lubbock, Tex., farm. He drove in 139 runs last season. Lorenz, purchased from Wisconsin Rapids, where his brother played second base, is a product of Steinmetz High.

Two Cubs Balk.

Exclusive of two semi-pros signed last summer, the Cubs now have nine of their men under contract, but at least two of the others have been heard from. Gallagher acknowledged yesterday he had received letters from two of the boys, both of whom explained they didn't want to be considered holdouts, but would appreciate an increase in proferred pay. Their identities were not revealed.

Eugene Stack, the Sox rookie who so far as known was the first to be lopped off a big league roster because of the draft law, is now a full fledged doughboy at Camp Custer, Mich. He'll probably do the pitching for the camp team this summer and will get as much experience that way as if getting his baseball schooling at one of the Sox farms.

FISTS FLY AS BRADLEY FIVE WHIPS DE PAUL, 48 TO 45; LOYOLA LOSES

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Bradley's Braves went on the warpath last night in the Coliseum. In as exciting a game as ever played in the collegiate double header series, the Peorians not only served De Paul its second defeat of the year, 48 to 45, but the battle threatened at one time to turn into an old fashioned gang fight. Undefeated Duquesne whipped Loyola in the opening game, 33 to 28.

Midway in the second half of the Bradley-De Paul conflict, when the score was tied, for the fourth time, at 34 all, Bradley spurted to a seven point lead which eventually decided the contest. This also dictated the Bradley stalling, a delayed attack that literally turned De Paul's players into wild men.

Bortel Knocked Out.

With less than three minutes to go and still frustrated by Bradley's style of play, De Paul trailed 45 to 41. In a mixup in the corner near De Paul's basket, Bradley's Lloyd Bortel handled De Paul's Elmer Gainer a bit bruskly. Gainer had the ball. As the boys clinched, Gainer whirled and swung his fist to Bortel's jaw. The Bradley player dropped unconscious and was unable to continue for several minutes.

The foul was Gainer's fourth and he left the court long before Bortel revived and scored two penalty shots to give his mates a 47 to 41 lead.

This should have ended the excitement, but Bob Wozny had other ideas. The De Paul forward dropped in two field goals and in the last 55 seconds De Paul failed of a tie score only because on a shot by Bernie Weksler the ball rolled around and off the iron rim of the goal. With 18 seconds to play Bortel made his fifth free throw of the night to end the suspense.

8,234 Pack Coliseum.

The first sellout crowd in the history of Coliseum basketball watched last night's double header. This throng—8,234—saw Loyola lose a hard played battle to Duquesne; watched an intermission game between teams of youngsters directed by Willie Dorfman, and stayed until midnight to get the final returns on the Bradley-De Paul scrap.

Altho getting away slowly, De Paul, led by Gainer, outscored the Bradley boys from the field. But the Braves got 16 free throws in 24 attempts and this provided the victory margin. Gainer's 13 points on six field goals and one free throw tied his spar mate, Bortel, for scoring honors.

Bradley raced to a 10 point lead, but the Blue Demons' uphill battle finally was rewarded with a 25 to 25 tie at the intermission.

Chris Hansen, Bradley center, was the pivot for Bradley's first attack and it wasn't until Gainer of De Paul finally got into stride that the Chicagoans solved the Bradley assault. Gainer got three field goals in the period and Jim Cominsky, who was substituted for Carter O'Rourke, snared four. Cominsky dropped in the tying field goal with only seven seconds of the half to play.

Duquesne's Shots Count.

Duquesne's basketball men never took a chance unnecessarily in beating Loyola. The boys from Pittsburgh not only played perfect basketball but made their shots when needed most. At the half Duquesne led 14 to 12, altho held scoreless for 10 minutes while the Ramblers went ahead, 4 to 0. The game was decided when Duquesne scored the first nine points in the second half. With a lead of 23 to

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 11 (AP).—E. J. [Dutch] Harrison, from Arkansas, led the parade, but Benny Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., was the star today in the third round of the 72 hole, $5,000 Oakland Open golf tournament.

Hogan banged out a phenomenal 62, eight under par, for the Sequoyah course. It set a new record for P. G. A.-sanctioned tournaments and equaled the score made by Ed Dudley of Philadelphia in sectional qualifying for the P. G. A. championship last year.

Overshadows Others.

The sensational, par-shattering round of last year's leading money winner among the pros, as well as the holder of the Harry Vardon trophy, overshadowed the efforts of the rest of the field.

Harrison, with a third round 69, clung to his lead by one stroke. He posted a 54 hole total of 203. Hogan was second with 204. The final 18 holes will be played tomorrow.

Par golf took a beating today. Five entries knocked off rounds of 66. There were 13 rounds below the 35—35—70 required as a standard test for the 6,300 yard Sequoyah course.

Gets 30 on First Nine.

Hogan turned the first nine in 30 and came home in 32.

He had 10 birdies and made two miscues. Except for being short of the green on the 11th and three putting the 15th, each for bogey 5s, he would have carded a 60.

His card:

Hoosier Gets 24 Points in 48-38 Romp

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 11 [Special].—Indiana, paced by William Menke, served notice on the rest of the Big Ten tonight that it is the team to beat in the Western conference race. The Hoosiers scored an 48 to 38 victory over Illinois in their first conference game of the season.

Menke, with 11 baskets and two free throws, for 24 points was the high scorer of the game. The tall center made his 11 goals while taking only 15 shots at the ring.

Indiana took the lead from the outset never was behind. At the half, the Hoosiers commanded a 22 to 14 lead.

The Illini found the Hoosier defense air-tight, and nearly 11 minutes elapsed before Art Mathisen scored their first basket. Meanwhile, Menke had started the Hoosiers on the way to victory with two baskets.

The Illini and Hoosiers traded baskets as the second half opened, but Illinois could get no closer to the winners than six points.

The officials called 38 fouls in all, 22 of them on the Hoosiers and 16 on Illinois, but each team lost only one man because of four fouls.

PURDUE, 41, MICHIGAN, 40

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—Purdue pulled up on even terms in the Big Ten basketball race tonight as it staved off a hard fighting Michigan quintet to win, 41 to 40. The defending champions were pressed by a determined Michigan five that had all the better of the play around the bank boards, largely due to the brilliant performance of Jim Mandler, 6 foot 4 inch center.

An official's ruling disallowing a Michigan free throw prevented the game from going into overtime. With six minutes of play left in the second half, Grissen scored from the foul line, but it was ruled that one toe was beyond the line.

The first half ended with the score 18 to 18. It was still tied at 23 to 23 with five minutes of the second period gone when Don Blanken put Purdue in the lead, 25 to 23, on free throws. Sofiak countered with a short shot to make it 25-25, but Purdue came right back on one handed efforts by Blemker and Blanken for a four point lead, the biggest margin the Boilermakers were able to pile up at any stage of the game.

Michigan Rallies.

Michigan, fighting gamely, rushed back in front, 32 to 30, as Sofiak, Grissen, and Mandler counted from the field and Grissen picked up a charity point, while the best Purdue could do was add a point when Blanken counted on Grissen's foul.

Purdue bounced back into the lead, 34 to 32, on shots by Blemker and Sprowl, with nine minutes left to play. Brogan and Sprowl traded long shots and Igney hit one from back of the free throw line as Purdue's lead increased to 39 to 35. Mandler and Blanken scored to make it 41 to 37 with four minutes to go, after which Grissen counted on Blanken's foul and Mandler scored a goal. Lineup:

Columbus, O., Jan. 11 [Special].—Northwestern played—and lost its first Western conference basketball game of the season tonight. After twice pulling up to within three points of Ohio State in the second half, the Wildcats were thru for the night and the Buckeyes won, 46 to 40, for their second consecutive conference triumph before 5,120.

After a slow start by both teams, Ohio State broke a 12 to 12 tie midway in first half and never was headed. The Buckeyes led at half time, 21 to 17. Early in the second half, Ohio ran its lead to 33 to 23 and here it was that Northwestern put on one of its two spurts. Russ Wendland scored once from the field, Henry Clason dropped in two baskets and Clarence Hasse counted on a long shot to cut the Buckeyes' lead to 37 to 34 with eight minutes to play, the Ohioans scoring four points while all this was going on.

Wildcats Rally Again.

Dick Fisher of Ohio and Bob McCarnes of Northwestern matched field goals, but Jack Graf and Capt. Gil Mickelson scored for the Buckeyes to make the score 43 to 36. Then the Wildcats came up within three points again when Clason made one of his two free throw attempts and Don Clawson made a free shot. The Wildcats took time out and Art Seder, substituting for Clason, scored from the side. The Buckeyes, tho, rallied, Graf making a free throw and Fisher clinching the battle with a short basket.

Clawson was the game's high scorer with 12 points, one more than Clason made. Mickelson, who sat on the bench most of the first half, sparked the winners in the final period, making nine points and playing a strong defensive game. Jack McLain, substitute center, led Ohio with 10 points.

IOWA BEATEN, 49-35

Madison, Wis., Jan. 11 [Special].—Iowa's basketball team, undefeated in seven preliminary contests, lost to Wisconsin tonight, 49 to 35, in the first conference game of the season for the Hawkeyes.

The Badgers got off to an early lead on a basket and two free throws by Sophomore Fred Rehm, held a 22 to 19 advantage at the half, and gradually increased their margin in the second period.

Gene Engund, senior center, who had been slow to regain his high scoring ability of last year, was right tonight, pushing thru eight field goals and a pair of free throws before leaving the game on personal fouls late in the second period.

Capt. Victor Siegel led the Hawkeyes' attack with 10 points, and played a good floor game. In addition to Rehm, two other sophomores, Harlo Scott and Johnny Kotz, played a prominent part in Wisconsin's victory. Lineups:

U. S. G. A. RELAXES RULE AGAINST GOLF COACHES

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The United States Golf association approved golf coaching as a part time vocation for amateurs today, provided they are full time members of school or college faculties and such work constitutes only a minor part of their duties.

In redrafting its amateur status code the U. S. G. A. reëmphasized its ban on those who receive compensation for instruction whether oral or written, by demonstration or by pictures, to groups or to individuals.

Vice President George W. Blossom of Chicago presided in the absence of President Harold W. Pierce, ill at his home in Boston.

SPILLS, THRILLS AT ICE RACING MEET

Spills and thrills abounded in the Chicago park district's annual outdoor ice skating meet yesterday on the Waveland rink at Lincoln park. Lovetta Dumuz of California park, winner of the girls' 220 yard junior title, is shown winning her heat as May Genin of Welles park, who eventually finished third in the finals, takes a spill rounding a turn.

Contestants in the senior men's half mile race rounding a turn at high speed as they level off for the sprint to the finish line. The field was closely bunched as the skaters neared the tape, but Joe Wallace of the C. Y. O. was the winner.

Miss Genin in a more conventional pose. The young Welles park speedster adjusts her skates before she enters the finals of the junior girls' 220 yard race in which she finished third.

Virginia Marie Glauser of Athletic field won second place in the finals of the junior girls' 200 yard race.

MIOLAND SCORES IN $10,000 STAKE AT SANTA ANITA

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 12 (AP).—Mioland, owned by Charles S. Howard, won the $10,000 San Pasqual handicap today in the feature race at Santa Anita park. Gen'l Manager was second and Valdina Groom third.

Mioland, ridden by Jockey Leon Haas, ran the mile and one-eighth over a muddy track in 1:51 3-5. The Howard horse was the favorite in the field of nine starters and paid $4.20 to win, $3.20 to place and $2.80 to show. Gen'l Manager paid $3.20 and $3, and Valdina Groom $4.80.

The victory was Mioland's second major stake victory of the Santa Anita meeting. It was witnessed by 30,000.

A total of $155,891 was wagered on the race. The outcome installed Mioland as a strong contender for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap March 1.

ZACATINE IN FRONT

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP).—F. J. Buchanan's Zacatine came up from far back today to win the $5,000 added Hialeah stakes by a head over Circle M. ranch's Battle Colors at Hialeah Park.

Zacatine, apparently out to show the racing world what he thought of the $3,000 claiming tag he wore last fall, made a stretch drive that had the rail birds gasping and captured the season's first important test for 3 year olds.

As the early leader, Bull Brier, weakened going for home, Herb Lindberg moved Zacatine into a commanding position. Then for the last two furlongs Zacatine and Battle Colors fought it out, with Zacatine winning in spite of Battle Colors' strong finish.

Zacatine was a $6.80 for $2 shot in winning his sixth straight and most important victory. Not considered worthy of being nominated for the $20,000 Flamingo Stakes, Zacatine stepped the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5 and took the $4,830 winner's share of today's purse.

A crowd of 9,537, some wearing topcoats against a chilling wind, watched Bull Brier set the early pace until Battle Colors took what appeared to be a safe lead.

Then with Zacatine and Battle Colors matching stride for stride in the stretch, Samuel Tufano's Market Wise closed fast to take third from the tiring Bull Brier.

OSHKOSH BEATS BRUINS, 43 TO 36; 22D STRAIGHT

Oshkosh, Wis., Jan. 11 [Special].—The Oshkosh All-Stars defeated the Chicago Bruins, 43 to 36, in a National Professional basketball game tonight. It was the Stars' eighth consecutive league victory and their 22d this season.

The Bruins led 30 to 24, at halftime but two minutes after the start of the second half the All-Stars tred it at 32 all then went ahead to stay. Lineups:

Chubby Dean Becomes First Athletic to Sign for 1941

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP).—Chubby Dean, big left hand pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics became the first Mackman officially signed for the 1941 season with the receipt of his contract today. Manager Connie Mack revealed he had given Dean a slight raise over the salary the North Carolinian received in 1940 when he won six games and lost 13. Catcher Frank Hayes announced several days ago he had signed his contract, but it has not yet been received by Mack.

RECORD FIELD SKATES TODAY IN TRI-STATE MEET

The biggest field of speed skaters in the history of the Tri-state meet—583—will compete today in the title events in Lord's park, Elgin. Competitors will come from four states—Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, and Michigan—instead of the usual three states as planned. Iowa may also send a last minute delegation.

Stars of national reputation will compete in the races which start at 1:15 p. m. Outstanding entrant is Chicago's Leo Freisinger, national and North American champion. Bud Handlan, who defeated Freisinger in an indoor meet two weeks ago in St. Louis, will be the principal Missouri threat, while Wisconsin will be represented by such stars as Harley Herbritsmier, Jerry Guttormsen and Leo Saroka of Kenosha. George Shimek of Cedar Rapids, last year's senior men's Silver Skates winner and member of the American Olympic team, will represent Iowa.

St. Louis Girl Strong Threat.

Virginia Baum of St. Louis is the main threat in girl's class A competition. She defeated Chicago girls in the recent St. Louis Silver Skates Derbies and is regarded as the No. 2 skater in the country. Chicago's representatives including Elaine Bogda Gordon, Ann Vitaska, Genevieve Sweirkos and Bessie Laga are now at peak form, however. Wisconsin's Peggy Barber is another entrant of ability.

Vic Ronchetti, defending champion, and Elgin's Lowell Miller, who represents the Chicago C. Y. O. also may be depended upon for an excellent performance. Miller holds the Western open title.

Meet to Start Promptly.

Arrangements to start the meet promptly have been made by Illinois Skating association officials. Skaters are urged to check in before noon.

Shedd Park Skaters Take Team Honors

Shedd park won the Chicago park district ice skating Derby yesterday on the Waveland rink in Lincoln park by scoring 210 points. California park was second with 100.

Ruth Schweig, 18 years old, of 1641 South Springfield avenue, won the senior girls' event for the Shedd park team, covering the 440 yard dash in 56.8 seconds. Lillian Skarman of Mozart park was second and Florence Roelle of Welles park was third.

Jack Dolmage, 15 year old intermediate skater from California park, displayed pluck and speed in winning the boys' intermediate event. After leading from the start, Dolmage fell as the field was rounding into the back stretch in the 440 yard dash. He picked himself up, caught the field, and passed Leonard Rakcich of Shedd park, who was second, to win by three yards.

In the special Illinois Skating association events, the C. Y. O. team took most of the races to run up 120 points. Jerry and Don Fahrenbach, representing the C. Y. O., captured the juvenile 440 and junior half mile events, respectively.

NOTRE DAME FIVE RALLIES TO BEAT BUTLER, 45 to 35

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—After being held to 7 points in the first half, Capt. Eddie Riska scored 11 in the second period to lead Notre Dame to its third straight victory, 45 to 35, over Butler before 4,500 tonight. The teams were tied, 17 to 17, at the half.

Butler lost Capt. Bob Dietz and Lyle Neat on fouls, the latter after only eight minutes of the second half. Larry Ryan, Irish guard, and Jim McCray, who played guard and forward for the Bulldogs, were ejected with 45 seconds remaining after a bumping incident blossomed into fisticuffs.

COCHRAN TAKES 600 YARD RUN IN BOSTON GAMES

Indiana Star Finishes in Front of Fast Field.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11 (AP). — Roy Cochran of Indiana, jumped into the 1941 indoor track wars by beating Johnny Quigley of Manhattan by seven yards in the Veterans of Foreign Wars' 600 yard invitation event tonight in Boston Garden.

Jimmy Herbert of New York, world record holder for the 600 and last year's meet winner, wound up third as Cochran won in 1:12.9.

Wolcott Wins Twice.

Fred Wolcott of Rice institute took the 45 yard invitation hurdles, equaling the world indoor record of 5.7 seconds and breasting the tape with a foot to spare on Eddie Dugger of Tufts, the national collegiate and IC4A champion. Wolcott went on to capture the 50 yard invitation dash, beating Bob McGlone of Holy Cross by a yard in 5.5 seconds.

Last year's middle distance standout, John Borican of the Shore A. C., Elberon, N. J., who strung three indoor world records together on Dartmouth's 6 2/3 laps track, wilted badly in the Veterans' half mile, which Campbell Kane of Indiana won in 1:56 flat, a foot ahead of Jimmy Kehoe of Washington, D. C., former University of Maryland star. Altho Borican held a commanding lead with a lap to go, he wound up third, five yards behind Kehoe.

Munski Wins Mile.

John Munski, recently of the University of Missouri, out distanced a brilliant field to win the mile. Munski beat his Wisconsin rivals by 10 yards while bursting the tape in 4:14.4. Les McMitchell of New York university finished fourth and Gene Venzke, the New York A. C.'s veteran, fifth.

Summaries:

CRONIN MEMORIAL 600—Won by Ray Cochran, Indiana; John Quigley, Manhattan, second; James Herbert, New York, third; John Campbell, Fordham, fourth; Joseph Zeitler, Brooklyn, fifth. Time 1:12.9.

ARTHUR DUFFEY 50 YARD DASH—Won by Fred Wolcott, Rice; Bob McGlone, Holy Cross, second; Allan Tolmich, Detroit, third; Joe Concannon, Northwestern, fourth; Bob Sherwoor, St. John's Prep., fifth. Time 5.5

INVITATION 45 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Fred Wolcott, Rice; Ed Dugger, Tufts, second; Walter Hall, Tufts, third; Allan Tolmich, Detroit, fourth. Time 5.7 [equals world record].

Detroit Beats Evanston Polo Club, 12 to 11

The Detroit Ivory polo team composed of Dan Peacock, Volney Bayley, and 16 year old Jack Ivory defeated the Evanston Polo club, 12 to 11, last night, to take the lead in the National Polo league tournament in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

The contest was tied five times during the first three periods, but midway in the third Detroit forged ahead to stay in front.

EDDIE WILLIAMS, JACK BURKE TIE FOR SENIOR LEAD

Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP).—Jack Burke of Houston, Tex., and Eddie Williams of Chicago fired 3 over par 75s today to tie for the half way lead in the national P. G. A. seniors golf meet.

Altho the old time professionals, each more than 50 years of age, cut loose with brilliant shots at times, their cards generally suffered as strong winds fanned the Sarasota Bay Country club course.

Altho Otto Hackbarth of Cincinnati, the 1940 winner, was unable to defend his title because of illness, another member of his family finished one stroke behind the pace setters. H. C. Hackbarth of Little Rock, Ark., put together 39-37 for a 76 and a second place deadlock with Jack Gordon of Buffalo, N. Y., who carded a pair of 38s.

Four old timers, including two past champions, were bracketed at 77. They were Jock Hutchison Sr., of Sarasota, 1937 senior titlist and one time British Open king; Long Jim Barnes of West Orange, N. J., British and United States Open and P. G. A. champion during his heydey; Dave Livie of Cleveland, and Tom Bonnar of Elmira, N. Y.

Final in the 36 hole medal play contest will be played tomorrow over the Bobby Jones course.

Culver Academy Quintet Beats Oak Park, 45-39

Culver, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—The Culver Military academy basketball team, none the worse for a 25 day furlough which ended only Monday, defeated Oak Park High school tonight, 45 to 39. Co-captain Guy McGaughey of Culver scored 19 points, two more than his teammate, Bob Neal. Nussbaumer, Oak Park forward, led his team with nine points. Oak Park led the half, 21 to 19.

HOPPE RALLIES; WILL MISS CUE MEET OPENING

Champion to Make Belated Start in Tourney.

The Schedule

TOMORROW.

1 p. m.—Otto Reiselt vs. Paul Lewin.

2:30 p. m.—Jake Schaefer vs. Clarence Jackson.

8 p. m.—Joe Chamaco vs. Earle Lookabaugh.

9:30 p. m.—Welker Cochran vs. Len Kenney.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Willie Hoppe was reported last night winning his battle against a threatened attack of pneumonia, but the 53 year old New Yorker will have to make a late start in defense of his world's three cushion billiard championship in the annual winter tournament beginning tomorrow afternoon in Bensinger's arena, 131 South Wabash avenue.

Encouraging reports came out of St. Luke's hospital yesterday where the billiard champion made a strong rally after running a fever that rose at one time to 106 degrees. Early last evening physicians said his temperature was normal and that he was out of danger. His illness was described as an acute respiratory infection.

Hoppe was taken to the hospital Friday night from his downtown hotel when his condition became alarming from the effects of influenza, which caused his collapse Thursday night in the final block of his championship challenge match with Jake Schaefer. Altho Schaefer, under the rules, had a right to claim the title, he refused to take advantage of the technicality. Hoppe had built up a big lead by winning the first five of eight scheduled blocks of 60 points each.

Calls for Schedule Change.

Granting that Hoppe makes a normal recovery, it is expected that the schedule, already drawn, will be revised so that he can catch up with the other 17 contestants. Inasmuch as the tournament, calling for each player to engage in 17 matches, will continue thru Feb. 12, it is not believed there will be any difficulty in rearranging the schedule because of this emergency.

Yesterday brought good news from Augustana hospital where Johnny Layton, seven times world's three-cushion champion, has been battling for his life. Layton, struck down by a street car on the north side a month ago, was pronounced out of danger by his physician. The veteran Missouri cueist, however, still suffers from memory lapses and will be hospitalized for at least another month. This, of course, eliminates him from the tournament.

Play Each Other Once.

Last year there was no argument about who the champion was as Hoppe ran away with the show by scoring 20 victories in 20 matches. Each of the 11 contestants last year played 20 matches, but because the field has been lengthened this year they will meet each other only once.

Aside from Hoppe and Schaefer, there will be eight of last year's title seekers in the show. These include Welker Cochran of San Francisco, Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., Allen Hall of Chicago, Arthur Thurnblad of Kenosha, Wis., Joe Chamaco of Mexico City, Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, Tiff Denton of Kansas City and Art Rubin of New York.

Earle Lookabaugh Returns.

Three former veterans who have been out of world competition for several years will return to the table. They are Len Kenney and Earle Lookabaugh of Chicago, and Clarence Jackson of Detroit.

The newcomers in the field constitute the ablest collection of debut players ever to make their first appearance in a world billiard meet. Numbered among them are Irving Crane of Livonia, N. Y.; John Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles; Joe Moriarty and Paul Lewin of Chicago, and Herb Peterson of St. Louis.

The afternoon programs each day will begin at 1 p. m. and the evening performances at 8 p. m. Three matches will be played each afternoon except tomorrow, when only two will be held, with two matches on every night's card.

CHICAGO MIDGET DRIVERS SEEK TO PROTECT MARGINS

Four Chicago district drivers, who are among the leaders in the indoor midget auto racing title competition will be seeking to stave off the challenges of out-of-town stars when the seventh set of events is held tonight in the International amphitheater, 43d and Halsted streets. Time trials begin at 7 o'clock and the first race at 8:30.

Leading are Ray Richards with 256 points; Wally Zale, 199; Teddy Duncan, 192, and Cowboy O'Rourke, 161, all from this section. Then come a number of invading topnotchers headed by fifth-place Myron Fohr of Milwaukee. Still regarded as dangerous contenders are Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis, defending champion; Tony Willman, Milwaukee; Art Hartsfeld, Toledo, O., and Mike O'Halloran, Springfield, Ill.

Richards, in compiling his points, has won the feature event once and finished second four times in the five weeks he has been in the competition. Zale and Duncan each has taken the feature twice and O'Rourke once. Duncan won it last week, in addition to setting the new qualifying record, placing second in the eliminations and third in the handicap.

BASEBALL MAN DIES.

Holland, Mich., Jan. 11 [Special].—Martin Korstanje, 55 years old, well known in western Michigan baseball circles, died of a heart attack today. He is survived by two sons, Gordon and Anthony, of this city.

THEY'RE AT THE POST FOR CUE MARATHON—HOPPE EXCEPTED

Jake Schaefer, runner-up in 1940, is hopeful of winning the world three cushion billiards tournament, opening in Chicago tomorrow. His bid for the title in a challenge match last week was thwarted when Champion Willie Hoppe became ill.

Hoppe was unbeaten in last year's tourney with a record string of 20 victories. His hopes of retaining the title are threatened by an attack of influenza, which sent him to a hospital Friday. He may be able to make a belated tourney start.

Art Thurnblad. Tiff Denton. Welker Cochran. Jay Bozeman. Otto Reiselt. Arthur Rubin.

The field of 18 entered in the tournament is completed with the group of old and new stars pictured above.

Joe Chamaco of Mexico City, former champion, is among the colorful entrants among the field of 18 scheduled to play a total of 153 matches.

Irving Crane of Livonia, N. Y., is a newcomer among the three cushion contenders. Twice he was runner-up to Ralph Greenleaf in the world pocket billiards tourney.

Allen Hall of Chicago, always a threat, will attempt to regain the title he once held.

HOLD PREVIEW OF NORGE MEET IN BELOIT TODAY

A preview of the Norge Ski club's 35th annual ski jumping tournament to be held next Sunday afternoon on the Fox River Grove slide will be offered today in Beloit, Wis. There the Beloit Ski club, with most of the jumpers who will appear in the Norge meet entered, presents its annual show.

With no entries from east or west, the Beloit tournament will be a duel among star skiers of the central states.

Outstanding among today's contestants are Ingvar Arneson of Beloit, Sverre Fredheim of Land o' Lakes, Jimmy Hendrickson of Milwaukee, Ted Zoberski of Iron Mountain, Mich., and Walter, Ralph, and Roy Bietela.

Air Force Skiers to Compete.

Word was received yesterday by Norge club officials that permission has been granted for members of the Norwegian royal air force to compete in the meet at Fox River Grove next Sunday. Tryouts were held yesterday at the training camp near Toronto, Ont., with 125 ski jumpers among the 600 cadets in training there participating. From this trial the six best jumpers were selected. They will arrive in Chicago tomorrow to complete training for the Norge meet.

The Norge club has opened headquarters in the Midwest A. C.

CENTRAL JUNIOR MEET.

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 11 [Special].—The central United States junior ski tournament will be held in Eau Claire on the Mount Washington slide Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 25 and 26, according to announcement by G. O. Linderman, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce committee on arrangements.

The best junior skiers in America, up to 18 years of age, will be here for the event. A demonstration by the American Olympic ski team will feature the first day's events. Eau Claire's Flying Eagles Ski club will be the host club.

Illinois Beats Minnesota, 4 to 1, in Hockey Upset

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 11 [Special].—Illinois' ice hockey team came with a rush in the third period, scoring three goals to break a tie and defeat Minnesota, 4 to 1, tonight. Aldo Palazzari's long drive was the first third period score followed by goals by Norbert Sterle on a short push and by Joe Lotzer.

Starr Owen scored for Illinois in the first period. Bill Galligan tied for the Gophers in the second period with the only unassisted goal of the game. This was the first defeat of the Gophers by a Big Ten team in three years.

Big Ten Quintets Face Full Schedule for First Time

The second week of the Western conference basketball season opens tomorrow night with a complete schedule of five games including an opening performance by the University of Chicago, last place quintet in the 1940 Big 10 race. On Saturday night, which precedes semester vacations for several universities, three conference games are scheduled and Ohio State is carded for a nonconference battle with Duquesne in Columbus, O.

With the Big 10 season just under way—seven games were played last week—it is far too early to be certain which conference quintet will finish in front, but by the end of this week several teams quite likely will be eliminated.

N. U. Invades Indiana.

Best game tomorrow night, if any one game can be picked out, is Northwestern's invasion of Indiana. The up and coming Wildcats, who were one of three squads to beat the Hoosiers last year and prevent them from taking the title eventually won by Purdue, hope to duplicate that victory. Each now has played one conference game.

The defending Boilermakers go to Wisconsin tomorrow night and while they possibly are the favorites they have had extremely bad luck in the Badger fieldhouse on several occasions. Michigan plays at Illinois, Iowa is scheduled at Minnesota, and Chicago opens its season at Ohio State.

N. U. at Home With Illini.

Northwestern opens its home conference season Saturday night in the Evanston High school gymnasium, its adopted court, against the Illini. Since the gymnasium accommodates only 2,200 Northwestern students completely will fill the seats. Ted Payseur, ticket manager, is faced with the insoluble problem of never knowing how many of the 4,200 Evanston campus students will exercise their privilege of attending home games. Should there be vacant seats they can be sold to the public.

The court is excellent for the players, however, and so far Northwestern is undefeated on this floor. The Wildcats have defeated Wabash, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, and Princeton there.

Minnesota Plays Maroons.

Minnesota plays the Maroons on the Midway on the same evening, and Wisconsin is the guest of Michigan.

Bradley and De Paul university are the midwest's representatives in New York Wednesday night. The Peoria quintet plays St. Francis of Brooklyn in Madison Square Garden and the Blue Demons meet Long Island university on the same floor. On Friday night both of these Illinois fives move to Philadelphia, De Paul meets St. Joseph and Bradley opposes Temple, which, tomorrow evening, is opponent of Michigan State in East Lansing.

Notre Dame meets the University of Pennsylvania in the Quaker city on Saturday night. Another outstanding game sends West Virginia to Michigan State.

Chapman, Ferrier Enter Miami Biltmore Tourney

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP).—Dick Chapman of New York, national amateur champion, and Jim Ferrier, Australian open title holder, have entered the Miami Biltmore amateur golf tournament beginning here Monday. A field of 50, including Wilford Wehrle and Gus Novotny of Chicago, will play an 18 hole qualifying round, with match play starting Tuesday.

River Forest's Concordia Beats Fort Wayne's, 45-33

Concordia of River Forest defeated Concordia of Fort Wayne, Ind., 45 to 33, in a rough and tumble basketball game in River Forest last night that ended with three of the starting players out on personal fouls. River Forest led, 21 to 8, at the half and was never headed. Katt, with 16 points, was high scorer for the Hoosiers. Scheiwe of River Forest tallied 14.

DUBS WILL FACE SEVERE TEST AGAINST WARD

Harvey Dubs, hard punching lightweight of Windsor, Ont., who scored a seven round technical knockout over Eu Eulien in Marigold Gardens on Dec. 16, will return for a 10 round main bout against Gene Ward in the same arena tomorrow. Dubs, who has enjoyed success at the expense of such opposition as Eddie Scott, Pete Ferrand, Johnny Pleasant, and Indian Jimmy Maddox, faces a real battle against Ward. Altho the rugged Ward was defeated by Phil Zwick, Chico Romo, and Pleasant in recent starts, he possesses sufficient ability to cope with anything Dubs has to offer.

Billy Seward, Ingomar, Mont., 135 pound slugger who has lost only one decision in 28 appearances, will encounter Sammy Scully in a five round semi-final. Scully was a victim of the hard fighting Seward on two previous occasions. Other matches, each set for four rounds, bring together Mike Sopko and Bobby Berger, and Jack Whittinghill and Leif Erickson, all welterweights, and Richard Rigali and Ralph Balcom, junior lightweights.

Abie Coleman, New York heavyweight wrestler who used to meet such rivals as Jim Londos and Everett Marshall in major arenas a few years ago, is back for an engagement against Jack [Bad Boy] Brown in White City arena tomorrow. Supporting encounters will involve Dizzy Davis and Rufus Jones, Al Williams and Karol Krauser, Paul Bozzell and Gene Bowman, and Mike London and Frank Hill.

6TH VICTORY IN 7 GAMES WON, 64-48, BY LAKE FOREST

Lake Forest college's basketball team defeated Augustana, 64 to 48, in Lake Forest last night for its sixth victory in seven games. The Foresters jumped off to an early lead; were in front, 29 to 21, at the intermission, and tore loose in a scoring spree during the last half. Vale Adams, Lake Forest sophomore, led the scoring with 20 points. Lineups:

WHEATON WRESTLERS LOSE.

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 11 (AP).—Michigan State college triumphed, 33 to 5, over Wheaton college tonight in its first wrestling match of the season. Irvin Roger of Wheaton pinned Wesley Orr of State in the heavyweight division.

Bradley Whips De Paul, 48-45; Loyola Beaten

12, Loyola fought an uphill battle but never threatened.

After the Dukes led 31 to 20, Ed Schell and Capt. George Wenskus cut that advantage to five points with 4 minutes and 36 seconds to play. Here Duquesne went into a stalling game and kept control except for a field goal by Ed Prim from far out. Joe Penzelik scored the Dukes' final point.

Paul Widowitz, center, and Edward Milkovich, left handed forward, led the visitors' attack. Milkovich scored five field goals and two free throws.

HORNSBY AGAIN NAMED TO LEAD OKLAHOMA CITY

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 11 (AP).—Rogers Hornsby, former major league star and manager, will manage the Oklahoma City team of the Texas league again this season.

The announcement was made by John D. Holland, president, and E. J. Humphries, vice president, of the Oklahoma City club, after a conference with Hornsby.

The Oklahoma City team finished fourth and qualified for the championship playoff after Hornsby took over the managerial reins last June.

"We'll have a young team, with many new players, and we hope for another good season," Humphries said. "Business is booming in Oklahoma City and we're glad Hornsby is going to be with us."

Hornsby will conduct a baseball school at Hot Springs, Ark., from Feb. 15 to March 31.

Illinois Normal Wrestlers Conquer Chicago, 19 to 13

The Illinois Normal wrestling team defeated the University of Chicago, 19 to 13, last night in a dual meet in Bartlett gymnasium. Illinois Normal won five of the eight matches, three of the triumphs being on decisions. Chicago took its three matches on falls. It was the second match of the season for the Maroons, who defeated the American College of Physical Education in their opener.

MARQUETTE FENCERS WIN

After walloping the Illinois Professional school, 23 to 4, in the afternoon Northwestern's fencers lost to Marquette last night at Patten gymnasium, 16½ to 10½. Marquette took the foil matches, 5 to 4; the saber, 6 to 3, and the epee, 5½ to 3½.

Slovaks, Falks Meet Today in Soccer Battle

The Falk corporation of Milwaukee and the Slovaks of Chicago will meet in a fourth round amateur cup soccer match today in Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue. The match was postponed from last Sunday because of cold weather.

The Falks are favorites in today's contest because of victories they hold over the Olympias and Swedish-Americans. Several Falk players are well known to Chicago soccer fans as the lineup includes such stars as Johnny and Hughie Orr, who once played with the famous Bricklayers. Another veteran Falk player is Billy Sloan who scored the goal which beat the Swedish-Americans and who was a former member of the Armours of Chicago.

The Slovaks have in their lineup several players who have refused offers to turn professional. These include Joseph Dick, goalkeeper, Steve Daniels, left full back and Pete Matevich, inside left.

The match will begin at 2:30 p. m. Overtime will be played if the contest is deadlocked after the regulation 90 minutes. Lineups:

Zale May Give Mamakos Title Shot March 14

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Tony Zale will make the first defense of his middleweight championship against a suitable challenger in Chicago Stadium March 14, Sam Pian, one of his managers, indicated last night. He said Zale would sign by Jan. 19, when his six month period to risk the belt expires. The manager said Steve Mamakos earned the assignment by the hard battle he gave the champ in their nontitle fight in the Stadium on Friday.

Zale scored a split decision in 10 rounds, chiefly because he floored the rugged fighter from Washington, D. C., once each in the fourth and ninth rounds.

Mamakos' Share $2,805.

Mamakos returned to his home yesterday enriched by $2,805, which was 15 per cent of the $18,700 net payoff. Promoter Bill Rand, who split profits of approximately $5,000 with the Stadium management, has offered Steve 12½ per cent for an encore with Zale's title at stake. Matt Twomey, Mamakos' manager, is considering the bid.

Al Hostak also is being sought, but choice of Hostak is being criticized in some quarters because of Zale's two earlier victories over the former champ. Billy Soose, who gave Mike Jacobs exclusive rights to his services following his overweight conquest of Zale last Aug. 21, has refused a shot at Zale's championship, preferring to await a prospective match against Ken Overlin for the latter's New York title claim.

Zale to Take Holliday.

Meanwhile, Zale is packing his bags preparatory to leaving Wednesday for a two weeks' vacation in Miami, Fla. Altho Tony was disappointed in his inability to knock out Mamakos he was appeased by the $6,445 he collected for his evening's work.

Disgruntled spectators among the 11,064, who helped create the largest crowd to see a fight in the west side arena in more than two years, expressed dissatisfaction yesterday over the manner in which Frank McAdams discharged his duties as referee. They charged that McAdams harmed Mamakos' chances of winning by failing to reprimand Zale for using alleged foul tactics.

These fans forget it was a roughhouse fight and the official's refusal to unduly interfere contributed to an exciting evening's entertainment.

Day May Meet Marquart.

Davey Day, who earned $1,500 for a spectacular one round knockout of Nick Castiglione in the semi-windup, may make his next appearance against Billy Marquart of Winnipeg, Man., in the Coliseum Jan. 27. Irving Schoenwald is sponsoring this show. Promoter Rand also is negotiating for a match between Day and Lew Jenkins for the Stadium Feb. 21.

Castiglione, a sadly disillusioned youngster, received only $750 for the crushing setback by Day.

LYNN WALDORF WILL ADDRESS OMAHA BANQUET

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 11 [Special].—Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern will be principal speaker at Creighton university's annual football dinner here Feb. 4.

Letters will be awarded to 25 members of Coach Skip Palrang's 1940 squad, including Johnny Knolla, alumnus of Chicago's Harrison Tech, who is the nation's leading ground gainer for 1940. Knolla also will receive the annual most valuable award given by The Creightonian, student weekly.

N. U. Matmen Open Card; Defeat Bradley, 16 to 12

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 11 (AP).—Northwestern university's wrestling team opened its season today with a 16 to 12 victory over Bradley Tech. Bradley, also in its season opener, led at the end of the first three matches, but lost out in the heavier weights.

FISHING PROVES TOP NATIONAL SPORT INDUSTRY

12 Million Enthusiasts Put It at Head of List.

BY BOB BECKER.

While fishermen await the first preview of new fishing rods, reels, and lures for 1941, and repair their outfits in anticipation of their first fishing trip of the year, they point with pride to their favorite sport, for the most recent appraisal of sport fishing during 1940 shows that it's nearly a billion dollar sport with more than 12 million enthusiasts in its ranks.

The authority for these figures is the department of interior, Washington, D. C., which has just made a survey of the number of persons who fished and how much they spent on their equipment and their fishing trips.

Spend $875,000,000.

The number of rod and reel enthusiasts in 1940 showed a substantial increase over 1937-'38. And the fishermen were mighty good spenders during the last year, according to the statistics compiled on their equipments and their outings. Incomplete figures indicate that the sport fishermen's expenditures for fishing licenses, tackle, special clothing, transportation, meals and lodging, boat and guide hire and the like were well in excess of $875,000,000.

This, according to the authorities who have surveyed the way the disciples of Izaak Walton toss their lures and spend their money, makes sport fishing the greatest national sport industry. Golf, skating, tennis and skiing, as laymen sports, apparently have yielded first place to adherents of old Izaak Walton. This explains why the government's fish and wild life service is showing increased interest in the vast fraternity of uncommercial piscatorial fans who fish for the fun of it and are free spenders on their favorite hobby.

A Sport for Sport.

The fact that these millions of rod and reel enthusiasts follow fishing for pleasure should not mislead any one to believe that the fish caught are just so much velvet. Quite the contrary. Commercial fish sold in the market produce huge profits to fishermen and canneries. Sport fish like the bass, trout, pike, tarpon, sailfish, and others produce no profit, but plenty of fun.

It is estimated that every fish caught by the fisherman costs from one to three dollars per pound when his average expenditures are computed. We recall the statement of one Florida conservation director who said that as far as his department could put the figures together a northern fisherman visiting Florida spent on an average about $5 for every pound of bass caught.

There are forty-eight times as many sport fishermen in this country as there are fishermen engaged in commercial fishing enterprises. In terms of social progress sport fishing has within its ranks some of the country's leading conservationists. Fishermen recently have taken a leading part in the fight to eliminate river and stream pollution, with the Izaak Walton League of America playing an increasingly valuable rôle in this battle for clean streams.

50 Fives Still Undefeated in C. Y. O. League

Fifty teams remain undefeated in the Catholic Youth organization basketball league which plays its fourth round of games this afternoon at 10 centers. Twenty-three squads in the junior class have yet to lose a game, and 27 in the senior class have perfect records.

In today's contests at least three of the undefeated quintets, one in junior competition and two in the senior division, will meet their first setbacks because they are to play in games involving undefeated fives.

The feature contest on the schedule in the senior class will see Our Lady of Sorrows opposing Sacred Heart [19] at St. Agatha gym; St. Sabina clashing with Joachim at the former's floor, and in the junior division, St. Hedwig Orphanage team will meet St. Cornelius at Rosedale park.

Today's schedule:

St. Agatha gym—Junior: Blessed Sacrament vs. St. Ann. Sacred Heart [19] vs. St. Agatha. Senior: Our Lady of Sorrows vs. Sacred Heart [19]. Blessed Sacrament vs. St. Ann.

Houston Awarded 1941 Women's Trans-Mississippi

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 11 (AP).—The 15th annual women's trans-Mississippi golf tournament will be played over the River Oaks Country club course in Houston, Tex., May 26-31, Mrs. C. R. McCubbin of Kansas City, president, said today. The 1940 title was won by Miss Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex.

WOMAN BOWLING OFFICIAL BACKS LEAGUE CONTEST

Betty Ramsey Praises Prize Arrangement.

Betty Ramsey, secretary of the Chicago Women's Bowling association, yesterday indorsed the League of Leagues contest in a statement to the league's officials. Miss Ramsey, long a bowler, believes the 10 weekly contests which are to open Jan. 25 offer as much to women bowlers as to men. Chicago has more than 10,000 sanctioned women bowlers.

"The League of Leagues offers the first opportunity a bowler has had to win extra prizes on his regular league play," she said. "It is very similar to our tournaments, with the exception that contestants do not have to bowl additional series for the prizes. Our regular league series will enter us into this sweepstakes when we pay our entry fee of $1.

"In a tournament you pay three entry fees—team, doubles, and singles—and then pay for these three series when you bowl. In the League of Leagues you pay only one entry of a dollar, and can compete for 10 weeks on your weekly series in league play.

Should Create New Interest.

"The League of Leagues should create new interest for bowlers and encourage them to bowl in sanctioned leagues."

A suggestion that the League of Leagues contest might be interpreted as a lottery has brought from veteran bowlers the answer that it simply adds 10 cents a week to the amount of prize money the participants already are shooting for—in other words that, if the act of bowling for prizes in the League of Leagues violates the section of the A. B. C. rules relating to gambling and lotteries, then all bowling for prizes must be placed in the same category.

Entry Deadline Jan. 20.

The deadline for entries in the League of Leagues competition is midnight Jan. 20, one week from tomorrow night. The series of contests opens at midnight the following Saturday and continues for 10 weeks, with 105 prizes—15 in each of seven classes—each week. The highest score rolled in each class over the entire period earns a grand prize. Special secretaries' prizes, earned in the same manner as the grand prizes, also are offered. Names of prize winners and the amounts won will appear in THE TRIBUNE.

Silver Skates Entries Close at Midnight

SPOTTING THE PINS

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Fitz-Patrick's Trafficeers finished the first half of the C. and N. W.'s "400" league season two games out front, with a record of 29 games won and 16 lost. Last week they won two from Stephens' Stewards, who are in the cellar with 15 won and twice as many lost. Hallbergs Hoppers, in second place, dropped a pair to Kulp's Engineers. . . . State singles champion Howard Backman was high man at Hyde Park Wednesday night with 662 in a match in which Du Bouchett took two from Teeter's Radio. Bud McClintock got 269 and 651.

Grove recreation, 7854 Cottage Grove avenue, holds its grand opening today. Ross C. Schorling is manager. . . . Joe Kissane piled in 680, with a 246 game, as Hesser Tobaccos won the odd from the B. A. Railtons in the Congress Major.

McCormick No. 1 pulled into a tie with West Pullman No. 1 for the International Harvester league lead by winning three games from West Pullman No. 1. The close match anticipated failed to develop, McCormick scoring 2,928 pins to the losers' 2,695. The two teams have won 33 games and lost 14. Tractor No. 1 which scored a triple over Wisconsin Steel No. 1 on 2,999, is in third place, a game behind the leaders.

The Sunday division of the Classic league bowls at Murray's Idle Hour, 3118 North Ashland avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight. The schedule:

Hold Match Game Eliminations Feb. 22, 23.

Calendar notes: The eliminations for the national match game championship will be held Feb. 22 and 23 at Ideal recreation, Buffalo, N. Y. Nine games are to be rolled on six alleys. The prize is $1,000 and the right to meet the current champions, the Hermann Undertakers of St. Louis. Edward W. Linsz, 1901 E. 13th street, Cleveland, O., is secretary.

Gold Coast holds its 15th annual tournament on four week-ends starting March 15-16 and ending April 5-6, with teams bowling at 2 and 8 p. m. and doubles and singles at 4, 6, and 10 p. m. Entry deadline: March 1.

The Slovak Bowling Congress of America holds its annual tournament at Jay-Bee recreation, 2002 West 51st street, March 28 to April 27. March 1 is the entry deadline. Jack Rusnak, 4730 South Damen avenue, is secretary.

Women's honor scores:

CHELTENHAM—Petie Whitson, 216, 203, 557.

The Thomas Have Quite a Record.

America Fore won two games from Continental Casualty to take the lead, but Loyalty Group won a full set from the Herbsts to move to within a game of the leaders in the Insurance league. Harry Sikora's 603 helped Aetna score a triple over London & Lancashire. Zurich, Miller's National, and Youngberg-Carlson each took two games. . . . Walter Kelley leads Hyde Park's four-game individual sweeper with 873—but the Carlsons, Wilmans, Krumskes, and others still are to be heard from. . . . Entries are piling up for Peter Howley's 25th annual Father and Son handicap event to be rolled Jan. 26 at Bensinger's 29 West Randolph center. Ten-team squads bowl every hour starting at 1 p. m. . . .

The Thoma brothers, Sykes, Fred, Harry, and Clarence, have held or shared A. B. C. titles four times. Sykes and Hank Marino won the doubles at Toledo in 1916 with 1,279; Sykes won the all-events in that same tournament with 1,919; Fred won the doubles with Harry Steers in Cincinnati in 1918 on 1,335; Harry and Clarence scored in Chicago in 1924 with 1,380. . . . Northwestern Limited's and Streamliner's three-game triumphs clustered the leading five teams in the C. & N. W. league. Forty-niner, Challenger, and Corn King each won twice. The spread between Forty-niner, the leader, and Northwestern Limited, in fifth place, is four games. . . . Difference between the 299 game that Bill Meloy of Milwaukee shot in the Schalk sweeper and the 300 game he might have got was a No. 10 pin that wobbled, but stayed up. It happened on a ball that crossed over for a Brooklyn hit.

Walter Crossland of the Scott Radio team in the Ravenswood Industrial league at the Lawrence Bowl asserted that new pins were as easy to shoot as old wood. Moreover he said he could hit them for at least 5 pins over his 172 average. He rolled 226-146-268—640. And then he collected.

Jerry Rolls 717, but His Team Loses.

Jerry Seymour got 247-235-235—717, but his Pogue's Whiskey team still lost by 87 pins in a match with Detloff's Park View Flowers at Bowling Lanes. John Juberg's 636 was the Detloff high. Detloff's meet the Barloma Wines at St. Mary's, 1800 Wood street, at 3 p. m. today. Eddie Grimm with 268 and 686 led Sportsman's club to a sweep over the Schambergers in the North West Traveling league. Keeley Beer, North Center, Litsinger Motors, and West Ridge all won two games. Keeleys and North Center are tied for the lead.

J. Murphy and J. Mrkvicka with 1,347 won the doubles and B. Waldo and O. Gronquist tied in the singles in Cinderella's holiday handicap event. Top prize in the doubles was $73. The singles winners split $72. Schedules of tomorrow night's major league matches:

North End Traveling League—Pepsi Colas vs. Koenig Brau at Stack & Ryan's, 9 o'clock; Budweisers vs. Birk Trophy Beers at Willow, 7 p. m.; Chapin & Gore vs. Fox De Luxe at Kaadland, 7 p. m.; Jolly Jacks vs. Schambergers at North Town, 7 p. m.; Samuelson's Kids vs. De Luxe recreation at De Luxe, 7 p. m.

Windy City League—Betinis Boosters vs. Furman Funerals; Reichman Jewelers vs. Houcek Senators; Budweisers vs. Burlington Zephyrs; Joseph L. Gills vs. J. M. Kralovec & Son; Nemeck Tailors vs. O'Keefe Coals; Blue Rock Beverages vs. Bireley Fruit Beverages; Quality Wet Wash vs. None Better Ice Creams; Mineralites vs. Vogel Bros.

Sheffield No. 1 shot a 2,963 series, high of the league, yet lost one game, by one pin, to Summerdale No. 1 in the north division of the Chicago Patrolmen's club league. The score of that one game—1,001 pins to 1,000.

ADD TWO CLUBS.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 11 (AP)—Anaheim and San Bernardino have been added to the new California baseball league, which will operate this year as a member of the national association.

AVERAGE PRICE OF LIVE STOCK AT 4 YEAR PEAK

Wholesale Markets Mark Up Cost of Meats.

Prices paid last week at the Chicago stockyards for the three principal classes of meat animals, steers, hogs, and lambs, together averaged $9.75 a hundred pounds, the highest January cost in four years. The average was $1.75 above a year ago and $1 higher than in the corresponding weeks of 1939 and 1938, representing increases of 21 and 11 per cent, respectively.

Further increases were forecast by market men as rising live costs began to be rapidly reflected in wholesale and retail meat channels.

Pork 50% Above Year Ago.

Butcher shop owners at the close of last week found wholesale prices of pork ranging from 6 to 26 per cent higher than at the low time of last month and from 22 to 50 per cent higher than on the same day of January last year.

The various cuts of beef went into retail channels at prices unchanged to 12 per cent higher than at the low time of December, but 12 to 42 per cent above a year ago. Lamb was unchanged to 5 per cent higher for the month and unchanged to 22 per cent higher than a year ago.

The following table shows changes in top wholesale meat prices in cents per pound:

Hog Average Up 40 Cents.

Packers paid an average of $7.30 for hogs during the week, an increase of 40 cents over the week before and $1.35 more than three weeks ago. The price was exactly $2 higher than a year ago, an advance of 37 per cent. The various classes of hogs finished the week from 10 to 45 cents higher than a week earlier, with sharpest gains in stock under 300 pounds.

The week's steer price average was $12, up 20 cents from a week earlier, and $2.35 more than in 1940. Final prices were steady to 15 cents higher for the week.

Lamb prices averaged 40 cents higher for the week, at $9.95, showing 90 cents increase over 1940. Old sheep in six days soared 50 to 75 cents, while yearlings gained 25 cents.

PROVIDE CLUB TO RULE ARMS WORK ORDERS

Federal Crackdown Agency Formed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—A new government agency empowered to use "crackdown" methods to force industry's compliance with defense orders took form today with the appointment of staff officials to the priorities division of the production management office.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., director of the division, named several assistants and also a joint army-navy-industry special group to assure an adequate flow of steel products for defense and other needs.

The priorities division is an executive arm of the new four man defense production general staff headed jointly by William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman.

Congress Gave Power.

Officials said the division would carry out any "crackdown" orders of the Knudsen-Hillman board by means of priorities which govern the delivery of materials and use of transportation. Ample powers to enforce a right of way for defense orders were voted last summer by congress, officials said. Thus far, however, there has been no announcement of a decision to use the powers.

Stettinius is chairman of the advisory priorities board as well as director of the executive division. As assistant director of the division in charge of administration he named James F. Towers, member of a New York firm of industrial engineers. Other staff appointments included:

Blackwell Smith, an aid to Stettinius in the defense commission, assistant director in charge of staff activities.

Charles E. Adams Appointed.

Charles E. Adams, president of the Air Reduction corporation, who will organize activities of various industry committees.

A. C. C. Hill Jr., a defense commission aid, deputy director.

Creation of a new minerals and metals priorities section, headed by Dr. Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college, as executive officer, also was announced.

The first of such groups, an iron and steel priorities committee, will include Walter Tower, president of the American Iron and Steel institute, as industry's representative; Carle C. Conway, chairman of the Continental Can company, representing industrial consumers; Paul Hendron of the navy, and Lieut. Col. Hugh C. Minton of the army.

ARMY SPENDS 10 MILLIONS FOR GAS MASK MATERIAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—War department plans for extensive preparations for defense against poison gas were disclosed today with an announcement that contracts for gas mask charocal and other chemicals used in gas defensive appliances amount to approximately $10,000,000.

Some of the contracts already have been concluded, the department said, and negotiations are proceeding on the others.

More than half of the total will cover the cost of government owned plants to be constructed by the firms concerned. The companies which will operate such plants are the Monsanto Chemical company, St. Louis, at a new plant to be constructed at East St. Louis, Ill.; the Dow Chemical company, Midland, Mich., and E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Chinese Seek Trucks to Use on Burma Road

The Chinese government, thru its purchasing agency, the Universal Trading corporation in New York, has launched a large scale buying program to obtain motor trucks for use on the Burma road and its other supply highways, it was learned yesterday. Bids have been invited from American truck manufacturers for 500 units.

Inquiries for larger quantities of trucks will be made shortly by the trading company, trucking sources said. The purchases will be financed from the $100,000,000 credit recently extended to the Chinese by the United States government.

1,500 Trucks Already Bought.

Among the first orders already let under the new buying program are contracts for 500 trucks from the International Harvester company, valued at $750,000, and 1,000 from a large automobile company, valued at $1,250,000. In 1939 the Chinese bought several thousand trucks fom Chrysler and General Motors.

The Universal Trading corporation, it was reported, is basing its present requests for bids on general specifications drawn early last year by Maurice E. Sheahan, president of the Monark Motor Freight System, Inc., Chicago.

Sheahan headed an American highway mission sent to reorganize China's transportation system. He made an exhaustive study of the Burma road, a twisting highway which runs from the railway terminal of the Burma railroad into southwest China.

Prefer Diesel Powered Units.

Sheahan's investigation disclosed that certain trucks were not suitable for use on the road because they were unable to climb the unusually steep grades or maintain sufficient power at high altitudes. He recommended certain minimum qualifications which truck manufacturers should be required to meet. The Chinese are reported to be asking for a considerable number of Diesel powered units.

The Chinese government has financed most of its American purchases of supplies with credits advanced by the United States. Total credits granted it by this country in the last nine years amount to $259,000,000.

Included in these loans were a $9,000,000 credit in 1931 for wheat purchases, $20,000,000 in 1933 for additional wheat and for cotton buying, and a $25,000,000 war loan in 1938.

Repay With Raw Materials.

The Export-Import bank loaned China $20,000,000 in March and $25,000,000 in November, 1940, in addition to the recent advance of $50,000,000.

The treasury set aside $50,000,000 last November to support Chinese currency.

The Chinese have made payments on the loans by sales in this country of tung oil, minerals, and other raw materials. The Metals Reserve company of the Reconstruction Finance corporation has committed itself to buy $90,000,000 worth of tungsten ore, tin, and antimony from the National Resources Commission of China over the next few years. Chinese cumulative repayments on American credits totaled $18,500,000 last Nov. 30, according to the treasury.

SHELL UNION OIL TO SELL BONDS, REDEEM SHARES

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Shell Union Oil corporation plans to offer for public sale this month $25,000,000 in new securities which will be used to redeem the company's outstanding preferred stock in the amount of about $34,000,000, officials disclosed today.

The difference, expected to total about $11,000,000 after provision for expenses incidental to the financing, will be supplied from the company's cash reserves.

The company plans to file with the Securities and Exchange commission Wednesday an issue of $10,000,000 in serial notes, due in one to 12 years, and $15,000,000 in 20 year 2¾ per cent bonds.

The offering will be made by an underwriting group headed by Morgan Stanley & Co.

POSTAL REVENUES SET NEW HIGH MARK, BUT DEFICIT IS $40,784,238

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP). — Postmaster General Frank C. Walker reported to congress today that postal revenues reached a record high of $766,948,626 during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1940. This was a gain of $21,850,276 over 1939 when the previous record was set.

Expenses exceeded receipts by $40,784,238, but the department reported a net postal surplus of $18,609,036. This was arrived at by credits totaling $59,393,274 for such items as free mail for members of congress and government agencies.

Declaring continuance of the 3-cent postage rate necessary to avoid large deficits, Walker said:

"It is estimated that if the 2-cent rate had been in effect during the last year on nonlocal first class mail the postage thereon would have been approximately $102,000,000 less than that which was collected at the 3-cent rate, allowance being made for probable additional volume at the lower rate."

The rate of 3 cents an ounce for nonlocal first class mail will expire next June 30 unless continued by congress.

INDUSTRY GROUP ASSAILS PLANS FOR NEW 'TVA'

Directors of the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday assailed plans for a "TVA" [federal hydroelectric power project] in the southwest and approved a congressional proposal to create a committee to study the federal finances and to make recommendations regarding taxation and borriwing, particularly with regard to nondefense expenditures.

The association said that the expenses of the federal government have increased at an alarming rate during the last 8 or 10 years, whereas ordinarily the national debt would have been reduced during peace times.

"No one informed upon the subject of governmental expenditures can successfully challenge the statement that there are many avenues open for real and substantial reductions in our nondefense expenditures," the association said. "It is distinctly disturbing to business to find that instead of making an effort to reduce our expenses, particularly for nongovernmental purposes, serious consideration apparently is being given to further vast federal power expenditures."

U. S. PURCHASES 300,000 TONS OF CHILEAN NITRATE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Jesse H. Jones, secretary of commerce and federal loan administrator, announced today the Defense Supplies corporation had contracted with the Chilean Nitrate and Iodine Sales corporation of Santiago, for 300,000 short tons of nitrate of soda.

Jones said the price would be $18 a ton, which would make the total cost around $5,400,000. Delivery at the Chilean ports of Iquique, Tocopilla, and Antofagasta must be made before June 30.

Of the total, 100,000 tons will be shipped directly to the United States for storage. The rest will be stored temporarily in Chile.

Int. Harvester Plants Strike Is Authorized

The Farm Equipment Workers Organizing committee [C. I. O.], announced yesterday that strikes had been authorized by union members employed in six plants of the International Harvester company. The union presented a new series of demands in a controversy dating from 1937 and said that strikes would be called if necessary to enforce them.

Company officials, who the day before had settled a C. I. O. United Automobile workers strike which had been in progress since Dec. 31 at another plant at Fort Wayne, Ind., said they were unable to comment on the new demands because the controversy is before the National Labor Relations board awaiting final decision.

15,500 Employés Involved.

About 15,500 employés are involved in the dispute at the six plants, including 7,500 at the West Pullman and McCormick works in Chicago. The others are in Milwaukee, Wis., and Rock Island, East Moline, and Rock Falls, Ill.

The union demanded elimination of the company's piece work pay system at the six plants and establishment of hourly rates "10 per cent higher than rates now paid"; minimum wages of 75 cents an hour for men and 65 cents for women, and recognition of the union as bargaining agent.

Independent unions are the present recognized bargaining agents at the six plants. The principal C. I. O. union charge which has been before the labor board since 1937 and the subject of hearings from time to time since then, is that these independent unions are dominated by the company in violation of the national labor law.

Conciliator Asks Delay.

The union's announcement said that David Roadley, a United States department of labor conciliator who had been active in the Fort Wayne negotiations, had asked union officials to delay action on the new strike authorization until he had time to investigate the situation.

The Fort Wayne strike had threatened to delay the assembly of motor trucks ordered by United States defense forces and by the British and Chinese governments. The trucks are assembled at Springfield, O., in a plant dependent upon Fort Wayne for parts. The Fort Wayne strikers are scheduled to go back to work tomorrow.

FHA MORTGAGE APPLICATIONS SET NEW MARK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The Federal Housing administration reported today that applications for mortgage insurance reached a new peak last year, involving loans totaling $990,259,360 on 214,981 new homes. This was an increase of 26 per cent in dollar value and 31 per cent in number of homes over the previous high mark reached in 1939, the FHA said.

In addition, the FHA insured loans totaling more than $20,000,000 for homes to be built under title I of the act, which limits such loans to $2,500.

During December, applications for mortgage insurance covering 12,942 homes were received, compared with 14,068 in November and 10,219 in December, 1939, the agency said.

DIRKSEN INTRODUCES BILL PROVIDING QUICK LIQUIDATION FOR HOLC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 [Special]. — Representative Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] today introduced a bill in the house of representatives to liquidate the Home Owners' Loan corporation at the earliest practicable date.

Rep. Dirksen.

The HOLC was created by congress in 1933 to refinance mortgage loans of distressed home owners. Since 1936 it has made no new loans, but serviced those already made and rented and reconditioned the thousands of homes it acquired by foreclosure.

More than 200,000 HOLC loans were refinanced under the Mead-Barry act extending the loan period to 25 years.

Dirksen's bill would direct the HOLC to transfer all its mortgages, loans, and real estate contracts to existing banks, mutual saving banks, building and loan associations, trust and insurance companies, and other mortgage institutions in return for cash or guaranteed obligations. It could continue its open market liquidation of the 55,000 properties it now owns.

CUTTEN INCOME TAX FOR 1928-'29 PUT AT $1,213,374

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Agreements approved today by the board of tax appeals fixed $1,213,374 as the amount of federal income taxes for 1928-'29 owed by the estate of Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago.

One stipulation increased a $562,452 tax and interest assessment for 1929 to $1,124,200. Another reduced a $176,330 assessment for 1928 to $89,174.

Petitions filed by the American National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago as administrator of Cutten's estate disclosed that Cutten reported a net loss of $2,847,444 for 1929, but the internal revenue bureau held that his net income was $3,250,668. His reported net income of $289,923 for 1928 was increased by the bureau's rulings to $1,064,909.

FURNITURE SHOW EVENTS ATTRACT RECORD NUMBERS

Attendance at Chicago's furniture and home furnishings markets set new records for the first week, officials at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart reported yesterday. It was stated that registrations at the Furniture Mart totaled 9,800, an all time record for a week. It is expected that by the end of next week registrations will have exceeded 12,000. Last year's total was 11,556.

Registrations at the Merchandise Mart totaled 8,236 compared with 8,174 in the first week of the 1940 show. It is expected registrations by the end of next week will total 11,750. Last year's record total was 11,000.

HUDSON MOTOR TO RUN BIG NAVY ORDNANCE UNIT

Detroit Plant Cost Is 13 Millions.

The Hudson Motor Car company yesterday announced that it had contracted to build and operate a $13,000,000 ordnance plant for the United States navy on a site about five miles from the Hudson plant in Detroit. Only one Chicago company, Fairbanks, Morse & Co., was reported as having received a defense order. Its order was for spare parts for auxiliary engines costing $24,456.

The Hudson company said that the navy department has purchased the land for the site of the ordnance plant, a 114 acre tract at Mound and Nine Mile roads. Construction will be started immediately under the supervision of Hudson engineers. Purchase of machinery, tools, and other items is in progress.

Details of New Plant.

The plant will consist of about 400,000 square feet of machine shop and assembly space, an office building, and a structure for storage and other services. About 4,000 men will be employed. Guns and torpedoes will be among the products manufactured.

Hudson will operate the plant at least until 1944. Stockholders yesterday approved a proposal to broaden the Hudson charter so as to enable the company to engage more fully in defense activities.

The navy announced a $2,254,342 contract for a floating dry dock at Galveston, Tex., which was awarded to Todd Galveston Drydocks, Inc. About nine months will be required for construction. The dock will be 614 feet long, with a lifting capacity of 18,000 tons, and will be able to accommodate cruisers. In addition it will be able to give service to freighters which have not had adequate dry dock facilities on the gulf hitherto.

Other Navy Contracts.

Other navy contracts included: Bausch & Lomb Optical company, Rochester, trismatic binoculars, $266,433; American Optical company, Southbridge, Mass., goggles and frames, $148,965; and the La Crosse Trailer and Equipment company, La Crosse, Wis., transport trailers, $131,944.

Remington Rand, Inc., New York, announced that it had sold its typewriter manufacturing plant at Middletown, Conn., to a new company, Andover Kent, Inc., headed by C. A. Woodruff. Woodruff, who is former chief engineer for the Gray Manufacturing company, Hartford, said the new company would engage in a general manufacturing business. However, it is reported it will devote at least a part of its facilities to the manufacture of munitions, probably for the British.

Monsanto to Build Plant.

Because of the need of increased industrial capacity to meet the demands of the government for chemicals required in production of munitions, Monsanto Chemical company announced plans for the erection of a new plant adjacent to its present establishment at Monsanto, Ill. The cost of the plant will be defrayed by the government which will retain title to the buildings and installations. The Monsanto company requested, and the government has agreed, that the plant be operated and its products provided at cost, no profit accruing to the company.

Maritime officials said contracts had been negotiated for construction of three new shipyards under a program designed to provide about 200 new merchant vessels. The contracts, awaiting final action by the national defense commission, were negotiated with the Houston, Tex., Shipbuilding company, the Portland, Ore., Shipyard company, and the California Shipbuilding company, Los Angeles.

Illinois Opens Thirty New Oil Pools in Year

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11 (AP).—Thirty new oil pools were discovered during 1940, four of them in December, the state geological survey announced in its monthly drilling report today.

The December discoveries were the Omaha pool in Gallatin county, the Woodlawn pool of Jefferson county, the McKinley pool of Washington county, and the Carmi pool of White county.

Of the 236 wells completed during December, 169 were producers, bringing to 3,080 the number of successful ventures during 1940. In 1939 successful operations totaled 2,970.

Drill 1,820 Miles in Year.

It was estimated that the Illinois operators drilled a total of 9,573,000 feet or 1,820 miles—the distance from Illinois to the Pacific coast—during the year. The average depth per well was 2,500 feet and the average initial production was 572 barrels in 24 hours.

On December 31, the Illinois fields discovered since Jan. 1, 1937, had 8,065 producing wells and on the same date 361 new drilling ventures were under way and 23 locations had been made for new wells.

Production for December was estimated at 10,121,000 barrels, a slight increase over November but five million barrels less than the peak reached during last June.

The total 1940 production was estimated at 146,579,000 barrels against 94,302,000 barrels during 1939.

Tap Trenton Lime First Time.

Centralia, Ill., Jan. 11 (AP).—Paul Rossi's first Trenton lime test in the Lake Centralia-Salem oil field was flowing into storage tanks today. Altho no statement was available from the operator, observers said the well was flowing oil of a gravity higher than that produced by other horizons in the field.

Earlier in the day Rossi said the test was drilling at about 4,600 feet with 4,000 feet of oil in the hole and indicated that drilling would be continued in search of "something deeper."

Mount Carmel Well Flowing.

Mount Carmel, Ill., Jan. 11 (AP).—Shell Oil company's test well at the north edge of Mount Carmel flowed oil at the rate of 67 barrels an hour today in a brief test.

The well, producing from the McClosky lime, may touch off a townsite drilling boom. A few days ago the board of education leased 10 acres for oil development.

STEEL SCRAP QUOTATION CUT AT PITTSBURGH

No. 1 heavy melting scrap steel was quoted in Pittsburgh yesterday at $22.50 a ton, a decline of $1.50 a ton from the previous quotation. However, the figure merely represented a brokers' quotation among themselves. No buying of scrap by the mills was reported.

In Chicago No. 1 heavy melting scrap was quoted nominally at $20 a ton, unchanged from preceding quotations. Here also activity was only among brokers or dealers, with no buying reported by the steel mills.

Steel operations in the Chicago area for the third successive week are scheduled to start tomorrow at 99.3 per cent of theoretical capacity. The rate is the highest level at which the mills here have ever operated. In Pittsburgh the mills are scheduled to start at 98 per cent, unchanged from last week.

FACTORIES STEP UP PRODUCTION TO NEW HEIGHTS

Idle Facilities Being Put Back in Use.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

Business and industry moved at a still faster clip last week in turning out the materials of war and peace. Factories thruout the country worked harder at the task of manufacturing everything from buttons to battleships, and plans were made for plant construction on a still larger scale.

Industries which were not operating at all time high levels were the exception. Industrial executives who a comparatively short time ago were worried about excess plant capacities dusted off factories which had fallen into depression disuse and returned them to active service.

It was agreed that any material acceleration in the rate of production in most industries depended upon the construction of new plant facilities, 24 hour operation of plants which are not being operated at peak levels, or a lengthening of working hours.

The course of industrial activity in recent weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, which is based on 1929-'30 activity as 100.

Budget Indicates Huge Cost.

President Roosevelt's astronomical budget figures—17½ billion dollars for the fiscal year ending with June, 1942—gave the public an insight into the future cost in deficits and taxes of the President's plan to turn the United States into a world arsenal for democracies fighting the dictators. The national deficit for the next fiscal year alone was placed above 9 billion dollars.

Indicative of the rate at which the national industrial plant is being expanded was the latest weekly compilation of Engineering News-Record,

STOCK MARKET DECLINES AFTER WEEK-LONG RISE

Trading Favorites Back Down Fractions.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The stock market took a rest today at slightly lower levels after another week of generally rising prices.

A few rubbers and specialties managed to tack on advances, but steels, motors, aircrafts, and leaders in other groups lagged. A large portion of the day's volume was accounted for by several low priced shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .1 of a point at 44.9, the first dip since the creeping recovery got under way Jan. 3. On the week the composite showed a net gain of 7, its third consecutive weekly upturn.

Sales Fewest Since Nov. 30.

Transfers totaled 361,440 shares, lowest Saturday turnover since Nov. 30. The aggregate compared with 384,970 a week ago.

Business news, brokers said, kept selling light and inspired a little buying here and there. Many of those who cashed in yesterday on the lengthy upswing, brokers said, stood aside for the week-end on the theory war shocks were a possibility over Sunday.

Formation of a defense board iron and steel priorities committee led to the question of just how other industries might fare if governmental restrictions were instituted.

The Big Board list was up on the average Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday and unchanged Tuesday. Rallying rails and bonds touched off the week's most bullish performance on Thursday.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Prices were irregular on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. With 71 issues involved in trading which totaled 13,000 shares, 26 closed higher, 25 lower, and 20 unchanged. United States Steel declined 1½ and minor fractional losses were shown by Great Lakes Dredge, General Motors, Katz Drug, and Stewart-Warner.

Commonwealth Edison, the most active issue on the list with a turnover of 900 shares, closed unchanged at 30. Armour, Butler Brothers, Middle West and several other normally active Chicago issues likewise held at Friday's final levels.

Last week's volume of trading was 141,000 shares, compared with 137,000 the week before and 179,000 a year ago. Of the 186 issues traded, 118 closed above the levels of the preceding Saturday, 36 declined, and 32 were unchanged.

'DEFENSE' ITEMS TAKE BACK SEAT IN STAPLE MARTS

Coffee and Cottonseed Oil Hold Major Interest.

Santos coffee and cottonseed oil, overshadowed during the last several months by "defense" staples, reached 1940-'41 peaks last week as the majority of other commodity futures continued a generally higher trend. Lead, tin, sugar, and silk advanced moderately while wool tops, hides and rubber were lower. In the cash markets, rubber slumped nearly ½ cent a pound and hides and Santos coffee gained ½ cent each.

Santos coffee rose to 7.20 cents a pound in May deliveries on a buying wave prompted by a boost in the cash price to 8 cents and further advances in minimum Colombian prices. The staple finished the week at 7.15 cents for a net gain of 0.45 cent.

Gains Pared Late in Week.

Interest in cottonseed oil came from forecasts of cuts in lard production and the acreage of next year's cotton crop. Profit taking at the end of the week depressed prices from the peak of 6.78 cents a pound in May to 6.68 cents, a gain of 0.22 cent.

In the non-ferrous metal markets, the Presidential proclamation placing copper, brass, bronze, and other metals under export license control was capped by the announcement of a new all-time high total of 112,671 tons of copper shipped to consumers in December. Despite the probable record production of the metal last month, it was estimated that the unprecedented shipments had cut supplies to about six weeks' requirements.

Metal Markets Firmer.

These statistics checked a weakening trend in metal futures.

The Associated Press weighted wholesale price index of 35 cash staples, based on 1926 as 100, reached 78.59—highest since 1937—and closed at 78.20 for a week's gain of 0.05. The Dow-Jones commodity futures index was 0.35 higher at 57.54.

BIG LOS ANGELES HOMES PROJECT TO HOUSE 10,000

Insurance Company Will Spend 12½ Millions.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11 [Special]. —Acting within the provisions of a California special legislative act which became effective in December, 1940, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company plans to invest $12,500,000 in an extensive housing project in Hollywood and, reportedly, may invest a similar amount in a San Francisco project.

The Hollywood project, application for which now is being studied by Judge A. Caminetti Jr., California insurance commissioner, is expected to provide employment for approximately 3,000 men and eventually to house between 10,000 and 11,000 persons.

The enabling act, according to executives of the company, was necessary because heretofore insurance companies were not permitted to invest extensively in real estate here.

Court Action Delays Plan.

Meantime court action by a property owner has blocked immediate execution of the plans. Mrs. Mable K. Ostbye, owner of an apartment building, has been granted a temporary restraining order in the Superior court holding up action by the insurance company and Caminetti. Mrs. Ostbye's complaint questions the constitutionality of the legislation, attacks the tax provisions, charges discrimination against smaller insurance companies, and maintains that there are adequate housing facilities in the area.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company a few years ago built the huge Parkchester housing project in New York. It has acquired 173 acres for its Los Angeles project, comprising a rectangular tract about one mile long, between 3d and 6th streets and between Fairfax and Cochran avenues.

Buildings to Face Parks.

There will be, according to tentative plans, a number of two-story buildings of modern design, with about 2,700 rentable units. The project will be so laid out that only about 18 per cent of the land will be covered by the buildings. The remainder will be used for park development, in which gardens will be surrounded by small groupings of the various apartments.

There will be special facilities for children to play in safety, and a large recreational area of approximately five acres surrounded by 30 tennis courts and other outdoor facilities for children and adults.

The structures will be built so that all living rooms face the park, street entrances being at the rear of the houses.

Requires Tax Deduction Waiver.

The enabling act, signed recently by Gov. Olson, requires that any insurance company planning to build such units must first execute a waiver of the right to deduct the real estate tax from premium taxes which they pay the state so that the premium tax will not be affected.

In addition, it requires that companies desiring to engage in this type of construction must have assets of not less than fifty million dollars each. No investment under one million dollars will be eligible.

An important requirement of the legislation is that all applications must be filed with Insurance Commissioner Caminetti on or before Dec. 31, 1941.

COTTON

Cotton was firm early on mill and commission house buying yesterday, with the new crop months selling at new seasonal highs. Late in the session an increase in hedging sales and profit taking caused a reaction and the close was unchanged to .07 cent a pound lower. Old crop months led the decline.

Reports from England indicated the probability that no effort would be made to repair a number of damaged mills in the Lancashire district and that American mills would be asked to take over the contracts.

Cash cotton closed .04 to .07 cent lower, with New York, 10.59 cents; New Orleans, 10.27 cents; Galveston, 10.10 cents, and Houston at 10.07 cents a pound. Futures prices follow:

Curtiss Candy company has adopted a group accident, health, and hospital insurance plan for its employés. The plan is being underwritten by the Washington National Insurance company, Chicago.

The seventh annual convention of the National Brands Stores will be held Jan. 17 and 18 in the Hotel La Salle.

The annual dinner and election of officers of the La Salle Street Cashiers will be held in the Sherman hotel Jan. 21.

PRICES OF BONDS ARE UNEVEN IN NARROW RANGE

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The bond market returned to its familiar pattern of narrow movement and irregular trend today. The Associated Press average of every group except the rails was unchanged and the latter lost 0.1 point. Compared with a week ago, however, the rail group was up 2.3 points, the utilities up one point, and the foreign dollar issues up 2 points. Industrials and low yields showed little change. It was by far the best week in many months for the leaders.

United States government loans were dull and at the close the few issues traded were 3-32 of a point lower to 7-32 higher.

French stamped 7½s rose 7 points on sale of one bond at 82. Japan 5½s were 1¼ lower at 52¾. Other foreign issues showed little change.

WHEAT WEAKENS ON REPORTS OF RUSS GRAIN DEAL

Reports that Russia had signed an agreement to provide large quantities of grain to Germany and that a Russian delegation was on its way to Argentina to purchase grain caused uneasiness among speculative holders of wheat futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed ¾ to 1 cent a bushel lower, the largest decline since Dec. 16. Corn finished ¼ to ⅜ cent lower. Oats lost ⅛ to ¼ cent and rye ¾ to 1 cent. Soy beans closed at losses of 1⅜ to 1½ cents.

ANTICIPATING TAXES.

Income taxes ordinarily do not create any financial complications for persons with stable incomes. Their taxes have varied only moderately from year to year. Such persons usually know beforehand about how much they will have to pay the tax collector.

This year, however, the situation has changed—even for those with stable incomes. On March 15 the first quarterly instalment on the 1940 income taxes comes due. New and higher tax rates will be in effect as a result of the defense program.

When these persons of regular income go to pay their tax bills they will find they will have to dig deeper into their pockets. For example, one whose income was $10,000 in 1940 would have expected to pay—assuming certain conditions—$415 under the old rates. Instead, he will have to pay $528. On $40,000, the tax bill, under given circumstances, would be $9,552 instead of $5,979.

The average individual is unprepared for any substantial boost in his income tax. Unlike most business corporations, usually he does not set aside a reserve for taxes out of his last year's income.

If he has other bills which fall due at the same time, or if his cash is tied up in business or in securities, he may find himself pressed to obtain money for his tax.

Inability to meet tax payments is not rare. There are some persons who spend their year's income without providing for the tax liabilities incurred during the year.

The predicament of those whose incomes fluctuate from year to year is more serious. A sharp decline in income may drain an individual's cash resources. He is placed in the difficult position of attempting to pay the tax on last year's higher income from this year's shallow earnings.

Failure to anticipate income taxes results primarily from overlooking the fact that in each year the taxpayer gradually accumulates a debt to the federal government. If congress increases the tax rates, the resulting tax liability is larger, and provision must be made for the increase.

A practical method of cushioning the sudden shock of income tax payments has been suggested by tax consultants. Each quarter, or at other convenient times during the year, a rough estimate of the income tax liability incurred in the interim period is computed. A reserve is set aside to cover this estimated liability. This reserve may be in cash or in short term government securities. When instalments on the year's income tax come due, funds are immediately available for payment.

FACTORIES STEP UP PRODUCTION TO NEW HEIGHTS

Idle Facilities Pressed Into Service Again.

showing construction awards of $157,823,000, compared with $64,378,000 in the comparable week of 1940. Defense planners signed contracts for additional millions in plants for the production of airplanes, ships, munitions, and other necessities.

Steel Making at Peak.

Steel mills operated at the highest rate in history, at 97.2 per cent of the nation's theoretical capacity, and executives looked around for additional means of production to keep pace with orders. One manufacturer was reported restoring to service beehive coke ovens idle since the world war.

The peak in the rush to construct a vast war industry seemed to have passed. By next summer and autumn a larger proportion of the defense billions will be going into the actual tools of war, whereas at present the largest proportion is being devoted to plant facilities, it was indicated.

The Associated Press index of industrial production, seasonally adjusted and based on 1929-'30 activities as 100, climbed last week to 123.9, from 123.5 the week before, 119.5 a month earlier, and 111.8 a year before. It was the fifth consecutive weekly upturn.

Auto Output a Record.

Larger than seasonal gains were chalked up in freight car loadings, electric power production, automobile assemblies, and residential building, with cotton manufacturing the only major division failing to share in the upturn. Automobile production was the largest for any January week in history. The index presented this record of industrial activities:

	Latest week.	Preceding week.	Last year.
Automobile prod	109.6	108.0	112.0
Steel mill act	*130.5	128.7	115.6
Cotton mfg act	161.0	165.0	136.5
Electric pwr prod	138.0	137.5	130.5
Residential bldg	*127.0	125.9	92.0
Total carloadings	*80.5	78.3	76.0
Composite index	*123.9	123.5	111.8

*New 1940-'41 high.

The effect of the President's fiscal forecasts was reflected in national economic thinking by an abrupt desertion of the stock market in favor of bonds and commodities. Investors and speculators reasoned that bonds would be relatively more secure than stocks, since the cost of war preparations is certain to cut more deeply into corporation profits. Commodities, particularly the war staples, were given an increasing share of speculators' attention.

Monetary Feud Revived.

While Mr. Roosevelt's war program was received with criticism and applause in Washington and elsewhere, the New Deal family feud over national fiscal policies flared anew. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. blamed M. S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve board, for recent weakness in government bond prices. Federal bonds firmed after his comment was made. The feud is over reserve officials' demands for greater monetary control, at the expense of treasury authority.

A high point in the week's news affecting industrial Chicago was a war department order for the manufacture of 33 million dollars in airplane engines by the Studebaker corporation. The automobile manufacturer previously had been authorized to build three new plane engine factories, one in Chicago.

Chicago packers, whose lard exports had fallen drastically, received inquiries on hundreds of tons of lard by Japanese interests. Some of them ignored requests for bids and expressed the opinion the lard was intended for shipment to Germany.

P. R. O'Brien Unopposed for Board of Trade Post

P. R. O'Brien, heading the regular ticket, will have no opposition at the annual election of officials of the Chicago Board of Trade to be held Monday. Peter B. Carey, former president of the exchange, and regular candidate for first vice president, is opposed by H. D. Sturtevant, incumbent. Harvey S. Austrian is unopposed for second vice president.

YEAR'S BUILDING IN SUBURBS SETS PEAK FOR DECADE

Volume Exceeds Chicago Total 19 Millions.

BY AL CHASE.

[Real Estate Editor.]

Building of all types in Chicago's suburbs during 1940 climbed to the highest volume since before 1929. Permits were issued in 82 suburban communities last year for construction costing $59,102,492. This was more than 19 million dollars above the total of all building done in Chicago last year. It also was an increase of more than 18 million dollars over the 1939 suburban total.

Last month's suburban total was in contrast with a depression low of only $4,139,004 during 1933.

Home building in the suburbs last year was more than four times the 1933 total. In 1940 there were 5,892 homes, costing $37,659,102, against only 1,390 homes in 1933, costing $12,524,002.

Home Building Tops 1939.

Suburban home construction last year also increased in both number and cost over the preceding year. In 1939 there were 4,028 homes, costing $26,334,686.

Altho the number of new homes has steadily increased, the average cost of new homes has decreased year by year. In 1936 the homes built averaged $9,010 each. In 1940 the average was down to $6,392.

Home building was most active during 1940 in Gary, Skokie [formerly Niles Center], and Hammond, in the order given based on cost. In Gary there were 517 homes costing $2,129,000. Skokie had 233 homes, costing $1,971,000. Permits were issued in Hammond for 386 homes, costing $1,805,000.

Others Pass Million Mark.

Other suburbs which reported more than one million dollars worth of home building last year are: Evergreen Park, 312 homes, costing $1,704,000; Wilmette, 150, $1,632,000; Evanston, 134, $1,277,000; Park Ridge, 150, $1,205,000; Lincolnwood, 157, $1,160,000; Glenview, 114, $1,061,000.

The amount spent for betterment of homes, including repairs, alterations, additions, and modernization, was 11 per cent larger in 1940 than in 1939, totaling $3,905,937.

New building as a whole declined in December as compared with the same 1939 month and also with November, 1940. The total for December was $4,032,396; for the same month in 1939 it was $4,760,481, and for November, 1940, $5,585,607.

$360,000 RENT WILL BE PAID FOR COPELAND

George E. Goldberg, president of the Midwest Hotel company, which operates 10 hotels in the middle west, yesterday leased the 10 story Copeland hotel at the northeast corner of Sheridan road and Argyle street for 10 years at a reported guaranteed net rental of $360,000.

Goldberg said he will spend $60,000 at once in modernizing the building, which is to be given its original name, Somerset hotel. Lichtmann & Bach will draw the plans.

A new lobby will be installed and all of the first floor stores will be rebuilt along modern lines, with new fronts. In addition five shops will be built opening off the lobby.

The hotel contains 400 rooms divided into 200 small furnished suites and 46 single hotel rooms.

Another hostelry, the East End Park hotel, at Hyde Park boulevard and 53d street, was leased by the Midwest Hotel company last June. Goldberg guaranteed a net rental of $450,000 for a 10 year term.

CRESCENT PARK SEEKS RETURN OF 256 LOTS TO REGULAR TAX ROLL

Designed to get 256 lots in Crescent Park subdivision, Elmhurst, back on the tax rolls, a suit has been filed to foreclose the liens of general taxes and special assessments on these properties. The development, comprising about 160 acres, and containing 450 lots, averaging 60 by 150 feet, lies between St. Charles road on the north, the county line on the east, the Aurora and Elgin right of way on the south, and Poplar avenue on the west.

Lee S. Daniels, state's attorney for Du Page county, instituted the foreclosure suit in an attempt to solve the problems of this and other similarly situated subdivisions by removing the delinquencies and making the property available for sale to the public. The development is now "strangled" with 10 years of accumulated taxes, assessments and penalties, with the total delinquencies exceeding a million dollars, Daniels said.

The subdivision was laid out in 1927 with winding roads and all improvements installed. It is asserted that a million dollars was spent on the property. Sixty homes were built before the depression stopped all activity.

PRICES OF HOME BUILDING NEEDS REPORTED RISING

Home building in 1941 has the benefit of low financing costs, but the price of materials is rising in 89 per cent of American cities. This is the situation found by the National Association of Real Estate Boards in its semiannual survey of the real estate market, covering 237 cities. The report was made public yesterday.

The average rise in cost of home building materials since the defense program got under way has been 10 per cent, it was found, but a more than average increase was reported in the rise was 20 per cent or more.

In 28 per cent of the cities queried getting building materials has become a worry. There is actual shortage, however, in only 4 per cent of the cities as yet. Another 8 per cent are approaching a shortage.

Labor supply for home building feels the competition of governmental projects, often those in some neighboring area, according to the survey. Labor costs are a problem in 37 per cent of the reporting cities, and rising in 54 per cent of them.

At the Realty Boards

Henry T. Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology, will speak at a meeting of the Chicago Real Estate board next Wednesday noon at 32 West Randolph street.

The rental market will be discussed at a meeting of the North Side Real Estate board Tuesday noon in the New Lawrence hotel.

BURYING A RUMOR IS A GRAVE TASK, JOB CHIEFS LEARN

No Grave Diggers Wanted at Arms Plant Site.

Government employment officials are finding it difficult to convince grave diggers that their type of work is not required on the $45,000,000 Wilmington-Elwood defense project in Will county.

Six small cemeteries lie within the 65 square mile area to be covered by the project. When work was started two months ago Maj. R. K. Haskell, ranking army officer on the site of the Elwood Ordnance works, said emphatically that none of the cemeteries would be disturbed.

Rumors Get Around.

Rumors got started, however, that bodies in the burial plots were to be disinterred. The rumors were still spreading yesterday, and finally Dr. A. H. R. Atwood, director of the state employment office, sent formal notice to local employment directors and government civil service directors, saying in effect:

"Grave diggers not wanted. Bodies will not be removed."

Employment and civil service offices at Joliet, Elgin, and Rockford were among those visited by job seekers.

Hears Job Pays $300 a Week.

Oscar C. Bratton, secretary of the federal civil service board at Rockford, said he had been awakened in the middle of the night by a caller who had heard that $300 weekly would be paid those willing to exhume the bodies; that this was considered a fair wage because many of the bodies are of persons who died of "dreadful diseases."

"The caller mentioned black death and leprosy," Bratton said.

One guess as to the origin of the rumors was made by C. B. Johnson, area finance officer of the WPA for Du Page, Will, and Kendall counties. He said they may have started in Channahon, not far from the arms plant project. There the archeological department of the University of Chicago is using WPA labor to dig up Indian relics.

JAMES JOYCE, IRISH NOVELIST, OPERATED ON

ZURICH, Switzerland, Jan. 11 (AP).—James Joyce, Irish novelist, was reported "doing very well" in a hospital here following an emergency abdominal operation today. Long an invalid, he suffered a serious attack last night. Joyce, 58 years old, is the author of "Ulysses," a story of one man's day in Dublin in June, 1904. He came here recently with his wife, a son, and a grandson from the French riviera. They settled in the house where they lived during the world war, when they were forced to leave Trieste because Joyce was a British subject.

Mrs. Jessie L. Brown, 66, Traveler, Lecturer, Dead

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—Mrs. Jessie Lanier Christian Brown, 66, widow of Demarchus Brown, former state librarian, died here last night. A native of Madison, Ind., she was a widely known world traveler and lecturer and mother of Philip Brown, athletic director of Rose Polytechnic Institute.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Jennie Dyckes Worley.

Services for Mrs. Jennie Dyckes Worley, who died Friday in the Community hospital in Harvard, McHenry county, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in the Presbyterian church in Lewistown, Fulton county. Mrs. Worley, who was born 65 years ago in Lewistown, was the widow of William C. Worley, a practicing attorney and former police magistrate of Lewistown, who died in the same hospital Dec. 19. He was 73. Mr. and Mrs. Worley became ill several months ago and were brought by ambulance last October from a Peoria hospital by their daughter, Miss Louise Worley, a teacher in Harvard High school. Another daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Parshall of Chicago, and a son, John Worley of Jackson Heights, N. Y., also survive.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Una McCullough and Mrs. Ella Crosthwaite. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the chapel at 1820 Michigan avenue.

Walter G. Poehlmann.

Walter G. Poehlmann, a Morton Grove alderman for the last six years, died yesterday, apparently of a heart attack, while returning from a store to his home at 6300 Lincoln avenue, Morton Grove. Mr. Poehlmann, an insurance broker, was active in American Legion affairs. He was 43 years old. Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Kathryn Poehlmann of Skokie; two sisters, Mrs. Vera Binner and Mrs. Edna Clark, and a brother, Morton Poehlmann, of Dayton, O. Services will be at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the chapel at 6235 Lincoln avenue, Morton Grove.

William N. Jensen.

Services for William N. Jensen, since 1927 assistant treasurer of the Cyclone Fence company, North Chicago, who died Friday, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 408 North Sheridan road, Waukegan. Mr Jensen, who was 60 years old, was a resident of Waukegan for 38 years and an employé of the fence company for 20. He leaves his widow, Ellen, and one sister, Miss Winnie Jensen of Pentwater, Mich. The Jensen home is at 801 North County street, Waukegan.

Dr. Emanuel Lasker.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Dr. Emanuel Lasker, 72 years old, chess expert and writer on chess subjects, died in Mount Sinai hospital today of uremic poisoning. Dr. Lasker won the world's chess championship in 1894 and held it until 1921 when he lost to José R. Capablanca. He lived in New York from 1902 to 1907, during which time he published Lasker's Chess magazine and edited a chess column in the New York Evening Post.

Ansel E. Smith.

Ansel E. Smith, who was a justice of the peace in Highland Park for 27 years before his retirement in 1937, died yesterday. He was 55 years old. His home was at 407 Cory avenue, Waukegan. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Louise Smith, and two daughters, Betty Lou and Barbara Ann. Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 218 Madison street, Waukegan.

Robert J. Evans Jr.

Robert J. Evans Jr., a former art designer and director in Chicago, died Friday in New York City, friends here learned yesterday. He was 38 years old. Mr. Evans was in business here until he left three years ago to become art director of an advertising company in New York. His widow, Letitia, and two sons, Kenneth and Roger, survive.

Patrick J. Nolan.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 11 (AP).—Patrick J. Nolan, mayor of Ottawa in 1933 and 1934, and a theater owner, died today. He was 59 years old.

Dr. Robert G. Torrey.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 11 [Special].—Dr. Robert G. Torrey, 62 years old, prominent Philadelphia physician and once a famous University of Pennsylvania football player, died today. He was president of the medical board of the Philadelphia General hospital, professor of medicine at the Woman's Medical college, associate in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania medical school, and medical examiner for the division of tuberculosis of the Philadelphia public health department. "Bob" Torrey was captain of the Pennsylvania football team in 1904 and 1905 and in the latter year was selected by the late Walter Camp as center on his "All American" team. During the world war he was a major in the medical corps.

Mrs. Elizabeth K. Weller.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth K. Weller, a resident of Chicago for 68 years, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in Stone church, 70th street and Stewart avenue. Mrs. Weller, who was 92 years old, died Friday in her home at 7010 Indiana avenue. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. A. J. Essig, and seven grandchildren. Her husband, John C. Weller, who was in the trunk business at 22d street and Michigan avenue during the World's Columbian exposition, died 28 years ago.

George M. Colby.

The funeral of George M. Colby, retired assistant superintendent of mails at the Chicago postoffice, will be held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday, from the chapel at 3952 Cermak road to Blessed Sacrament church. Mr. Colby, a veteran of 52 years of service with the postoffice, died Friday night in his home, 2106 South Central Park avenue. She formerly lived in Chicago and in Lake Forest, where she was active in charity work. Her husband, a son, and a daughter survive. Services will be held in Winter Haven at 2 p. m. tomorrow, with burial in Louisville, Ky., where Mrs. Burton was born.

KILLED BY CRASH NEAR ELGIN; 3 CARS INVOLVED

Walter J. Hebenstreit, 56 years old, a cement finisher living on rural route 4, three miles east of Elgin, was injured fatally last evening in an accident involving three automobiles at Higgins road and route 59, seven miles northeast of Elgin.

Hebenstreit's car first collided with one driven by Gordon L. Gooch of Garden Prairie, Boone county. Then, according to Gooch, Hebenstreit left his automobile and was struck by a car driven by Carl H. Lindquist, 621 Talcott road, Park Ridge. Lindquist disputed this, asserting that Hebenstreit was in his car when Lindquist's machine struck it. Lindquist's wife, Eleanor, 42, suffered head injuries and his daughter, Lois, 15, a broken left arm.

John Beloch, 72, 4621 West 20th street, was injured fatally when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver at Cicero avenue and 20th street in Cicero.

Louis Koschka, 31, of 9017 Grant avenue, Brookfield, was killed yesterday afternoon in a three-way auto-truck crash at Ogden avenue and Du Bois boulevard in Brookfield. The police said the truck, driven by Eugene Calek of 720 7th avenue, La Grange, was thrown in front of Koschka's car after it was struck by an automobile driven by H. Shroyer, 4430 Du Bois boulevard, Brookfield. Calek and Shroyer, who suffered only slight injuries, were questioned and released.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 31 persons had been killed in auto accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 22 were killed in Chicago, where 658 were injured during the same period.

MR. B's father is getting on in years, so is his house. There were two mortgages against it and the old gent paid interest on it since 1910—a powerful lot of interest. His son came to us. We O. K.'d a $3,800 loan, and got the old mortgages reduced by $1,800; our lawyers settled 5 years' back taxes and we paid that, too.

We grant top loans on homes up to 30 years old, 2 to 4 apartments, large apartments, store and factory buildings. Also place FHA loans up to 90% of value. We advance funds to settle back taxes, liens, to redeem property and to close estates.

If even our top loans won't do, we will negotiate with the mortgagee or bondholders' committee to cut down overly large debts to present day levels. Low rates.

RAY E. HUMPHREY,
6225 Cottage Grove Ave.

"My boss, Tom Crocombe, recently took over the Chicago distributorship for a new beverage used for mixed drinks. He plans to cover the city with about 50 trucks.

"As the first driver he hired, I was given the first territory. All we had was the contract—no trucks, no equipment, no fancy sales talk. The plan is for each driver to own his own truck, Tom advancing the money which is to be paid back out of commissions. He told me to look around and find a good used truck.

"I looked in the Tribune because that's how I got the job in the first place. I saw a ton-and-a-half panel Chevy advertised by the Ruby Chevrolet Co., 7158 Stony Island ave. Tom and I went over to see it.

"It was a beauty. Dual wheels with perfect tires and new paint. Tom and I measured up the inside and found that it would hold 50 cases of the 32 ouncers and 30 cases of the splits, which is enough for one load.

"At $425 it was a lot of truck for the money. I certainly hand it to Tribune want ads. They helped me get the job and the equipment to make good on it."

HOW TO CUT YOUR DELIVERY COSTS

If your delivery service is taxed beyond its capacity, or if your trucks are old and need frequent repairs which lay them up for days at a time, it will pay you to review the offers of good used trucks in the Tribune want ad section. In the Motor Trucks column practically all makes of trucks for almost every type of service are offered at attractive prices. Your present truck or trucks may be the only down payment asked on equipment which can help you improve your service and cut your delivery costs. Turn to the want ad section in today's Tribune and review the offerings of late model used trucks.

"TRIBUNE WANT ADS ALWAYS BRING US MORE PROSPECTS!"

"In the last five years we have placed the greater percentage of our advertising in the Chicago Tribune and can trace many thousands of dollars in sales to its classified columns, which are like a good salesman in that they always bring us more prospects and help us to sell more used cars and trucks.

"During this time we have never found a better way of spending the amount allotted for advertising, nor have we found a quicker buyer response. In short, we feel that the Chicago Tribune is the hardest hitting advertising medium we have ever used.

"During 1940, we spent over $11,000.00 on advertising in the classified section of the Chicago Tribune and attribute the sale of many, many used cars and trucks to this advertising."

Very truly yours,

INJURIES PER SQ. MILE BY POLICE DISTRICTS

In black on this map of Chicago are police districts with the highest 1940 tallies of pedestrian traffic casualties. The number injured in this blackened area was two and a half times the average per square mile for the entire city. In dots are police districts with pedestrian traffic injuries 50 per cent greater than the average for the city.

Reckless Walking a Major Factor in Motor Death Toll

BY HAL FOUST.

The Chicago Motor club last week mapped the neighborhoods of the city with the worst records for traffic injuries to pedestrians. Walkers constitute 72 per cent of the year's 669 motor deaths and 40 per cent of the year's 24,168 injured.

"We found by survey," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the club, "that a dangerous belt for pedestrians is the fringe of the central business district where both automobiles and pedestrians are numerous. It is without the police supervision of the loop itself.

Heavy in Night Club Districts.

"Negro neighborhoods also suffered a heavy loss. The toll also was heavy in night club districts where drinking probably was a factor. In depressed residential districts, poor street illumination and inadequate playgrounds contributed to the bloodshed."

The four months from October thru January is the season most dangerous to pedestrians. This is the season of early darkness.

Approximately 36 per cent of the total pedestrian injuries and 40 per cent of the fatalities occur during the hours from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m. In the case of injuries, 20 per cent involved the aged pedestrian, while 60 per cent of the pedestrian deaths are among persons more than 55 years old.

Recommends These Rules.

For pedestrians' self-protection when walking across streets, the motor club recommends the following rules:

1. Cross only at corners on crosswalks and with the green light, if there are traffic signals.
2. Always look both ways, first left then right, before crossing, and be alert for turning cars.
3. Exert particular caution after nightfall. Motorists cannot see pedestrians as clearly as pedestrians see automobile headlights. When walking on rural highways, always use the left side and carry or wear something white at night.
4. Never dodge out from between parked cars, get out of the car on the street side, nor take a chance "just this once" and jay-walk or cross in the middle of the block.
5. Use your head. Don't daydream.
6. Behave yourself when walking in traffic. Support the schools' safety education program.

Reckless Walking a Factor.

Surveys have found that a large majority of the pedestrian deaths and injuries are due to reckless walking, crossing the street in midblock, jay-walking diagonally across an intersection, stepping from behind a parked car, or walking against a red light.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Seventeen makes of automobiles will be exhibited at the annual motor salon to be held in the Edgewater Beach hotel Feb. 1 to 9 inclusive, it was announced yesterday by Charles R. Hearn, president of the Broadway New Car Dealers' association and chairman of the show committee. The cars include: Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge, Ford, Lincoln, Lincoln Zephyr, Mercury, Nash, Oldsmobile, Packard, Plymouth, Pontiac, Studebaker, and Willys.

Hearn said that contests are being held to choose Misses Rogers Park, Edgewater, Northtown, Ravenswood, and Uptown. Winners will preside as "princesses" of the salon on days at which their communities will be honored.

* * *

W. E. Butler, president of Butler Motors, Inc., Hudson distributors, is highly pleased at the showing made by Hudson in sales in the Chicago area during 1940. Hudson finished the year with a 56.4 per cent gain for the year over 1939, compared with an industry gain of 33.9 per cent.

On the Pontiac Assembly Line

This is the final assembly line off which 1941 Pontiac automobiles are rolling. A feature of the section is the use of removable grilles over pits which make it easy for workers to have quick access to the lower parts of the automobiles they are building. The pits are said to have perfect ventilation and lighting.

URGES BUILDING OF DEATHPROOF MICHIGAN ROADS

BY HAL FOUST.

Deathproof highway construction, rural and urban, is urged upon the Michigan legislature by the state's new governor, Murray D. Van Wagoner. His recommendations in regard to motor transportation are of more than local interest since as the state's former highway commissioner and as a former president of the American Road Builders association, he has been a national leader in progressive road planning.

"Traffic volumes on many of the state's primary arteries," he told the assembly, "make two, three and four lane undivided highways obsolete and dangerous.

Must Limit Access.

"To keep pace with traffic, we must build divided lane, limited access highways connecting population centers, and even more advanced motorways in some of the larger cities. The state must be able to limit the access to these thorofares. Limited access legislation is a very first requirement for this type of highway development.

"Regulation of outdoor advertising, particularly along the tourist and scenic highways," he continued, "would add to the enjoyment of motorists on vacation and would make them safer.

"Estimates place the total income from the tourist in Michigan in 1940 at $411,000,000 and the total number of tourists at 11,770,000. These reports are for the year around business and include the fast growing winter sports activities.

Tourist Dollars Benefit State.

"Young in years, the tourist industry has potentialities of development that stir the imagination. Tourist dollars benefit the entire state. They form the principal source of income for some sections of that great recreational area of Michigan known as the North Country.

"The entire state profits from tourist business, including the state government itself, for northern counties can better carry their share of the cost of social and educational services as tourist income increases.

"I can think of no other place where the investment of a small sum by the state will return such large dividends to all the people as in the tourist and resort industry.

Take Lesson from Manufacturers.

"We should take a lesson from the automobile manufacturers who spend large sums of money in advertising and promotion for a single new model. They do it because they have learned that a well balanced program of national advertising and promotion pays big returns.

"The state government has not entirely overlooked tourist promotion, but the major responsibility has fallen on other agencies, such as the tourist associations and chambers of commerce. These agencies have done the pioneering and carried on much constructive work.

"It is time now for the state itself to step into the field and with the help of existing agencies plan and execute a long range program of advertising Michigan as a whole. I recommend to this legislature that the appropriation for tourist promotion be doubled to $200,000 annually. To direct the program of advertising Michigan as a whole, the state tourist and resort commission, created by the 1934 special session of the legislature, should become active again."

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

CHICAGO DRIVERS "A" TO "E."

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Typical Chicago motorists:

Mr. A. has no destination. This makes him a hazard. He may decide at any moment to turn off whether or not he has given the driver behind ample warning. He may drive along at 10 miles per hour, holding back traffic, but, when about to be passed will give the passer a scowl and step his speed up to 35.

Mr. B. is not sure of himself as a driver. When at a crossing he never proceeds with green light until he sees some one else start in same direction. He stops at each intersection not sure whether or not to drive on. He becomes rattled in heavy traffic pulling away from passing cars.

Mr. C. is that cocky driver who knows how to handle his car and just what it can do [says he]. He'll cut you off one hundred feet from an intersection and stop dead when a red light appears. He'll race a street car and cut in front of it, just missing, by a hair, cars parked along the curb. He will make a left turn [where it is allowed] by pulling in front of one line of cars until the other line will let him thru. His stops at boulevards and stop streets are something to behold. A slowing down, shift to second, and a jump forward constitute a full stop to this fellow.

Mr. D. is just naturally a fast driver. He never drives at a moderate speed, no matter what your speed. He just must be in front. He blows his horn when behind a car at a stop sign and when a stop light turns amber from red he will give you a double blast.

Mr. E. is not a mister at all. She is the woman driver who goes forward regardless of traffic. Especially in outlying neighborhoods is she a hazard. Across boulevards and intersections, on the wrong side of the street, and around corners she goes. She will pull away from the curb without looking back and pull into the curb regardless of her position in traffic.

LAWRENCE F. SALMON.

BRICKBATS.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—These tours by the Tribune road car could be made worth while to the readers of your newspaper were they written by some one with an educational background for the job. Your Mr. Foust is doubtless a good reporter on other subjects but he fails to inspire his readers with a love for America that comes from seeing America thru a windshield and understanding what one is seeing. I have college degrees to qualify me for this work and should appreciate an interview if THE TRIBUNE is interested in promoting patriotism thru intelligent tour reporting.

HAS THIS EVER HAPPENED TO YOU?

A FRIENDLY shove on a frosty day may be a neighborly favor, but when it occurs too often it can put an edge on friendship. If your car is turning into a pushmobile, it will pay you to read the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in the Tribune want ad section.

There you can choose from the cream of the late model offerings. It is easy to pick out a good-looking, dependable car with the power, snap and modern features you want. Attractive prices and easy terms make it easy to buy.

"Sure he can handle the job!"
"I happen to know he has trained for it."

WHEN the chances open up for a bigger job at more pay will you be considered?

You can make ready now to take advantage of your opportunities for advancement. Select one of the regular or short courses of specialized training of interest to ambitious men and women which you will find described in the Trade Schools, Instruction, Musical and Dramatic, Dressmaking and Millinery Schools and Dancing Schools columns of the Tribune want ad section.

"It works this way"
"Paying off your home is like saving money."

TO many families, the purchase of a home by extended payments is more than just buying a place in which to live. If offers the chance to carry out a savings program as well.

If you are in the market to buy a home, let the Tribune want ads help you find a sound investment. Because the Tribune prints more real estate want advertising than all other Chicago newspapers combined, it is your comprehensive guide to attractive property values thruout Chicago and the suburbs.

Because they get better results, want ad users place more want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE
SERVING CHICAGO FOR 93 YEARS

"Not a care in the world"
"This is the first vacation in years I've really enjoyed. I know the business is safe in my partner's hands."

HOW many vacations have been spoiled by worrying how the business was getting along? Wouldn't it be a relief to be able to leave it in capable hands?

By watching the Partnerships and Investments column of the Tribune want ad section you can get in touch with the partner you need. Men and women with a wide range of business experience seek partnership connections thru this column. And if you are looking for outside capital to help you carry out your plans for expansion, here is an excellent source of leads.

LEW LOYAL
BY MILT YOUNGREN
PATRIOTS' QUIZ
WHO COMMANDED THE DEFENSE OF THE ALAMO?
THE ANSWER APPEARS ON A FOLLOWING PAGE.
AFTER BEING TIED UP BY THE SPIES AND LEFT ALONE IN THEIR HIDEOUT, BETSY DISCOVERS A STAIRWAY INSIDE A BOTTOMLESS TRUNK. SHE FOLLOWS IT INTO THE BASEMENT WHERE SHE FINDS A MEETING HALL, AMMUNITION, GUNS AND UNIFORMS. SUDDENLY SHE HEARS FOOTSTEPS ON THE STAIRWAY——
BUT, MR. EKANS—
HUSH UP, JOOLIK—I TOLD YOU TO SIT IN THAT ROOM AND WATCH THAT KID!
JUMPIN' COD FISH! HERE THEY COME DOWN TH' STAIRS!!
I CAN'T SEE HER, SIR
SHE JUST COULDN'T EVAPORATE!
WELL, THE ONLY PLACE WE HAVEN'T LOOKED IS IN HERE
I'LL WAIT'LL THEY GET A LITTLE CLOSER AN' THEN — CRASH
HOT JIGGERS!—I GOT BOTH OF 'EM — NOW TO GET OUT OF HERE BEFORE THEY COME TO I WISH UNCLE MACK WOULD'VE LET ——

THAT'S FUNNY — SOMEONE OUGHTA SHOW UP SOON
COME ON, LEW, LET'S GO— YOU CAN COME BACK LATER
WAIT! I'LL SEE IF THERE'S ANYBODY IN THIS BACK ROOM AW COME ON!
ALL RIGHT, BUT FIRST I WANT TO TAKE A SQUINT IN HERE— MAYBE TH' STORE KEEPER IS IN THERE SICK OR SOMETHIN'
SEE ANY ONE?
NO — IT'S SOME KIND OF A WORK SHOP— SAY, LOOK!
WHY TH' PLACE IS FULL OF RADIOS!
SAY, I WONDER WHAT THIS FUNNY GADGET IS FOR?
THAT'S ODD— IT SMELLS KINDA LIKE— OF COURSE — IT'S POWDER!
LOOK, LEW! THERE'S ONE O' THOSE THINGS IN EVERY RADIO
WELL, I'LL — BETSY! I THINK WE'VE DISCOVERED SOMETHING
I KNOW IT! WAIT'LL YOU SEE WHAT'S IN THIS ROOM!

PATRIOTS' QUIZ ANSWER

COLONEL WILLIAM B. TRAVIS WAS IN COMMAND OF THE OLD FRANCISCAN MISSION AT SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, WHICH WAS KNOWN AS THE ALAMO. WITH 180 BRAVE TEXANS HE HELD OFF THE ATTACKS OF 4,000 MEXICANS FOR 13 DAYS IN 1836. IN THEIR FINAL ASSAULT THE MEXICANS CAPTURED THE ALAMO AND PUT TO DEATH THE SURVIVORS OF ITS GARRISON. "REMEMBER THE ALAMO" BECAME THE BATTLE CRY OF THE TEXANS IN THEIR WAR OF INDEPENDENCE AGAINST MEXICO.

THEN LET'S GO TELL HIM THAT — NOTHIN' DOIN' — IF THOSE SPIES ARE STILL UNCONSCIOUS WE'LL CAPTURE 'EM ALL BY OURSELVES — COME ON!
BUT HOW?
WE'LL TIE 'EM UP WITH THESE ROPES AN' —
PSST! LEW, COME BACK — THEY'RE GETTIN' UP!
I'M SURE THIS IS TH' PLACE, RED — OVER THE SHORT WAVE RADIO IN THE SPIES' CAR EKANS SAID HE'D BE HERE WITH TH' KID — O.K. NOW — ONE — TWO — WELL I'LL BE AN ANT'S UNCLE! QUICK, RED — LOOK AT THIS! STAIRS LEADING DOWN INSIDE O' THIS TRUNK WHAT'S THAT?
BANG!
BANG!
BANG!

QUIT SHOOTING — WE GIVE UP!!
BANG!
I'LL SAY YOU WILL! UP WITH THOSE HANDS!
LEW, BETSY! FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE! WHERE'D YOU GET THE ARTILLERY?
WE DIDN'T HAVE GUNS — WE WERE THROWIN' ELECTRIC LIGHT BULBS!

YOU SAY YOU'RE A SERVICE MAN FROM THE ELECTRIC COMPANY?
THAT'S RIGHT. AND THERE'S SOMETHING PLENTY SINISTER GOING ON IN THE BASEMENT I'M ABOUT TO TAKE YOU TO!
YOU SEE, THE LIGHTS WENT OUT ON THE SOUTH SECTION OF THIS BLOCK AND I FINALLY TRACED IT TO THIS HOUSE.!
WHEN I WENT DOWNSTAIRS TO LOOK FOR A SHORT CIRCUIT, THAT'S WHAT I SAW!
UG-WUMF-UH-LA-
AT FIRST I THOUGHT HE WAS DEAD!
WHAT? A LITTLE STEAM ENGINE!
WHAT'S THIS ALL ABOUT? AND WHAT CAUSED THE SHORT CIRCUIT?
I CAUSED THE SHORT CIRCUIT. I JERKED THOSE WIRES LOOSE WITH MY FEET!
WHAT ABOUT THIS STEAM ENGINE? AND THIS CORD RUNNING TO THE WALL?
BE CAREFUL! THE DRUM AT THE END OF THAT CORD IS FULL OF NITROGLYCERIN!
SAY, WHO ARE YOU?
I'M JERRY LESIHC. I RUN A COUPLE OF BOOKIE JOINTS. SOME OF THE BOYS HIRED A GUY TO BUMP ME OFF!
HE PUT THE DRUM OF NITRO ON THAT LEDGE WITH A STRING RUNNING FROM IT TO THE PULLEY OF THE STEAM ENGINE!
THEN HE PLUGGED IN THE ENGINE, FIGURING WHEN THE WATER GOT HOT IT'D START, PULLING THE DRUM OFF THE LEDGE!
BUT YOU MANAGED TO HOOK YOUR TOE OVER THE POWER LINE AND YANK IT OUT, EH?
WHO WERE THESE WOULD-BE ASSASSINS?
I HAVEN'T THE SLIGHTEST IDEA. THERE WERE TWO OF 'EM WITH BLACK HOODS OVER THEIR HEADS!
YOU WERE TO BE THE THIRD VICTIM OF "CRIME, INC." AN ORGANIZATION THAT MURDERS AS A BUSINESS. HERE IS THEIR TAG!
WH-?
SO! I FIND IT NECESSARY TO RETURN, GENTLEMEN, AND CARRY THROUGH MY LITTLE JOB BY HAND. THERE IS NO MISS WITH "CRIME, INC."

MR. COFFEE NERVES!!
ELEANOR, THIS TOAST TASTES LIKE A WELL-BUTTERED PHONOGRAPH RECORD. EITHER YOU LEARN TO COOK OR WE'RE THROUGH!
BUT, DARLING, I MADE IT CRISP—JUST AS YOU ASKED FOR IT!
CRISP, EH? TELL HER IF IT WAS ANY CRISPER YOU COULD SELL IT FOR CHARCOAL!
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
THIS BACON IS THE LAST STRAW! IT'S RAW! I'M MOVING TO A HOTEL!
OKAY! BUT IT'S NOT MY COOKING! YOU'RE TOO CROSS LATELY TO LIKE ANYTHING!
TELL HER THAT HER FOOD WOULD RUST A CAST-IRON STOMACH!
MR COFFEE
HI, CLIFF, TAKING A TRIP?
NO, I'M JUST SICK OF ELEANOR'S COOKING. I'M MOVING TO A HOTEL. GOT ANY OBJECTIONS?
DON'T LISTEN TO HIM. HE'D BE BOTTOM-OF-THE-CLASS IN A SCHOOL FOR MORONS!
ELEANOR'S COOKING CAN'T BE THAT BAD. MAYBE YOU'RE TO BLAME. YOU ARE IRRITABLE LATELY.
IRRITABLE! SAY, IF HE FELT AS BAD AS YOU DO, HE'D MAKE A DILL PICKLE LOOK SWEET!
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
SEVERAL YEARS AGO I WAS CROSS AS A BEAR. THE DOCTOR SAID COFFEE-NERVES WAS UPSETTING ME.
THAT'S PLAIN GUFF! THE ONLY THING THAT WOULD UPSET THAT CHEAP SKATE WOULD BE THE DOCTOR'S BILL!
DOC SWITCHED ME FROM COFFEE TO POSTUM. THAT ENDED MY COFFEE-NERVES. WHY DON'T YOU GO BACK HOME AND TRY IT?
ALL RIGHT! ANYTHING TO SHUT YOU UP!
CURSES! POSTUM MEANS I'M LICKED!
SAY, THIS POSTUM IS PERFECTLY SWELL!
TWO WEEKS LATER
I SURE FEEL SORRY FOR SINGLE MEN. THEY NEVER SINK THEIR TEETH INTO FOOD LIKE THIS!
YOU'RE A SILLY MONKEY, CLIFF. MY COOKING HASN'T IMPROVED. IT'S YOUR DISPOSITION THAT'S BETTER SINCE YOU SWITCHED FROM COFFEE TO POSTUM.
MANY PEOPLE CAN DRINK COFFEE WITHOUT ILL EFFECTS, CAN'T THEY, DOCTOR?
YES, BUT MANY OTHERS—AND ALL CHILDREN—SHOULD NEVER DRINK IT.
WHAT ARE APT TO BE THE SYMPTOMS OF COFFEE-NERVES?
SLEEPLESSNESS, INDIGESTION, NERVOUSNESS, OR IRRITABILITY.
2
WHY DO YOU ADVISE PEOPLE WHO HAVE COFFEE-NERVES TO SWITCH TO POSTUM?
POSTUM CONTAINS NO CAFFEIN OR OTHER STIMULANT. IT CAN'T FRAY NERVES.
3
IT'S ECONOMICAL, TOO. IT COSTS LESS THAN ½¢ A CUP.
THERE ARE TWO FORMS OF POSTUM: POSTUM CEREAL, BREWED LIKE COFFEE; AND INSTANT POSTUM, MADE INSTANTLY IN THE CUP. BOTH ARE DELICIOUS.

"White-Wash" Winnie
EVERYONE ENVIED HER WHITE WASHES IN WINTER
WHY, WINNIE! HOW DID YOU GET SUCH A BEAUTIFUL SNOW-WHITE WASH IN WINTER? YOU'D THINK IT HAD DRIED IN THE MID-SUMMER SUN!
OUR THINGS ARE ACTUALLY DINGY NOW THAT WE DRY THEM INDOORS. I WISH WE KNEW WHAT YOUR SECRET IS.
NO SECRET ABOUT MY WASH! I JUST USE THAT MARVELOUS NEW SOAP--HIGH-TEST OXYDOL. IT GETS CLOTHES AS MUCH AS 9 TO 11 SHADES WHITER, SUN OR NO SUN!
YOU SAY HIGH-TEST OXYDOL HAS A WONDERFUL NEW INGREDIENT?
ACTUALLY GETS CLOTHES DAZZLING WHITE WITHOUT SCRUBBING OR BOILING, EVEN IN MID-WINTER?
THAT'S RIGHT! YOU SHOULD SEE HOW IT SOAKS OUT DIRT IN TEN MINUTES--YOU DON'T EVEN TOUCH A WASHBOARD!
AT THE STORE
AND YOU'RE SURE THIS HIGH-TEST OXYDOL IS SAFE FOR WASHABLE COLORS AND HANDS?
POSITIVELY! MY WIFE WASHES PRINT DRESSES IN IT OVER AND OVER--AND THEY FAIRLY SPARKLE! AND IT DOESN'T REDDEN OR ROUGHEN HER HANDS!
THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING
IT'S TRUE! JUST 10 MINUTES AND THIS TOWEL'S WHITE AS SNOW. I NEVER DREAMED ANY SOAP COULD GET CLOTHES SO WONDERFULLY WHITE IN WINTER TIME!
AND DID YOU SEE HOW MUCH FARTHER OXYDOL GOES! THINK HOW WE'LL SAVE ON SOAP!

Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

JUST SEE HOW THEY SPARKLE! THEY'RE FRESH AND SWEET AS A DAY IN JUNE!
AND THINK! WE'LL HAVE "JUNE-DAY" WASHES ALL WINTER LONG -- NOW WE'VE DISCOVERED THAT MARVELOUS HIGH-TEST OXYDOL.

GET CLOTHES SHADES WHITER EVEN IN MID-WINTER

...with this amazing "NO-SCRUB" soap that's Really Safe!

NOW—see clothes come so sparkling white you'd think they had dried in the summer sun! See washable colors come bright and gay as a day in June—thanks to a new miracle soap creation, High-Test Oxydol!

Fortified by a revolutionary new soap ingredient, High-Test Oxydol has been proved to do these things:

(1) Gets white clothes as much as 9 to 11 Tintometer shades whiter than many popular soaps.

(2) In tub washing, it soaks out dirt in just 10 minutes. No scrubbing, no boiling—a few quick rubs for extra-dirty spots, a good douse, rinse, and you're through! You needn't even touch a washboard.

(3) Cup for cup, gives up to 3 times the suds of many well-known soaps. Rich, energetic suds that last as much as 2 to 3 times longer.

Yet new High-Test Oxydol is SAFE for every washable color and fabric. So safe that even gay cotton prints, given the equivalent of more than a full year's washing, came out brilliant, sparkling, fresh. And Oxydol's kinder to hands than a whole group of popular soaps tested in our scientific laboratories—doesn't make hands red or rough!

Ideal for tub washing, High-Test Oxydol also works wonders in washing machines old or new. Its rich, thick suds soak out dirt while the washer is running—give DOUBLE-ACTION wash.

Oxydol can save money, too! Penny for penny, it goes so much farther than less economical soaps, it can cut laundry soap bills as much as one-fourth.

So no matter what soap you've been using, try new High-Test OXYDOL for your next washing, in tub or machine. See if you aren't thrilled with Oxydol's snow-white winter washes, with Oxydol's speed and safety—compared to any soap you've ever tried! We believe you'll never go back to less efficient soaps again. Get a package today. Procter & Gamble.

If America Must Fight Let It Pick Time and Place

By HUGH M. COLE

The author of the accompanying article is a member of the faculty of the history department of the University of Chicago and has written extensively on international and military subjects. The views that he expresses here are entirely his own and not necessarily, therefore, to be construed as those of The Tribune.

AS A NATION we face two problems in determining our policy of national defense. The first is the necessity of preparing for an immediate crisis which may find us fighting a foreign enemy within the next few months. The second is the development in this country of a long-range plan for national defense which has thus far been lacking in our national history but which now should be forged during the white heat of the existing emergency.

Obviously, however, the first problem, that of immediate military policy, requires our present thought and attention. Here we should take a purely objective view and should allow no consideration except that of logical and reasonable self-interest. There is nothing in the whole realm of history more starkly realistic than the corpses on a battlefield, unless it is the collapse of a people and a civilization when their defenses are destroyed by an enemy. It is this realistic approach which our people and our leaders must now apply in the field of national defense.

Our essential problem, therefore, can be summed up very simply as the preservation of our national independence. England is fighting a battle for self-preservation as a nation at the present moment. The French, Polish, Dutch, Norwegian, and Belgian soldiers who are aiding the English are also fighting for a very objective and realistic end—that is, the reëstablishment of their separate national independence. It is true that in the long run we may be able to think in terms of the restoration of international law so as to govern the relations between nations. We may ultimately be able to restore peaceful international trade and coöperation. Perhaps, years from now, it may be possible to create a universal and supernational cultural unity. It will do no harm, and it may actually do some good, to think in terms of a great struggle, world-wide in scope, between democracy and totalitarianism. But, stripped to its fundamentals, the problem of national defense is simply this: First, to avoid actual conquest of the United States by a foreign power; second, to prevent any capitulation which may bring us under enemy control in fact while in theory the letter of our sovereignty is still observed. The Vichy government of France is a case in point, and in an era of such queasy phrases as "undeclared war" and "nonbelligerency" actual invasion of our territory can no longer be the yardstick by which we are guided.

Unfortunately, there is a tendency constantly increasing in our country to identify this problem of national defense with the possible defeat of England at the hands of Germany and her allies. This a dangerous tendency both from the point of view of our material preparations for war in this country and from the more indefinite point of view of our national morale.

His Stars Helped Build Hollywood

An Imposing List of Film Greats

Looking at Hollywood with John Chapman

MACK SENNETT

Hollywood.

A GOOD way to start a discussion is to say, "Well, who made Hollywood?" Some will say it was—and is—the cowboys and argue that it was and is the western that provided the backbone for the movie business. Others will quote history to you and say it was C. B. De Mille, who came here because the weather was bad in Flagstaff. Still others will say, "Comedians."

And the third argument is a good one. In compiling a list of those who have lasted the longest and gone the farthest you can do no better than take the invitation list sent out by Republic Pictures about a month ago. The occasion was a party dedicating a new sound stage in memory of Mabel Normand, and those invited were the others of the Mack Sennett days.

Heading the list was, of course, Sennett himself—Gene Fowler's Father Goose. More about him in a minute. Then came the Keystone Cops and the Bathing Beauties. Who are they? You'd be surprised.

Bathing Beauties—Mrs. Darryl F. Zanuck, Mrs. Hal B. Wallis, Mrs. Harry Joe Brown, Mrs. Clark Gable, Gloria Swanson, Mrs. William Seaman.

And then there's a long and remarkable list of those who worked in other capacities for Sennett in Mabel's time: Frank Capra, W. C. Fields, C. Spencer Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Wallace Beery, Marion Nixon (Mrs. William Seiter), Stuart Heisler, Slim Summerville, Andy Clyde, Hank Mann, Chester and Heinie Conklin, Polly Moran, Babe Hardy, Edgar and Tom Kennedy, Monte Blue—and on and on and on.

Most of these people are big shots—bigger than ever—or wives of big shots. Take them out of pictures and pictures would suffer an almost mortal blow. And what of Mack Sennett himself? He sits on the side lines, dreaming of making movies once again and writing stories and seeing old cronies and going to movies. You might think that Sennett could be a little sick of movies by now, but he isn't. Every night of his life he goes to a picture show, except on the evenings when he has standing dates. And at those times he catches a matinée.

Perhaps the closest of his cronies is W. C. Fields. Once every other week Bill goes to Mack's apartment for ham and cabbage (Mack's mother was Irish). Sennett cooks it himself. The next week Mack goes to Bill's house for ham and cabbage. Fields doesn't cook it himself, and he says it never is as good as Mack's.

The friendship between the two dates back a long time and might also have ended a long time ago. Bill had a contract to make several pictures for Sennett. After each one Fields would quit because the cutting of the picture didn't suit him. Cutting still doesn't suit him. Then Sennett would suggest a game of golf and they'd get out on the links, and Sennett would say:

Fields would agree—and would quit again. Finally Bill said:

"I like you too much to have all these arguments. Let's tear up that contract and just play golf."

And that was the way it was.

One of Sennett's masterpieces of cutting involved one of his Bathing Beauties, Carole Lombard. She had been in a number of comedies, and finally Mack gave her the chance at a romantic lead in "The Girl from Nowhere." Carole had to cry in this one—saying good-by to her lover—and she couldn't cry. So they equipped her with a crying machine, if you remember what that was—a rubber bag on the back under the dress, and small tubes running up thru the hair as close as possible to the eyes. The bag was filled with milk. When Lover embraced Miss Lombard he gently squeezed the bag, and milk trickled down her nose. It was a hot day, and the scene was an exterior, and the milk had turned sour. Crying sour milk made Miss Lombard very ill.

However, that isn't the cutting story. The picture was completed. It was very long for those days, and, according to opinion at a sneak preview, very bad. So Sennett took a pair of scissors—not even a cutting machine—and neatly snipped "The Girl from Nowhere" in half. The first half he released under the original title. The second half he released as "The Girl from Everywhere." And both pictures made a lot of money.

TO THE MEMORY OF LOVABLE ARTIST
MABEL NORMAND

(Acme photo.)

Louise Fazenda, M. J. Siegel (president of Republic Productions), Mack Sennett, Judy Canova, William Farnum, Heinie Conklin, and Charlie Murray, at dedication of sound stage to Mabel Normand.

• • •

Dipping again into the Mabel Normand memorial party list of bathing girls, we come upon Mrs. Zanuck, who was Virginia Fox, Buster Keaton's leading lady. Her husband runs Twentieth Century-Fox, and she runs a home which includes two daughters and a son, and in her spare time she works like mad for the Bundles for Britain organization. Then there is Mrs. Hal Wallis, who was Louise Fazenda. Her hubby is the executive producer at Warners', and she runs a home which includes one young son and several acres of grapes and nuts which are marketed commercially. The farm management is all hers, and she prefers being a business woman to taking part in Hollywood society.

The Sally Eilers that was is married to Harry Joe Brown, a producer, and the Phyllis Haver that was is the wife of Billy Seaman, the wealthy New York tea and canned goods man.

So imposing has been the success of the Keystone Cops that you really wouldn't be surprised to hear that Charles Evans Hughes or Cordell Hull once participated in the comedy chases. There's Raymond Griffith, who talks in a perpetual whisper because he was gassed in the World war and who until a few months ago was associate producer under Zanuck. Griffith, who is cautious and wealthy, may turn up this year as an independent producer with United Artists. There's Eddie Cline, about whom you read on this page a few weeks ago.

There's Wesley Ruggles, one of the top director-producers, whose "Arizona" was one of the most costly pictures of 1940. There's Frank Lloyd, who still talks with a Scotch inflection and who made last year a moderately received but really excellent historical spectacle, "The Howards of Virginia." Lloyd is now an independent producer on the Universal lot, with plans for making "The Lady from Cheyenne" and "The Flying Yorkshireman."

Many another Cop is directing or producing some of the best pictures you are seeing today. Did you see Marlene Dietrich in "Seven Sinners"? Remember the fight? It was the work of Tay Garnett. There's Lloyd Bacon, who claims he has the record for directing money-making pictures. His newest will be Errol Flynn's "Footsteps in the Dark."

In the party invitation list you will come upon the name of Harold Lloyd. Lloyd very early discovered the advantages of working for himself, became one of Hollywood's wealthiest citizens.

Lloyd recently became a producer on the RKO lot and has just finished a picture called "A Guy, a Girl, and a Gob," in which he does not appear. If plans work out he next will present himself in a film—the first Harold Lloyd comedy in a long time. It's called "My Favorite Spy."

• • •

Mack Sennett sits on the side lines, paying his way into movies and cooking ham and cabbage and writing film stories. Bill Fields says that Mack knows all of the gags, since there are only seven or eight original gags anyway, and that these can be "two-dollared up." What Fields means is that they can be smartened and dressed and made subtle for modern audiences. The Sennett pupils and hired hands are great men; most of them are listed in "Who's Who in America"; but he isn't.

Since I started this argument in the first place, about who made Hollywood, I can put in my nickel's worth. That is one grand thing about the movies—anybody can sound off about what should be done. Mack Sennett and the people he developed help make it, and their heyday was a wonderful one in which a kick in the pants or a pie in the face or the wide-eyed gaze of Mabel Normand meant money in the till.

Today the cinema has gone arty and subtle. When Rosalind Russell kicks a gentleman comedian in the pants the deed is surrounded by a production; when Brod Crawford taps Marlene Dietrich on the chin it is so remarkable that it becomes news. Perhaps one of the troubles today is that all of the gags have been two-dollared up. Maybe Mack Sennett had better come back to work instead of being guest of honor at the dedication of a new sound stage in memory of Mabel Normand.

"So long as Japan believes that we may well abandon Europe and turn to the Pacific with all our forces there is a good chance that we may not have to fight in that area at all." American plane carriers Saratoga and Lexington at anchor off Honolulu.

as it is, should end tomorrow, this country would still be faced with its own national defense and would have to solve that problem alone. So long as our defense and that of England are thus identified it is only to be expected that two courses of action will be placed before the American people as if they were the only alternatives: One, the acceptance of the collapse of England and the resultant collapse of the United States as an independent power, or, two, intervention by the United States in the present European hostilities, with or without a declaration of war.

Of course there is no question where our sympathies lie, and certainly there is very little question that our position in fact is that of a nonbelligerent and not a neutral. One may go still farther and admit, with all deference to the logic of the problem of defense, that our position in the world is safer if England remains alive than if England is destroyed. But we will fight alone if England falls, and those who believe that Americans will hastily toss in the sponge to the totalitarian states the day that the Union Jack ceases to fly over the British Isles are misreading the character of their compatriots here in the United States. The immediate question, therefore, boils down to a rather shocking statement of the case: Should we declare war now?

The reasons alleged for our immediate intervention on the side of the English are many and of varying degrees of validity. One reason often brought forward by adherents of an English alliance is that we owe England armed support now in an attempt to restore the European equilibrium and a peaceful society of nations, because we failed so lamentably to aid in the construction of a peaceful European system by not giving our adherence to the league of nations.

A second reason for intervention is that advanced by those of our citizens who have a rather self-abnegating attitude toward European culture, particularly in its English form. American culture, it is alleged, is so dependent on that borrowed from England that we cannot allow our mother culture to be destroyed. These two reasons can be immediately discounted by any person who is trying to deal with the objective realities of war and peace and national defense.

A third reason suggested for our embarkation upon a warlike course is a more realistic one and therefore deserves some further consideration. In this instance it is alleged that America will be helpless in the face of a strong coalition of bitter enemies unless she has a strong ally such as England. There is much to be said for this view, but Poland, Norway, Holland, and Belgium, even France and England, all have shown in their own recent experiences that the state which prepares to defend itself alone, if need be, is the only state which has or can hope to have a secure foundation for its national defenses.

A question which should be asked at this moment of all those who demand that we win an ally by going to the aid of that ally is the question as to what form such aid must inevitably take. Too many people have failed to realize the importance of the military lessons learned in 1939 and 1940—that wars are won only by the total use of every single resource of the belligerent state.

England prepared her military institutions upon the theory that she could engage in a war which would not be total in its social, economic, and military implications. England sent fewer troops into Flanders and Belgium than she could have raised and trained because she was not fighting a total war, and England was very fortunate to retrieve any of her troops and supplies from that rather half-hearted venture.

France hoped that, having built a wall upon her frontier, it would be possible to mobilize her industries and her raw materials after a war had begun, and in leisurely fashion prepared in the midst of hostilities to fight a total and victorious war. The same sort of argumentation is being adduced in this country today by those who wish our military policy to be based upon a declaration of war first and a subsequent mobilization of our entire resources and the ultimate hope of a strong army built over a period of months and years while actual hostilities are going on. This is directly contrary to the theory of modern and total warfare.

If tomorrow we should intervene on the side of England there would be probably two phases in our activity. One would be the granting of so-called moral support, some material aid in the way of planes and ships, and piddling drafts of troops and specialists to show the flag in the British Isles. The second course, and one which we would be forced to take very soon, by American public opinion if nothing else, would be that of a huge A. E. F., much larger than the one we mobilized in 1917-'18, supplying its own arms, its own planes, and its own transportation to some spot on the world map where we could coöperate with our English ally. It is futile to argue that such a spot for the deployment of an A. E. F. is not available. Whether strategically sound or not, we would find our armies, untrained as they might be, operating in North Africa, in the Mediterranean proper, and all along the European coast from Norway to the Portuguese littoral

Recently a high-ranking officer of the United States army was quoted in the press as if inferring that our best defense against an aerial attack was to fight abroad. This is exactly the argument which was advanced in England prior to 1939 by those who opposed the creation of a large force of bombers. It was said then that antiaircraft guns on the French frontier manned by a British expeditionary force could protect London from bombs.

Another cause of interventionalist sentiment in this country is found in the theory that in modern warfare the offensive has such a great advantage over the defensive that the United States, in order to defend itself, must take the offensive in Asia, in Africa, in Europe. Actually the strength of the offensive in present-day warfare has never yet been proven against an equally strong defensive force, and it may well be that when the German army faces an enemy that has equal strength in man power, planes, tanks, and guns the offensive will cease to have that predominance which it has recently possessed.

If We Are Going to Fight We Should Choose Our Own Time and Place

A glance at the world map on page one, showing the position of the United States in relation to its potential enemies, gives a graphic answer to the plea for an offensive across the Atlantic or Pacific. American troops, for example, might be sent to Portugal or North Africa in the event of a declared war against the axis. This would involve the transport of troops a distance of more than 3,000 miles. We could not expect the "transport miracle" of 1918, when no ships or men were lost, for today German air power reinforces the submarine menace.

Furthermore, the transport problem would be much greater, because of the shipping required in 1941 for the machinery accompanying the modern army. The argument for an "all-out" offensive in Europe or Africa as a means of keeping bombs away from New York City becomes rather ludicrous when translated into miles on the map. Our front dooryard is now the chain of Atlantic bases and the lands of South America. If we are prepared to draw an offensive-defensive line there we still have a good chance of keeping hostilities away from our own soil.

In any case, if an A. E. F. should be landed on European shores within the next two years such an expedition would lack that superiority which the offensive clearly requires. So long as we are prepared to take the offensive in our own hemisphere we will not have to fight directly in our own front yard, but neither will we be exposed to catastrophe by fighting in the European front yard, where the blitzkrieg machinery operates best. We may as well admit that our army is not yet ready to enter upon an offensive campaign outside of this hemisphere. Its training, its leadership, its housing, its supplies, its equipment and armaments are at the present in an almost unbelievable condition of chaos and confusion. As yet our military leaders have not even made the necessary decision as to whether we should create a smaller mobile army for defense of this hemisphere or a larger and more unwieldy force for campaigning in all parts of the world.

Since time is pressing, first things should come first, and our initial consideration in creating the new army—for it will be a new army—should be the creation of a fighting force strong enough to repel invasion in any part of this hemisphere or its island approaches. Even this sort of a mobile army will require months to obtain adequate materiel, training, and physical seasoning. We need tanks, planes, artillery of all descriptions, more men than we have yet under arms, time for training and large-scale maneuvers so that both officers and men can learn modern battle techniques on a huge scale; we need shipping to transport our men and to protect our army, and finally we need the confidence which can only be engendered in our army and in the civilian population by the knowledge that everything has been done to make our army an adequate fighting machine before it takes the field.

Does such a program of defense preparation mean appeasement of Hitler and the Nazi forces? Obviously not. It requires first that all possible arms and munitions be sent to Britain, and further it requires that our production be stepped up above the limit of our own demands, so that even if Britain falls we can divert to our South American allies sufficient arms and munitions to make these allies of some real use to us in time of war.

If the problem of national defense is to be considered realistically it is necessary that we arm, mobilize, and prepare our public morale as if England had already fallen and Nazi troops were in Portugal and Dakar practicing landing operations and amassing bombers for use in this hemisphere. The arguments advanced in 1939 that the Maginot line could only be overrun by millions of men, thousands of tons of explosives, and at the cost of hundreds of thousands of casualties should not be used to raise false hopes in connection with our defensive position. The scope of the impossible in warfare has been very drastically limited in recent months by the Nazis, who have already proclaimed themselves our enemies. The use of planes and automatic fire power, plus the marvelous transport system worked out by the Nazis in the Norwegian campaign, indicate how little reason we have to feel secure behind the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Until we have a two-ocean navy Japan must be considered as a potential enemy strong enough to draw our fighting fleet away to the Pacific while we are menaced by an amphibian attack thru the Soutn Atlantic. Our widely heralded bases in the Atlantic do not protect the lower part of South America, and we cannot allow this part of the hemisphere to fall into Nazi hands thru the vain hope that the United States can defend itself north of the bulge in Brazil.

If the Panama canal, a very vulnerable link in our defense scheme, should be rendered unusable—and our chief of staff has said that this is possible—the American navy can only move to the Atlantic by way of the strait at the tip of South America. A Nazi invading force established there can secure submarine bases and menace and perhaps gravely cripple our battle fleet moving from the Pacific to the Atlantic. It is true that there is little likelihood of a direct Nazi attack on our Atlantic seaboard, but it is quite in line with Nazi military theory to turn our Atlantic defenses by an enveloping movement from South America thru the gulf and Central America into the Mississippi and Ohio valleys. Nearly 40 years ago our present chief of infantry (Major General Lynch) pointed out that this was the most vulnerable part of the whole continental United States.

It should be remembered by those who scoff at a Nazi invasion of South America that Germany has nothing to lose in such a military venture but her invading force, while in the long run the United States stands to lose her independence. The odds, therefore, are too great for any sleep-walking tactics in our national defenses. Another delusion rife in this country is that the Germans are afraid to attack the United States because the American army beat the imperial German army on the field of battle in 1918. Unfortunately for us, the present Nazi army does not believe that Germany was beaten by the American army in the first World war and has constantly taught that the A. E. F. was a very mediocre fighting machine.

By its very nature the Nazi blitzkrieg cannot stop moving even after the conquest of the entire European continent. It is aggressive, expansive, and depends upon the constant use of a militarized society for the attainment of military objectives. Those who believe that the Nazis can become a "saturated" people should look at the faces of the German soldiers as shown in news reels picturing the victorious entry into Oslo or Paris. Today the most powerful army in the world is still undefeated and still on the march. Today, across the Pacific, a battle fleet exists which may be actually as formidable as our own and which as yet has never been defeated on the seas.

We have, fortunately, enormous natural advantages in dealing with just this situation. The United States has a larger available man power than Germany. The individual American soldier is by his training in everyday life better able to show that initiative in modern warfare which mechanized tactics require. Our economic system of production has taught the world practically all it knows about mass production and the speed-up in industry. No nation on the globe has the raw material, the knowledge, and the techniques for building planes, tanks, and guns in the mass equal to the United States. Our civilian population has been told for years that the United States possesses better roads, more telephones and radios than the rest of the world combined. We use as political slogans such phrases as "A car in every garage," and our high school boys can take down flivvers and put them together again. Our system of railway transport is the best in the world.

Potentially, therefore, we are far in advance of those who first made the blitzkrieg in the possession of the integral parts of the blitzkrieg machinery—that is, mass production of arms, superior communication facilities, and adequate and well organized systems of supply and transport. Strategically we possess the great advantage of internal lines—that is, a central position between our two potential enemies whereby we can turn to fight first one and then the other, defeating such an allied combination as Germany and Japan in detail.

Our policy, therefore, should be to retain this hemisphere as a base of military operations, and if we finally determine for reasons of cold, hard military and diplomatic logic to carry the struggle to our enemies we should do so only after choosing for ourselves the time, the place, and the enemy. The first of these three essentials can only be determined in relation to the speed of our production and the capabilities shown by our military leaders in training the new draft army.

All possible efforts must be put forward to cut down the time before we can face the Nazi army with an American army equal to it in armaments, superior in its fighting planes, and at least equal in numbers and in the quality of peacetime training. If we delay we may not be able to choose our time, but may be forced to fight at a time determined upon by our enemies. The second factor involves the determination by our military leaders as to the place where we will meet the enemy, but it will be largely surrendered if we enter the war now as a subordinate partner to the British fleet and armed forces.

The German successes up to the present moment have been to a considerable degree the result of the element of surprise, the Nazi high command choosing that point in the enemy's defenses where the attack is least expected and where the defenses are least strong. We should prepare to use that same advantage and concentrate our forces, when and if we fight outside of this hemisphere, at a point where weaknesses are apparent and where an attack from this hemisphere is least expected.

Finally, since we have an enemy at our front and our back doors, enemies which may be counted upon to act in union because of common selfish interests, it is necessary that we refuse to tip our hand and indicate in advance which of the two we intend to deal with first. So long as Germany is not certain as to whether we intend to withdraw from the Pacific and concentrate our main forces in the Atlantic European area, we have a very great moral advantage. On the other hand, so long as Japan believes that we may well abandon Europe and turn to the Pacific with all our forces there is a good chance that we may not have to fight in that area at all.

The United States will not be ready to fight a first class power or concentration of powers until the end of 1942, or more likely the spring of 1943. She will not be ready to fight at that date if the army training program and the production schedule in the armament and aircraft industries continue at the present pace. Unless the defense policy of this country is put upon an actual wartime basis immediately we have the prospect before us of fighting not in Brazil or Argentina or Hawaii, but actually on the borders of Texas or Louisiana.

Dear Miss Tinée: In a recent column you stated in answer to a query of who were the players in "The Return of the Scarlet Pimpernell" that it was an English cast. Sophie Stewart and Margaretta Scott are English! There are Scottish Listers, and Barry Barnes has an Irish slant to it. What is the objection to saying they are British players?—which they most assuredly are, as anything on the British Isles is, and so that name is legally correct. When you say that anything in the British Isles is English you are committing a boner from any angle—England (née Angleterre) is not and never was the land of the Angles; the only land in Britain the Angles could be said to possess was the six feet of soil the French Normans consigned them to. The Angles never had a king; the Saxons had seven and the Danes one kingdom — Northumbria; Knut, Hardiknut, and others — and the Danes still hold Northumbria with the title of earl of Northumberland. The French Normans destroyed most of the historical data and forced the name of Angleterre on the land, or tried to but failed, so the makeshift name became standard after 200 years.

Editor's note: Excuse, plees! Your knowledge fair bowls me over. Come again!

Dear Miss Tinée: I enjoy Alice Faye very much and would like you to tell me all about her. Could you also print her photograph? Is there any way of obtaining a record of some sort with Alice singing? She has a lovely voice and should sing over the air. Thank you. VIOLET K.

Alice Faye

Editor's note: Miss Faye's real name is Alice Leppert. She was born in New York, May 5, 1915. Attended dancing classes of Chester Hale. Joined chorus of Hollywood restaurant, worked in chorus of Palais d'Or floor show, and sang in chorus of George White's "Scandals" before entering motion pictures. Went to Hollywood with Rudy Vallee and his orchestra in 1934. I believe you can obtain some of Alice Faye's records at any reliable music shop.

Dear Miss Tinée: Just a few words to clear up an error made recently in your column. Two of your followers were under the impression that Douglas Montgomery appeared in "Waterloo Bridge." For their information, the young man did not play in this picture. This is confirmed by the cast I have on hand and witnessing of the picture by the writer. Yours for continued success. Sincerely,

WILLIAM GUNDEL.

Editor's note: That was no error, sir; just a misunderstanding. Douglas Montgomery, under the name of Kent Douglas, appeared in the silent version of "Waterloo Bridge," and Robert Taylor played the male lead in the picture of the same name recently released. Happy to straighten it out for you.

AIR RAID OVER ENGLAND
MESSERSCHMITT BOMBERS
16,000 Ft. Level
14,000 Ft. Level
10,000 Ft. Level

THE STORY OF THE PICTURE

THE NAZI raid formation diagrammed at the right is a reproduction of a sketch made last fall by a Tribune correspondent who watched the planes drone over Kent heading for East London. The sketch was possible because—altho the entire group was passing at a speed of 225 to 250 miles an hour—it was spread out over more than 72 square miles of sky. The group covered an area about eight or nine miles wide and nine to ten miles long.

This particular raid came at a time when the Royal Air force had been knocking down between 100 and 180 German planes in a single day. The Germans then still were sending over as many as 1,000 planes in a single daylight period. However, the Germans—as is evident in the drawing—had begun by this time to provide strong fighter escorts for their bombers. When the intense bombing of London was started the Germans relied on vast squadrons of as many as 400 heavy bombers to protect themselves without fighter assistance. The heavy toll, however, forced a new ratio of protection. It started with squadrons of 50 fighters escorting units of 50 bombers. Within a matter of days—as the British scores continued to mount—a dozen bombers were being escorted by 50 or more fighters. Such was the case when the accompanying drawing was made. A short time later the Germans ceased to use heavy bombers by day, confining their operations to nights. The little fighters were fitted to carry 300-pound bombs and act as a nuisance fleet—the tactics still adopted over London by day.

On the day this flight was made, however, 10 heavy Heinkel 111K twin-engined bombers were flying a tight V formation at 12,000 feet—just beyond the height where antiaircraft is efficient but not too high to prevent fairly accurate bombing. The 111K's weigh up to 26,000 pounds each and carry 4,000 pounds of bombs and fuel for 10 to 12 hours of cruising. Their top speeds are 278 miles an hour at 16,000 feet.

For part of their escort they have the 21 Messerschmitt 110 fighters that are flying equally tight formations at 20,000 feet. The Messerschmitts are about three miles behind and above the Heinkels—protecting their tails. The 110s at top speed have a range of 700 miles.

All the other planes shown in the diagram are Messerschmitt 109s—a fast single-motored fighter with top speed of 354 miles an hour at 16,000 feet. It is not quite so fast as the Spitfire, but slightly faster than the Hurricane.

As shown in the drawing, the 109s are flown in groups of four. These split into pairs for combat. Experience abroad has shown that the old element of three planes is unwieldy in combat and requires too much attention of the wing men. So the Germans dropped one wing man, which leaves a leader and a follower. As the leader turns and weaves in combat the follower crosses over to remain always on the outside of any given turn. It requires little attention on the part of the follower pilot and provides much fire power.

The 109s crisscross above the main formation at all times. Some scout out on the wings. Some are ahead, others behind and above. It is their duty to close with British fighters.

Because the tails of the Heinkels are well protected, the British pilots seem to prefer to dive straight into the point of the bomber V formation and scatter the group with their superior fire power.

AIR RAIDS, 1917-1918

(From the Tribune London Bureau.)

THE SLOW Gotha bombers that raided England in 1917 and 1918, flying 90 miles an hour, with 400 pounds of bombs in each plane, would appear to be more deadly war instruments than today's 300-mile-an-hour bombers carrying two tons of explosive, according to reports recently issued in London. The Gothas killed 6 persons and injured 27 for each ton of bombs dropped, but today's raiders spread death at the rate of three-fourths of a person for each ton dropped.

This, however, is a highly optimistic picture of the pounding that England is taking from Nazi air raiders today. Deaths in single air raids on London, Coventry, Liverpool, and other cities occur in the thousands today, while in the entire war of 1914-'18 there were only 1,413 killed by air raiders. The difference is in the quantities of bombs dropped—only 280 tons in four years of 1914-'18, but a thousand tons of bombs in a single raid today.

Furthermore, the explosive power of bombs dropped today is considerably greater than that of the missiles of 22 years ago. The aerial bombs of that day—most of them in the 100 to 250 pound class—are overshadowed by 1,100 and 2,200 pound bombs, virtually standard sizes for today's planes.

Possible explanations for the lessening ratio of bomb deaths are the air raid shelters and the advance raid warnings that are possible with modern air raid precaution networks used today. In 1917 and 1918 there were no well prepared air raid shelters, and the whistle of bombs and their accompanying explosions were the first warnings to the civilian populations. Today raids may be reported as much as 20 minutes before the raiders get over metropolitan areas or manufacturing targets.

In 1914-'18 there were only 94 raids on England carried out both by Zeppelins and by airplanes, of which there were 56 by the former and 38 by the latter. The Zeppelins dropped 205 tons of bombs and the airplanes 75 tons, or 373 pounds of bombs for each plane. Totals of 202 Zeppelins and 425 airplanes were over England during that fracas.

Today air raids often have continued for as long as 48 hours, with airplanes over targets all during the period. More than 1,000 planes have crossed the coasts of England in a single daylight period, and a number of night raids on England have been made with as many as 500 planes engaged.

The heaviest toll in the last war was 160 killed in a raid on June 13, 1917, on London. There were 432 injured in the same raid. The British government never has given out figures on casualties after today's raids, but these run into the thousands in many cases, it is known. In the last war there were only two raids, including that already mentioned, in which as many as 100 persons lost their lives.

Match Your Handwriting with the Movie Stars

By SHIRLEY SPENCER

(Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.)

I'VE BEEN rather surprised at the numbers of persons writing in who use the circle "i" dot. Those who use this eccentric formation must admit to some mannerisms which belong in the realm of affectation, fads, and eccentric behavior. This type of "i" dot, which Martha Raye uses to good advantage, was a mark of the trade of journalists, commercial artists, and sometimes telegraphers, but now it has been copied by the general public. With some it is just a fad, and it soon disappears, but occasionally it becomes a part of the individual handwriting. Some of the other screen stars who use this circle "i" dot are Leo Carrillo, William Powell, Marion Davies, and Dick Powell.

This handwriting feature carries with it a slight and oftentimes a decided tendency toward the unconventional. The exotic appeals to these people, as does the latest fad in dress, perfumes, accessories, etc. In handwritings where you can see that it is obviously copied (you can tell because the rest of the handwriting does not back it up with signs of artistic talent), then you know it is an affectation, indicating a desire at least for a distinguishing mark of artistic taste.

It is not surprising to find this circle "i" dot in the handwriting of Martha Raye. It belongs there, as does the evidence of exuberant humor indicated in the amusing letter formations which twist and turn into odd shapes. Her large, sprawled-out script shows generosity and interests. It is difficult for her to pin her mind down to any one thing for long, especially if it is a practical, routine idea. Her mind also does gymnastics!

And those fat, oversize loops in her signature, and the curving beginning stroke on her "M"—well, they reflect her individual and exaggerated sense of humor, as well as her clever dramatization of her talents.

Spice Food with Variety

This oven dinner includes a moist, flavorful meat loaf, quarters of baked squash, corn-stuffed green peppers, and baked potatoes.

Simple Daily Menu Can Be Made Exciting

By MARY MEADE

IT'S IN the easy, inexpensive daily meals for the family that menu variety counts most and is hardest to attain.

Here are two everyday main dish suggestions that are far from everyday when it comes to flavor, and a very simply made date cake to serve as a family dessert.

Quarters of acorn squash, potatoes, and corn-stuffed green peppers are baked with the meat loaf. The squash and potatoes ordinarily require a hotter oven than meat loaf, but by putting them in early the whole dinner can be ready at once. So while they're beginning to bake in a hot oven, mix up the meat loaf. Turn the oven down to moderate when the meat loaf is ready to bake. This should be about 15 or 20 minutes later.

SAVORY MEAT LOAF
(Serves 10)

2 thin slices salt pork (2 inches wide), diced
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 pounds ground beef
½ cup quick-cooking tapioca
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups strained canned tomatoes (juice and pulp)

Fry out salt pork and onion and cook until golden brown. Add pork, onion, and drippings to other ingredients and mix thoroly. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 45 to 50 minutes.

• • •

You'll need one slice of smoked ham (or, for greater economy, four end cut slices) to make the second delectable family dinner dish. While you can cook it all on top of the stove, even to pan-broiling the meat, try broiling according to the directions in the recipe. The dripping juices from the ham will give the macaroni extra zip. Here's how:

BROILED HAM WITH MACARONI AND CHEESE
(Serves four)

½ pound macaroni
1 cup medium white sauce
1 cup American cheese, diced
1 ½-inch-thick slice ham or 4 end cut slices

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Meanwhile add diced cheese to hot white sauce and cook in top of double boiler until cheese is melted. Drain macaroni and place in pan beneath broiling rack, top with cheese sauce, and place under broiler for a few minutes, until sauce bubbles and browns slightly. Then place broiler rack containing ham slices directly over macaroni and cheese and broil until meat is done, turning when top side is nicely browned. Serve at once.

Serve small portions of the date cake—it's quite fruity.

DATE CAKE
(One nine-inch tube cake)

1¾ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup irradiated evaporated milk
1 tablespoon vinegar
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups sliced dates
1 cup chopped nut meats

Sift flour with soda, spices, and salt. Add vinegar to milk. Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add beaten egg, then dry ingredients alternately with soured milk. Begin and end with dry ingredients. Add dates and nut meats with last few stirs. Pour into wax paper lined tube or loaf pan and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for one hour.

Lightly spiced, thick-with-fruit date cake isn't at all hard to make—or eat.

FOR THE NURSERY OR PLAYROOM

● What could be more interesting than adding to the furnishings of nursery or playroom? Stores are full of intriguing things, and there are many gadgets to be had only from the home workshop. Here are three new designs, each easily completed in an evening.

K-9 TOY CHEST

● This chest will restore order in the playroom after an exciting day with toys. The children will love it and pick-up-time will become a happy time instead of a time to dread. Craft Pattern No. 112 shows the dog cut-outs full size and how to hinge the lid so it will open from either side.

113

NURSERY CLOCK WITHOUT TICK TOCK

● A clock for the very young. Its jolly face will delight them. The dial is full size in Craft Pattern No. 113. This design may be cemented to plywood or presdwood, or be redrawn.

HOME COOKS VOTED 4 TO 1 . . .

Hundreds of housewives in 20 cities participated in an interesting home-cooking test conducted by independent investigators. These housewives made Crisco pastry and compared results with their usual shortening. Their choice made Crisco pastry the winner over all other shortenings combined by a 4-to-1 vote! "Crisco pies are flakier and so tender," they reported. "They taste better, too!"

FLAKIER PASTRY! "WHAT A DIFFERENCE IN MY PIES! WITH CRISCO THEY'RE PERFECT—EXTRA FLAKY. MY FAMILY IS THRILLED." Mrs. Hazel M. Mayfield of San Francisco, who tested "Sure-Mix" Crisco against her regular shortening

BETTER TASTING! "THE PIE CRUST TASTES AS GOOD AS THE INSIDES NOW—IT'S DE-LICIOUS!" said Marilyn Manson of Boston, Mass., when her mother made pie in the Crisco test

Scared to make pie crust? Don't be that way!
Clip this recipe—it explains every step to flakier, tender pastry
. . . the kind women who change to New Crisco rave about!

GOOD OLD APPLE PIE

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup Crisco
3 to 4 tablespoons water

1—SIFT FLOUR—measure 2 cups; sift again with salt. Measure Crisco. (Easy way to measure Crisco: Fill measuring cup ⅓ full of cold water. Put Crisco in cup, adding until water reaches "1-cup" line. Pour off water.)

2—CUT CRISCO INTO FLOUR: With 2 knives, one in each hand, use a criss-cross motion (or use a wide-tined fork or pastry blender). Continue until your Crisco-flour mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. (Note: This makes a tender pie crust. If you want a flakier crust, cut Crisco into lumps as big as small peas.)

3—ADD WATER: Sprinkle on a little at a time, stirring so that all parts get evenly moistened and hold together when pressed into a ball. Caution: Dough should look a trifle crumbly—don't let it get sticky-wet. Chill the dough 15 minutes before rolling it out.

4—ROLL OUT DOUGH: (A pastry canvas and a knitted rolling-pin cover make rolling out easier!) Flour board and rolling-pin lightly. Place dough on board; flatten it a bit with rolling-pin; cut in half; roll out one piece into circle a little larger than pie plate and ⅛ inch thick. (Watch that dough! Don't let it stick. If it should stick, loosen with spatula and re-flour board.)

5—TRANSFER TO PIE PLATE. When dough is folded in half it is easy to transfer. Press down gently against bottom and sides of plate; don't stretch dough. Trim dough close to edge of plate.

6—AND HERE'S THE FILLING FOR YOUR PIE . . .
6 apples, peeled and cut in eighths
½ cup white sugar and ½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg
Combine above ingredients (the brown sugar adds richer flavor)—arrange in bottom crust so that apples are tightly packed, and fill plate to the rim. In this way an empty space won't form between crust and filling. Dot top with butter.

7—ROLL OUT TOP CRUST as in Step 4—but roll circle big enough to extend an inch beyond rim of plate. Place lightly over apples. Trim ragged edges. Fold top crust under lower crust and tuck under so juice can't escape. Flute edges with fingers. Place thumb and first finger of left hand on outside edge of pie. With first finger of right hand press dough between other fingers—this gives you a crinkled edge. Gash the top crust so that steam can escape.

8—BAKE PIE in hot oven (400° F.) about 50 minutes.

Modern Cave Men

Three of these photographs by Guy Murchie, Tribune foreign correspondent, picture the strange cave life of some of England's air raid refugees. In sandstone caves 30 feet under a village south of London they gather nightly, some coming from as far away as eight miles. A private cave also is shown here. It is reached thru a tunnel 120 feet long dug by hand by a man 71 years old, who with his wife is shown in two of the pictures. He guided his digging by compass and dead reckoning.

They Dig, Bore, and Scrape

INNUMERABLE and varied are the uses of earth machines in modern warfare and in the preparation of defenses as insurance against war. The accompanying pictures illustrate some of the principal uses of these machines, which dig, bore, and scrape, thus performing tasks essential to military activity and military preparedness.

Like the airplane, a boon to mankind in times of peace but converted most ingeniously to purposes of war, the earth machines all were designed originally for peacetime tasks before they were found to be useful for military work.

In modern-day wars, in which mechanized forces, heavy guns, and the like advance or retire at great speed, it is highly essential that there be plenty of good roads. To build good roads earth machines are necessary, particularly when the roads must be built in a hurry. Track type tractors, power shovels, bulldozers, angledozers, scrapers, carryall scrapers, rooters, and rollers are implements used in road building. These same machines in addition have many uses beyond those of road construction. In the actual business of constructing field works for an army in active service, or of making permanent works such as fortresses or gun emplacements, all of the aforementioned machines at one time or another may be put to use.

The power shovel, for example, digs trash pits and fire trenches, excavates for gun pits, is of great assistance in the construction of air bases, and is virtually indispensable anywhere that a vast amount of earth must be moved in a short time. The bulldozer and the angledozer, machines each with a large curved blade or plate designed for upsetting large quantities of earth at a single stroke or shove, can accomplish certain tasks for which the power shovel might not be particularly suited. Scrapers generally are used for moving earth and leveling surfaces, and carryall scrapers have the advantage of being capable of toting the earth away. Rooters get down deep into the hardest kind of rock-bound earth, while rollers tamp and pack earth surfaces to make them solid.

Not only are these machines employed in the actual building of air bases, but they are extremely necessary in time of war for maintaining bases. A few enemy air bombs dropped upon a flying field can render it unusable because of the bomb craters that result from the explosions. It is here that shovels, scrapers, rollers, and the like go into action at once to level the field again in order that planes may take off and land.

A machine designed to assist armies in the field is the military type trencher. It digs trenches four feet wide and five feet deep at a rate up to 16 feet a minute. On one side of the trench it leaves a parapet of loose earth, while on the other side it scatters the trench spoil. The machine can be set to provide an offset bottom for the trench, the higher part of which is utilized as a firing step. An army in the field could move trenchers such as these under their own power with relatively as little trouble as it moves tanks.

Another machine of practical value in wartime is the earth borer. This is a mechanism equipped with an auger that drills down into the ground. The holes that it makes vary in width according to the diameter of the auger used, the largest being 54 inches wide, and they vary in depth, depending upon the length of the auger shaft.

Earth borers are employed in peacetime tasks making holes for setting poles, for various kinds of foundation work, and for divers other purposes. In war they are used for the aforementioned purposes and in addition for drilling holes for land mines, for planting tank traps, and for similar work. A recent use has been found for the earth borer in digging for delayed-action air bombs that have buried themselves in the earth. Where hand digging may require several hours for a task such as this, the earth borer can do it in a matter of minutes. An American manufacturing company is said already to be sending earth borers to England for the digging up of bombs—machines that will drill four-foot holes to a depth of 20 feet in 12 minutes.

Projection of Monotone Photos

No photographic paper can reproduce all the detail contained in a negative. But if you make a positive print on film and then project this transparency you will be able to hold all the fine gradations of tone captured in the original. (Posed by Renee Haal.)

YOU MAY not know it, but slide projectors have become one of the most popular pieces of equipment for the amateur photographer, who projects today not only his color transparencies but also positive slides made from his black-and-white negatives.

We are back in the era of the magic lantern. Nowadays, however, you project your own pictures, and results are incomparably better than they used to be. It all came about with the introduction of color film. Today a great many still photographs are being taken in color. But making a color print on paper is still very complicated and expensive. So the average amateur has become accustomed to viewing his color transparencies with the aid of a projector and a screen.

This is the reason why hardly any other piece of photographic equipment enjoyed such a wide sale last Christmas as did slide projectors. People are tired of looking at their color shots with a magnifying glass. They project them on specially prepared screens in a darkened room, and they are amazed at the beauty of the greatly enlarged pictures in natural color.

But projectors and screens are fairly expensive, and most amateurs have made only a limited number of really good color shots worth projecting. So the question has come up to what additional uses the projector can be put. And this has led thousands of amateurs to a new hobby within the hobby of photography, to preparing and projecting black-and-white slides.

By adding some of their best black-and-white shots to their color transparencies most amateurs can assemble a collection of pictures which makes it worth while to buy a projector and set it up for their own pleasure and for the entertainment of their friends.

It is quite simple and inexpensive to make a positive lantern slide for projection from the negative of any picture. The results are usually a great deal better than contact prints or enlargements on paper. The reason for this is that the positive film has a much longer tonal scale than any paper and consequently reproduces far more detail from the original negative than paper could. On top of this, you can project any picture to mural size without the slightest trouble, while you rarely make costly mural prints from your negatives.

If you use a 35-mm. camera it is just as easy to make positive transparencies from your negatives as it is to make contact prints on paper. Instead of on paper, you make the print on a strip of film, using the same kind of printing frame employed in making contact prints. After your positive film is developed and dried you cut it up in frames, mount these between glass or paper masks, and they are ready for projection.

To make 2x2-inch projection slides from negatives larger than 35 mm. you must use an enlarger that is equipped for making reductions. Or you can project just an enlarged section of your original negative onto the 35-mm. positive film, automatically cropping off the rest. In either case the process involves just as much or as little skill as making an ordinary enlargement on paper. If you do not feel equal to the job you can have a photofinisher make the projection slides.

So popular have black-and-white slides become that a few weeks ago a new 35-mm. film was introduced for the exclusive purpose of taking pictures for projection. While ordinary film develops as a negative, this new film gives a positive image after development, so that it can be made up in projection slides without further trouble. Reversing the process described above, you make a film (or paper) negative from this positive film and use it for making prints on paper.

If you feel that black-and-white pictures do not mix well with color slides for projection, you can tone your positive transparencies to practically any desired color. And if you do not want to tone them permanently to any one color, you can introduce a variety of tone with the aid of a "color wheel." This contraption consists of a disk into which several round holes have been cut. The holes are covered with colored cellophane. You project thru one of these color filters, and if the tone does not suit you a filter of different color will appear before the projector lens by simply turning the wheel.

Get full value out of your slide projector by screening not only your color transparencies but also your black-and-white pictures.

Mostly About Dogs

Feeding Is Still Top Problem

Shadrach and Duffer, two Old English sheep dogs owned by Jerry Helm, are just seven months old. Note the typical rough, long coat. (Tribune photos.)

THE PROBLEM of feeding the family house pet is the No. 1 question of thousands of American dog owners. Every time we go thru our mail we're impressed with the fact that most new dog owners are bewildered by the problem of feeding the puppy which they have just taken into their home. Here are some of the typical questions which novice owners often ask:

"Are biscuit foods beneficial?"

"Is canned milk or fresh milk better?"

"Is yeast good for dogs?"

"Should I give my dog cod liver oil winter and summer?"

This 10-month-old Great Dane, owned by G. L. Dunlee and named Evanger's Sonja of Dunlee, was photographed a few minutes after it had recorded its third straight win in the puppy classes of three dog shows.

"Are all canned dog foods good for my pet?"

"Are cooked potatoes good for dogs?"

The feeding of dogs has advanced a long way from the time when pets were given anything and everything. Altho some owners still consider the dog as an animated receiver of scraps, garbage, and odds and ends from the table, by far the majority of owners are making a serious effort to give their pets a diet containing necessary healthful foods. Scientific studies of the nutritional requirements of dogs have been a big help in recent years. These studies have been sponsored by universities as well as by manufacturers of dog foods. From this research dog owners have been getting many practical tips on what to feed their pets.

Dr. Agnes Fay Morgan of the University of California recently published the results of a long series of dog feeding experiments conducted by the college of agriculture of the university. Cocker spaniels, German shepherds, chows, Airedale terriers, English setters, and other breeds were used in these experiments. The conclusions arrived at in these tests upheld some of the basic feeding principles which experienced breeders have followed, and they also shattered some of the old beliefs.

Gonfalon Black Bomber, owned by Paul Moser and Doris Flagg, was judged the best solid colored cocker spaniel in a novice bred-by-exhibitor stake of a recent dog show.

For instance, Dr. Morgan states that it isn't true that dogs cannot digest starch. For years dog owners have been told that dogs never should be fed white bread, potatoes, or other starchy foods. One of her feeding experiments involved two diets for two groups of puppies, one containing starch and the other no starch. The dogs which were given a rather heavy starch diet prospered as well as the group which received no starch.

Dr. Morgan points out in her report that many of the successfully used dog foods include cereals in them, and the chief nutriment of the cereals is starch.

Dr. Morgan's experiments to prove the value of vitamin A in a dog's diet were unusually interesting to us because she used a new source for this vitamin in her tests. Instead of turning to the usual sources of A, such as whole milk, tomatoes, beef liver, haliver oil, carrots, and egg yolk, she used prune paste, which is rich in vitamin A. A remarkable difference between dogs fed a test diet without a heavy A content and those given a diet containing about 20 per cent prune paste was noted. Those given plenty of vitamins developed rapidly and grew strong and healthy. The dogs deprived of vitamin A became weaklings. One died of a bad skin disease.

When dogs do not get enough of this valuable vitamin their eyes are affected, in some cases corneal ulcers resulting. Some scientists believe that muscular weakness and paralysis also may result from a lack of vitamin A. The whole idea behind the experiment conducted by Dr. Morgan apparently was not to prove that prunes make a good dog food, but that an adequate intake of vitamin A (whatever its source may be) is vitally needed by healthy dogs.

High grade dog foods are fortified by additions of this vitamin. Vitamin B1 also was tested by Dr. Morgan in her experiments, all of which furnished evidence that this one is extremely important to the health of the average dog. A deficiency of vitamin B1 may cause a lack of appetite and other serious troubles in dogs.

Owners of dogs who are puzzled about what to feed their pets will find many helpful tips on feeding routines in the new book, "Feeding the Dog," which has just been published by this department. This handbook gives correct and complete feeding routines for more than 30 breeds, as well as many practical tips on how to raise a puppy. "Feeding the Dog" is sold by the Public Service Office of The Tribune for 30 cents by mail.

A Sensible Treatment FOR CORNS —for Sensible People

1. A corn is a mass of dead cells (A) whose base presses on sensitive nerves (B).
2. Felt pad (C) relieves pain by removing pressure. Special medication (D) acts on corn.
3. In a few days corn is gently loosened so it may be lifted right out.

IF YOU suffer from corns, you should know about this sensible treatment that has quickly relieved pain and removed corns for millions of people—Blue-Jay Corn Plasters. Here's how they work: First the soft felt pad lifts off pressure so that pain is relieved in a jiffy. Then the special medication gently loosens the corn so that in a few days the corn and imbedded "core" can be easily removed.* It's simple as ABC. So get Blue-Jay Corn Plasters today. They cost very little—only a few cents to treat each corn—at all leading drug counters.

The Story of Fire Engines

THE VOLUNTEER fire fighters of a few generations ago could no more equal the modern professionals and their motorized equipment than a Conestoga wagon could be compared with a 1941 automobile. Nevertheless those old volunteeer fire companies were famous for their speed, their bravery, and their efficiency, and a company might be known and envied the length and breadth of the land if it possessed a particularly good engine.

The first models introduced in America in the colonial days were crude indeed, but they were as much of an improvement over the old bucket brigade as is a modern fire truck over a hand pump. Some of these early models, among the first fire engines used in the United States, are shown in full color on page one of the Picture Section of today's Sunday Tribune. They show the development of fire-fighting equipment from 1731 to 1856, a period when volunteer fire departments, usually furnishing their own equipment and uniforms, had to trundle their wagons to the fires on foot and then pump 60 to 120 strokes a minute to produce a stream powerful enough to reach flames 15 to 20 feet away. It is little wonder that a volunteer fireman was looked upon as one of the élite of the community, not subject to either jury or military duty after he had served a few years in a volunteer department.

One of the first fire engines in the United States was the Hayseed, possession of New York's volunteer fire company No. 1. The Hayseed was one of two engines imported from London in 1731. It was simply a portable pump placed over a portable cistern holding 170 gallons of water, but was an improvement over the giant syringes previously used. It could not draw up water from a cistern or well; the water was poured into its underslung tub from buckets. The purpose of the engine was to develop pressure for water supplied by hand.

The Hayseed was a side-pumper. Four men operated the side handles, or "brakes," while two more stood between the parallel bars atop the engine and pumped treadles with their feet.

Old Brass Backs, No. 3, an end-stroke engine, is said to be the first manufactured in New York. "End stroke" refers to the position of the brakes or pump handles at the end of the engine rather than on the side.

Old Brass Backs was built by Thomas Lote, a cooper and boatbuilder, who delivered the machine in 1743. Like the Hayseed, it was not a suction pump, and water for its cistern or tub was provided by bucket.

The first tub or cistern type engines in America had a gooseneck connection for the nozzle which was considered an improvement over the straight connection previously used, but a satisfactory hose had not been developed, and often these little engines had to be drawn so close to the fire that they were burned.

Later both hose and suction pump were added to the fire-fighting equipment. Black Joke, built in 1824, had these innovations. It could draw up water from a pond, river, or shallow well. Black Joke served with distinction in the great New York fire of 1835, when it was placed on the deck of a brig at the foot of Wall street and pumped water for another engine playing on the fire farther up the street.

Red Rover, No. 34, one of the most famous engines of the old volunteer days, was the property of Howard engine company No. 34 of the New York volunteer department, and No. 15, Old Wreath of Roses, was the property of the "Old Maid" company (so named because it "always put out the sparks"). The Old Maids had a record of always getting to a fire first. The keg on the shaft may explain the unusual record of this company. It contained brandy, spirits, or gin for the stimulation of the members, who were unfailingly prompt in reporting for duty.

John Agnew of Philadelphia built Americus, better known as Big Six, in 1842. Company No. 6 of New York, owner of the engine, was a bitter rival of veteran company No. 1. Frequent fighting resulted when No. 6 and No. 1 reached a fire at the same time, and company No. 6 was finally ordered disbanded in 1846.

The Lafayette engine owned by New York's company No. 19 was built in 1849, and a special running gear was added in 1855, making it one of the finest engines in the country. The White Ghost, pride of company No. 40, was built in 1856, and, in addition to possessing running gear, had a chassis of a special crane-neck construction permitting the front wheels to be turned very sharply. No. 40, known as the Lady Washington company, had a splendid record of "firsts" in arriving at fires, and the company members were ingenious at cutting their time. One of the tricks was to jump the engine over the curb and run it down the sidewalks, which were much smoother than the streets. This practice was finally forbidden by ordinance.

The efficiency of the old-time volunteer departments resulted from their keen competition, but sometimes the rivalry caused trouble, too. Frequently two companies would fight over a strategic position while the fire crackled undisturbed.

The larger engines required a company of 40 to 60 men to handle them. The pumping crews could average 60 to 120 strokes a minute for 10 minutes. Then a fresh crew would jump in without halting the pump. Often in this exchange thumbs and fingers were broken. Crews waiting to work the pumps would stand in rows three or four deep.

Another page of color pictures of old-time fire engines will appear in the Picture Section next Sunday.

HAIR BREATHES NEW COLOR

after a single exciting shampoo with Halo

PERHAPS you have never seen the full-blown radiance of your hair, just because habit has enslaved you to old-style soap shampoos.

Then let one shampoo with Halo reveal amazing improvement in your appearance. Because Halo contains no soap, it cannot leave dulling film to hide the natural luster and color of your hair. Halo removes accumulations of dulling soap-curds from each tiny hair shaft, leaves your headdress radiant with color and brilliance. What's more, with Halo you don't need a lemon or vinegar rinse.

See how Halo Shampoo leaves your hair sparkling, silky-soft, easy to curl. How it gives "eye appeal" to mousey hair. How it gently cleanses your scalp, leaves it fragrantly clean. And Halo Shampoo, because of its new-type sudsing ingredient, makes oceans of lather even in hardest water.

Buy Halo Shampoo in generous 10¢ or larger sizes. It is tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau.

FIRE!

(Story in Graphic Section.)

"HAYSEED," New York City's first fire engine, imported from London in 1731. From its 170 gallon tub, side-stroke pumping handles ("brakes") forced the stream of water thru its gooseneck nozzle.

"OLD BRASS BACKS," first successful machine manufactured in New York (1743). This end-stroke, tub type got its name from its lavish display of brass.

"BLACK JOKE," a gooseneck engine manufactured in 1824, saw service in New York's great fire of 1835. It is shown on runners for travel thru deep snow.

"RED ROVER," a famous engine of New York's volunteer days. Its company, organized in 1807, won a celebrated victory over rival fighters.

"OLD MAID," manufactured in the 1820s, one of the most powerful engines of its time. The body or box was of rosewood, which was highly polished in natural finish.

"BIG SIX," a double-decker built in 1842. In 1850 Boss Tweed of Tammany Hall was elected foreman of its company, and it was a tiger's head painted on the engine that Thomas Nast, the cartoonist, took as his symbol for Tammany.

"LAFAYETTE," an end-stroke double-decker originally built in 1849, rebuilt and equipped with patent running gear in 1855.

"THE WHITE GHOST," built in 1856, a "crane neck" type whose structure permitted the front wheels to turn short under the body.

Quick Relief for THROBBING

COLD WEATHER JOINTS

WHEN THE ICY WIND cuts through you, does it lay you up with painful, grinding "cold-weather joints"? Absorbine Jr. quickly eases those aching joints—brings speedy, joyful relief from such winter torture!

Normally, little blood vessels feed lubricating fluid into the joints. Extreme cold constricts blood vessels. Slows up the supply of fluid. Makes joints "grind" and ache. Hinders your movements and work!

Rub on Absorbine Jr.! Feel the warmth spread, as it speeds up the blood flow—helps nature quickly counteract the effects of cold. Soon your joints "glow" with relief! You'll feel like singing! At all druggists. $1.25 a bottle.

1—Scott's Emulsion has all the values of cod liver oil and is four times more easily digested.

2—Easily Digested—The exclusive method of emulsifying the oil permits digestion to start in the stomach, whereas digestion of plain cod liver oil does not begin until the oil passes to intestines.

3—Tonic-Food Supplement—Beneficial to grown-ups as well as children, especially helpful to those recuperating from illness.

4—Easy to take and retain by children and adults. Scott's Emulsion has a pleasant taste. Supplies normal daily requirements of important Vitamins A and D.

GLORIFYING THE GREAT AMERICAN DUMPLING

Cheese Dumplings

(WITH VEGETABLES OR MEAT)

GET THE RECIPE

It's in the bag

Now!

To make these Cheese Dumplings (made and approved by a Home-Testing Committee) you will need the following ingredients: Ceresota Flour, baking powder, salt, cheese and an egg.

The recipe itself is in the Ceresota bag. So are other new and tempting OK "Home-Tested" recipes. Get them—in the Ceresota bag—at your grocer's now!

Recipes in all bags over 2 lbs.

CERESOTA PURE NOT BLEACHED CERESOTA FLOUR

A Fruity, Flaky Coffee Cake that needs no kneading

CRISS CROSS COFFEE CAKE

OK "HOME-TESTED" RECIPE

Crumble into bowl....1 yeast cake (moist, compressed).
Add....½ c. water—warm not hot
And....¾ c. milk—warm not hot
Also....¼ c. sugar.
Sift, measure, add.....2 c. CERESOTA Not-Bleached FLOUR. Beat smooth.
Add....1 tsp. salt
And....4 egg yolks
Also....¼ c. melted butter OR shortening. Beat smooth.
Sift, measure, add.....2½ c. CERESOTA Not-Bleached FLOUR.

Mix until smooth. Cover bowl with damp cloth and keep cloth damp. Set in warm place until very light. Turn out onto floured cloth without working down. Divide dough. Use half for this coffee cake. Divide this and press half into well-greased deep pan. Pull dough up around edges. Spread with jam or fruit (apricot is illustrated). Roll out rest of dough and cut in ½ inch strips. Arrange criss-cross fashion over fruit allowing fruit to show through. Pinch strips to edge of dough. Brush top with a bit of egg white and sprinkle with sugar. Let stand until light. Bake. Use rest of dough for rolls. BAKE: 375° for 25-30 minutes. MAKES: 2 cakes 9 in. square or 1 cake and rolls.

"As fluffy a dumpling as you ever ate—and a great new idea too."
CONSUMER COMMITTEE

These are not only delicate dumplings—light and feathery—but they borrow an extra appetizing touch from the cheese family. The recipe now in the Ceresota bag and the flour in that bag will give you this appetizing result.

Here's why . . . Ceresota Flour is scientifically blended from choice wheats with the right amount of rich gluten for high-rising lightness—more "up" in baking—more "oomph" for eating.

You can count on Ceresota to give you high-up, generous cakes, biscuits, rolls and bread and flaky pies. Milled by the most modern methods and under laboratory and kitchen control, every bag holds the same uniform quality.

Then remember, Ceresota is air-blown and sifted through silk screens for purity and lightness.

It's the flour for modern women who want to bake well, get through quickly and make every penny count. Ceresota Flour cuts down time by mixing quickly—saves money by going farther.

Your Ceresota OK "Home-Tested" recipes, including these glorified Cheese Dumplings (approved by a Consumer Committee), are now in the Ceresota bag—and the Ceresota bag is at your grocer's—in handy small, medium or large thrift-size. Get your Ceresota and the cheese dumpling recipe tomorrow for next week-end treats to please your family.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON CERESOTA

Small Medium Thrift Size

If you have space in your home for more than 5 pounds of flour, we advise you to save money by buying the large size bags. Our milling costs are lower on larger bags, less packing material and larger production. We pass these savings on to you. In a few weeks these savings help you buy other things or help you cut your budget. Buy the large economical bag—and save.

BIG OUTER DRIVE IN LINCOLN PARK THIRD FINISHED

Minimum of 6 More Months Required.

Construction of the new 100 foot outer drive between North and Belmont avenues is one-third complete, George T. Donoghue, park district superintendent, announced last week.

Supt. Donoghue would set no finish date for the project. Other park district officials said that it would take at least another six months. Completion, they asserted, depends on future allocation of federal funds for the project and on weather conditions.

When the road is finished it will link a limited arterial thorofare 18 miles long, extending from 6700 south to Foster avenue, [5200] on the north. Into the outer drive from Belmont to North avenues traffic will flow not only from the north and south sections of the city, but also from the northwest and west sides. The new drive is expected to relieve congestion for many miles around.

Build Storm Protection.

The time length for the project is figured in man-hours, which include the number of hours spent in construction by all skilled, unskilled, and supervisory labor. To complete the road, it is estimated that it will take a total of 2,813,895 man-hours. Thus far, 912,001 hours have been put into it.

The drive is protected from lake storms by partially submerged bulkheads in the lake 500 feet east of the road. These bulkheads accumulate sand for the beach which will extend the length of the road.

East and west traffic will have easy access to the drive at Fullerton avenue by means of a grade separation which now is under construction there. A steel and concrete bridge with a 120 foot span will be a part of this improvement. The approaches will have a 44 foot roadway connecting with Lincoln Park West. This grade separation is in addition to the one at North avenue which was recently completed.

Subway for Horsemen.

A 24 foot subway for horseback riders and pedestrians is to be constructed south of the present crossover at the foot of Briar place and the outer drive.

The construction of the outer drive, say engineers, will mark a unique departure in road building. The drive has been designed to handle maximum traffic loads with the most economical use of space. One of the features is the use of hydraulically operated fins which channelize the traffic streams into local and express lanes.

Traffic authorities assert that the outer drive area has more traffic in one year than the total 1933 attendance of the Century of Progress.

CLARKE ALUMNI OF 1915 SEEKING MISSING MATES

Members of the Clarke School alumni of 1915 are looking for nine classmates whom they wish to invite to the second annual get-together at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night in the Columbia Yacht club, Washington street and Lake Michigan. The missing nine are Ralph Bergler, Emanuel Chanock, Isaac B. Cohen, Marie A. Hazdra, Rose Mohnen, Helen Muisenga, Anna Sucherman, Rose A. Wunderlick, and John J. Zasadil.

Of the 75 graduates, three are deceased, 11 reside out of town, and the above nine have not been contacted, according to Charles Jacobs, 646 Sheridan road, president. The school, located at 13th street and Ashland avenue, has been converted into a shelter home.

The informal reunion will feature dinner at 9 o'clock, dancing, and a program. Committee members in charge of arrangements are Mr. Jacobs, Harry Gordy, Maurice Sherman, Mary and Al Gorsky, and Celia Sternshein.

LOVE OF MUSIC KEEPS LIVES IN PARALLEL LINES

Paths Start in High School Orchestra.

Music has made a curious parallel of the early lives of two north side boys, Fritz Siegal and Herman Clebanoff. It is essential to say early, for both are now only 23 years old.

Herman Clebanoff.
[Theatrical Photo.]

As youngsters, they lived within a few blocks of each other and attended Lane Technical High school. They began their musical careers as violinists in the high school orchestra. While they were members, the orchestra won a national championship. That same year they played first and second violin in a string quartet which also won a national championship award.

Joined Civic Orchestra.

After high school, they both joined the Civic orchestra. A year later Siegal took the first chair of the Illinois Symphony orchestra and Clebanoff simultaneously became concertmaster of the Civic orchestra and a member of the first violin section of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Clebanoff was only 19 at the time and one of the youngest men ever to become associated with the Symphony.

Fritz Siegal.
[Nelidoff Photo.]

Now Siegal is concertmaster of the Seattle Symphony and San Diego Symphony orchestras and was featured soloist with both this season. When Siegal accepted the out of town post, Clebanoff took his place as concertmaster with the Illinois Symphony and holds that position now.

The two have played together in nearly every important chamber ensemble, concert orchestra, and symphony orchestra in the middle west. Tomorrow night they will appear as guest soloists with the Illinois Symphony at the Great Northern theater. They will present Bach's concerto for two violins. Ralph Rose will be guest conductor.

Comparison Continues.

To continue the comparison outside of their musical careers, they became engaged to girls with somewhat similar last names, Siegal to Bernice Margolis, pianist, and Clebanoff to Helen Margolyne, soprano with the Chicago Opera company.

They planned to be married within a week of each other last spring. However, to outwit his friend and win a long standing bet, Siegal and his fiancée eloped the night before Clebanoff's wedding and brought the ceremonies within a few hours of each other.

CROW ISLAND SCHOOL IN WINNETKA PLANS OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY

Next Sunday the Crow Island school in Winnetka will hold open house from 2 until 7 o'clock. Tea will be served between 4 and 6 o'clock. Mrs. Hazel Gethman is principal of the new school which has attracted hundreds of visitors since it was opened last September. Each classroom is a complete unit, with its own workshop, outside entrance and outdoor garden plot.

Mrs. Hazel Gethman.

The P.-T. A., which is sponsoring the open house, postponed the event until the decorative furnishings were in place, altho the school has been running smoothly since the beginning of the term. Mrs. A. H. Prasse is P.-T. A. president and Mrs. Norman Pritchard is chairman of the open house.

In addition to the functional school furniture, which has many new features such as fabric table tops impregnated with plastic to give the appearance of glass, the P.-T. A. has purchased lounge furniture for the library, lobby and teachers' room. These pieces were made by the Milwaukee WPA in fabrics and colors to harmonize with the school. The new stage curtains also have been hung. The public is invited to inspect the school.

CHURCH SERVICE GUILD TO STUDY CURRENT EVENTS

Mrs. James G. Carr is in charge of the program for study class day of the Service guild of the Evanston First Methodist church Wednesday. Prof. A. R. Hatton will lead the discussion on current events at 11 o'clock. After luncheon Mrs. Winston Tucker will read a play. Sewing and quilting will begin at 10:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Harold W. Kent, 1111 Dobson street, Evanston, will be hostess to the Mothers' circle at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. Miss Harriet Hester, educational director of WLS, will speak on "Radio and Our Children."

The board of the Junior guild will hold its buffet luncheon meeting at 11 o'clock Tuesday in the church house. Reservations should be made by noon tomorrow in the church office.

Plan Theater Party as Aid to the Needy Tubercular

Members of the Chicago Committee of the National Jewish Hospital in Denver will hold a theater party tomorrow evening at the Lunt-Fontanne production of "There Shall Be No Night" at the Grand Opera house. Proceeds will be used for the treatment of Chicago needy tubercular patients at the hospital. Melvin L. Strauss, 2315 Sheridan road, Glencoe, is co-chairman of the party.

HOME IN WOODS IS FASHIONED IN NO. SIDE CHURCH

Cabin Is Headquarters of Scout Troop.

On the third floor of the Edgewater Presbyterian church, 1020 Bryn Mawr avenue, is a room that is the Utopia of Boy Scouts the city over. It is the headquarters of Troop 812 and it has the apperance of the interior of a log cabin.

At one end is a huge fireplace of piled stones with a blazing log fire that gives off a pine aroma. The walls seemingly are of hewn birch logs and the ceiling of huge oak timbers. A picture of several Scouts and an American flag is framed by what appears to be natural white pine saplings. All the benches, chairs, and tables are made of logs.

It's All of Plaster.

But the only wood in the room is the furniture. Everything else—walls, ceiling, picture frames—is sculptured plaster finished off in marble coat and painted to resemble logs. Once a lumber dealer mistook the walls for birch.

The room was so constructed because sponsors of the troop wanted it completely fireproof, yet reminiscent of the woods. "And this is the result," says Theodore R. Bohn, chairman of the troop. "The total cost was $2,500. We raised $1,000 and the rest of the amount was donated in labor and materials by generous craftsmen."

Up to a year ago it had been decided to construct the room entirely of wood. A fire which wrecked the auditorium of the church made the sponsors change their mind. "For our own peace of mind and the safety of the boys, we insisted that the room be fireproof," Mr. Bohn asserts.

Find Wheels in River.

Overhead are two chandeliers made from old-fashioned wagon wheels on which hang lanterlike electric lights. Members of the troop searched for months before finding these wheels. They came upon them one day imbedded in the Des Plaines river. Experts say that the wheels were once a part of some pioneers' covered wagon.

The room is to be formally dedicated some time in February. In addition to their meeting place, the troop has a free lease on 166 acres of wooded land near Deerfield, where the 40 members can camp on weekends all year around.

Walther League to Discuss Proposal for New School

Reports by a subcommittee on Chicago sites for a proposed school to be established by the International Walther league will be discussed today at the final session of a two day conference of presidents at the Stevens hotel. The proposed school would be an extension center to be built by the league with the sponsorship of the board of Valparaiso university at Fort Wayne, Ind.

RECTOR OF PRINCETON CHURCH TO ADDRESS SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Princeton, N. J., will make his first appearance before the audience of the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall. His topic will be "Can God now Communicate with Men?" Clifford W. Barnes will preside at the meeting and the Scripture will be read by Hermon D. Smith.

Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving.

Dr. Kinsolving was a Rhodes scholar from the University of Virginia. After the expiration of his fellowship at Christ Church college he was called as rector of Grace church, Amherst, Mass., which he served for six years, proceeding thence to Trinity cathedral, Boston, Mass., renowned for the ministry of Bishop Phillips Brooks. He went to Princeton last year where he combines his parochial duty with pastoral ministration to the university students.

The Northwestern Lutheran male chorus of 75 voices recruited from Lutheran churches in the northwest area, directed by Edward Nelson, will sing at the 7 o'clock meeting.

271 VOLUNTEERS AMONG INITIAL ARMY TRAINEES

Next Call Is Delayed to Thursday.

A total of 575 draftees from Cook county were inducted into the army for a year of military training during the first four days of the January period, it was announced yesterday by Chicago selective service officials. Of this group 271 were volunteers who elected to start their year's service before their order number is called by their local draft boards.

Ninety-seven of the draftees accepted at the Chicago induction center in the 122d Field Artillery armory, 234 East Chicago avenue, during the four days were sent to the army reception center at Fort Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich. The remaining 478 conscripts were sent to Fort Sheridan.

720 Are Examined.

To select the 575 men who were inducted, army medical specialists and psychiatrists examined 720 prospects, rejecting 145. The main causes of rejection were: teeth, 42 men; mental and nervous conditions, 17; vision, 15; hearing, 14, and alcoholism, 12.

The January inductions, which began on Jan. 3, were ordered discontinued from Jan. 9 to Jan. 16, next Thursday, because of a delay in the construction of the camps in which the draftees will train.

In the list of men inducted for training the letter V signifies a volunteer.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

JEROME I. Gumbiner, 451 Melrose street, recently won the Greenlinger award at the national convention of Phi Sigma fraternity at Dallas, Tex. The award, presented annually to the outstanding member of the fraternity, is based on scholarship and leadership in outside activities. Our Towner Jerry will be graduated in June from the University of Wisconsin and in the fall plans to enter Harvard Law school. He is president of his fraternity chapter. In addition to that office he is chairman of the house committee in the Student union, vice president of the Intrafraternity council, chairman of the Junior prom and chairman of the annual homecoming program.

Jerome I. Gumbiner.

OUR Town is well represented in the juvenile world of learning. Cynthia Cline, 3172 Hudson avenue, pupil in the Frances Parker school, recently was one of the five radio Quiz Kids chosen to appear in a motion picture short showing the junior brain trusters in action. The picture was filmed last week in New York. Cynthia, the Oscar Levant of the Quiz Kids program, has made 19 appearances on the board of juvenile experts.

Two north side young women were selected to demonstrate a shorthand system before more than 2,000 delegates of the 43d annual convention of the National Teachers held recently at the Hotel Sherman. They are Margery Kull, 4925 North Claremont avenue, and Gertrude Leibundguth, 4422 North Seeley avenue. Both are students at the Institute of Modern Business, 624 North Michigan avenue.

WHEN the American Concert orchestra plays one of its Young Artists' concerts Friday evening, two 'teen-aged Our Towners will make their debuts with the orchestra. They are 19 year old Eve Harvey, 3753 North Fremont street, soprano, and Benjamin Blackman, 15 years old, 1514 Arthur avenue, violinist.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Tauber, 7520 South Yates avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Lucille, to Monte Kahn, 511 West Burton place. The young couple is on an extended honeymoon in Florida.

Maurice B. Rivkind, resident member of the Evanston Y. M. C. A., reported recently at Muskogee, Okla., for his first three months of basic training as an enlisted flying cadet.

ILLINOIS flying cadets enrolled at the Sparton school of Aeronautics in Tulsa, Okla., are being drilled by an Our Towner, according to word reaching headquarters of the Sixth Corps area. He is Woodrow Levin, 23 years old, 5240 Sheridan road. He has been appointed cadet captain and is in charge of discipline and military drill of the flying cadet unit there during the 12 week training period. Nearly 100 Illinois cadets are enrolled at the school.

Stamp Auction to Benefit Philatelic Refugee Relief

Valuable stamps will be auctioned off Wednesday at the art center of the Evanston public library for the benefit of the Philatelic Refugee Relief fund. The auction will be sponsored by the Evanston Philatelic society.

They'll Poke Fun at Hollywood

The adolescent dream of going to Hollywood to become a star won't be taken too seriously Thursday and Friday evenings when Lake View High school drama students enact "Don't Take My Penny" in the school auditorium, 4015 North Ashland avenue. The comedy deals with high school actors who, like their hen mascot, "lay an egg" in Hollywood. Elaine Felsenthal is shown holding the egg. Others, left to right, are Paulette Gordon, Tom McKenna, Don Banner, Ray Hurt, Ruth Meins, and Grace Granger.

CADETS FROM 13 SCHOOLS AWAIT HONOR MEDALS

237 Awards to Be Given This Week.

In recognition of their outstanding military work, cadets in the R. O. T. C. units of 13 Chicago public high schools will receive a total of 237 medals and awards this week. Of these awards, 91 are medals donated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Others are bestowed by R. O. T. C. headquarters and patriotic and civic organizations.

The awards will be given in a series of special school assemblies thruout the city beginning on Tuesday. The custom of giving Tribune medals was started in 1935 and has been continued each year. Aside from the high schools of Chicago, the Tribune sends medals to 45 universities, military academies and high schools outside of the Chicago area.

The schools where awards are being made this week are: Austin, Bowen, Crane, Fenger, Harrison, Hirsch, Kelly, Morgan Park, Schurz, Senn, Tilden, Von Steuben, and Waller.

9,800 Now Enrolled.

The active interest of the Tribune in R. O. T. C. training had its beginning in 1917 when, thru Col. Robert R. McCormick, its editor and publisher, it was instrumental in establishing the first units in the city. Since that time the units have enjoyed a steady growth, and this year reached an enrollment of approximately 9,800 cadets.

Cadets who receive the awards are selected by the military instructors after a series of tests to determine the cadet's military ability and his qualities as a leader. Cadets in 27 public high schools and one Catholic high school are given Tribune medals twice each year on a basis of one for every 50 cadets.

In Northern Area.

Medals will be presented at the Von Steuben High school Tuesday morning at 9:30. The winners will be Second Lieutenant George Moeller, Sergt. Elliot Rubin, Staff Sergeant Leonard Fript, and Privates Howard Erickson, Ray Soderstrom, and Lawrence Goodwick.

Other presentations will include First Lieutenant Walter Anderson, officers' efficiency; Master Sergeant Robert Busch, noncommissioned officers' efficiency; Privates William Nerving and Edward Wilander, neatest cadets; Second Lieutenant Sidney Meizel, recruiting, and Second Lieutenant Jack Prosky, rifle marksmanship.

Win Legion Awards.

Winning other awards will be Maj. Donald Sweeney, officers' efficiency; Sergt. Melvin Straus, noncommissioned officers' efficiency; Second Lieutenant Ray Dahlgren, band efficiency; Privates Ralph Tober, David Miller, Robert Jonas, neatest cadets; Maj. Ralph Karth, recruiting; First Lieutenant Randall Hayes, Reserve Officers association; Capt. Dinty Whiting, Daughters of the American Revolution; Sergt. Stanley Eichenbaum, American Legion auxiliary, Cook County council; Lieut. Col. Karl Witte, American Legion saber, and Capt. Frank Rubenstein, first sergeant. Earl Anderson, Corporal Kenneth Doty, and Cadet Robert Huff, American Legion.

Waller High School.

Cadets of Waller High school will receive their TRIBUNE awards at a special school assembly on Tuesday afternoon at 1:55 o'clock. Receiving the medals are Private Joseph Schreeder, Private Henry Roepkin, Private John Feratto, Corp. Jay Jones, and Corp. Donald Kinkaid.

Others to receive awards at the same time are, Private Bernard Miller, neatest cadet; Maj. William P. Cloppas, officers efficiency; Capt. Joseph Lazzara, Lincoln Park Post American Legion; First Lieut. Louis Sianis, Reserve officers association; Capt. Thomas Farina, D. A. R.; Corp. Paul Augustine, recruiting; First Sergt. Russel Swarthout, noncommissioned officers efficiency; First Sergeant Nick Stevenson, Cook county American Legion, and Second Lieutenant Louis Wolf, Lincoln Park auxiliary Legion.

Also Are Winners.

R. O. T. C. medals from THE TRIBUNE were presented at special assemblies last week at Sullivan and Lake View High schools. Winners at Sullivan were Lieut. Richard Yates, Corporal David Jacobs, Corporal Bill Davis and Privates Roger Lee and Burt Gould. Other awards went to Capt. Martin Rubenstein, Reserve Officers association; Corporal Don Lyon, Daughters of the American Revolution; Corporal Christ Karafotias, Rogers Park American Legion post; Capt. Voice of the North Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the North Side, The Tribune.

PLEA FOR PLAYLOTS.

The best argument for more playlots, parks, and playgrounds that I know appeared in last Sunday's Metropolitan section under the eight column headline: "Traffic Takes 106 Children's Lives."

The story cited the coroner's statisics for the first 11 months of 1940. One hundred and six youngsters, all under 18, were killed in traffic accidents. But not one child in Cook county was killed at an intersection protected by traffic signal lights!

The danger spot in Cook county is in the middle of the block. Children playing on the sidewalk heedlessly run into the street in the path of trucks and cars. Most of the traffic deaths are middle of the block accidents.

This fact, I believe, proves conclusively the need for greater play area for the children of Cook county. Children safely playing in playlots or parks won't dart into the middle of the street, because as part of supervised recreation they are taught the fundamentals of safety. I'm sure that statistics would show that the highest rate of deaths was in neighborhoods with few playground facilities.

SAFETY STATISTICIAN.

TIP FOR HOUSEWIVES.

I read the Metropolitan section story last week about the collection of clothes in Evanston for needy children and I'd like to urge every mother to contribute. Get in a little early spring house cleaning and clear the closets of unused coats, dresses, jackets, and blouses. Many thrifty housewives save articles for just such an occasion and then forget to turn them in. Others let the opportunity pass now and, later in the year, throw away old clothes because they have no place to keep them. Just take an hour off some morning this week, gather up a boxful of useful articles and take it to the nearest school. A P.-T. A. welfare chairman will see that it eventually reaches a needy child.

EVANSTON MOTHER.

MILK FOR CHILDREN.

It was a pleasure to read last Sunday that milk is to be furnished poor school children at a penny a half pint. The Surplus Marketing administration deserves credit for its plan to offer milk at this price. It will do much to improve the health and vitality of our needy youngsters. I hope some day that the administration will furnish oranges and apples and other fruit to poor children as cheaply. Fruit is essential in the diet of youngsters, but not all parents can afford it. Perhaps some north side service group will establish a fund to supply fruit for our poor children.

WORLD AFFAIRS AND U. S. ARE TO BE DISCUSSED

American political affairs ranging from Canadian to Latin American relationships will be discussed this afternoon by two speakers at the second session of the Evanston School of Foreign affairs in the First Methodist church in the suburb.

Miss Gladys Sinclair, former leader and delegate of the 1936 Japanese-American Student conference and student of international politics, will talk on "Canadian American Relations." She will discuss Canada's historical and geographical problems as they relate to our own.

Dr. Ernest Schwarz, who left Germany when the Nazis took power in 1933, will speak on "American Solidarity: Can it Be Had?" Dr. Schwarz has been making an intensive study of the problems of Pan-Americanism and has published part of his findings. He will talk on fifth column activities in Latin America.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Geiser, 425 Roscoe street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorleau, to Philip M. Roth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Roth, 943 Wilson avenue. Miss Geiser is a student at Mundelein college. Her fiance was graduated from St. John's Military academy and attended the Walton School of Commerce.

SCHOOL CHIEF TO RETIRE, BUT WON'T BE IDLE

J. E. Huber Looks on 42 Teaching Years.

J. Edward Huber.

Friends and associates of J. Edward Huber, principal of Blaine school, 1420 Grace street, will attend a banquet for him in the Sovereign hotel on Thursday, the day before his 65th birthday. On Friday, having reached the compulsory retirement age of the Chicago board of education, Mr. Huber will close 42 years of work as an educator, 40 years of which have been spent in Chicago schools.

The Blaine P.-T. A. gave a luncheon for him last Friday in the Monterey hotel and he was honored at the last meeting of the North Side auxiliary, No. 2, Chicago Principals' club, of which he is a former president.

Will Continue Active.

Mr. Huber appears to be the typical school teacher who would take immediate advantage of a chance to retire to his books. But instead he peers quietly thru his glasses and announces that he will not be idle simply because he has reached 65.

He also intends to keep his finger on community activities as education chairman of the Lincoln-Belmont Y. M. C. A.

When Mr. Huber was 4 years old, his family moved from Cleveland, O., to Chicago's north side and young Edward attended the Alcott Elementary school and the old North Division High school. He received his formal education at Chicago Normal school, the University of Chicago, and De Paul university, which awarded him a bachelor of education degree.

He began his teaching in January, 1897, in the Hawthorne school. Then he took two years out for a little adventure and first was supervisor of schools in Pasig in the Philippine Islands and then taught science in the normal school in Manila.

Curbed the Mayor.

Tho only 20 at the time, he was self-assured, he says. He recalls that he tamed the unfriendly "presidente," or mayor, by showing him a paragraph in the law code: "The president's salary depends upon his cooperation with the town professor."

Altho he is now enjoying two weeks of parties, Mr. Huber is looking forward to visiting his son in Hollywood, Cal. The son is an artist for Walt Disney. He has two daughters residing here and several grandchildren. Mr. Huber and his wife reside at 1450 Norwood street.

ciency; Sergt. Elmer Miller, noncommissioned officers efficiency; Private Al Frantz, band efficiency; Private John Peterson, neatest cadet; Corporal Edward Lund, rifle marksmanship, and Corporal Douglas Harrison, recruiting.

Twelve cadets at Lake View High school received the Tribune medals. They were Maj. Thomas Carmical, Maj. Thomas McDowell, First Lieutenant Konrad Funken, First Lieutenant Richard Bosley, Technician Sergeant Leroy Robinson, Corporal Robert Jansen, and Cadets Thomas Lynch, Angelos Poulakidas, Warren Carroll, Thomas Bingham, Edwin Cohn, and Wayne Bucholz.

Winners of other awards were Lieut. Col. John. Mouzak, Daughters of the American Revolution; Capt. Robert Kahn, officers efficiency; First Sergeant Donald Rogers, noncommissioned officers efficiency; First Lieutenant Harold Vallas, recruiting; Capt. Rudy Kostyal, rifle marksmanship, and Maj. William Schmalgemeir, band efficiency.

In special ceremonies last week, Tribune medals were presented to the cadets of the Amundsen High school unit. Winners were: Capt. Louis Whittmeyer, First Lieutenant James Roach, Staff Sergeant Harry Lashmet, Staff Sergeant Robert Hangel, Sergt. Blair Wright, and Cadet Robert Crowley.

Winners of Tribune Medals

40TH BIRTHDAY WILL BE NOTED BY CIVIC GROUP

Ravenswood Meeting to Be Held Jan. 20.

The Ravenswood Improvement association, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the city, will celebrate its 40th anniversary Monday evening, Jan. 20, at the Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A., 1725 Wilson avenue.

Morgan L. Fitch, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, will be guest speaker. He will discuss "Neighborhood Obsolescence." Fred G. Koehler, 1609 Cullom avenue, president, will be in charge of the anniversary meeting.

Headed Many Projects.

During its 40 years the association has had a leading rôle in the improvement of the community. Members have seen the success of such projects as the widening of Ashland avenue, establishment of a high school [Amundsen] in Winnemac park, the construction of Chase park, improvements in street lighting and many other projects.

The old Ravenswood boundaries extended from Irving Park road to Foster avenue and from Western avenue to Clark street. The area is thought to have gotten its name from Chief Raven, an Indian of the early days.

List of Officers.

In addition to Mr. Koehler, other officers are John K. Slater, 4547 Ravenswood avenue, and Mrs. Guy Cubley, 4527 North Wolcott avenue, vice presidents; William B. Sims, 4542 North Hermitage avenue, secretary, and H. R. Kjellander, 4523 North Wolcott avenue, treasurer.

Members of the board of managers include Oscar R. Smith, Mrs. Helen Cotharin, Daniel G. Ramsay, Mrs. Harriet Smith, Mrs. G. F. Sprague, Elmer E. Stults, Mrs. Margaret Campbell, Miss Sophie Chandler, W. J. McElwain, Mrs. Hugh Kearns, Guy Cubley, J. F. Luft, W. R. Carey, and Henry L. Sistrunk.

Evanston Knights Templar to Have Annual Inspection

Knights Templar of Evanston commandery, No. 58, will hold their annual inspection Saturday evening at the Masonic temple, 1453 Maple avenue in the suburb. The inspection will be under the direction of Harold Duncan Hayes, grand captain general of the Illinois Grand commandery. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock. James H. Wigginton is eminent commander and Lawrence S. Hellstrom is generalissimo of the Evanston commandery.

Guild Officer

Mrs. Francis J. Sullivan Jr., 1502 Glenlake avenue, is vice president of St. Gertrude's School guild which is sponsoring a lecture by Sister Mary Stanisia, portrait and mural artist, on "Sacred Art and Portraiture' tomorrow afternoon in the school hall, Granville and Glenwood avenues.

60 ARE SWORN IN FOR TRIAL AS POLICEMEN

Seven north siders are among the 60 new probationary policemen who began training last week for careers as Chicago city policemen. They were sworn in by Philip R. Crippen, director of police personnel, to whom the men were assigned by order of Police Commissioner James P. Allman. They will undergo a six months' training period, after which they will either become permanent patrolmen or be dropped from the service.

The seven north siders are Raymond T. O'Keefe, 1333 Fargo avenue; Raymond T. Toohey, 1515 Ardmore avenue; Albert A. Mueller, 1105 Grace street; Arthur C. Johnson, 1249 Roscoe street; Lawrence B. Noonan, 5827 Ridge avenue; William M. Hutchinson, 1455 Olive street, and Charles Kunz, 4130 Kenmore avenue.

Two of the 60 tyro policemen are sons of police captains. They are George E. Teeling, son of Capt. George Teeling of the stolen auto section, and Claire F. McCarthy, son of Capt. Hugh McCarthy of Stockyards station.

MIZPAH WOMEN GIVING BENEFIT DANCE TONIGHT

Silver Plate Dinner Is the Unit's Major Event.

Four hundred persons are expected to support the Women of Mizpah's major benefit this season. The 11th annual silver plate dinner-dance will be held at 6 o'clock tonight in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Mrs. A. Chester Green, general chairman, organized the three months' campaign which preceded the event.

Silver plate teas were given by Mrs. Jacob Singer, Mrs. George Kurtzon, and Mrs. David Labowitch, and a get-together rally was held in the temple, 1615 Morse avenue, last week. In keeping with the goodwill policy between the Americas, the committee has planned decorations on the Argentinian theme. Each table will represent a city in South America.

Assisting Mrs. Green are Mrs. Meyer Katz, co-chairman; Mrs. A. L. Salzman and Mrs. Phillip Reinisch, souvenir book; Mrs. Thomas T. Litvin, senior good fellows; Mrs. S. J. Ostiller, junior good fellows; Mrs. David Pierce, autographs; Mrs. Zolly Taub, ways and means; Mrs. William Morrison and Mrs. Jacob Singer, entertainment; Mrs. Irving Roseman, Mizpah party day and seating arrangements; Mrs. Peter Tucker and Mrs. Oscar Plotkin, reception; Mrs. Jesse Brown and Mrs. A. R. Buchman, decorations, and Mrs. Harry J. Iverson, president; Mrs. Gerson Emin, Mrs. S. B. Komaiko, Mrs. Reubin Don, and Mrs. Joseph Slottow, advisory council.

North Shore Congregation Israel.

Sisterhood members of the Glencoe temple will be hostesses to the sisterhoods of Temple Emanuel, Temple Beth Israel, Temple Sholom, and Women of Mizpah on Reciprocity day Tuesday afternoon. Receiving with Mrs. Milton H. Grauser, president of the north shore group, will be the other presidents, Mrs. Rudolf Brenner, Mrs. Carl Apple, Mrs. Samuel Schwartz, and Mrs. Harry J. Iverson.

The program will open with greetings from Mrs. Morris Resnick, reciprocity chairman of the Illinois Federation of Temple Sisterhoods; Mrs. Hugo Hartman, treasurer of the national federation, and Mrs. Wilford Newman, president of the state federation. The story of the Jewish contribution to music will be presented by Mrs. Ellis Harris, with musical illustrations by Wilbert Liebling, baritone member of the Chicago Opera company. Rabbi Charles E. Schulman will give the benediction.

Temple Sholom.

Florence Bourke Ellis will give a book review and Margaret Leddow, Viennese opera star, accompanied by Sallie Tompson, will provide the music for the sisterhood meeting tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Irving Hollowbow is chairman.

Temple Emanuel.

The Book and Play circle will meet at 2 o'clock Wednesday to hear Dr. Felix A. Levy discuss the book "Why We Behave Like Apes and Vice Versa," Ner Tamid Sisterhood.

A dollar's worth of pantry supplies will admit members to the dessert luncheon preceding the meeting tomorrow. Mrs. Jack M. Katz and Mrs. Sam Nusinow will be hostesses. For the program Mrs. Bertha Read Rissman will review Milton Steinberg's "As a Driven Leaf."

K. OF C. COUNCIL TO OFFER PARTY AS TESTIMONIAL

A cabaret party and dance will be held Saturday evening, Jan. 25, by members of the Father O'Connor council, Knights of Columbus, at the Queens of Angels Guild hall, Montrose and Western avenues. The event will be a testimonial for Martin J. Haugh, chairman of the K. C. Chicago area Christmas Cheer committee. Mr. Haugh, at one time a lightweight boxer who fought under the name of Tommy Smith, is a past Grand Knight of Father O'Connor council.

Plan Card Party.

The monthly card party given by St. Anne's Sodality of St. Edward's church will be held tomorrow evening in the Mayfair fieldhouse, 4550 Sunnyside avenue. Mrs. Ray J. Chanoux, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Erwin E. Hammer, president of the club.

BEAUTIES TO VIE FOR TITLE AT MOTOR EXHIBIT

Five north side neighborhood beauty queens will be selected during the 18th annual motor salon to be held Feb. 1 thru 9 at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The winners of the competition will carry the titles Misses Uptown, Northtown, Rogers Park, Edgewater, and Ravenswood. From these five winners one will be selected by votes of the visitors at the show to reign over the salon.

Candidates are to send their photographs to the Motor Salon committee, 7519 North Ashland avenue. Those whose pictures are selected will be notified to appear before the committee for final judging.

Story of Albert Einstein Will Be Told in Sermon

The story of Albert Einstein will be told this morning in the regular sermon at North Shore Congregation Israel, Glencoe, by Rabbi Charles E. Shulman. The sermon will be the second in a series of five dealing with Jewish personalities who have contributed to modern culture.

HERE'S good news for the woman who wants a firm, supporting girdle without heavy, uncomfortable boning. This girdle is the ideal answer to her problem. With the exception of two tiny bones, front and back, its wonderful figure-control comes from skillful new seaming . . . diagonal in front, vertical in the back. Try it on to see the lovely slimmer profile it creates for you! Elastic rayon satin front and back; elastic net sides. Peach. Sizes 26 to 32.

Miss Barkon, our New York corsetiere, will be here Monday through Wednesday for consultation.

Ball, Mrs. John Boddie III., Miss Bettie Buckett, Mrs. Vernon Replogle, Miss Marian Cook, Miss Louise D'Esposito, Miss Margaret Ebeling, Miss Helen Manley, Miss Betty Sherwood, Miss Mary Stoddard, and Miss Jean Upson.

Evanston Woman's Club.

Mrs. Oliver Aspegren, chairman, will present the program for home and education day Tuesday. In the morning Ray Allison Spencer, curator of the Grand Rapids furniture museum, will give an illustrated lecture on "Home Down Thru the Ages." At 2 o'clock Alice Dixon Bond, book reviewer, will speak on "Authors and People" and show colored movies of famous authors taken in their homes.

Evanston Catholic Women.

Next Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock the Rev. Jerome V. Jacobsen, history professor at Loyola university and editor of Mid-America, a historical magazine, will address the membership in the clubhouse. His subject will be "Spanish America and Hemisphere Defense."

Highland Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. Baker A. Hamilton.

Members will assemble for the annual Kensington tea, planned by the home and education department of which Mrs. Baker A. Hamilton is chairman, at 2 o'clock Tuesday. Mrs. Mason Smith, program chairman, will introduce Mrs. R. K. Macfadden, who will sing songs in the French and English manner. Mrs. Paul G. Behanna is in charge of the tea tables, which will be set with silver services which belonged to the English ancestors of two club members. Mrs. Charles G. Mason and Mrs. Harry Pertz will pour.

Since "Kensington," written on calling cards in England years ago meant "bring your sewing," members will bring their needlework and show the work they have done in weaving, knitting, and embroidery classes.

Wilmette Catholic Club.

The club has announced seven new members, Mrs. Harold Corcoran, Mrs. Joseph J. Rink, Mrs. Thomas Alexander, Mrs. Edwin J. Dolan, Mrs. Charles Barnes, Mrs. Joseph A. Vogt, and Mrs. D. M. Woodlock.

Waukegan Woman's Club.

The clubhouse and membership committees will sponsor an annual card party for new members tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Leland L. Liggett and Mrs. F. Earl Welton are in charge of arrangements.

Evanston Drama Club.

Lucile Barrow Turner will interpret the southern Negro in songs and dramatic sketches for the 2:30 o'clock meeting Thursday. Mrs. Wesley Polk, president; Mrs. Lamont Dalton, membership chairman, and Miss Miriam Williams, hospitality chairman, will greet new members. Mrs. John Dolese, Miss Greta Goffe, Mrs. Mary Scott Paxson, and Mrs. J. G. Williams will preside at the tea tables.

Deerfield Woman's Club.

Book reviews will comprise the program for the Tuesday meeting in the public library, with Mrs. Chester Wolf in charge. Mrs. Robert L. Johnson will discuss "I Married Adventure," by Osa Johnson, and Mrs. E. C. Becker will review "When the Whippoorwill," by Marjorie Rawlings. Tea will be served by the hospitality committee.

SCOTCH MEDLEY TO BE FEATURE OF CONCERT HOUR

Marion Claire Is Soloist of W-G-N Program.

Marion Claire, lyric soprano, will be featured in a solo presentation of a medley of Scotch folk songs on the Chicagoland Concert Hour tomorrow. This program of fine and familiar music will be heard from 10 to 10:45 p. m. over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. The W-G-N Concert orchestra will be conducted by Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company.

The songs to be presented by Miss Claire include four of the best known gems of Scotland. They are "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon," "Loch Lomond," "The Campbells Are Coming," and "Annie Laurie." Miss Claire also will sing Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan, and the favorite southern melody, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

The orchestra will play Massenet's overture from "Phadre," "Guitarre," by Moszkowski, "Cherry Ripe," by Scott, and Liadov's "Musical Snuff Box."

Next week the Chicagoland hour will move to the period now occupied by the Pageant of Melody. The Concert Hour will be heard from 8:30 to 9 p. m. Wednesday evening each week, starting Jan. 22. The Pageant of Melody will be heard from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Monday, starting Jan. 20. William A. Bacher produces the concert hour.

Experts in Several Fields on Your Music Quiz

Music experts from classical, symphonic and popular fields will compete on "Your Music I. Q." program over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. George Hamburg, tuba player with the Chicago Symphony orchestra for 21 years, and Remi Gossmann, composer and teacher, will represent classical fields. Upholding popular music will be Irene Daye, petite songstress with Gene Krupa's orchestra. Janice Abramson, 16 year old Austin High school senior, will be the third layman expert to appear on the program this season. Free tickets to an early performance of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be awarded to all listeners submitting questions that are not answered by the experts.

GEORGE FISHER GOT INTO RADIO REPORTING ALMOST BY ACCIDENT

Experience in several occupations as well as with film people from struggling extras to stars is the background that has added up to radio success for George Fisher, versatile conductor of the "Hollywood Whispers" program. Fisher is heard with his intimate glimpses into the film colony from 11:30 to 11:45 a. m. each Tuesday and Thursday over W-G-N and Mutual. Fisher has worked as theater doorman, fruit and vegetable salesman, truck driver, publicity man, and auto part peddler in his turbulent career. He worked at all these jobs before he ever saw a movie star or the inside of a radio station.

George Fisher.

Fisher got into radio almost by accident. A radio executive was impressed by Fisher's voice over the phone, advised him to try out as an announcer; a few days later Fisher was staff announcer on a local Los Angeles station. There he started a "Studio Whispers" program which reported news about the stars.

When Fisher moved to KHJ, Mutual's Los Angeles outlet, he took his idea with him and called it "Hollywood Whispers."

Good Luck Gift

An anonymous listener sent this frisky little cocker spaniel to Joan Banks, the Mary Foster of the radio drama, "The Editor's Daughter," heard over W-G-N five days a week. Attached to a big red bow tied around Jimminy Cricket's neck was a note reading, "To Wish You a Doggone Merry Christmas and a Litter of Good Luck in 1941."

PORTRAY STORY OF MODIGLIANI ON W-G-N SHOW

How a cruel art dealer exploited the talents of Anadeo Modigliani, noted Italian painter, will be portrayed on the "Great Artists" program over W-G-N from 4 to 4:15 p. m. Tuesday. For a long time, Modigliani was imprisoned in the cellar of a Paris art broker. Food fit only for animals was the payment he received for painting masterpieces. No painting, no food, was the motto of his jailer.

Innumerable congratulatory letters from the W-G-N audience bear testimony to the fact that this program, presented weekly with the coöperation of the Art Institute of Chicago, is attracting the attention of a steadily increasing following among the art lovers of the Middle West. The listener response has been so great that a new switchboard has been installed at the Art institute to accommodate the complimentary phone calls.

Daniel C. Rich, director of fine arts at the Art insitute, in commening on the program said: "'Great Artists' has already stimulated tremendous interest in art, and is of educational importance to Chicago and the whole country."

The artists depicted on the show—artists who have representative work hanging in the Chicago Art institute—are vividly portrayed by members of the Goodman Memorial theater of Chicago, under the supervision of Dr. Maurice Gnesin and Mary Agnes Doyle. Scripts are written by the Illinois Writers' project. Blair Walliser is in charge of production.

Pilgrimage to Dana Home.

The Cambridge, Mass., home of Richard Henry Dana Jr., American author of the middle 19th century, will be visited by Ted Malone during his American Pilgrimage broadcast at 1 p. m. today over WENR.

W-G-N ACTORS EAT WAY INTO PROPER MOODS

Choose Cafes to Go with Operettas' Locale.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

To any artist mood and atmosphere are important. Walking in the rain is a favorite device used by some artists to provide the proper feeling for creative effort. Some actresses get the proper lift by acquiring a new hat. Taking a cottage on the sand dunes seems to help others. A pair of dark glasses does the trick for Rudy Vallee.

The singers and actors who appear each Saturday in W-G-N's Theater of the Air operettas have a special device, too. They simply eat their way into the desired mood. Before each broadcast they gather in a restaurant that suggests the locale of the particular operetta they are to present.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, musicians and studio technicians, as well as the song and drama stars join in these "atmosphere" dinners.

Many Locales Discovered.

In the months the operettas have been on the air Austrian, old English, German, Hungarian, Mexican, Irish, and far northern locales have been discovered for the Saturday repasts.

For the operetta "Robin Hood," Bacher took his crew to St. Hubert's grill where an excellent old English atmosphere was developed over a roast beef and Yorkshire pudding.

A Costa Rican coffee shop served the purpose for the warm Mexican locale of "Rio Rita." For this production the noted Mexican singer, José Mojica, was a guest. The rollicking bierstube mood of "The Student Prince" was found in the Golden Ox restaurant.

Finding an Oasis.

No trouble was experienced in locating Hungarian, Irish, or Austrian restaurants, but the "Desert Song" presented an insurmountable problem. There are plenty of oases in Chicago, but none of the Sahara desert type Bacher had in mind.

"Rose Marie" also presented a problem—at first. The cast searched unsuccessfully for a French-Canadian restaurant. Wes Summerfield, singer in the augmented chorus, rescued the party.

"I've been all thru the Canadian Northwest," he said. "There was a Chinese restaurant on every corner."

So a chop suey house down the street was chosen to provide the mood of lumberjacks and big snows.

"Cyrano" Next Saturday.

A French restaurant, presumably, would be in order next. "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be presented from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday with Marion Claire and Conrad Thibault singing the leading rôles. Thibault helped Miss Claire inaugurate the season with the presentation of "The Vagabond King." Later he was featured with Miss Claire in "Rio Rita" and "The New Moon."

Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company, will lead the W-G-N Concert orchestra and augmented chorus in providing the musical background.

The text for "Cyrano de Bergerac" was written by William J. Henderson. Walter Damrosch wrote the music. It is adapted from the original play by Edmond Rostand. "Cyrano de Bergerac" was first presented at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York on Feb. 27, 1913.

EAST CHICAGO HIGH NEXT ON SCHOOL PROGRAM

The first Indiana school to be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N will be Washington High school of East Chicago. This program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and dedicated to the youth of America, will be heard from 4:30 to 5 p. m. next Tuesday. Special buses will bring 600 boys and girls from East Chicago to witness the broadcast, and 100 of the students will be taken on a tour of Tribune tower preceding the program.

R. F. Robinson, principal of Washington High, will speak briefly during the entertainment and the school's Choral club, directed by Pauline M. Shearer, will sing three numbers, including the school song, "Hail Noble Washington."

Philip Maxwell of the Chicago Tribune's editorial department is master of ceremonies and plays the rôle of the principal in the broadcast. Announcer Charles Victor will introduce six students from the studio audience who will participate in the Tribune News Quiz conducted by Mr. Maxwell. A highlight of the program will be the addition of three outstanding students to the roll of honor. They are Roe Campbell, president of the student council of Oskaloosa, Ia.; Ruby Watson, composer, of Sheboygan, Wis., and Richard G. Erdmann, amateur short wave expert of Elkhart, Ind.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Jan. 13.

Increase the supply of shrubs by taking the whips or vigorous growths of many kinds, cut them into lengths of from six to eight inches and bury in sand or well drained place and line out in the garden in spring. Currants and grapes root readily by this method. Lilacs are difficult to root from cuttings, but by using rootstimulants many will respond.

Cuttings from green wood made in June and placed in sand in a cold frame also may be made. By taking each cutting with a heel or with the base or bottom of the cutting attached, rooting will result more readily. A box covered with glass will suffice for a few cuttings. Shade with muslin to prevent rapid evaporation.

Tuesday, Jan. 14.

You can't make a telephone pole sprout roots and grow, but you can hide it by planting a Lombardy tree next to it. The Lombardy grows upward in a tall, slender manner and will grow sufficiently high to cover the pole's stark appearance.

Vines also can be planted at the base of the pole and trained to cover.

Wednesday, Jan. 15.

A common fault is selecting tall plants where dwarf kinds are essential for best results. Beneath a low window low growing plants should be used, such as spiraea bumaldi, Anthony waterer, deutzia gracilis, shrubby cinquefoil, a drouth resisting plant, Indian currant, and St. Johnswort.

Thursday, Jan. 16.

Bring in the potted bulbous plants for flowering in the house. Keep well watered. After flowering keep the soil moist and the plants growing until the leaves turn yellow, indicating the ripening of the bulbs. Save the tulip, hyacinth, and narcissus for outdoor planting in the fall.

Friday, Jan. 17.

Do not attempt a hedge at the front unless there is plenty of room, for it restricts the front or public area and is seldom kept in a vigorous growing, pleasing condition. City yards with a front of about 10 feet should not have a hedge along the sidewalk.

The parkway should not be planted with shrubs unless conditions warant their use. Shrubs offer dangerous conditions to children dashing out from them into the street and especially where traffic is heavy.

Saturday, Jan. 18.

Join a garden club or organize a new one. The men will find much that is educational if they become interested in one of the men's garden clubs.

If cut flowers are removed from the vase and kept in a deep container at night and placed in a cool room, they will last much longer. A dry, warm room soon causes them to wither. Keep all flowering plants well watered.

TENTH DISTRICT CLUBS TO NOTE ANNIVERSARIES

One Is 28 Years Old and the Other Is 29.

Two 10th district clubs are celebrating anniversaries this month. The Ravenswood Civic league was organized 28 years ago, under the auspices of the Chicago Political Equality league, now the Illinois League of Women Voters, and the Edgewater Catholic Woman's club began its activities 29 years ago.

The league always has been interested in solving civic problems in its district, the 47th and 50 wards. Among the early major problems were the garbage dump and poor transportation. Another project, shared by most women's clubs of the day, was equal suffrage.

Friday afternoon Miss Elsie Fein Clamage will be guest speaker and a string quintet will provide the music for the 2 o'clock meeting at 1735 Wilson avenue. Miss Clamage's topic will be "Wake Up, America."

A community program has been arranged by Mrs. Thomas L. Malzacher, civics chairman, for the anniversary meeting of the Edgewater club Friday in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock. Dean William F. Clark of De Paul university will speak on "The Constitution as Applied to our Daily Life," Frank Keenan will discuss recreation and James Quinn will show a sound movie on "Streamlining Chicago."

Edgemere Woman's Club.

Miss Gladys Ertz will give an illustrated lecture on "Electric Living" at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, under the auspices of the art department, Mrs. Walter Tallant, chairman. Mrs. Edward Pretzel is planning a philanthropy card party for the afternoon. Mrs. Edwin L. Seneco, Mrs. G. J. Pirman and Mrs. George Cadwell will be assisting hostesses.

North End Woman's Club.

Maurice G. Morrison will give an illustrated lecture on "Palestine and the Near East" for the general club day program tomorrow. The program will begin with a literature feature at 1:15 o'clock.

Rogers Park Woman's Club.

Eleanor Sikes Peters will interpret a group of plays at the Tuesday afternoon meeting. In the morning Martha Cardwell will speak on "In the Jury Box." Mrs. William Broan is in charge of the luncheon at which the 31 past presidents will be guests.

The Duchesne Club.

M. Jacques Maritain of L'Institut Catholique de Paris will lecture on "Human Coöperation and the Diversity of Creeds" at the club meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Convent of the Sacred Heart, 6250 Sheridan road. Miss Agnes Vogler is president.

People's Church Club.

New members will be guests for the card party tomorrow afternoon in Channing hall. Mrs. W. L. Fowler, membership chairman, is in charge.

Lake View Woman's Club.

Mrs. Herbert Archut, social service chairman, has arranged the program for Tuesday's meeting. In the morning Paul A. Teschner, assistant director of the American Medical association, will lecture on "What People Believe About Their Health." After luncheon, the Rev. T. F. Rutledge Beale, pastor of the Wellington Avenue Congregational church, will discuss "Masculine Virtues versus Feminine Virtues."

Welles Park Woman's Club.

American home and citizenship department members will meet Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs. W. P. Joyce, 4874 North Paulina street. Mrs. P. H. Stevenson will read a paper on "Interior Decorating" and Mrs. R. L. Kendall, civil service chairman, will speak.

Field Apartments Club.

Mrs. E. C. Crawford, program chairman, will be master of ceremonies for the Quiz program Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the building.

TOWN AND COUNTRY EQUESTRIANS ELECT OFFICERS FOR 1941

W. Earl Butler.

W. Earl Butler, Chicago automobile distributor, was elected president of the Town and Country Equestrian association at its annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman last week. He assumed office immediately.

Butler succeeds Herbert J. Lorber, insurance executive, who had headed the organization, the largest of its kind in existence, since it was set up in 1937 to succeed the Chicago Equestrian Association of Illinois. Lorber, who had declined reëlection to a fourth term, remains as a director.

Frank W. Bering, hotel man, was reëlected vice president. John M. FitzGerald, railway supplies man, was chosen secretary and treasurer to succeed A. H. Sus, who also asked to be replaced.

The Park Playmakers, a new north side little theater group directed by Eleanor I. Park, will present "Don't Darken my Door" as their first production Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights in their theater workshop, 1607 Howard street. Gail Anderson, 732 Bittersweet place, will play the feminine lead and Jean Bradfield, 1313 North State street, will portray the character lead. The play is by Ann Coulter Martens.

CHURCH DRAMA GUILD TO OFFER 'BURY THE DEAD'

Week's Bill Is Varied for North Side.

The antiwar play "Bury the Dead," by Irwin Shaw, will be presented again tomorrow night by the Drama guild of the Evanston First Methodist church. The repeat performance is by special request and more than 300 tickets already have been sold. Denton Snyder, a student at Garrett Biblical institute and the Northwestern university school of speech, is directing the cast of 22 men and women, assisted by Mrs. Foster Irish.

The cast includes Dorothy Shaffer, Dorothy Wade, Phyllis Freeman, Ethel Paulson, Dorothy Hook, Lenore Zettergren, Dick Singer, Art Watter, Ed Lucado, Bob Kinney, Ernest Bonhivert, Robert Chapman, Dick Bradway, Mel Sands, Homer Hansen, Myron Shimer, Bob Sands, Norman Schreiber, Dick Kendrick, Charles Hetzler, Max Carpenter, and Grayson Wade.

The Douglas Smith players at 844 Rush street will present Sheridan's well known comedy on 18th century manners, "The School for Scandal," at 8:30 o'clock next Saturday and Sunday nights, under the direction of Phyllis Udell Hanson. The leading rôles will be played by Marion Larkin as Lady Teazle, Guy Manning as Sir Peter Teazle, Loren Balsley as Joe Surface and John Salling as Charles Surface.

Others in the cast are Geraldine Udell, June Kurtz, Sherry Manning, Kay Williams, Clarence Oxford, Walter Bienia, Will Bachert, and Lou Nomkov.

TRI DELTA UNITS ARE TO OFFER SUPPER, CARDS

Husbands and Escorts Will Be Guests.

A buffet supper and bridge for members of the North Shore Upsilon alliance of Delta Delta Delta and their husbands and escorts will be held at 7 o'clock Saturday evening in the Northwestern university chapter house in Evanston. Mrs. Frederick McCord and Mrs. Don C. Sutton are general chairmen.

Assisting with arrangements are Mrs. F. S. Torgenson, bridge chairman; Mrs. Isaac H. Johnson, awards; Mrs. Walter C. Leck and Mrs. Edwin Hewitt, admissions; Mrs. Arthur C. Taylor, Mrs. Joseph B. Garnett, Mrs. Frank Guthridge, Mrs. Frederick Boyd, Mrs. Frederick Copeland, Mrs. P. S. Eddy, Mrs. John A. Clements, and Mrs. C. P. Janensch, dinner.

Pi Beta Phi.

After a 2 o'clock business session Friday in the home of Mrs. Henry A. Gardner Jr., 940 Valley road, Glencoe, North Shore alumnae will give a tea for new members. Mrs. Edward A. Kirchberg will review "Life with Father" and Miss Virginia Torcom will furnish the music. Mrs. C. C. Cummins, hostess chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Ellis Schmidt, Mrs. Lyman Drake Jr., Mrs. Elmore Murphy, Mrs. Willard Medway, Mrs. Harris Frazier, Mrs. J. B. Ward, Mrs. C. O. Husting, Mrs. J. F. Colonial Home in Glenview

Much excellent architectural brain power has gone into the designing and building of many of our new homes. This home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Force, 1249 Elm court, Glenview, has the solidity and charm so typical of our early colonial houses, yet it is freely adapted to modern living. Architects: Rapp & Rapp, 230 North Michigan avenue.

GLENVIEW HOME BLENDS MODERN WITH COLONIAL

Charm and Efficiency Well Combined.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Distinction can certainly be achieved in a small colonial home as well as in a vast home of 20 or 30 rooms. It is found in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Force, 1249 Elm court, Glenview.

This six room dwelling has the solidity and charm so typical of our early colonial houses, yet it is freely adapted to 1941 living. And this home is a good example of skill in blending an old vintage to modern taste.

The architects are Rapp and Rapp, 230 North Michigan avenue. They have designed the sort of house which will put down roots, a colonial type home with first story exterior of Williamsburg toned brick and the second story of ivory siding. The blinds are a dubonnet shade and the garade is serviceably located, serving as a wing and adding interest to the mass of the house.

Soft Colored Interior.

Inside, the rooms are logically arranged and beautifully treated. On the first floor there is a reception hall with stairs to the second floor on the right of the entrance door and living room at the left.

Much of the charm of this home lies in the beauty of the soft coloring thruout. The living room and hall have walls of an exquisite shade of pale green. In the dining room the wainscot is dusty pink with wall paper in the same tone above. The carpeting of both rooms and hall is a rich green and the woodwork is white.

When you enter the living room you get the immediate impression of light, and of closeness to the out-of-doors. French doors can be thrown open to what will be terraces and gardens next summer, and deep windows on the opposite wall reach almost to the floor. There is an appealing, simple fireplace with marble facing and built-in shelves of graceful design on either side of it.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is a charmer. Its walls are cream colored with a delicate red pattern. The woodwork is white, and counter and double drainboard sink surfaces are of gray green mottled linoleum. There's a breakfast bar with white painted shelves for decorative accessories—and useful ones. This serves as a division between the breakfast nook and the kitchen proper. In this breakfast nook the benches are upholstered in red leather and lift up, revealing cupboard space for youthful belongings.

The walls and the carpeting to the second story are the same lovely green as the living room and hall. On this second floor there are three bedrooms—a large master bedroom, a boy's room, and a little girl's room. Here also there is a handsome bathroom with walls of ceramic tile. There is a niche in the wall for the telephone and a large linen closet. There are no overhead lights in living room or bedrooms of this house, but in the hall over the stairway there is a good looking crystal light fixture.

YOUR NEIGHBOR'S TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Ravenscroft of Glencoe will depart the middle of this month for their new winter home on the Arizona Biltmore hotel estate near Phoenix, Ariz. Their son, Edward Ravenscroft Jr., and his wife are planning to visit them in March. The Ravenscrofts also expect their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arno Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Palmer, to make short trips to Arizona during the winter. All the families reside in Glencoe.

Mrs. A. D. Foyer, 2133 Ridge avenue, Evanston, is spending two months in Tucson, Ariz. Mr. Foyer accompanied his wife to the southwest after New Year's, but returned to Evanston last week.

Miss Margaret Ryden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hilding Ryden, 2227 Payne street, left recently by plane for Hollywood, Fla., where she will stay until May. She will be on nursing duty there.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. McJunkin of Winnetka already are established in their winter home in Miami Beach, Fla. Their son, William Jr., a senior at the University of Notre Dame, spent his holiday vacation with them.

Mrs. Helen W. Smith of Hubbard Woods, a resident of the north shore for 20 years, has moved to Berkeley, Cal., where she will serve as housemother at the Alpha Phi sorority house on the campus of the University of California. She and her son, Heber, drove west last week.

CADETS FROM 13 SCHOOLS AWAIT HONOR MEDALS

237 Awards to Be Given This Week.

In recognition of their outstanding military work, cadets in the R. O. T. C. units of 13 Chicago public high schools will receive a total of 237 medals and awards this week. Of these awards, 91 are medals donated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Others are bestowed by R. O. T. C. headquarters and patriotic and civic organizations.

The awards will be given in a series of special school assemblies thruout the city beginning on Tuesday. The custom of giving Tribune medals was started in 1935 and has been continued each year. Aside from the high schools of Chicago, the Tribune sends medals to 45 universities, military academies and high schools outside of the Chicago area.

9,800 Now Enrolled.

The active interest of the Tribune in R. O. T. C. training had its beginning in 1917 when, thru Col. Robert R. McCormick, its editor and publisher, it was instrumental in establishing the first units in the city. Since that time the units have enjoyed a steady growth, and this year reached an enrollment of approximately 9,800 cadets.

Cadets who receive the awards are selected by the military instructors after a series of tests to determine the cadet's military ability and his qualities as a leader. Cadets in 27 public high schools and one Catholic high school are given Tribune medals twice each year on a basis of one for every 50 cadets.

On the West Side.

Cadets in three west side high schools will receive THE TRIBUNE medals this week. The schools where the medals will be awarded are Harrison, Austin, and Crane.

Before a school assembly Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock five cadets at Harrison high will be presented with TRIBUNE medals. The winners are Second Lieutenants Edward Karasinski, John Krukoff, and Marion Bojan; Corp. Marion Carrocio, and Cadet Dean Pfolsgrof.

Other awards to be made at the assembly are Capt. Laddie Svarc, officers efficiency; First Sergeant Charles Rudolph, noncommissioned officers efficiency; Second Lieutenant Peter Melnyk, band efficiency; Privates Benjamin Cusumano and Robert Lieb, neatest cadets; First Lieutenant Paul Chromek, recruiting; First Lieutenant Henry Kunka, Reserve Officers association; First Lieutenant Robert Moy, Daughters of the American Revolution.

At Crane High.

On Friday morning at 9:45 o'clock 10 cadets of the Crane Technical High school will receive TRIBUNE medals in recognition of their outstanding work. The winners are Captains Leonard Brown, Raymond Berman, George Claver, and Joseph Myer, First Lieutenants Angelo Cicotti, Elmer Nawrocki, and Horst Tobleck, Second Lieutenants Joseph Marachino and Frank Spirito, and Cadet George Sullivan.

Other cadets to be honored by various organizations are Maj. Joseph Vavra, officers efficiency; Sergt. Asher Gruenberg, noncommissioned officers efficiency; Second Lieutenant Frank Zieman, band efficiency; Sergts. Earl Enthoff, Clarence Glawe, Gunther Tobleck, and Cadet Emil Citro, neatest cadets; First Lieutenant Melvin Brown, recruiting; First Lieutenant Phero Thomas, marksmanship; Lieut. Col. Morton Hartman, Reserve Officers association; Maj. Lester Fisher, D. A. R.; Maj. Thomas Atkins and Capt. Blas Castagli, American Legion; Capt. Edward Kerr, Sergt. William Dudzienski, Sergt. Charles Saunders, and Cadet William Bork, Herman Wiegman medal.

Austin High School.

Nine cadets of the Austin High school unit will receive Tribune medals on Thursday morning at 9:45 o'clock. Receiving the awards will be Privates David Jones, James Schreck, Kenneth Henning, Howard Hempe, Garfield Anderson, John Russell and Robert Steinway, and Corporals Edward Mockler and John Kay.

Receiving awards from other organizations are Capt. Joseph Coffer, officers efficiency; Sergt. Robert Keeley, noncommissioned officers efficiency; Second Lieutenant Floyd Beyer, band efficiency; Privates William Gregg, Arthur Sommers and John Mongelluzze, and Corporal Thomas Watson, neatest cadets; Sergt. Nick Corolis, recruiting; First Lieutenant Jack Russell, Reserve Officers association; and Capt. Carl Weber, D. A. R.

Scouts of Three Towns to Receive Work Awards

Boy Scouts of Forest Park, Oak Park, and River Forest will meet Tuesday evening in Lowell school, Lake street and Forest avenue, Oak Park, to receive awards earned during the month. Boys who advanced in rank are George Reihmer and Bill Winter, Star Scouts; and Ward Miller, second class. Merit badges went to Albert Candy, David Rogers, John Gnaedinger, Ralph Albertsen, Donald Schram, Ward Miller, Bob Shogren, David Pray, Fred Schneider, Jim Shannon, and Edward Willette.

All Ages and Nationalities Patronize This Winter Resort

All roads, street car lines, and buses in Austin lead to the city's winter resort operated free of charge for men, women, and children of all nationalities and ages. This is Columbus park, where vast acreage, game rooms, and clubs make of this Chicago area a Biarritz or a Sun Valley. In the game room are three pretty girls who are learning the meaning of the word precision at a game of pool. Holding the cue is Bette Graham, and Beatrice Wollpert and Helen Murray wait their turns. Bowing to Dame Fashion are members of the sewing class. Rose M. Cohen works the sewing machine while Lois Simons looks on. The model is Janet Schwartzberg, who watches while Eileen Kissel measures a hem. The Girl Scouts learn first aid as Elaine Leventhal offers a "broken" arm for the others to practice on. Helen Iglowitz tries her hand with the bandage to the satisfaction of Adrian Saaf, instructor.

IT'S NEWS! BIG VIADUCT OPENED AHEAD OF TIME

Mannheim Span Beats Schedule 5 Months.

When a piece of public construction is completed five months before it was scheduled to be completed, that's news. That is what has happened with the new Mannheim road viaduct near Franklin Park, which was not expected to be ready until June. It has been under construction only slightly more than five months.

The opening of the $400,000 half-mile span took place unceremoniously last week when workmen shoved aside a bunch of wooden horses and took down a "road closed" sign. Many motorists probably are still taking the five mile detour because it has not occurred to them that the bridge would be ready now.

Opening Is Sudden.

So sudden was the opening that neither the state highway department, under whose authority the bridge was constructed, nor the Chicago Motor club, whose West Area Council has for years urged the replacing of the old bridge, were able to plan any opening exercises.

The new viaduct which spans 13 tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad, is four lanes wide and 2,457 feet long. It replaces an old steel girder bridge which had two narrow lanes paved with wooden boards, dangerously slippery when wet. About $100,000 of its cost was paid by the railroad and the remainder from this state's allotment of federal grade crossing funds.

Traffic will be carried on two two-lane roadways, each 24 feet wide, divided by a four-foot concrete strip. The curbs are all built with wedges which reflect the light of automobiles and are thereby clearly illuminated.

Only Narrow Spot.

Mannheim road is U. S. route 45, and the Franklin Park viaduct has been the only place in a 45 mile stretch from Half Day, west of Lake Forest, to Spring Forest, opposite about 79th street, which has been less than four lanes wide.

The concrete construction work and paving was done by the Thomas McQueen Construction company of Forest Park. Superintendent of the work was Ernest Sporry, who said that good weather accounted for the fact that such rapid progress was made. The steel was manufactured by the Midland Structural Steel company and put in place by the Midwest Construction and Asphalt company.

TEMPLE JUDEA WOMEN TO LEAD SABBATH RITES

Sisterhood Sabbath night will be held at 8:15 o'clock Friday evening in Temple Judea, 1227 Independence boulevard. Mrs. Wilfred Newman, president of the Illinois State Federation of Temple sisterhoods, will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. Emanuel M. Solomon, financial secretary of the sisterhood, will bless the Sabbath lights and will be hostess at the social and tea after the service. Sidney J. Jacobs is in charge of the Friday evening services at the temple. Mrs. Helen Jacobs will lead the community singing.

The first meeting of the adult study group will be held Wednesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Rothenberg, 214 S. Hamlin avenue. Mrs. Herman Moment is chairman of the group. Mrs. Gordon Garfield will report on current events.

Who Shall Rule Pacific? Will Be Theme at Forum

Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, will speak at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the forum of the First Congregational church in Oak Park. His topic will be "Is the Pacific our Ocean or Japan's?"

Skill and chance combine at a long table to declare a few of the players victorious and the others losers. The fun is in the game, tho, whether it be checkers, chess, or dominoes. Clockwise around the table are Sherwin Proper, Tom Gilroy, Betty Collins, Marge O'Brien, Doris Walters, Peggy Nagel, Larry Gallagher, and Pat Packard. Good marksmanship is the goal of the lineup of archers who are Peter Nuccio, Bud Golbus, Howard Garnitz, Bernard Sandler, and Harry Byrkit. Columbus park's director is Erwin Weiner.

PASTORS TO OPEN HINSDALE FORUM SERIES TUESDAY

"Feeding Hungry Europe" will be the topic of the first of a series of forums under the sponsorship of the Ministerial Association of Hinsdale-Clarendon Hills Tuesday night in the Hinsdale Union church. Forums will be held on alternate Tuesday nights until March 25, according to the Rev. Walter Luedtke, pastor of the Evangelical Immanuel church, and president of the association. Meetings will be open to the public and all the discussions will be on current problems of ethics.

The Rev. Walter Luedtke.

One of the ministers will serve as moderator while four others will carry on the discussion. On some of the programs, laymen will be invited to participate. There will be questions and comment by the audience.

Members of the forum committee are the Rev. M. S. Sweet, the Rev. E. W. Ohrenstein, and the Rev. E. Clifford Sandin. The Rev. R. A. Hyslop is an advisory member of the committee.

Future topics of the forum are "What Shall I Do About War?" Jan. 28; "After the War, What?" Feb. 11; "What's Responsible for Unemployment?" Feb. 25; "Has the Church Failed the World?" March 11; and "Good People and Dirty Politics," March 25.

Juana Hennepin Isabella Council to Hold Supper

Juana Hennepin council, No. 7, of the Ladies of Isabella, will hold a supper at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Milk foundation, 75 East Wacker drive. There also will be a card party. Mrs. Mae C. Smith is chairman and Miss Margaret Weber is grand lady of the council.

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER J. STAATS, 4629 Main street, Downers Grove, recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Bette Jayne, to Paul Clayton Hood, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hood of Columbia, Mo. Miss Staats is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has earned half of the units necessary for a master's degree in speech. She was active on the campus, especially in theater work, and is a member of Beta Phi Alpha social sorority. Her honoraries include membership in Zeta Phi Eta, Mask and Bauble, Arepo, Phi Alpha Chi, and the Gregorian Literary society. Mr. Hood, a graduate from the school of journalism of the University of Missouri, is city editor of the Capital News at Jefferson City, Mo.

Bette Jayne Staats.

Mr. and Mrs. James West Carpenter, 4617 Sherwood avenue, Downers Grove, are being congratulated over the recent arrival of a daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth. "Dotty" has a brother, W. A., and a sister, Mary Ann.

Madeline Joan and Kathleen Marie are the names that have been bestowed upon the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rawson of Glen Ellyn, who arrived early on New Year's day at the Elmhurst hospital.

THOMAS A. GREGG, 579 Forest avenue, Glen Ellyn, recently announced his voluntary retirement from active service with the Santa Fe railroad. For the last 20 years Mr. Gregg was assistant to the president in charge of personnel. As told by the Santa Fe magazine, Mr. Gregg was born on a farm in North Carolina. He became interested in railroading while attending Liberty academy, and in the fall of 1889 became a brakeman. During his spare time he studied law. In 1904 he was elected chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors for the Norfolk and Western system, and later was made vice president. In 1920 he was appointed to the position which he held until his retirement. He plans to continue to reside in Glen Ellyn and spend the winters in Florida.

LAST Thursday Mrs. Augusta Martschenke, 1336 South Washtenaw avenue, held open house in celebration of her 88th birthday. She has resided at this address for 54 years. Her husband, John, a contractor, died in 1924. He laid some of the first cement sidewalks in the Lawndale-Crawford district and together they operated one of the first milk depots in the neighborhood. Mrs. Martschenke can remember when water was obtained from a well in Douglas park.

Miss Helen Schatz, chairman of the cultural committee of the Chicago Business and Professional Women's auxiliary, B'nai B'rith, has arranged the third meeting of the season, which will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the home of Miss Ruth Shayman, 506 North Monticello avenue. Miss Eleanor Levin will speak on interior decoration.

CARL STOCKHOLM AGAIN TO HEAD BUSINESS MEN

Carl Stockholm, a cleaning establishment owner, was unanimously elected to the presidency of the Garfield Park Business Men's association recently for the third consecutive year. The democratic procedure of a secret ballot brought out a record vote, as the officers and directors for 1941 were selected by the membership. Wallace MacClay, manufacturing representative, was elected vice president and Herbert Dunning, chain store executive, was named secretary. The treasurer is Emerson J. Morris, bank cashier, and Harvey Johnson was again made executive secretary.

Carl Stockholm.

Of the 32 director nominees, 22 were successful in the secret balloting. They are T. H. Golightly, Leo Cohen, Walter H. Buescher, Bernard Baer, Ray McCarthy, George P. Madigan, John F. Butler, Thomas Connery, J. F. Thompson, Amerigo R. Sansone, Phil Scanlan, Dr. Emmett R. Watts, A. F. Figatner, A. L. Feldman, Walter P. Powers, Dr. M. D. Traxler, Norman Davis, Marvin Tench, Edward O'Donnell, O. D. Jennings, Louis Smith, and Charles Gellar. Twenty were to have been selected but a tie for 20th place boosted the number of elected directors to 22.

Camp Fire Girls' Group to Meet at Altgeld Park

Calwahanka group of the Camp Fire Girls will meet at 3:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Altgeld park fieldhouse. The group is sponsored by the Calhoun School Mothers Civic council. Rita Guide is president of the group and Mrs. Christine Lamb is guardian, assisted by Mrs. Elva Perrin.

CHURCH FOLKS BLEND VOICES IN 'PEP' CHORUSES

Singspirations Strike a Popular Chord.

BY MILDRED WILDS.

There must be something in men that makes them want to sing. Maybe they got the idea from the preponderance of bathtub singing or barber shop quartets, but, even so, the Rev. K. G. Norberg and the Rev. Swan Mattson are surprised at the success of their singspirations.

A singspiration is as new to church services as boogie-woogie is to swing music. It's an hour in some church basement with everybody singing religious choruses. Nobody does anything but sing.

The choruses used aren't found upstairs in the hymnal. They are the "peppy" songs sung over radio stations such as are on the programs of the Moody Bible institute. Their authors are choir directors from all parts of the country. They have more staccato than "Onward Christian Soldiers" and more melody than "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

Attract Young People.

William F. Moore, 919 North Waller avenue, the young Sunday School superintendent at Austin Trinity Methodist church, found himself promotion manager of the singspirations. Today they are attracting hundreds of west side young people into church.

The first singspiration was held in Salem Methodist church last June. This is the Rev. Mr. Mattson's church and he was one of the singspiration's founders. "Just announce that we're all going to get together and sing," he and the Rev. Mr. Norberg told pastors of Austin churches. The announcement was made and 150 young people of high school and college age turned out. George Nehf was leader and he called out all the choruses he could think of, like "Every Day with Jesus" and "He Lives, He Lives." Everybody sang for an hour, good or bad but with enthusiasm, and then they went home.

October rolled around and the Rev. Mr. Norberg called for a singspiration in his church, the Austin Trinity Methodist. There were 325 young people present and Russell Nehf, George's brother, was the song leader. A brass quartet came over from Lance B. Lathan's Northside Gospel center.

Standing Room Only.

Last month the Northwest Tabernacle, 3548 North avenue, the Rev. Alden Ferrar's church, announced to all west area churches that he would be host to a singspiration. Almost 700 young men and women turned out and before the first chorus was called there was standing room only and little of that.

Tonight at 9:45 o'clock there will be another singspiration in what is to be a monthly song series for young people of 40 west side Protestant churches. This evening the the choristers will crowd the assembly room of the Central Avenue Baptist church, Central avenue and Iowa street, where the Rev. Swan Engwall is pastor. Elmer Westerberg, head of the Young People's society, will be in charge. Miss Shirley Olson, pianist at Northwest Tabernacle, will accompany the singers.

There has been no date set for the February singspiration but the 40 churches have been invited to the Austin Methodist, Race street and Central avenue, where the Rev. Herbert B. Rhodes is pastor. Ray Sturgis Jr., president of the Young People's society, is issuing the invitations.

Once a month, from now on, there will be singspirations in whatever church asks to be host. "The progra mwon't vary much," says Mr. Moore, "We'll keep on doing what we have been doing, just singing."

271 VOLUNTEERS AMONG INITIAL ARMY TRAINEES

Next Call Is Delayed to Thursday.

A total of 575 draftees from Cook county were inducted into the army for a year of military training during the first four days of the January period, it was announced yesterday by Chicago selective service officials. Of this group 271 were volunteers who elected to start their year's service before their order number is called by their local draft boards.

Ninety-seven of the draftees accepted at the Chicago induction center in the 122d Field Artillery armory, 234 East Chicago avenue, during the four days were sent to the army reception center at Fort Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich. The remaining 478 conscripts were sent to Fort Sheridan.

720 Are Examined.

To select the 575 men who were inducted, army medical specialists and psychiatrists examined 720 prospects, rejecting 145. The main causes of rejection were: teeth, 42 men; mental and nervous conditions, 17; vision, 15; hearing, 14, and alcoholism, 12.

The January inductions, which began on Jan. 3, were ordered discontinued from Jan. 9 to Jan. 16, next Thursday, because of a delay in the construction of the camps in which the draftees will train.

In the list of men inducted for training the letter V signifies a volunteer.

PRAISES SCHOOL REUNIONS.

I notice the class of 1937 at Riverside-Brookfield High school held a reunion dance during the holidays and I think the promoters of the social event are to be congratulated. High school days are a time for forming friendships, but too often commencement time means a complete separation of the ways. When too many years have gone by it is difficult to bridge the gap caused by the lapse of time.

There are those who are opposed to delving into the past, holding that progress can come only with looking ahead and making the most of the present, but certainly school days do not fall into the category of days that should be forgotten. School days are synonymous with idealism and hope, and these are mental attitudes to be recaptured for their sustaining values on every possible occasion.

Three years do not comprise a long period out in the world, but three years can make many changes, as the class of 1937 no doubt observed. T. P. B.

THANKFUL FOR HERITAGE.

It is the thing we are denied that we covet most and appreciate most. I could not help but think of this old truth when I read of the citizenship programs being planned. Few of us realize, in taking our American citizenship for granted, the obstacles those less fortunate are obliged to overcome. We are told that those who do surmount all technicalities take their citizenship seriously. That causes me to ponder and to wonder if I have not been accepting too lightly a blessing that I have not lifted so much as a finger to obtain.

Everything worth while has been earned. The citizenship we have inherited was earned by our forebears. Too often an inherited good fortune slips thru the fingers due to a lack of realization of its import. From now on I intend to cherish my rights as an American citizen as never before. With new soberness, I look upon my birthright. K. P. B.

WHERE TO SKATE!

Skaters who live near the big parks like Douglas and Garfield have a hard time finding a public place to skate as the lagoons take a long time to freeze. If the city of Chicago would give out a list of spots where there is skating, many skate fans would scan it eagerly, I am sure.

WOMEN VOTERS CHURCH GROUP PLANS TO MEET.

The Oak Park League of Women voters will hold a joint meeting with the Woman's Church Federation of Oak Park, River Forest and Forest Park on Wednesday in the First Baptist church of Oak Park. Mrs. A. O. Aldrich, president of the Church federation, will preside at the 10:45 o'clock morning meeting.

Mrs. C. B. Crandell, World Friendship chairman, has invited Dr. Carl S. Winters to address the morning session on "Life's Crowning Good." Mrs. Harry Hobbin is director of arrangements for a 12:30 o'clock luncheon.

The afternoon meeting will be called to order at 1:30 o'clock by Mrs. Fred L. Bradfute, president of the League of Women voters. Mrs. William Wiebe, chairman of the foreign policy department of the Oak Park league, has asked three chairmen of similar departments in Evanston, Cook county, and the Illinois leagues to contribute to the program.

They will be introduced by Miss May Estelle Cook who will open the subject, "The Perils of the Seas." Mrs. Paul Van Auken of Hinsdale will discuss "The Mediterranean." Mrs. L. B. Perkins of Evanston will report "Peril of the South China Seas" and Mrs. Paul Douglas, state chairman of the department, will end the panel discussion with a lecture on "The Caribbean."

Garfield Park Auxiliary.

The Garfield Park auxiliary will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Washington Boulevard Community center. Rabbi Gunther Plaut, assistant rabbi of Washington Boulevard temple, will be guest speaker.

RECTOR OF PRINCETON CHURCH TO ADDRESS SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving.

Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Princeton, N. J., will make his first appearance before the audience of the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall. His topic will be "Can God now Communicate with Men?" Clifford W. Barnes will preside at the meeting and the Scripture will be read by Hermon D. Smith, trustee of the club.

Dr. Kinsolving was a Rhodes scholar from the University of Virginia. After the expiration of his fellowship at Christ Church college he was called as rector of Grace church, Amherst, Mass., which he served for six years, proceeding thence to Trinity cathedral, Boston, Mass., renowned for the ministry of Bishop Phillips Brooks. He went to Princeton last year where he combines his parochial duty with pastoral ministration to the university students.

The Northwestern Lutheran male chorus of 75 voices recruited from Lutheran churches in the northwest area, directed by Edward Nelson, will sing at the 7 o'clock meeting, and Hudson H. Pittman will continue his series of informal Bible talks on the Sermon on the Mount.

SIX FURNITURE EMPLOYES TOP 40 YEAR MARK

Oldest in Group Began Duties in 1895.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Sherman Stephens 40 Years Ago

Today.

The recent award of service emblems to employés of the Kroehler Manufacturing company revealed that the six oldest in point of service, all residents of Naperville, are Sherman Stephens, Ernest Rich, Ed Knickerbocker, John Landorf, G. L. Wicks, and Miss Antoinette Rich.

Sherman Stephens, oldest living employé of the company, started working with P. E. Kroehler in 1895 when the plant was located in a one-story frame building in downtown Naperville. Mr. Stephens was then the only upholsterer. His work today includes cutting patterns for upholstering and designing the cutting of the piece.

Ernest Rich, of the trucking department, has been with the company since 1897. He recalls that Burlington park was in its heyday at the close of the 19th century, and having seen Mr. Kroehler ride there on his bicycle.

Kerosene Lamp Light.

Ed Knickerbocker started work in 1897 at what was then called the Naperville Lounge factory. He did the packing and hauling of the couches to the railway station. His pay was 10 cents an hour. Kerosene lamps were used for light, and the men took turns building a fire in the coal stove. Today, Mr. Knickerbocker is receiver and dispatcher for cover material.

John Landorf started work for the company in 1899 at the job of packing finished merchandise. He recalls that in the old days, couches were delivered to the depot by a spring wagon, pulled by an old black horse. According to John, boxing was a favorite sport among employés in the early days. His work today is that of an upholsterer.

George L. Wicks also began work at the plant in 1899, as a stationary engineer. Later, he was made mill foreman, and now has charge of the mill pattern and blue print department. When Mr. Wicks started with the company, 100 persons were employed. Today, there are 3,000 employés in the 10 plants located in the United States and Canada.

42 Years of Stenography.

Miss Antoinette Rich, sixth oldest in years of service with the company, has been employed for 42 years in the general office, first as a stenographer and now as a stenographer and bookkeeper. She thought one dollar a day big pay in 1899. She recalls that when the office was not too busy, she and her friends went into the sewing room and helped make cushions. In those days, all invoices were made out by hand.

Gold service pins recently were awarded to all employés of the company with continual service records of 20 or more yeaars. Workers with a record of from five to 20 years were given silver pins. The number of those with a record of five years or more total 1,835.

Service emblems were presented to the employés by President D. L. Kroehler.

AIDS OF TALMUD TORAHS TO MEET FOR LUNCHEON

A luncheon for the Women's division of the Associated Talmud Torahs will be held at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Knesses Israel Nusach Sfard hall, 1308 Independence boulevard.

Mrs. Morris L. Shapera is president of the women's group and Mrs. Esther Teplitzky is chairman of the luncheon committee. Rabbi Menahem B Sacks will be toastmaster.

The program will be presented by Cantor Aaron Richman and his wife, Sadie, accompanied by Peter Sher. Mrs. Louis Reinwald will give dramatic readings and Rabbi Isaac Siegel of Congregation Beth Itzchok of Albany Park will be guest speaker.

Honorary Cadet Commander

Miss Patricia Hooper of Downers Grove was named honorary commander of Company A in the Ripon (Wis.) college R. O. T. C. battalion last week by Gene Bostwick, cadet captain. At the college, Miss Hooper, as young Bostwick's sponsor, will lead the grand march at the military ball on Friday, Jan. 31. At the tea-dance preceding the ball, the sponsors will review the battalion and award first quarter competition medals. Patricia is a Delta Phi Sigma sorority sophomore and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hooper.

PULASKI ROAD WILL HAVE NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Two Locations Chosen for the Signals.

Two locations on Pulaski road will have new traffic signals installed, it was announced at the first 1941 meeting of the West Area council of the Chicago Motor club held recently at the Oak Park club. Ald. Joseph Gillespie [29th] coöperated with the council and obtained the order in the city council for the installation of signals at the Fifth avenue and 16th street intersections with Pulaski.

Another set of lights is promised for Homan avenue and Augusta boulevard by the park district, according to a report from Walter Kelly, chairman of the council.

Improvement in Traffic.

Progress was also reported on the council's efforts to obtain improvement of traffic conditions on Austin avenue north of North avenue. The city has appropriated $200,000 to repave and widen the avenue to 42 feet from North avenue to Diversey.

At the request of the council, four way stop signs have been placed at the intersection of Austin and Fullerton avenues. The volume count at this intersection shows 9,507 cars east and westbound and 5,769 cars north and southbound during a 16 hour period.

Motor club engineers submitted a report opposing the naming of 9th avenue in Maywood as a thru street. They said traffic did not justify the thorofare and that other hazards made it impractical.

Aid to Motorists.

The state highway department reported it would top dress the Washington boulevard roadway between Thatcher avenue in River Forest and First avenue in Maywood this summer to eliminate the slippery condition.

Mayor E. J. Thiele of Hillside asked for another study of the intersection of Wolf and Roosevelt roads in his village. He said three deaths had occured at this location during the last two months and that there were a number of others during the year. He favors the installation of traffic signals and the elimination of vision obstructions in the vicinity of the crossing.

Will Be Bride

Miss Lucille Clare Wojtowicz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wojtowicz, 2851 West Cermak road, whose engagement to John J. Klocek, son of Mrs. Katharine Johnson, 2821 West Cullerton street, recently was announced.

R. O. T. C. CADETS TO RECEIVE NEW SHOOTING COATS

A shipment of 110 new shooting coats has been received by R. O. T. C. units in the city, it was announced by Col. William F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics for the schools. The new coats are of cloth with protective leather pads at the shoulders and elbows, and are designed for use by the students on the rifle range. The coats not only protect the shooter from grease and dirt, but they also serve as shock absorbers during firing.

100 PIECE PROVISO SCHOOL BAND WILL GIVE CONCERT TODAY

James Del Giudice.

Walter Barzenick.

Two instrumental soloists, Walter Barzenick, clarinetist, and James Del Giudice, trombonist, will be featured this afternoon in the first of the 1941 series of concerts by the Proviso Township High school 100 piece band. The concert in the school auditorium in Maywood will start at 3:15 o'clock. J. Irving Tallmadge is director.

Walter will play Mendelssohn's "Concerto Finale," and James will play "Andante et Allegro," by Barat. The saxophone sextet, composed of Clarence Jacoby, Kenneth Sieving, Margaret Schroeder, Thomas Gannon, Frank Bruno, and Dan Passarella will play Mr. Tallmadge's arrangement of Tschaikowsky's "Swan Lake Sextet No. 2."

One of the highlights of the afternoon will be the band's presentation of "Fantasie," by Cimera, played in its manuscript form. The concert will close with the "Polka and Fugue," by Weinberger. The concert is under the sponsorship of the Proviso Band Parents association.

Calls for Actors.

Lawndale Civic theater guild, 1423 S. Kedzie avenue, has started casting for its new production, "Counsellor at Law." Saul Siedman, director, invites try-outs.

AUSTIN IS DUE TO BLOSSOM AS HOME OF DRAMA

Old Movie House Is to Be School and Theater.

There's a dusty movie theater at 433 Laramie avenue that's been deserted for 10 years. No bright lights or placards out front have coaxed in an audience since Sydney Chaplin was there in the celluloid version of "Charlie's Aunt."

The theater was doomed to darkness until one day last fall a man named Ken Carrington settled down in Austin after 40 years of theatrical trooping all over the world. Any day now fresh paint, a new lighted sign, and local talent will bring the dusty theater to life.

Ken Carrington has played heavies and light comedy rôles as far away as Natal, South Africa; India, Australia, and South America. He ended his days as a trouper and several months ago bought a house at 5352 Ferdinand street.

Model in Pasadena.

Mr. Carrington happens to be a friend of Gilmor Brown, director of the famous Pasadena Community playhouse, the source of many a Hollywood stardom. Mr. Carrington also noticed that Austin men and women liked to play act. There were a score of drama clubs but no real stages for their productions. Now Austin is going to have a community playhouse like Pasadena's.

When Mr. Carrington took his idea for a community theater to Mrs. Frank Drummond of the Austin North End Woman's club she held a meeting in her home and the Austin Community playhouse was born. That was on Nov. 20.

Today brooms, paint brushes, and a five year option on the old Windsor motion picture house on Laramie avenue promise to give Austin a dramatic future. The immediate objectives are 1,000 members this month, a rejuvenated theater by February, and the first play production in March.

Scope to Be Wide.

The scope of dramatic work is to be unlimited, ranging from farce to Greek tragedy, covering religious drama, historical plays, spectacular pageantry, ballet, musical shows, and all the items that go with play making.

There will be scenic and costume designing, cultivation of correct speech, diction, deportment, the writing of theatrical manuscripts, and back stage work. To this may be added radio technique in writing and production and recording efforts.

The organization committee consists of Mrs. Louis R. Millar of the Austin Woman's club; Miss Maude Blake, librarian of the Austin branch of the public library; Mrs. H. G. Jones, Austin Woman's club; Fred Holdsworth Jr., and John Schrik, business men; T. D. Monahan of the Austin Y. M. C. A.; Miss Lucille Current, head of the English department of the Austin High school; Mrs. F. Percy Boynton, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Woman's clubs; Mrs. Herman Freevol, president of the Austin North End club, and Mrs. Robert Daum, president of the Austin Woman's club.

Dozens of jobs and professions have been represented by the people who have become members and have offered to help. High school students want to scrub up the old movie house. A carpenter offered to fix the floor.

Heads of Committees.

Chairmen of committees are Frank Drummond, housing; Mrs. Frank O. Slepicka, membership; Mrs. Norman Strenning, junior activities; James C. Kensler, senior activities; Miss Florence Smith, publicity; Marvin Tench and Norman Holdsworth, finance; George Logan, art; Jane Ogden Hunter, music; Robert Hoffman, play reading.

Junior activities will be conducted in the summer. Mr. Carrington will be the director. He brings experience to Austin that began 40 years ago at Tony Pastor's on 14th street in New York. He did dramatic bits while Weber and Fields were doing their Dutch comedy on the other side of Broadway. He played with Charlie Chaplin, Mary Miles Minter, and Nazimova.

Oak Parkers Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Garrity of Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Catherine, to Charles Madison Kelsey. Miss Garrity was graduated from Rosary college, River Forest, last June. She spent a year in foreign study at Rosary's Villa des Fougeres, Fribourg, Switzerland, and is now attending the Career Institute of Chicago. Mr. Kelsey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kelsey of Oak Park, and was graduated with honors from the University of Notre Dame last June. [Toloff Photo.]

SEWS RED CROSS STINT DESPITE LOSS OF SIGHT

Bernice Clifton Adapts Self to Adversity.

There is drama in the story of Red Cross work. Floods, fire, famine, and war sound the call for the bandages and blankets prepared in churchrooms and clubhouses in every city and village. But sometimes there is a story to tell of the women who sew the seams and knit the sweaters.

Bernice Clifton.

—Red Cross unit No. 6 was organized last June to meet in the 19th Century Woman's clubhouse. The club offered all its facilities to the unit, invited all women in Oak Park to attend. The 195 women have made 2,535 garments including layettes, socks and sweaters, bed shirts, operating gowns, and convalescent robes. They have made 6,000 surgical dressings.

A huge, sleek dog has sat faithfully at the feet of one attractive woman who sews just a little more slowly than the others. She never looks at her work even when she threads her needle, for Bernice Clifton is blind.

Adapted to New Life.

The dog constantly at her feet is Karla who acts as her eyes when she travels from her home at 132 North Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, to her Red Cross meetings.

Until three years ago Miss Clifton could see. She was in charge of displays for a large gift shop in Oak Park. Her sense of color and design won admiring comments for the shop. Then thru an accident, Miss Clifton completely lost her sight. She had two courses to follow she said, "To give up in blind dispair or to find a new niche for myself where eyes weren't so necessary."

She took the second road to the future, went to Morristown, N. J., where she was trained to depend on a Seeing Eye dog. Miss Clifton then took up lecturing to earn a living. She has flown several times to New York City to lecture. She has spoken on blindness and her philosophy in hundreds of towns thru the middle west.

Still Is Decorator.

She teaches Braille to sighted persons who want to read Braille to save eye strain. One of her pupils is secretary in a law office and her hobby is reading. Using Braille saves her eyes during leisure time reading.

Miss Clifton continues to do window decorations. Several firms have asked her to do their windows and she can, for she says, "An idea can be seen with the mind's eye. I merely tell the idea to an artist and he uses his eyes to put it into being."

Every Friday morning Miss Clifton continues to give some of her time to the Red Cross. She has a self-threading needle and uses her fingers as a guide to her stitches.

The women in Oak Park and River Forest in this Friday morning class who have earned their Red Cross service pins for 144 hours of work are Miss Esther Ayres, Miss LaVaughn Bell, Mrs. Robert Bradshaw, Mrs. W. O. Darrow, Mrs. Lee Hein, Mrs. Robert Holmes, Mrs. V. S. Ives, Mrs. Warren Jackson, Mrs. Marie Kelly, Mrs. Hugh Knowles, Mrs. H. E. Luff, Mrs. A. J. Redmond, Mrs. E. E. Tyson, Miss Carolyn Smith, Mrs. Benjamin Wolcott, Mrs. M. E. Wight, Mrs. Pierce Underwood, and Mrs. Proctor C. Waldo.

Miss Clifton says she has kept pace in a sighted world "to prove that a blind person does not need to fall into a class. Losing my sight," she says, "was just another adjustment I had to make in life."

Program Chairman

Mrs. Rowland Morrison, 1932 South Sawyer avenue, is chairman of the men's night program of the Millard Avenue Woman's club which will be presented at 8 o'clock Friday night in Shedd park, 23d street and Lawndale avenue.

LONE TREE GIRL SCOUT LEADERS MAP '41 PLANS

First Project Will Be Training Courses.

Another chapter in the story of Lone Tree area council of the Girl Scouts of America was begun at a luncheon table in Oak Park on Thursday. Forty-five women from 12 west suburbs will give their time in 1941 so that some 6,000 girls will be able to go camping, learn how to sew, swim, study, and put into practice the Girl Scout code.

Dr. Albert Buckner Coe addressed the leaders, who were elected at the luncheon, on the topic "Youth Faces a New World."

The first project for the council will be training courses. Every Monday evening during January there will be a course for Brownie leaders in the headquarters, 115 North Marion street. On Monday nights during February there will be training courses for intermediate and senior Scout leaders.

Red Cross Activities.

Saturday morning will open the activities of unit No. 10 of the American Red Cross for high school age Scouts, from 9:30 o'clock to 12 o'clock.

Tomorrow evening there will be a meeting of the cookie committee to plan the cookie drive for Lone Tree area. Proceeds from this annual sale go toward the improvement of Camp Lone Tree near Three Rivers, Mich.

Officers elected Thursday to preside over council work in 1941 are Mrs. O. B. Johnson, president; Mrs. A. P. Cottle, commissioner; Mrs. J. A. Perkins, recording secretary; Mrs. R. N. Ketcham, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Edward L. Carlyon, treasurer.

A meeting of the membership will be held at 1:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the school assembly. A sketch entitled "Kindness to Animals" will be presented by members of the Humane Education club, directed by Miss Gladys Flemming, assisted by Mrs. John Klebba.

A motion picture entitled "The Wonder World Thru Chemistry" will be presented Friday afternoon in the Emmet school auditorium by the P.-T. A.

Students of Harrison High school will give a panel discussion as the program for a meeting of the school P.-T. A. at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the social room of the school.

A tea for mothers of the graduating class will be held by the Howland school P.-T. A. on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The nominating committee will be elected.

Mrs. W. F. Krahl, state chairman of mental hygiene, will lead a panel discussion on mental hygiene at a meeting of the Lawson school P.-T. A. at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the school assembly hall. She will be assisted by Miss Maude Stubbings, adjustment teacher, and Mrs. Jack Ackerman, Lawson mental hygiene chairman. George Sype, principal, will give a review of school news. The musical program will be given by Mrs. Julius Hoffman, accompanied by Mrs. David Lewis.

An exhibit of handiwork will be held at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Bryant P.-T. A. Mrs. Al Coleff, homemaking chairman, will be in charge.

"Enrichment of Life thru Proper Legislation" is the theme for the meeting of the Delano P.-T. A. at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the school auditorium. Mrs. Paul Sahlins will preside and Mrs. J. D. Elman, legislation chairman, will give a detailed report of her work. Mrs. Leonard Mendelssohn, program chairman, will introduce the Rev. R. A. Gallagher, executive secretary of Loyola university, as guest speaker. The nominating committee will be elected and the meeting will end with a social hour with Mrs. Harold Borgstrom in charge.

Monroe P.-T. A. will meet Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Ruth Straight of the economics department of Taft High school will speak on "The Home and the Community." The founding of the unit will be celebrated at this meeting, and the organizer, Mrs. George Couper, and the first president, Mrs. Ed Rundin, will be guests.

A card party will be held at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Bergman's store, 4049 West North avenue. Mrs. Charles Eades is ways and means chairman.

A board meeting will be held by the Mothers' Civic council of Calhoun school at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Elsie Mackenzie will preside. The principal of Calhoun school, Miss Eleanor Fitzgerald, will be the school representative for the meeting.

Chicago High School Council of Parents and Teachers, districts 23 and 24, announce a library conference for presidents and library chairmen of all local units. The meeting will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the Y. W. C. A., 59 East Monroe street. Mrs. F. L. Scharf will preside.

A West Side Bride

Mrs. Edward F. Kreutzer Jr. was Miss Normah Jane Chidley before her recent marriage in St. Martin's Episcopal church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Chidley, 238 North Mayfield avenue. Mr. Kreutzer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Kreutzer, 4446 North Mobile avenue. A reception was held at the Medinah Country club.

RAILWAY CHORAL CLUB WILL SING TUESDAY NIGHT

The Chicago and North Western Railway Choral club, winner of first prize for mixed choruses at the 1936 Chicagoland Music Festival, will present a varied program Tuesday evening in the Austin Masonic temple. The concert, which will include sacred, operatic, and popular numbers, is sponsored by Austin chapter No. 180 of the Order of Eastern Star. The club is composed of 66 members directed by Harry Slater and is now in its 15th year.

ST. MEL SCHOOL AUXILIARY WILL RALLY TUESDAY

St. Mel High school auxiliary will open the 1941 activities with a meeting for the entire membership at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the school gymnasium. Mrs. John M. Corliss is chairman of the party, assisted by Mrs. Ray A. Cornwall.

Other committee members are Mrs. Dennis Scully, social chairman; Mrs. Ray Coriss, Mrs. John Corcoran, Mrs. Charles Cannon, Mrs. T. T. Creighton, Mrs. R. F. Coyne, Mrs. J. M. Connelly, Mrs. Edward Culleney, Mrs. J. F. Clerkin, Mrs. J. A. Cuddy.

Mrs. J. J. Corbett, Mrs. Mary Celig, Mrs. G. L. Conroy, Mrs. S. S. Corcoran, Mrs. Lewis Clark, Mrs. James Clark, and Mrs. James Crowley. Mrs. Carter McMahon is president of the auxiliary.

GLENVIEW HOME BLENDS MODERN WITH COLONIAL

Charm and Efficiency Are Well Combined.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Distinction can certainly be achieved in a small colonial home as well as in a vast home of 20 or 30 rooms. It is found in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Force, 1249 Elm court, Glenview.

This six room dwelling has the solidity and charm so typical of our early colonial houses, yet it is freely adapted to 1941 living. And this home is a good example of skill in blending an old vintage to modern taste.

The architects are Rapp and Rapp, 230 North Michigan avenue. They have designed the sort of house which will put down roots, a colonial type home with first story exterior of Williamsburg toned brick and the second story of ivory siding. The blinds are a dubonnet shade and the garade is serviceably located, serving as a wing and adding interest to the mass of the house.

Soft Colored Interior.

Inside, the rooms are logically arranged and beautifully treated. On the first floor there is a reception hall with stairs to the second floor on the right of the entrance door and living room at the left.

Much of the charm of this home lies in the beauty of the soft coloring thruout. The living room and hall have walls of an exquisite shade of pale green. In the dining room the wainscot is dusty pink with wall paper in the same tone above. The carpeting of both rooms and hall is a rich green and the woodwork is white.

When you enter the living room you get the immediate impression of light, and of closeness to the out-of-doors. French doors can be thrown open to what will be terraces and gardens next summer, and deep windows on the opposite wall reach almost to the floor. There is an appealing, simple fireplace with marble facing and built-in shelves of graceful design on either side of it.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is a charmer. Its walls are cream colored with a delicate red pattern. The woodwork is white, and counter and double drainboard sink surfaces are of gray green mottled linoleum. There's a breakfast bar with white painted shelves for decorative accessories—and useful ones. This serves as a division between the breakfast nook and the kitchen proper. In this breakfast nook the benches are upholstered in red leather and lift up, revealing cupboard space for youthful belongings. The Venetian blinds and the windows in the kitchen are ivory with red tape, and the curtains are white with red bands.

The powder room on the first floor is treated with as much thought and beauty as the kitchen. The woodwork is painted a pastel blue, the fixtures are a deeper blue, and the floor is black with a mottled pattern. The wainscoting is an attractive shade of pink, with blue paper above patterned with pink.

Ceramic Tile Bath.

The walls and the carpeting to the second story are the same lovely green as the living room and hall. On this second floor there are three bedrooms—a large master bedroom, a boy's room, and a little girl's room. Here also there is a handsome bathroom with walls of ceramic tile. There is a niche in the wall for the telephone and a large linen closet. There are no overhead lights in living room or bedrooms of this house, but in the hall over the stairway there is a good looking crystal light fixture.

Wed 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Berkowsky, 1606 South St. Louis avenue, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at their home recently. Both have resided in Chicago more than 65 years. They have four sons and three daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Lowy, Mrs. Carl Kelleck, Mrs. Harry Gerstner, and Harry, Ben, Sam, and Albert Berkowsky, all residents of Chicago. There are 10 grandchildren.

LEGION OF FIFTH DISTRICT TO HEAR SERVICE LEADER

Rehabilitation Is the Topic Thursday Night.

Lester R. Benston, service officer for the department of Illinois, will speak on rehabilitation and service work Thursday night at a meeting of the 5th district council, American Legion, at Ukrainian hall, 1944 West Erie street. Paul Revere post, commanded by Anthony P. Peluso, will be host.

All ex-service men, regardless of Legion connections, are invited to attend the meeting by Dr. Emmett R. Watts, district commander.

District posts, coöperating with the state department, will observe child welfare week, Jan. 13 to 19; rehabilitation week, Jan. 20 to 26; employment week, Jan. 27 to Feb. 2; and Sons of the Legion week, Feb. 3 to 9.

The Greater Chicago chapter, Regular Veterans' Woman's association will be presented with a charter Thursday night. Those eligible to membership in the chapter are women whose sons, husbands, fathers, brothers or grandfathers served or are serving in the regular army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard of the United States.

Meetings of the chapter, first of its kind to be organized in the Chicago area, are held every first and third Thursday night of each month in the Garfield park administration building. Ellen M. Cederlund, secretary, announces that those eligible for membership are invited to attend.

The auxiliary of Melin-Romer post will hold a card party Friday night at La Follette park, Hirsch street and Laramie avenue.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Jan. 13.

Increase the supply of shrubs by taking the whips or vigorous growths of many kinds, cut them into lengths of from six to eight inches and bury in sand or well drained place and line out in the garden in spring. Currants and grapes root readily by this method. Lilacs are difficult to root from cuttings, but by using root-stimulants many will respond.

Cuttings from green wood made in June and placed in sand in a cold frame also may be made. By taking each cutting with a heel or with the base or bottom of the cutting attached, rooting will result more readily. A box covered with glass will suffice for a few cuttings. Shade with muslin to prevent rapid evaporation.

Tuesday, Jan. 14.

You can't make a telephone pole sprout roots and grow, but you can hide it by planting a Lombardy tree next to it. The Lombardy grows upward in a tall, slender manner and will grow sufficiently high to cover the pole's stark appearance.

Vines also can be planted at the base of the pole and trained to cover. The Engelmann ivy is good and grows rapidly. In shady places, such as the north side of the house, where there is little room for shrubs, plants like the hardy ferns and lily-of-the-valley will do nicely. Poor soil should be removed and good soil hauled in.

Blue clay or heavy, poorly drained soils should be replaced and drainage worked into the underlying strata. The poor growth of plants is usually caused by poor soil conditions or bad selection of material for planting.

Wednesday, Jan. 15.

A common fault is selecting tall plants where dwarf kinds are essential for best results. Beneath a low window low growing plants should be used, such as spiraea bumaldi, Anthony waterer, deutzia gracilis, shrubby cinquefoil, a drouth resisting plant, Indian currant, and St. Johnswort.

The globeflower, with its light green twigs, is excellent when used in front of the redbark dogwood. It can be severely cut back in early spring. Too large shrubs on the small city backyard usually dominate and should be sparingly used.

A tall hedge along the back fence, if properly kept within bounds, offers seclusion and hides the alley. Where there is room tall shrubs like the lilac, when kept restricted, and pruned, will furnish many choice blooms and serve as an effective screen.

Thursday, Jan. 16.

Bring in the potted bulbous plants for flowering in the house. Keep well watered. After flowering keep the soil moist and the plants growing until the leaves turn yellow, indicating the ripening of the bulbs. Save the tulip, hyacinth, and narcissus for outdoor planting in the fall.

Use vines to screen the garage. They may be either annual or hardy. The new morning-glories are excellent; the Japanese hop soon covers the side of the building and selfsows. Both need support.

Friday, Jan. 17.

Do not attempt a hedge at the front unless there is plenty of room, for it restricts the front or public area and is seldom kept in a vigorous growing, pleasing condition. City yards with a front of about 10 feet should not have a hedge along the sidewalk.

The parkway should not be planted with shrubs unless conditions warant their use. Shrubs offer dangerous conditions to children dashing out from them into the street and especially where traffic is heavy.

Saturday, Jan. 18.

Join a garden club or organize a new one. The men will find much that is educational if they become interested in one of the men's garden clubs.

If cut flowers are removed from the vase and kept in a deep container at night and placed in a cool room, they will last much longer. A dry, warm room soon causes them to wither. Keep all flowering plants well watered.

Prepared in coöperation with the Garfield park conservatory.

"DID YOU EVER SEE ADS PULL LIKE OURS?"

"And the best part is that Sunday Tribune Metropolitan section rates are so low we can advertise all year 'round."

FOR more than 13 years, large and small businesses located in many neighborhoods and suburbs of Chicago have been running low-cost advertising in the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections edited for and read exclusively by the families in their respective trading areas.

One or more of these five great sections—North, Northwest, West, Southwest and South—reaches your best customers and prospects—the people best able to trade with you. Your offers over your signature in the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections can help you attract more customers and sell more merchandise.

To get information on this low-cost profit building plan which proved its value to more than 750 neighborhood enterprises last year call SUPerior 0100—Metropolitan section advertising.

SCOTCH MEDLEY TO BE FEATURE OF CONCERT HOUR

Marion Claire Is Soloist of W-G-N Program.

Marion Claire, lyric soprano, will be featured in a solo presentation of a medley of Scotch folk songs on the Chicagoland Concert Hour tomorrow. This program of fine and familiar music will be heard from 10 to 10:45 p. m. over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. The W-G-N Concert orchestra will be conducted by Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company.

The songs to be presented by Miss Claire include four of the best known gems of Scotland. They are "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon," "Loch Lomond," "The Campbells Are Coming," and "Annie Laurie." Miss Claire also will sing Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan, and the favorite southern melody, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

The orchestra will play Massenet's overture from "Phadre," "Guitarre," by Moszkowski, "Cherry Ripe," by Scott, and Liadov's "Musical Snuff Box."

The complete program:

Next week the Chicagoland hour will move to the period now occupied by the Pageant of Melody. The Concert Hour will be heard from 8:30 to 9 p. m. Wednesday evening each week, starting Jan. 22. The Pageant of Melody will be heard from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Monday, starting Jan. 20. William A. Bacher produces the concert hour.

Gitta Gradova to Play with Chicago Symphony

Gitta Gradova, noted Chicago pianist, will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network as guest soloist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m. Thursday. As another highlight of the program Dr. Frederick Stock will give the first performance of Dr. Albert Noelte's work, "Symphonic Prologue," written and dedicated to the Chicago Symphony orchestra on its 50th anniversary. Dr. Noelte, the composer, is an instructor with the Chicago Civic orchestra. Miss Gradova will play "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" by Rachmaninoff.

GEORGE FISHER GOT INTO RADIO REPORTING ALMOST BY ACCIDENT

George Fisher.

Experience in several occupations as well as with film people from struggling extras to stars is the background that has added up to radio success for George Fisher, versatile conductor of the "Hollywood Whispers" program. Fisher is heard with his intimate glimpses into the film colony from 11:30 to 11:45 a. m. each Tuesday and Thursday over W-G-N and Mutual. Fisher has worked as theater doorman, fruit and vegetable salesman, truck driver, publicity man, and auto part peddler in his turbulent career. He worked at all these jobs before he ever saw a movie star or the inside of a radio station.

Fisher got into radio almost by accident. A radio executive was impressed by Fisher's voice over the phone, advised him to try out as an announcer; a few days later Fisher was staff announcer on a local Los Angeles station. There he started a "Studio Whispers" program which reported news about the stars.

When Fisher moved to KHJ, Mutual's Los Angeles outlet, he took his idea with him and called it "Hollywood Whispers."

Good Luck Gift

An anonymous listener sent this frisky little cocker spaniel to Joan Banks, the Mary Foster of the radio drama, "The Editor's Daughter," heard over W-G-N five days a week. Attached to a big red bow tied around Jimminy Cricket's neck was a note reading, "To Wish You a Doggone Merry Christmas and a Litter of Good Luck in 1941."

EAST CHICAGO HIGH NEXT ON SCHOOL PROGRAM

The first Indiana school to be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N will be Washington High school of East Chicago. This program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and dedicated to the youth of America, will be heard from 4:30 to 5 p. m. next Tuesday. Special buses will bring 600 boys and girls from East Chicago to witness the broadcast, and 100 of the students will be taken on a tour of Tribune tower preceding the program.

R. F. Robinson, principal of Washington High, will speak briefly during the entertainment and the school's Choral club, directed by Pauline M. Shearer, will sing three numbers, including the school song, "Hail Noble Washington."

Philip Maxwell of the Chicago Tribune's editorial department is master of ceremonies and plays the rôle of the principal in the broadcast. Announcer Charles Victor will introduce six students from the studio audience who will participate in the Tribune News Quiz conducted by Mr. Maxwell. A highlight of the program will be the addition of three outstanding students to the roll of honor. They are Roe Campbell, president of the student council of Oskaloosa, Ia.; Ruby Watson, composer, of Sheboygan, Wis., and Richard G. Erdmann, amateur short wave expert of Elkhart, Ind.

Pianist in Music Hall.

Anna Antuniades, pianist, and Jan Peerce, tenor, will be guest soloists on the Radio City Music Hall on the Air program at 11:30 a. m. today on WENR.

W-G-N ACTORS EAT WAY INTO PROPER MOODS

Choose Cafes to Go with Operettas' Locale.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

To any artist mood and atmosphere are important. Walking in the rain is a favorite device used by some artists to provide the proper feeling for creative effort. Some actresses get the proper lift by acquiring a new hat. Taking a cottage on the sand dunes seems to help others. A pair of dark glasses does the trick for Rudy Vallee.

The singers and actors who appear each Saturday in W-G-N's Theater of the Air operettas have a special device, too. They simply eat their way into the desired mood. Before each broadcast they gather in a restaurant that suggests the locale of the particular operetta they are to present.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, musicians and studio technicians, as well as the song and drama stars join in these "atmosphere" dinners.

Many Locales Discovered.

In the months the operettas have been on the air Austrian, old English, German, Hungarian, Mexican, Irish, and far northern locales have been discovered for the Saturday repasts.

For the operetta "Robin Hood," Bacher took his crew to St. Hubert's grill where an excellent old English atmosphere was developed over a roast beef and Yorkshire pudding.

A Costa Rican coffee shop served the purpose for the warm Mexican locale of "Rio Rita." For this production the noted Mexican singer, José Mojica, was a guest. The rollicking bierstube mood of "The Student Prince" was found in the Golden Ox restaurant.

Finding an Oasis.

No trouble was experienced in locating Hungarian, Irish, or Austrian restaurants, but the "Desert Song" presented an insurmountable problem. There are plenty of oases in Chicago, but none of the Sahara desert type Bacher had in mind.

"Rose Marie" also presented a problem—at first. The cast searched unsuccessfully for a French-Canadian restaurant. Wes Summerfield, singer in the augmented chorus, rescued the party.

"I've been all thru the Canadian Northwest," he said. "There was a Chinese restaurant on every corner."

So a chop suey house down the street was chosen to provide the mood of lumberjacks and big snows.

"Cyrano" Next Saturday.

A French restaurant, presumably, would be in order next. "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be presented from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday with Marion Claire and Conrad Thibault singing the leading rôles. Thibault helped Miss Claire inaugurate the season with the presentation of "The Vagabond King." Later he was featured with Miss Claire in "Rio Rita" and "The New Moon."

Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company, will lead the W-G-N Concert orchestra and augmented chorus in providing the musical background.

The text for "Cyrano de Bergerac" was written by William J. Henderson. Walter Damrosch wrote the music. It is adapted from the original play by Edmond Rostand. "Cyrano de Bergerac" was first presented at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York on Feb. 27, 1913.

Mutual Network Business Gains 34.3% During 1940

Mutual network officials announced last week that billings for the chain during December, 1940, of $576,983 represented an 81.6 per cent increase over the December, 1939, figure of $317,699. In November, 1940, political business bolstered the rate of increase over the corresponding month of 1939 to 91.9 per cent. The greatest yearly gain in Mutual billings was tabulated in 1940, too. A total of $4,767,054 for the year represented a 34.3 per cent increase over the gross for 1939, which was $3,329,782.

Ready for Winter Canter

'The Barber of Seville' on Great Plays Program

"The Barber of Seville," written by Beaumarchais and first presented in 1775, will be the Great Plays presentation at 2 p. m. today over WENR and NBC. The work was the basis for Rossini's opera of the same name.

PORTRAY STORY OF MODIGLIANI ON W-G-N SHOW

How a cruel art dealer exploited the talents of Anadeo Modigliani, noted Italian painter, will be portrayed on the "Great Artists" program over W-G-N from 4 to 4:15 p. m. Tuesday. For a long time, Modigliani was imprisoned in the cellar of a Paris art broker. Food fit only for animals was the payment he received for painting masterpieces. No painting, no food, was the motto of his jailer.

Innumerable congratulatory letters from the W-G-N audience bear testimony to the fact that this program, presented weekly with the coöperation of the Art Institute of Chicago, is attracting the attention of a steadily increasing following among the art lovers of the Middle West. The listener response has been so great that a new switchboard has been installed at the Art institute to accommodate the complimentary phone calls.

Daniel C. Rich, director of fine arts at the Art insitute, in commening on the program said: "'Great Artists' has already stimulated tremendous interest in art, and is of educational importance to Chicago and the whole country."

The artists depicted on the show—artists who have representative work hanging in the Chicago Art institute—are vividly portrayed by members of the Goodman Memorial theater of Chicago, under the supervision of Dr. Maurice Gnesin and Mary Agnes Doyle. Scripts are written by the Illinois Writers' project. Blair Walliser is in charge of production.

Pilgrimage to Dana Home.

The Cambridge, Mass., home of Richard Henry Dana Jr., American author of the middle 19th century, will be visited by Ted Malone during his American Pilgrimage broadcast at 1 p. m. today over WENR.

Experts in Several Fields on Your Music Quiz

Music experts from classical, symphonic and popular fields will compete on "Your Music I. Q." program over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. George Hamburg, tuba player with the Chicago Symphony orchestra for 21 years, and Remi Gossmann, composer and teacher, will represent classical fields. Upholding popular music will be Irene Daye, petite songstress with Gene Krupa's orchestra. Janice Abramson, 16 year old Austin High school senior, will be the third layman expert to appear on the program this season. Free tickets to an early performance of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be awarded to all listeners submitting questions that are not answered by the experts.

JANUARY 12, 1941.

DUE TO OPEN 79TH-KEDZIE BARRIER

CADETS FROM 13 SCHOOLS AWAIT HONOR MEDALS

First Will Receive Awards Tuesday.

In recognition of their outstanding military work, cadets in the R. O. T. C. units of 13 Chicago public high schools will receive a total of 237 medals and awards this week. Of these awards, 91 are medals donated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Others are bestowed by R. O. T. C. headquarters and patriotic and civic organizations.

The awards will be given in a series of special school assemblies thruout the city beginning on Tuesday. The custom of giving Tribune medals was started in 1935 and has been continued each year. Aside from the high schools of Chicago, the Tribune sends medals to 45 universities, military academies and high schools outside of the Chicago area.

9,800 Now Enrolled.

The active interest of the Tribune in R. O. T. C. training had its beginning in 1917 when, thru Col. Robert R. McCormick, its editor and publisher, it was instrumental in establishing the first units in the city. Since that time the units have enjoyed a steady growth, and this year reached an enrollment of approximately 9,800 cadets.

Cadets who receive the awards are selected by the military instructors after a series of tests to determine the cadet's military ability and his qualities as a leader. Cadets in 27 public high schools and one Catholic high school are given Tribune medals twice each year on a basis of one for every 50 cadets.

In South Area.

Cadets in six south and southwest side high schools will be among the recipients of medals this week. Schools at which the medals will be given are Fenger, Hirsch, Tilden, Morgan Park, Kelly, and Bowen.

In a special assembly at Fenger High school on Wednesday morning at 10:35 o'clock, seven cadets will be given Tribune R. O. T. C. medals. The winners are Sergts. Harold Garbe and Arnold Hoenke and Privates Ernest Westman, Calvin Maginal, Adolph Malesh, Franklyn Hurd, and Frank Dawson.

Medals and awards donated by other organizations will also be presented to the cadets. Winners and the awards are: Lieut. Col. Gino Nicoli, officers' efficiency; Staff Sergeant John Merkel, noncommissioned officers' efficiency, and honored for neatness will be Corporal Richard Wolter and Cadets Mesrob Mardiosian, James O'Toole, and Edward Kulish.

Also Get Awards.

At Hirsch High.

Tribune medals will be awarded at Hirsch High school on Friday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock. The winners are Capt. Thomas Berry, Sergt. William McDermed, and Cadets Thomas Lehrman and Edward Klumpp. Other awards to be presented during the assembly are: Officers' efficiency, Maj. W. Robert Elghammer; noncommissioned officers' efficiency, Sergt. William Mott; band efficiency, Lieut. John Fischer; recruiting, Capt. Donald Estrin; neatest cadets, Cadet Ray Wilhelm and Corporal Richard Powers; rifle marksmanship, Maj. Elghammer, and Reserve Officers' association, Capt. Nils Anderson.

Ten cadets of Tilden Technical High school R. O. T. C. unit will receive Tribune medals on Friday afternoon at 1:20 o'clock in special ceremonies in the school assembly. Recipients will be Privates Roy Olsen and Charles DiCiro, Corporals Smith Funk, Wesly Sehnert, Robert Robson, and Van Thompson; Sergts. Robert Vinson, Walter Kreuger, and Edward Campbell, and Second Lieutenant Curtis Galinski.

Other Awards Listed.

To be recognized as neatest cadets are Private Joseph Bernasek, Corporals Dominic Garretto and Chester Palus, and Sergt. Fred Stastney. Receiving medals from Chicago Stock

What Will Be His Fate?

Tag Williams, standing, left, is defendant before the Morgan Park High school student court, an organization founded in 1931 to assist with discipline and help create a spirit of co-operation among the students. His judges, who do not appear to regard his misdemeanor too seriously, are, standing, left to right: Paul Larson, judge; Barbara White, president of the student association; Bob McGonagil and Shirley Franz, judges. Seated, left to right: Nancy Moore, recorder; Henry Melin, chief judge, and Polly Gregson, judge. The court is credited with functioning successfully for Morgan Park's 2,200 students. Capt. G. G. Lorentz, assistant principal, is court sponsor.

Student Court Helps Youths to Mend Ways

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Morgan Park high school students who are caught smoking within two blocks of the school, seen driving recklessly in the school vicinity, caught defacing posters, throwing snowballs, or being noisy in the school halls are haled into court. The court is made up of five student judges who hear the case and talk the whole thing over. It has no power to impose penalties, so its chief function is to create an attitude of coöperation and goodwill in the student body. An aid in securing coöperation is the publication of defendants' names in the school weekly. When defendants are deaf to appeals, however, or when the infraction is a little more serious than usual, the court may pass on the case to Capt. G. O. Lorentz, assistant principal at Morgan Park and court sponsor.

The court was established in 1931 by the Student association, of which Grace Graver was then president, and the faculty. The court's record has been one of steadily increasing efficiency. Its peak this year was assisting the 13th district police at Halloween with the result that property damage was 75 per cent under a year ago.

Meets Once a Week.

Four judges, selected by the Student association president and the chief judge, sit for one semester. The chief judge is appointed by officers of the Student association, and he sits all year. The court meets at 3 o'clock every Wednesday afternoon. Offenders appear for the following infractions: smoking within two blocks of the school; reckless driving in the school vicinity; driving without a permit; causing a disturbance in the school halls or school assemblies; defacing posters and notices on school bulletin boards; throwing snowballs; cases referred to court by principal.

Good scholarship and the approval of the court sponsor are required for appointment to the bench. All of the judges are members of the school honor society, and several are in the National Honor society. Judges are: Henry Melin, chief judge, Paul Larson, Robert McGonagil, Shirley Franz, and Polly Gregson. All are seniors except Polly Gregson who is a junior.

Few Cases Appealed.

Approximately 30 inspectors assist the court and bring in defendants. The court is divided into four departments: smoking, driving, interior, and assembly. The special department presents its own cases, but the entire court listens and takes part in the general discussion. This body functions for 2,200 students, and it is respected by them.

This year a probation committee has been set up. The members act as sponsors for suspended students to be reinstated in classes.

More than 100 cars are driven to the high school each school day. Keeping this traffic in order is a major problem in itself. However, this is accomplished chiefly thru the spirit of coöperation fostered by the court. Eston V. Tubbs is principal at Morgan Park.

Hail Freezing Days

CHURCH SOCIETY TO OFFER PARTY FRIDAY EVENING

St. Theodore Holy Name society will hold a card party Friday evening in the school hall, 6215 South Paulina street. Edward L. Ryan Jr., president, heads the arrangements. The affair will be the society's first 1941 social activity.

Installation of the present officers will take place at the regular monthly meeting at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow evening in the church hall. Mr. Ryan will be inducted into the presidency. Others taking office are Ben P. Malewski, vice president; Glen Johnson, secretary, and Rudolph Gesswein, treasurer.

A short entertainment has been planned for tomorrow's meeting. The society members plan to attend communion in a body at 8 o'clock this morning.

Group to Elect.

Annual election of officers of the Washington Heights Improvement association will take place at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at 1104 W. 104th place.

St. Sabina Young People to Dance Friday Evening

The St. Sabina Young People's club annual dancing party will take place Friday evening in the community center at 7800 South Racine avenue. Jerome Murphy, club president, heads the dance committee. Members are Lucille Greensley, Earl Greenley, Charles Feeney, Don Cameron, Eileen Grady, Frank Johnson, Lorraine Davis, and Frank Tebrugge. The Rev. G. A. Michels is club moderator.

Feeding Europe's Starving Is Theme at Kiwanis Club

Chauncey McCormick, co-worker with Herbert Hoover on the World War American Relief commission and now active chairman of the Commission for the Relief of Poland, will discuss the subject, "Should Europe's Starving Be Fed?" at the Englewood Kiwanis club meeting at 12:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Englewood Y. M. C. A.

Mascot? Huh! J. B. Rates as a Real Archer

J. B. Smith.

J. B. Smith is a modern Hiawatha and a good one. He can score bull's-eyes at 10 yards with his 16 pound bow. And he can aim an arrow at a rabbit and almost hit it. He figures he will be able to bag a little game with another year's practice.

J. B. is still a bit on the young side. He's going to be 6 years old next June, but he has been shooting with the Gage park senior archery club, men of 18 and more, for the last year. Proof of his prowess is the insignia on his sweater. The circle reads, "Gage Park Archers." J. B. is one of them.

His first name is Joseph, but his nine older brothers and sisters, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Smith of 2208 West 54th place, and the fellows in the archery club just call him J. B. He likes it that way. He likes his acquaintances to be on a man to man basis.

Also Is Horseman.

J. B. is the youngest of a family of 10, and the youngster nearest him is a girl of 11. His nearest brother will be 20 this month, so J. B. should be rather a baby. But he isn't. He has been standing on his own small feet ever since he began walking, and he likes to have his individuality respected. When he answers the phone at home he takes messages and says with dignity, "This is J. B. speaking."

Archery is just one of his interests. He began riding horseback last summer, and this Christmas brought him a new riding outfit. Boxing gloves and a punching bag were also among his Christmas presents, and he is proficient with this paraphernalia, too. He has coaching at home, but not too much, according to him. He explains, "I only got five brothers." His expression indicates that he wonders why on earth four of his family had to be girls.

Wants Full Rating.

One of J. B.'s brothers, James, is a member of the archery club and sees that the young archer gets to meetings on Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons. James Smith, a club member, made J. B.'s lemon wood bow and his cedar arrows.

Some folks might call J. B. the archery club mascot, but in J. B.'s own estimation that'd be rather a small rating. He's a full fledged member, please. School? That does not interest him especially. He can count to 100 already and he hasn't even started yet.

575 ACCEPTED IN FIRST DRAFT CALL FOR 1941

145 Rejected; 271 Are Volunteers.

A total of 575 draftees from Cook county were inducted into the army for a year of military training during the first four days of the January period, it was announced yesterday by Chicago selective service officials. Of this group 271 were volunteers who elected to start their year's service before their order number is called by their local draft boards.

Ninety-seven of the draftees accepted at the Chicago induction center in the 122d Field Artillery armory, 234 East Chicago avenue, during the four days were sent to the army reception center at Fort Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich. The remaining 478 conscripts were sent to Fort Sheridan.

720 Are Examined.

To select the 575 men who were inducted, army medical specialists and psychiatrists examined 720 prospects, rejecting 145. The main causes of rejection were: teeth, 42 men; mental and nervous conditions, 17; vision, 15; hearing, 14, and alcoholism, 12.

The January inductions, which began on Jan. 3, were ordered discontinued from Jan. 9 to Jan. 16 because of a delay in the construction of the camps in which the draftees will train.

In the list of men inducted for training the letter V signifies a volunteer.

The following southwest siders were in the group which departed for the army reception center at Fort Sheridan:

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

A PAIR of 3B students at Hirsch High school have decided to help their needy fellows with a Student Aid organization. They are Geraldine Besner, 7914 Champlain avenue, and Bob Hawkinson, 8248 Maryland avenue, who noticed that many classmates were poorly clothed for Chicago's winter climate and decided to do something about it. Hirsch students or adults who have clothes they would like to give away are urged to bring them to room 215 in the school or call Radcliff 6790 and the bundle will be picked up. Geraldine and Bob report there is a great need for boys' shoes and trousers to be distributed. The Student Aid has received much assistance from Mrs. Daniel Foreman, of the Grand Crossing Community Aid center. School sponsors of the project are Mrs. Caroline Perry and Mrs. Alice Jackson, faculty members.

ONE of the first of the 1941 babies on the south side is James Randall Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Pierce, 7829 Chappel avenue. James was born at 1:10 o'clock Wednesday morning, Jan. 1, at the Little Company of Mary hospital. Because of his early arrival this year, James [and his parents] will receive, among other things, a ton of coal, a dinner at a restaurant, a season's theater pass, a diamond-set baby ring, a five pound box of candy, a 12 pound ham, a complete home sewing course, an electric bottle warmer, and a flag. They were contributed by community business men as prize in a contest.

William H. Moeller, 1237 East 71st street, is the new commissioner for the South Shore Boy Scout district. In his new position as volunteer worker in Scouting Mr. Moeller will direct the visitations of a field staff and of neighborhood commissioners who will service troops, packs and Sea Scout ships in the 10 communities making up the district. The new South Shore leader has been in Scouting since 1913, when he registered as a Scout in Minot, N. D. Ultimately he attained the rank of Eagle Scout and earned 63 merit badges. During the world war he received eight medals for services rendered.

EIGHTEEN members of the Hyde Park Lions club were honored recently for being "Hundred Percenters" during the last half of 1940. This means that they attended every weekly meeting for six months. They are A. E. Bernard, A. W. Cole, C. C. Cricks, Dean Drewry, R. E. Evans, A. H. Green, Dr. A. S. Gurnsey, I. G. Herzka, H. B. Hurt, Victor Jocius, H. D. Kaufman, J. J. O'Connell, E. L. Reeve, Bert Robecheck, C. W. Sherwood, A. F. Stevenson, Carl Wilson, and R. J. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Tauber, 7520 South Yates avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Lucille, to Monte Kahn, 511 West Burton place. The young couple is on an extended honeymoon in Florida.

John Flood, 7945 South Paulina street, has been elected vice chief of the Owasippe lodge of the Order of the Arrow, national honorary fraternity for Boy Scout campers. Mr. Flood is a member of Troop 614, sponsored by the St. Therese of the Infant Jesus Catholic church, 8026 South Wood street. He has been in Scouting since 1935.

BOYHOOD friends, relatives and well wishers will say goodby to the Rev. Daniel Casey, O. P., today at an open house in his home at 7247 Paxton avenue. Father Casey will leave Chicago within the next few weeks for the interior of China, where he will become a missionary. He was ordained to the priesthood two and a half years ago.

Calumet High school's midyear prom will take place Friday evening in the Stevens hotel. Robert Girten, president of the senior class, and Lorraine Brogan will lead the grand march.

Members of the Men's club of Bethel Evangelical and Reformed church, 114th and State streets, will meet at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the church. New officers will be elected.

HOW TO ADDRESS YOUR NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVES

Many readers, interested in the question of American involvement in the European war, have asked THE TRIBUNE to print the Washington mail addresses of their national legislators. The southern area members are listed below:

Senators.
Wayland Brooks [R.].
Scott W. Lucas [D.].

Representatives.
At large—William G. Stratton [R.].
At large—Stephen A. Day [R.].
1st district—A. W. Mitchell [D.].
2d district—Raymond S. McKeough [D.].
3d district—Edward A. Kelly [D.].
4th district—Harry P. Beam [D.].
6th district—A. F. Maciejewski [D.].
11th district—Chauncey W. Reed [R.].

Mail or telegrams intended for members of the upper house will reach them if directed to the senate office building, Washington, D. C. Communications to congressmen should be sent to the house office building.

SUBWAYS UNDER WABASH ROAD NEARLY READY

3 Repaving Jobs Also Involved.

Motorists who have been detouring around the 79th street-Kedzie avenue intersection for the last year will be using the direct route within the next three weeks, according to a report released by the state highway department to the South Area council of the Chicago Motor club.

The occasion will be the opening of the $700,000 Wabash railway underpass and three highway repaving projects which began Jan. 30, 1940. Everything is finished now except for the pouring of a small portion of the concrete. This will be finished as soon as the weather permits. Federal grade separation funds and county highway funds were used for the highway work; the Wabash railroad financed lifting the tracks.

Ends Grade Crossings.

This project allows both 79th street and Kedzie avenue to pass under the Wabash railroad, thus eliminating a grade crossing for two busy highways. The underpass accommodating 79th street traffic is 69 feet wide; that accommodating Kedzie avenue traffic is 53 feet wide. Both are sufficent for four lanes of traffic and sidewalks.

Building the underpass was complicated by the fact that Southwest highway crosses both 79th street and Kedzie avenue near the tracks. Engineering involved in the project included lowering 79th street and Kedzie avenue 11 feet from their original grade and raising the railroad track four feet. Lowering the 79th street and Kedzie grades made it necessary to repave Southwest highway thru the entire intersection.

The three highways make a triangle. Kedzie avenue, running north nd south, crosses 79th street, running east and west, immediately north of the underpass. Southwest highway, taking the direction its name indicates, runs parallel with the railroad and crosses both streets at little north and west of their own intersection.

Scope of Work.

The Wabash railroad began its construction one-half mile each way of the 79th-Kedzie crossing. There are four tracks over this strip, and the 156 track Lander's yards of the railroad lies at the northeast end of the elevation.

Kedzie avenue and Southwest highway are both 42 feet wide in this section. The third street, 79th, is composed of two 24 foot roadways separated by an earth medial strip. Building of the underpass had to be accompanied by the installation of a pumping house located in the center of the triangle. A complete pumping system had to be established because of the size of the excavation and the great amount of water pouring in at rainy seasons and because the depth is below normal sewer levels in the vicinity. The pumphouse takes the water into the 79th street storm sewer.

Will Be Well Lighted.

The area will be well lighted since the county is planning to spend $18,000 for illumination at the underpasses and intersections. State highway authorities have outlined a system of traffic control, also. There will be signals at each point of the triangle. These will be synchronized to permit traffic on each highway to proceed thru the entire intersection without stopping.

Lights will prohibit left turns at the far corner of each triangle. A driver going southwest on Southwest highway and wishing to turn east on 79th street will be required to turn left at Kedzie and then left again at 79th. He will not be permitted to turn left on 79th from Southwest highway. This will eliminate traffic turning back on itself.

When the section is ready for use, there will be opening ceremonies conducted by a South Area council committe headed by William Butcher, president of the Highland District Business association. Chicago Motor club officials and local civic organization representatives will participate.

DR. F. M. ELIOT WILL SPEAK IN LIBERAL CHURCH

Dr. Frederick May Eliot, president of the American Unitarian association and official leader of Unitarian churches in the United States and Canada, will speak at 10:45 o'clock next Sunday morning in the People's Liberal church, 65th street and Stewart avenue. Dr. Eliot is a grandson of Charles W. Eliot, one-time president of Harvard university. His address will be an official welcome of the organization into the Unitarian association. The Rev. Donald Harrington, pastor of the People's Liberal church, will introduce Dr. Eliot.

Members of the church will hold their annual banquet at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening at the church. Dr. Walter H. MacPherson, pastor of the Universalist Church of Joliet and former president of American Universalists, will be the principal speaker. His topic will be "Our Changing World."

Willard Conner of 9545 South Winchester avenue is in charge of arrangements for the evening. Mrs. Delbert Smith of 6827 South Union avenue is in charge of dinner plans.

THANKS TO GOOD SAMARITAN.

Merry making on the occasion of his own birthday, as well as the birthday of the new year, did not prevent Joseph Strojny, 4321 South Whipple street, from performing a good Samaritan act.

At about 10 o'clock on New Year's eve, Mr. Strojny, accompanied by his fiancée and another couple, was on his way to celebrate. Approaching Spaulding and Archer avenues, his attention was attracted by the curious crowd gathered there. He, being a student at Loyola university medical school, immediately stopped his car, thoughts of New Year celebration abandoned for the moment, to investigate. As you have probably guessed, an automobile had struck two pedestrians, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hajduk, while they were crossing the street to the safety zone.

They were both seriously injured, the accident having occurred about 10 minutes before Mr. Strojny appeared on the scene, but the well meaning, curious throng had done nothing to aid them.

Mr. Strojny immediately took the situation in hand, giving very efficient first aid to the injured couple and phoned for the police. No doubt, his unselfish, humanitarian action helped greatly to alleviate the suffering of the injured and Mr. Strojny is to be commended for his alertness and thoughtfulness.

Surely Mr. Strojny shows himself capable of becoming a credit to the great profession to which he aspires. Ed Kozel.

TIRED BUT THANKFUL.

After two weeks of having my youngsters home for Christmas vacation I want to express my gratitude to the Chicago Public school system, the Chicago Public library, and the Chicago Park district for helping me out with this job of parenthood.

I had the job practically all by myself for two weeks, and I admit I felt like a veteran of Dunkirk when I watched my darlings off to school last Monday morning. Then I collapsed on the davenport and drank in the peace and quiet and in long, leisurely gulps.

I love my youngsters—but they are certainly a noisy crew. When I was going thru my growing pains I had a whole farm in which to let off steam. When I try confining the same steam in a city apartment, the result is a series of explosions. I don't believe I ever realized before just what these city agencies do for city parents and city children. I live in the Sherman park neighborhood, and I want to say right here, "Thanks for everything." Tired Mother.

OPEN UNION AVENUE!

I understand there is talk of opening Union avenue from 61st to 63d streets in order to alleviate the 63d and Halsted traffic congestion. I've been hearing rumors for some time. I want to know when and if anything will be done. I vote for the plan; so does every one else who has to drive thru the 63d and Halsted intersection, I'm sure. Let's hurry. R. O. D.

R. O. T. C. CADETS TO RECEIVE NEW SHOOTING COATS

A shipment of 110 new shooting coats has been received by R. O. T. C. units in the city, it was announced by Col. William F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics for the schools. The new coats are of cloth with protective leather pads at the shoulders and elbows, and are designed for use by the students on the rifle range. The coats not only protect the shooter from grease and dirt, but they also serve as shock absorbers during firing.

RECTOR OF PRINCETON CHURCH TO ADDRESS SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving.

Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Princeton, N. J., will make his first appearance before the audience of the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall. His topic will be "Can God now Communicate with Men?" Clifford W. Barnes will preside at the meeting and the Scripture will be read by Hermon D. Smith, trustee of the club.

Dr. Kinsolving was a Rhodes scholar from the University of Virginia. After the expiration of his fellowship at Christ Church college he was called as rector of Grace church, Amherst, Mass., which he served for six years, proceeding thence to Trinity cathedral, Boston, Mass., renowned for the ministry of Bishop Phillips Brooks. He went to Princeton last year where he combines his parochial duty with pastoral ministration to the university students.

The Northwestern Lutheran male chorus of 75 voices recruited from Lutheran churches in the northwest area, directed by Edward Nelson, will sing at the 7 o'clock meeting, and Hudson H. Pittman will continue his series of informal Bible talks on the Sermon on the Mount.

Kedzie and 79th Underpass Soon to Be Open for Traffic

SOUTHWEST HIGHWAY
KEDZIE AV.
79TH ST.
PUMPING STATION
KEDZIE AV.

Traffic on the far southwest side will be facilitated when the $700,000 improvement at the Kedzie avenue-79th street intersection is opened within the next three weeks. Both highways were lowered 11 feet from their original grade, and the Wabash railway was elevated four feet to allow an underpass for both roads. The railroad bridge runs parallel to Southwest highway which crosses both Kedzie and 79th at grade near the new underpass. Because the street level beneath the railroad now is below sewer level, it was necessary to install pumps to lift surface drainage to the 79th street storm sewer and prevent flooding of the underpass.

OLD FAVORITES STILL 'TOPS' IN CHILD READING

Branch Libraries Give Index in Tastes.

Styles may come and styles may go, but Huck Finn, Long John Silver, and the "Little Women" go on forever so far as children's reading preferences are concerned. Authority for this statement is Miss Agatha Shea, director of children's work in the branches of the Chicago public library.

Adolescent youngsters demand serious vocational books; little children still love fairy tales, and big and little, they all like cowboy stories, Indian stories, and circus yarns. So are the records of the children's departments of the city's branch libraries, where a new semester of children's activities is just beginning.

Nearly all branch libraries have story hours. Many have children's clubs, and the fourth annual series of mothers' classes will be organized soon. Organization of drama clubs is another 1941 project.

Plan Mothers' Classes.

Mothers' classes will begin Jan. 30 and will be held at 10 o'clock every Thursday morning for eight weeks. They will take place in a selected number of branches according to the requests. Mothers may request one of two courses—a class for mothers of children 6 to 10 years old and one for adolescents. The greater number of requests will decide the course given. Both courses will not be offered in any one branch.

Story hour periods will be resumed now that the Christmas holidays are over. Branches, story hours, and the names of the children's librarians in the different units follow:

Auburn Park, 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Mrs. Beulah Hicks.

Chicago Lawn, 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Miss Elizabeth King.

Cornell square, 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, Mrs. Clare Greenblau.

Brighton, 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Miss Adele Bartlett.

ENGLEWOOD CLUB TO BE HOSTESS AT ROUND TABLE

Will Greet Third District Women Tomorrow.

Mrs. Thomas Gifford. [Koehne Photo.]

Englewood Woman's club will be hostess to the 3d district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, at a meeting tomorrow in the Englewood Masonic temple. A round table conference, conducted by district chairmen, will begin at 10:15 o'clock tomorrow morning. This will be followed by a welcome from Mrs. William Johnson, president of the Englewood club. Mrs. Thomas Gifford, president of the 3d district, will respond.

The district American citizenship chairman, Mrs. H. T. Simpson, will lead in the pledge of allegiance to the flag and in repeating the preamble to the constitution. A short business meeting will follow these opening ceremonies.

Dr. Walter W. Sittler will be the morning speaker. His topic will be "Your Doctor and You." Mrs. W. J. Buzan, district public welfare chairman, and Mrs. John E. McGuiggan, district public health chairman, are in charge of this part of the program.

Items on Program.

Three district chairmen have arranged the afternoon session. Mrs. H. L. Frazer, chairman of 3d district Indian welfare work, will introduce the state Indian welfare department chairman, Mrs. C. J. Albrecht. Mrs. Albrecht will discuss "Understanding the Indians."

Mrs. S. H. Hand, 3d district education department chairman, will introduce John M. Fewkes, president of the Chicago Teachers' union. His address will be "Facts Concerning the Public Schools." The 3d district motion picture department, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harry Slater, will present Irwin E. Deer, Chicago representative of the community service department of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. His subject will be "Movie Information, Please."

The Englewood Woman's club ensemble, directed by Mrs. Edith Ellsworth, will sing. The afternoon session will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Chicago Lawn Woman's Club.

A musical tea is planned by the music department for 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Hegarty, 3520 West 62d place. Mrs. Andrew Eadie will be Mrs. Hegarty's co-hostess. The current events class will meet for the regular monthly session at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in Marquette park fieldhouse. Mrs. H. E. Best will lead the discussion group.

Beverly Hills Woman's Club.

The Rev. Phillip B. Gordon, reputed to be the only American Indian priest in the United States, will be the speaker at the meeting at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in the large auditorium at Ridge park fieldhouse. Mrs. C. L. Otremba, Beverly Indian welfare chairman, will introduce the priest. This will be Beverly club's first Indian welfare program in two years. Father Gordon is credited with raising $40,000 for building the mission church at Lac du Flambeau reservation in northern Wisconsin.

Mrs. William J. Rathje, chairman of the international relations department, has arranged for the afternoon speaker, Prof. Quincy Wright of the University of Chicago international law department.

Clearing Woman's Club.

Members and friends will meet at the homemaking institute, 14 East Jackson boulevard, at 10:50 o'clock Tuesday morning. They will attend a cooking demonstration and luncheon which will be followed by a style show and cards.

Hamilton Park Woman's Club.

"A Symposium on American Life" is the title of the program announced for 1:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Hamilton park fieldhouse. Mrs. Roy Folk, general program chairman, will be in charge. The speakers will be Donald McGibeny, news commentator, and Dr. Curtis McDougall of Northwestern university.

Marie Hesse Suthers, speaking on "This Interesting World," will be at the club for the morning session, beginning at 11 o'clock. Mrs. A. S. Bailey, vice chairman of American citizenship, will present this part of the program.

Morgan Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. Harold Lee, literature department chairman, will introduce Virginia Upham, book reviewer, at the meeting at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Morgan Park Methodist church. "Education for Civic Responsibility" will be the subject of a symposium to be held at the afternoon session, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. Speakers and their subjects will be: Paul Angell, member of the National Real Estate board, "Rehabilitation of Blighted Areas"; the Rev. Ralph Gallagher, sociology professor at Loyola university, "Crime Prevention and Parole," and Dr. Philip Seman, chairman of the Chicago Recreation commission, "Youth and Recreation." Mrs. Harry D. Krummell, education chairman, will introduce the speakers.

Brighton Park Woman's Club.

The Brighton Park club, a member of the 4th district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, was organized in June and became a member of the general federation last month. The club's second president, Mrs. Hector Brouillet, 3532 South California avenue, formerly vice president, became president upon the recent resignation of Mrs. Charles Kurtz. Mrs. B. I. Meyer, 10637 South Hale avenue, was elected vice president and will serve as program chairman also.

The board of directors will meet at noon Tuesday in McKinley park fieldhouse, 39th street and Western avenue. The regular business session will begin at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. This will be followed by a program under the direction of the American home department, of which Mrs. Charles Callewaert is chairman.

Choirs in Musical Comedy

The Fetler family of Evanston will play a concert of sacred and folk music in Thoburn Methodist church, 64th and Paulina streets at 7:45 o'clock this evening. This family is made up of 11 brothers and sisters, sons and daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. William Fetler, formerly of Riga, Latvia.

The father is an exiled Russian minister who has founded 120 churches in what is now Russian occupied Poland. The family has a record of more than 700 European concerts, and there are five different countries represented on the family's accumulated birth certificates.

The players and their instruments are: Daniel, 26, trumpet; Mary, 22, cornet; Paul, 20, trombone; John, 18, trombone; Philip, 17, bass; Elizabeth, 16, alto; Andrew, 15, baritone; David, 13, cornet; Peter, 10, drums; Jacky, 9, bandmaster, and Joseph, 6, cymbals.

This family speaks seven different languages. The sons and daughters talk to their mother in Russian, converse with their father in English, and talk to each other in German and Swedish. They have attended 29 schools in 12 different countries. Dr. John DeLacy, pastor of Thoburn church, will introduce the Fetler family. The Rev. Mr. Fetler will describe current conditions in eastern Europe.

RELIGIOUS WORK MEETING IS DUE THIS AFTERNOON

The annual "Fellowship of Faiths" program will bring a Jew, a Catholic, and a Protestant to the platform at the Wabash Avenue Y. M. C. A. at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon under the sponsorship of the religious work committee, headed by Edward M. Graham.

Speakers will be Rabbi Harry Essig of the Hillel Foundation; Dr. Louis Tordella, professor at Loyola university, and the Rev. A. Wayman Ward, pastor of the Greater Bethel A. M. E. church.

LECTURE SERIES IS PRESENTED AS AID TO DEFENSE

U. of C. Talks to Cover 5 Months' Period.

The University of Chicago will offer five public lecture series on democracy during the next five months under the Charles R. Walgreen Foundation for the Study of American Institutions. It also has been announced that 19 of the university's graduate students, whose travels and research have covered most parts of the globe, have formed an auxiliary speaker's bureau on subjects relating to race, racial origins and minority problems.

The lecture series will cover "Basic Documents of Our Republic," "Democratic Government and National Unity," "Democracy in American Life," "The United States and Civilization" and "The Functions and Responsibilities of Education in a Democracy."

Are Aid to Defense.

The first of the series, all of which are designed to contribute to the defense program, is the one on "Basic Documents," which began last week and will continue every Tuesday in the Social Sciences Research building. William T. Hutchinson, associate professor of American history and secretary of the Charles R. Walgreen Foundation, will lead the discussions. The series will consider the state papers of Presidents Lincoln, Cleveland, Theodore and Franklin Roosevelt, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover.

Six speakers will present aspects of "Democratic Government and National Unity" in Mandel hall, starting on Jan. 29 at 8:30 o'clock and continuing thru the spring quarter. They are Thomas R. Powell, story professor of law of Harvard university; Henry F. Pringle, Pulitzer prize winner for biography and associated with the Columbia University School of Journalism; Herbert Agar, editor of Louisville, Ky., newspapers; Chris L. Christenson, dean of the school of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin; Harold G. Moulton, president of Brookings institution, Washington, D. C., and Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Prof. Powell to Talk.

Prof. Powell will deliver the first lecture, talking on "Conscience and the Constitution." Four weekly lectures on "Democracy in American Life" will be discussed by Avery G. Craven, professor of American history, at 4:30 o'clock on Thursdays, starting Feb. 6.

During the spring quarter John U. Nef, professor of economic history, will deliver eight addresses on "The United States and Civilization," starting April 2. "The Functions and Responsibilities of Education in a Democracy" also will be outlined by members of the department of education in eight lectures starting April 3.

The auxiliary speaker's group was formed under the sponsorship of Dr. Fay Cooper-Cole, chairman of the department of anthropology and the university speaker's bureau. Because of the totalitarian nations' exploitation of race and the consequent focusing of public interest on this subject, faculty members of the university in this field have been unable to meet the number of speaking demands, Dr. Cole says.

Three Women to Speak.

Three of the speakers are women. They are Ethel J. Alpenfels, former Denver, Colo., junior women's tennis champion, who has done research thruout North America, held a Rockefeller fellowship, and was a member of the laboratory of anthropology expedition to study the California Modoc Indians; Ida Teruko Psanai, a native of Fairbury, Neb., a Japanese-American girl who has twice won graduate honor scholarships in anthropology and has participated in archaeological field work in southern Illinois and in ethnological research among the Navajo Indians of Caco canyon, New Mexico, and Rachel Reese, for many years a resident of the Abraham Lincoln centre.

Among the men are John V. Murra, native of the Ukraine, who was senior honor scholar in the department of sociology of the university in 1935 and spent the following two years touring Europe, and William Armand Lessa, born in Newark, N. J., of Italian parents and for the last decade a resident of Honolulu and extensive traveler in the Far East.

Bride-to-Be

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Rathje, 8223 South Sangamon street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edythe Marie, to Truman M. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar B. Smith of Knox, Ind. Miss Rathje is a graduate of the Academy of Our Lady, and Mr. Smith attended Indiana university.

FIRST 1941 MEETING SET FOR TUESDAY BY IMPROVEMENT ASSN.

William J. Schaefer.

William J. Schaefer, newly elected president of the West Lawn Improvement association, will preside at the organization's first 1941 meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at 6205 South Kolin avenue. The association meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at the Kolin avenue address, and all renters and property owners in the neighborhood are invited to join or to visit meetings.

Among community projects backed by the organization is a request to have a policeman at 63d street and Kolin avenue in school hours to provide protection for the pupils of Pasteur school.

West Lawn Improvement association trustees for 1941 are E. J. Zelhart, Paul Albrecht, Norman Findlay, and Albert Lipelt.

U. of C. Club.

The Slavonic club of the University of Chicago will meet at Ida Noyes hall, 1212 East 59th street, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. A play entitled "American Life" will be presented.

3d District Junior Clubs Are in News of the Week

Two 3d district junior clubs of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs are in this week's club news. Brainerd juniors are sponsoring a card party at 8 o'clock Thursday evening in Ridge park fieldhouse. Chicago Lawn juniors will entertain their husbands and friends at the annual men's night program tomorrow evening at Marquette park fieldhouse.

[ADVERTISMENT]
NORMAN JEWELERS GIVE FREE EYE TESTS

Norman Kernis of Norman Jewelers announced today that for some time he has realized the need of eye examinations for school children. Statistics prove that every year at least 500 children in the schools go without glasses they greatly need. When the children are examined and given eye care, it is found that they improve as students and their averages in school increase at least 20%. Teachers tell us that eye care has changed dullards to student leaders. In order that no child in Southtown should suffer unnecessarily, Norman has instructed his two competent optometrists, Dr. Carr and Dr. Kernis, to examine any and all children without charge. The Doctors will not under any conditions attempt to sell glasses. They will merely examine the eyes and if attention is needed a full report will be given to parents for further action. The child should be accompanied by an adult. Come to Norman Jewelers, 6355 South Halsted street, where two of Englewood's most modern optical offices will be at your service.

Mutual Network Business Gains 34.3% During 1940

Mutual network officials announced last week that billings for the chain during December, 1940, of $576,983 represented an 81.6 per cent increase over the December, 1939, figure of $317,699. In November, 1940, political business bolstered the rate of increase over the corresponding month of 1939 to 91.9 per cent. The greatest yearly gain in Mutual billings was tabulated in 1940, too. A total of $4,767,054 for the year represented a 34.3 per cent increase over the gross for 1939, which was $3,329,782.

GEORGE FISHER GOT INTO RADIO REPORTING ALMOST BY ACCIDENT

George Fisher.

Experience in several occupations as well as with film people from struggling extras to stars is the background that has added up to radio success for George Fisher, versatile conductor of the "Hollywood Whispers" program. Fisher is heard with his intimate glimpses into the film colony from 11:30 to 11:45 a. m. each Tuesday and Thursday over W-G-N and Mutual. Fisher has worked as theater doorman, fruit and vegetable salesman, truck driver, publicity man, and auto part peddler in his turbulent career. He worked at all these jobs before he ever saw a movie star or the inside of a radio station.

Fisher got into radio almost by accident. A radio executive was impressed by Fisher's voice over the phone, advised him to try out as an announcer; a few days later Fisher was staff announcer on a local Los Angeles station. There he started a "Studio Whispers" program which reported news about the stars.

When Fisher moved to KHJ, Mutual's Los Angeles outlet, he took his idea with him and called it "Hollywood Whispers."

Good Luck Gift

An anonymous listener sent this frisky little cocker spaniel to Joan Banks, the Mary Foster of the radio drama, "The Editor's Daughter," heard over W-G-N five days a week. Attached to a big red bow tied around Jimminy Cricket's neck was a note reading, "To Wish You a Doggone Merry Christmas and a Litter of Good Luck in 1941."

PORTRAY STORY OF MODIGLIANI ON W-G-N SHOW

How a cruel art dealer exploited the talents of Anadeo Modigliani, noted Italian painter, will be portrayed on the "Great Artists" program over W-G-N from 4 to 4:15 p. m. Tuesday. For a long time, Modigliani was imprisoned in the cellar of a Paris art broker. Food fit only for animals was the payment he received for painting masterpieces. No painting, no food, was the motto of his jailer.

Innumerable congratulatory letters from the W-G-N audience bear testimony to the fact that this program, presented weekly with the coöperation of the Art Institute of Chicago, is attracting the attention of a steadily increasing following among the art lovers of the Middle West. The listener response has been so great that a new switchboard has been installed at the Art institute to accommodate the complimentary phone calls.

Daniel C. Rich, director of fine arts at the Art Insitute, in commening on the program said: "'Great Artists' has already stimulated tremendous interest in art, and is of educational importance to Chicago and the whole country."

The artists depicted on the show—artists who have representative work hanging in the Chicago Art institute—are vividly portrayed by members of the Goodman Memorial theater of Chicago, under the supervision of Dr. Maurice Gnesin and Mary Agnes Doyle. Scripts are written by the Illinois Writers' project. Blair Walliser is in charge of production.

EAST CHICAGO HIGH NEXT ON SCHOOL PROGRAM

The first Indiana school to be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N will be Washington High school of East Chicago. This program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and dedicated to the youth of America, will be heard from 4:30 to 5 p. m. next Tuesday. Special buses will bring 600 boys and girls from East Chicago to witness the broadcast, and 100 of the students will be taken on a tour of Tribune tower preceding the program.

R. F. Robinson, principal of Washington High, will speak briefly during the entertainment and the school's Choral club, directed by Pauline M. Shearer, will sing three numbers, including the school song, "Hail Noble Washington."

Philip Maxwell of the Chicago Tribune's editorial department is master of ceremonies and plays the rôle of the principal in the broadcast. Announcer Charles Victor will introduce six students from the studio audience who will participate in the Tribune News Quiz conducted by Mr. Maxwell. A highlight of the program will be the addition of three outstanding students to the roll of honor. They are Roe Campbell, president of the student council of Oskaloosa, Ia.; Ruby Watson, composer, of Sheboygan, Wis., and Richard G. Erdmann, amateur short wave expert of Elkhart, Ind.

'Hound of Baskervilles' on Sherlock Holmes Show

Producers of the "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" have warned radio listeners that the lights should be turned down to get the full benefit of Sir. A. Conan Doyle's most hair raising thriller, "The Hound of the Baskervilles." The first broadcast of the new series, starring Basil Rathbone as Sherlock Holmes and Nigel Bruce as Dr. Watson, will be heard over W-G-N from 9:30 to 10 p. m. next Friday.

W-G-N ACTORS EAT WAY INTO PROPER MOODS

Choose Cafes to Go with Operettas' Locale.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

To any artist mood and atmosphere are important. Walking in the rain is a favorite device used by some artists to provide the proper feeling for creative effort. Some actresses get the proper lift by acquiring a new hat. Taking a cottage on the sand dunes seems to help others. A pair of dark glasses does the trick for Rudy Vallee.

The singers and actors who appear each Saturday in W-G-N's Theater of the Air operettas have a special device, too. They simply eat their way into the desired mood. Before each broadcast they gather in a restaurant that suggests the locale of the particular operetta they are to present.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, is the host at these Saturday night "atmosphere" dinners. He invites not only the song and drama stars, but sometimes musicians and technicians as well.

Many Locales Discovered.

In the months the operettas have been on the air Austrian, old English, German, Hungarian, Mexican, Irish, and far northern locales have been discovered for the Saturday repasts.

For the operetta "Robin Hood," Bacher took his crew to St. Hubert's grill where an excellent old English atmosphere was developed over a roast beef and Yorkshire pudding.

A Costa Rican coffee shop served the purpose for the warm Mexican locale of "Rio Rita." For this production the noted Mexican singer, José Mojica, was a guest. The rollicking bierstube mood of "The Student Prince" was found in the Golden Ox restaurant.

Finding an Oasis.

No trouble was experienced in locating Hungarian, Irish, or Austrian restaurants, but the "Desert Song" presented an insurmountable problem. There are plenty of oases in Chicago, but none of the Sahara desert type Bacher had in mind.

"Rose Marie" also presented a problem—at first. The cast searched unsuccessfully for a French-Canadian restaurant. Wes Summerfield, singer in the augmented chorus, rescued the party.

"I've been all thru the Canadian Northwest," he said. "There was a Chinese restaurant on every corner."

So a chop suey house down the street was chosen to provide the mood of lumberjacks and big snows.

"Cyrano" Next Saturday.

A French restaurant, presumably, would be in order next. "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be presented from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday with Marion Claire and Conrad Thibault singing the leading rôles. Thibault helped Miss Claire inaugurate the season with the presentation of "The Vagabond King." Later he was featured with Miss Claire in "Rio Rita" and "The New Moon."

Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company, will lead the W-G-N Concert orchestra and augmented chorus in providing the musical background.

The text for "Cyrano de Bergerac" was written by William J. Henderson. Walter Damrosch wrote the music. It is adapted from the original play by Edmond Rostand. "Cyrano de Bergerac" was first presented at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York on Feb. 27, 1913.

'Old Flame' Extinguished in W-G-N Divorce Drama

Action a husband takes to remove the danger of his wife's "old flame" will be the theme of the "I Want a Divorce" broadcast from 8:30 to 9 p. m. Friday over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Joan Blondell, portraying the part of the wife, will be supported by a cast of Hollywood radio actors.

'CASE OF CONVIVIAL CORPSE' CONFRONTS PETER QUILL TODAY

Hair raising action is the keynote of the episode of W-G-N's "Peter Quill" today. Peter Quill, amazing scientific genius, will match wits with a personality even more astonishing than himself—a corpse, in "The Case of the Convivial Corpse" to be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 3 to 3:30 p. m.

The story opens with the burial of a notorious spy who has been mysteriously shot. The coroner's office insists that it was murder, but while Chief Tyler of the secret bureau ponders over the case the door opens and in walks the convivial corpse, who insists that he "murdered" himself, thanks the bureau for the interest in his behalf and suggests that they save themselves time and trouble by dropping the case.

Quill, with the aid of his "Cerebroscope," which records human thoughts, is able to bring the baffling case to a surprising close. Alice Hill, Marvin Mueller, Olan Soule, and Ken Griffin headline the cast. "Peter Quill" is written and produced by Blair Walliser.

MELODY PAGEANT STARS BAGGIORE, KATHRYN WITWER

Attilio Baggiore, tenor, and Kathryn Witwer, soprano, will share the microphone on the Pageant of Melody over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. next Wednesday. Music will be furnished by the W-G-N Concert orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N.

Miss Witwer will sing "Clavelitos" by Valverde for her solo and Baggiore will present "Una Furtiva Lagrima" from Donizetti's "Elizir d'Amore."

Highlight of the program will be the singing of "Parlez Moi de ma Mere" from Bizet's "Carmen" by Baggiore and Witwer.

The orchestra will open the half hour program with the "Alessandro Stradella Overture" by Flotow. Other orchestral numbers will include "Pavane" by Ravel, "Jota Aragonaise" by Albeniz, and Grieg's "In the Hall of the Mountain King" from "Peer Gynt."

On Monday, Jan. 20, the Pageant of Melody will move to the 9:30 to 10 p. m. period and will be heard regularly at that time on Mondays in the future.

SZIGETI TO GIVE 2D BROADCAST ON W-G-N TODAY

Joseph Szigeti, internationally famous concert violinist, will be heard from 6:30 to 7 p. m. today on W-G-N and the Mutual network in the second broadcast of his first radio series in the United States. Alfred Wallenstein and his orchestra will be co-featured on the program. Music critics thruout the world have acclaimed Szigeti as one of the half dozen great living violin virtuosos. This high praise, however, has not made a high brow of Szigeti. Last winter in Carnegie hall, before an enthusiastic audience of sophisticated concert patrons, he and Benny Goodman played a joint recital of swing music. They received a long ovation. Afterwards, Szigeti said: "Such a concert could not happen any place but in the United States; so long as it is good of its kind, nothing can grow stale here."

Pilgrimage to Dana Home.

The Cambridge, Mass., home of Richard Henry Dana Jr., American author of the middle 19th century, will be visited by Ted Malone during his American Pilgrimage broadcast at 1 p. m. today over WENR.

OLD BYZANTINE ART RECREATED IN NEW CHURCH

St. Nicholas Greeks Link Past with Today.

A symbol of the old land and long ago history is being built, brick by brick, column by column, by a congregation of Chicago Greeks. It is the Hellenic Orthodox church of St. Nicholas at 5957 South Peoria street. "We propose to make our church a perfect example of Byzantine art," explains the pastor, the Rev. Archimandrite Daniel Gambrilis. "We believe our aim is noteworthy in a time when so many architectural masterpieces and art treasures are being destroyed."

Archimandrite Gambrilis.

The exterior of the church home has been completed in the last two years at a cost of $36,000. The original building was purchased for $30,000, so the congregation has now doubled the investment, and the interior work is just beginning. Approximately $25,000 will be spent on that work, which is to be completed in time for Easter services. It would have been complete now, but members interrupted the building fund campaign to turn to Greek relief.

Raise $3,000 Fund.

Ever since November the 1,000 families of St. Nicholas church have been raising funds for the war ridden folk in the homeland. Now they have $3,000 in cash as well as the hundreds of garments the women of the parish have made for relief. "We feel we have contributed our share to relief for awhile," the pastor says. "Now we want to turn our attention to our church once more. We do not mean that we shall forget our duties to the old country and to other war suffering nations, however."

The exterior of the church is of medium light brick. The entrance consists of three arches. The center arch, widest and highest of the three, is supported by columns which carry out the detail reminiscent of the adaptation of the Corinthian style characteristic of Byzantine architecture as developed in the fifth and sixth centuries. The windows are set in arched recesses, and twin cupolas rise at the front.

The Byzantine arch will be repeated inside. Eight 13 foot columns along each side of the auditorium wall will support arches. Copies of art masterpieces in Greek churches will be hung within the recesses thus created. The pastor expects to go to Europe next summer to supervise the copying of these pictures, "if there is peace."

Newest Greek Parish.

There will be copies of mosaics in the church also. "We will make our church a Byzantine museum," Father Gambrilis hopes. A white marble iconostas [the partition at the back of the altar] will be brought from Greece at some future time—"when there is peace."

St. Nicholas is the newest Greek parish in the city. It was established in 1927, and it draws membership from 31st to 95th street and from as far west as Argo. A recent addition to the church property was the purchase of the house at 6001 South Peoria street. This has been remodeled into office space and schoolrooms.

"We have 120 boys and girls here every afternoon," Father Gambrilis says," and we try to make good citizens of them.

"The afternoon school is from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock. Children are taught the traditions of Greece and the language. But they are also taught how to be good Americans and to appreciate the privilege of living in America. "We try to give them a cultural background here," the pastor explains.

A community house will be built on the property site at 6001 South Peoria, but this project is still far in the future. Meanwhile church members concentrate on the church building with its Greek words over the door which are translated: "This is nothing else but the house of God, and this is the door into it."

Off the Trail
with HAROLD SMITH

Friends of Gordon V. Donnelly, 8046 Yates avenue, are congratulating him upon being advanced recently to the top flight of riders in the Oakbrook Saddle and Suds club.

Among the numerous young riders who are turning their attention to jumping are Frances and Mary McGuire of 4822 Ellis avenue, Sally Miller of 4926 Kimbark avenue, and Patricia Poister, 7321 South Shore drive.

A foot fracture suffered just before Christmas is not keeping Edward Weinberg, 5107 South Blackstone avenue, from pursuing his newly adopted sport of bridlepath riding. He is having a special stirrup built to accommodate the cast and says he will soon resume his horsebacking. Meanwhile he is driving to harness his walk-trot chestnut, D'Artagnan, and his five gaited bay, Don Diego, which he keeps at the Midway stables.

Indicative of the growing interest in jumpers, a new jumping club for men was recently formed at the Midway academy. The club holds regular practice each Sunday morning.

Col. J. M. Crutcher's Tennessee walking horse, Lady McDonald, which won a ribbon in the Town and Country's first walking horse class last year, has just been moved in to Midway from the country, the first and only horse of her type there.

Learning to Grind Stones

The lapidary's skill is not a common one, so boys who learn to grind semiprecious stones at Ridge park, 96th street and Longwood drive, are acquiring an unusual skill. Henry McKenzie, 15, of 2229 West 109th street, practices at the wheel in the park craftroom. Lapidary work is on the Chicago park district fall and winter public program.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Jan. 13.

Increase the supply of shrubs by taking the whips or vigorous growths of many kinds, cut them into lengths of from six to eight inches and bury in sand or well drained place and line out in the garden in spring. Currants and grapes root readily by this method. Lilacs are difficult to root from cuttings, but by using root-stimulants many will respond.

Cuttings from green wood made in June and placed in sand in a cold frame also may be made. By taking each cutting with a heel or with the base or bottom of the cutting attached, rooting will result more readily. A box covered with glass will suffice for a few cuttings. Shade with muslin to prevent rapid evaporation.

A cutting box may be used for many house plants. Sand is better to use than soil for it is porous and less likely to cause decay. However, some cuttings root more readily in half peat moss and half sand, and some house plants in bottles of water.

Tuesday, Jan. 14.

You can't make a telephone pole sprout roots and grow, but you can hide it by planting a Lombardy tree next to it. The Lombardy grows upward in a tall, slender manner and will grow sufficiently high to cover the pole's stark appearance.

Vines also can be planted at the base of the pole and trained to cover. The Engelmann ivy is good and grows rapidly. In shady places, such as the north side of the house, where there is little room for shrubs, plants like the hardy ferns and lily-of-the-valley will do nicely. Poor soil should be removed and good soil hauled in.

Blue clay or heavy, poorly drained soils should be replaced and drainage worked into the underlying strata. The poor growth of plants is usually caused by poor soil conditions or bad selection of material for planting.

Wednesday, Jan. 15.

A common fault is selecting tall plants where dwarf kinds are essential for best results. Beneath a low window low growing plants should be used, such as spiraea bumaldi, Anthony waterer, deutzia gracilis, shrubby cinquefoil, a drouth resisting plant, Indian currant, and St. Johnswort.

The globeflower, with its light green twigs, is excellent when used in front of the redbark dogwood. It can be severely cut back in early spring. Too large shrubs on the small city backyard usually dominate and should be sparingly used.

A tall hedge along the back fence, if properly kept within bounds, offers seclusion and hides the alley. Where there is room tall shrubs like the lilac, when kept restricted, and pruned, will furnish many choice blooms and serve as an effective screen.

Thursday, Jan. 16.

Bring in the potted bulbous plants for flowering in the house. Keep well watered. After flowering keep the soil moist and the plants growing until the leaves turn yellow, indicating the ripening of the bulbs. Save the tulip, hyacinth, and narcissus for outdoor planting in the fall.

Use vines to screen the garage. They may be either annual or hardy. The new morning-glories are excellent; the Japanese hop soon covers the side of the building and selfsows. Both need support.

Shrubs may be used if there is room, but usually only a very few can be planted due to their spread. The best hardy vines include the Dutchman's pipe. It has large leaves that hide a porch. It does very well in partial shade. The Japanese bittersweet is a good shade loving plant altho it is a woody climber and strong grower.

Friday, Jan. 17.

Do not attempt a hedge at the front unless there is plenty of room, for it restricts the front or public area and is seldom kept in a vigorous growing, pleasing condition. City yards with a front of about 10 feet should not have a hedge along the sidewalk.

The parkway should not be planted with shrubs unless conditions warant their use. Shrubs offer dangerous conditions to children dashing out from them into the street and especially where traffic is heavy.

Saturday, Jan. 18.

Join a garden club or organize a new one. The men will find much that is educational if they become interested in one of the men's garden clubs.

If cut flowers are removed from the vase and kept in a deep container at night and placed in a cool room, they will last much longer. A dry, warm room soon causes them to wither. Keep all flowering plants well watered.

HORSEMEN ELECT W. EARL BUTLER NEW PRESIDENT

Equestrian Association Passes 1,000 Mark.

W. Earl Butler, Chicago automobile distributor, was elected president of the Town and Country Equestrian association at its annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman last week. He assumed office immediately.

W. Earl Butler.

Butler succeeds Herbert J. Lorber, insurance executive, who had headed the organization, the largest of its kind in existence, since it was set up in 1937 to succeed the Chicago Equestrian Association of Illinois. Lorber, who had declined reëlection to a fourth term, remains as a director.

Frank W. Bering, hotel man, was reëlected vice president. John M. FitzGerald, railway supplies man, was chosen secretary and treasurer to succeed A. H. Sus, who also asked to be replaced.

Five new directors were voted in and 13 were reëlected. The new ones are Lorber, Gene Fletcher, N. J. Geib, Gerald Gorman, and G. Keith Line.

Those reëlected were: H. Leslie Atlass, James H. Cartwright, Wayne Dinsmore, Frank J. Fox, John C. Bowers, A. E. Grossmith, James A. Hannah, Albert W. Harris, Orvis T. Henkle Jr., Elmer J. Holdorf, John A. Klein, Harry McNair, Joy Morton II., Edwin Rothschild, Hubert S. Silberman, J. C. Thompson, Col. E. N. Wentworth, Fred L. Workman, and T. L. J. Klapp Jr.

Lorber revealed that the membership has just passed the 1,000 mark for the first time in the history of this or predecessor groups. That makes Town and Country the largest amateur horsemen's organization in the world, he declared.

G. O. P. Women.

Members of the Chicago South Side Republican Women's club will meet at 1:45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Englewood Baptist church, 413 Englewood avenue.

GLENVIEW HOME BLENDS MODERN WITH COLONIAL

Charm and Efficiency Are Well Combined.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Distinction can certainly be achieved in a small colonial home as well as in a vast home of 20 or 30 rooms. It is found in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Force, 1249 Elm court, Glenview.

This six room dwelling has the solidity and charm so typical of our early colonial houses, yet it is freely adapted to 1941 living. And this home is a good example of skill in blending an old vintage to modern taste.

The architects are Rapp and Rapp, 230 North Michigan avenue. They have designed the sort of house which will put down roots, a colonial type home with first story exterior of Williamsburg toned brick and the second story of ivory siding. The blinds are a dubonnet shade and the garade is serviceably located, serving as a wing and adding interest to the mass of the house.

Soft Colored Interior.

Inside, the rooms are logically arranged and beautifully treated. On the first floor there is a reception hall with stairs to the second floor on the right of the entrance door and living room at the left.

Much of the charm of this home lies in the beauty of the soft coloring thruout. The living room and hall have walls of an exquisite shade of pale green. In the dining room the wainscot is dusty pink with wall paper in the same tone above. The carpeting of both rooms and hall is a rich green and the woodwork is white.

When you enter the living room you get the immediate impression of light, and of closeness to the out-of-doors. French doors can be thrown open to what will be terraces and gardens next summer, and deep windows on the opposite wall reach almost to the floor. There is an appealing, simple fireplace with marble facing and built-in shelves of graceful design on either side of it.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is a charmer. Its walls are cream colored with a delicate red pattern. The woodwork is white, and counter and double drainboard sink surfaces are of gray green mottled linoleum. There's a breakfast bar with white painted shelves for decorative accessories—and useful ones. This serves as a division between the breakfast nook and the kitchen proper. In this breakfast nook the benches are upholstered in red leather and lift up, revealing cupboard space for youthful belongings. The Venetian blinds and the windows in the kitchen are ivory with red tape, and the curtains are white with red bands.

The powder room on the first floor is treated with as much thought and beauty as the kitchen. The woodwork is painted a pastel blue, the fixtures are a deeper blue, and the floor is black with a mottled pattern. The wainscoting is an attractive shade of pink, with blue paper above patterned with pink.

Ceramic Tile Bath.

The walls and the carpeting to the second story are the same lovely green as the living room and hall. On this second floor there are three bedrooms—a large master bedroom, a boy's room, and a little girl's room. Here also there is a handsome bathroom with walls of ceramic tile. There is a niche in the wall for the telephone and a large linen closet. There are no overhead lights in living room or bedrooms of this house, but in the hall over the stairway there is a good looking crystal light fixture.

Colonial Home in Glenview

Much excellent architectural brain power has gone into the designing and building of many of our new homes. This home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Force, 1249 Elm court, Glenview, has the solidity and charm so typical of our early colonial houses, yet it is freely adapted to modern living. Architects: Rapp & Rapp, 230 North Michigan avenue.

Play's the Thing

Model airplane building and flying is generally considered a fairly new hobby, but Edward John Lidgard, 22, of 8209 South Paulina street, is a veteran of 10 years of building and flying. His interest in model aircraft began when he joined Frank Nekimken's craft class at Hamilton park as a youngster of 12 years. He developed his skill under the guidance of the park district craft instructors, transferring from Hamilton to Gage park and John Rappold's class. Edward won a place on the international Moffett team in 1936, and he set a world's record in 1939 with his ornithopter, a model propelled by its wings.

Edward was active in the national model airplane meet in Chicago last July, and now he's hoping to set new ornithopter and autogiro records and win the Mulvihill and Moffett trophies in the 1941 national.

Golf is the sports hobby of William Ennis, 28, of 1537 East 65th street. Bill's interest began 18 years ago when he was a caddy on the park district's Jackson park courses. He has a record of making a hole in one on two successive days at the same course and at the same hole. To make the story better, the shots occurred at approximately the same time of day on each occasion. Bill established a new course record on the Jackson park 18 hole course—a 66 which he tied in a second season. He won the park district caddy championship in 1928, and he was a member of the Chicago Publinks team in 1937 and 1938. His second choice in sport is hockey.

Albert Salchert is a table tennis champ at age 11. He's a veteran of five year's play, beginning at Fernwood park when he was 6 years old. His instructor was Adolph Gentile, and Albert has been such an apt pupil that he has been 1939 and 1940 table tennis champion at Fernwood elementary school. He won the Fernwood park midget and junior boys championships last summer. Naturally, it was a big thrill for a 6th grader to win the school championship, defeating boys older and in upper grades.

KITCHEN BAND TO ENTERTAIN AT HOMEWOOD CLUB

Meat Cooking Also to Be Demonstrated.

Mrs. Margaret Cordt will direct the "Kitchen Band" in a program at the Homewood Woman's club at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the village hall. The ensemble plays on home made instruments. The occasion for the concert will be the program arranged by the club's American home department. It will include a meat cooking demonstration by Miss Alvina Iverson of the National Live Stock and Meat board.

OPENS A CHECKING ACCOUNT IN THE CheckMaster PLAN

A DEPOSIT OF ANY AMOUNT EVEN AS LITTLE AS

NO MINIMUM BALANCE REQUIRED AT ANY TIME!

For a trifling cost, you enjoy all the conveniences of paying by check, without ever having to "keep up" ANY balance in the account! It's better to pay by check than cash, because it's risky to keep money on hand or carry it around. It's also easier and more economical to issue a check than bother with a money order. Your check for a dollar or $1,000 costs you just a nickel.

Compare: A money order for $2.50 costs 6 cents; for $10, it's 11 cents; a $25 money order costs 15 cents; and so on up to 22 cents for $100.

Besides the economy and convenience, a check is more business-like and makes a better impression than cash or money order—and your CheckMaster check looks just like any other check. You can open a CheckMaster account in person or by mail.

R.O.T.C. CADETS AWAIT HONOR MEDALS

SEE WASHINGTON HIGH AS CROSS SECTION OF U. S.

East Chicago School Unites 35 Lands.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

R. F. Robinson.

Nowhere in the nation does the molding of citizens of tomorrow follow the American pattern any more closely than in George Washington High school in East Chicago.

Here the complex task of inculcating the principles of democracy in racial stock but lately severed from the stricter régimes of the old world still goes vigorously on, while most other American communities are fitting the tale of this process into their local histories.

Here, under the understanding leadership of Principal R. F. Robinson are mingled rich and poor, black and white and yellow, Protestant, Catholic, Jew—youngsters only one or two generations removed from many nations across the two oceans.

Introduction to Self-Reliance.

At Washington High they are getting their first big taste of self-determination in government, gathering up the fundamentals of workable individual civic and social conduct in a land where rule is by common sufferance and not by ruthless decree.

That is why particular interest will center in the "Citizens of Tomorrow" broadcast over W-G-N at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. This broadcast, with only general guidance from faculty members, will be staged entirely by some 65 students of the school, while several hundred more look on from the W-G-N audience studio.

It will show, its leaders promise, that the American way is still a dynamic and popular way among its coming citizens, and that the wars now raging among other nations do not interfere with normal, happy living among and by those whose uncles and cousins and even brothers are engaged in the grim business of destroying each other.

Washington High is young as such institutions go. It was formed in 1897, after city planners recognized the inadequacy of North Township High to continue serving the three municipalities of East Chicago, Hammond, and Whiting.

Four in First Senior Class.

Its first graduating class, that of 1898, consisted of four girls. The next will have 408.

The school is so young that its first principal, A. G. Slocomb, is still serving the institution energetically as purchasing agent.

East Chicago, city of industry, grew prodigiously. Its little handful of citizens residing there when the town came into being in 1894 has become a well integrated population of 52,500. So rapid was this growth that in 1928 it became necessary to organize a second high school—Roosevelt High, which serves the western part of East Chicago as Washington High serves the eastern half.

Cosmopolitanism is one of the principal characteristics of Washington High. Last year's graduating class, for instance, represented 28 nationalities as determined by the birthplace of the fathers. Mr. Robinson estimates that the present student body represents 35 nationalities.

Study Trades in New Wing.

The school has occupied its present site since 1903. It is an area two blocks square, on which are an athletic field and a group of buildings that afford roomy and well equipped facilities for the advanced teaching of the city's future leaders. The most recent addition, completed last year, consists of a wing housing trades and industries and music departments, a spacious library and additional classrooms.

Because of the recent population trends East Chicago leaders feel that the present comfortable high school housing will be adequate until obsolescence requires replacements. Therefore the faculty, which now consists of 96 men and women, can concentrate on curricular work, unburdened by lack of space.

The faculty is of outstanding quality. In keeping with Mr. Robinson's theory that there should not be too great an age spread between pupil and teacher, most of the instructors are young and consequently sympathetic with the outlook of youth.

They have been trained for the most part in universities from ocean to ocean. All have college degrees, and three-fourths have earned masters degrees.

20 Years of Schooling.

Courses offered by the school are classified broadly into four general groups—college preparatory, trades and industrial, commercial, and general. Mr. Robinson pointed out that it would take almost 20 years for one pupil, working at normal speed, to complete all the work the curriculum offers.

Work, Study and Fun Blended Harmoniously at Washington High

Washington High prides itself on the amicability that rules in spite of the variety of its national origins (there are 35 nationalities represented among its 3,000 pupils). Rudolph Lomberger, basketball captain and center, and Ellouise Walthers, a school yell leader, hold aloft the Northern Indiana High school conference championship trophy Lomberger and his teammates won last year for the second time in 13 years. In the center picture, Joseph Csmereka and John White co-operate in the school's blacksmith shop. At the right, Beverly Mahan and Adele Silverman are shown testing the cuisine of the school's excellent cafeteria.

Jesse James Flynn (left) and Arizona Bailey go thru a dance routine that floors 'em at school assemblies. The three ranking officers of the Paul Robeson glee club who are grouped around the music box are Dorothy Hardy, secretary; John Lee Davis, vice president, and Marvin Loepaz, president. This club is the vehicle for a large range of school aided social functions given for Washington High's nearly 600 young colored Citizens of Tomorrow. In the scene to the right, Kenneth Reich, school orchestra violinist, rehearses a properly contrite expression for possible later use in the face of firm advice from Clyde E. Kellam, boys' counselor (center) and Fred Buse, attendance officer since 1916.

An industrial city like East Chicago needs young men trained in the industrial arts and to serve this need the high school provides training in the use of precision tools. Shown here in the machine shop, near the windows, are Samuel Ferka, Cornell Idu, Rudy Korincic, Stanley Kaniuk, Nick Trgovich and John Kern, and at the right, Charles Meyer, Edward Pawlik, Harold Borowski, and Edward Jurczak. And in the domestic science department, housed in the new school addition, girls prepare and serve a clinical meal. They are Lila Webster, Irene Jablonski, Dorothy Turbow, Carol Waggoner, Mildred Szymaniak, and Mary Catasein.

LEADERS OF 13 SCHOOL UNITS TO GET AWARDS

Special Ceremonies to Start Tuesday.

In recognition of their outstanding military work, cadets in the R. O. T. C. units of 13 Chicago public high schools will receive a total of 237 medals and awards this week. Of these awards, 91 are medals donated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Others are bestowed by R. O. T. C. headquarters and patriotic and civic organizations.

The awards will be given in a series of special school assemblies thruout the city beginning on Tuesday. The custom of giving Tribune medals was started in 1935 and has been continued each year. Aside from the high schools of Chicago, the Tribune sends medals to 45 universities, military academies and high schools outside of the Chicago area.

9,800 Now Enrolled.

The active interest of the Tribune in R. O. T. C. training had its beginning in 1917 when, thru Col. Robert R. McCormick, its editor and publisher, it was instrumental in establishing the first units in the city. Since that time the units have enjoyed a steady growth, and this year reached an enrollment of approximately 9,800 cadets.

Cadets who receive the awards are selected by the military instructors after a series of tests to determine the cadet's military ability and his qualities as a leader. Cadets in 27 public high schools and one Catholic high school are given Tribune medals twice each year on a basis of one for every 50 cadets.

In South Area.

Cadets in six south and southwest side high schools will be among the recipients of medals this week. Schools at which the medals will be given are Fenger, Hirsch, Tilden, Morgan Park, Kelly, and Bowen.

In a special assembly at Fenger High school on Wednesday morning at 10:55 o'clock, seven cadets will be given Tribune R. O. T. C. medals. The winners are Sergts. Harold Garbe and Arnold Hoenke and Privates Ernest Westman, Calvin Maginal, Adolph Malesh, Franklyn Hurd, and Frank Dawson.

Medals and awards donated by other organizations will also be presented to the cadets. Winners and the awards are: Lieut. Col. Gino Nicoli, officers' efficiency; Staff Sergeant John Merkel, noncommissioned officers' efficiency, and honored for neatness will be Corporal Richard Wolter and Cadets Mesrob Mardiosian, James O'Toole, and Edward Kulish.

Also Get Awards.

Staff Sergeant William P. Robinson, military instructor, announced that the following cadet officers will receive commissions as brevet second lieutenants in the Illinois National Guard upon graduation: Lieut. Col. Gino Nicoli, Majors Albert Becker and John Halleran, Capts. Garfield Anderson, Walter Ehrmann, Chris Hoffman, and William Ulrich, and Second Lieu-

NEED MORE PLAY SPOTS.

Every day I notice the boys on the south side who have to play ball in the streets, seek recreation in pool halls, or just stand around drug stores and I wonder why our civic bodies and business men's groups don't try to do something about it. That would be really a worthwhile project.

I would suggest something on the order of the St. Michael's Boys club in South Chicago, which is developing a wonderful program, winter and summer, to keep boys and girls occupied intelligently and peaceably.

Sure, we have our parks but there are not enough of them, nor do they seem to be big enough. We must have more opportunities for supervised play. I think settlement houses could supply the facilities if chambers of commerce and other groups would lend financial support, even if they had to make it a joint project. You'd notice it 10 years from now, when I think we'd have better citizens.

A. S. Z.

ABANDONED AUTOS.

Hasn't the city some obligation as to abandoned automobiles? It seems to me it ought to care for them, just like it cares for the sick or dead. Take them away from in front of people's doors before they are stripped and look like the ruins of a once proud chariot. Burn them, bury them, or sell them. Anything to keep them away from our doors. Seriously, this is getting to be a problem on the southeast side. WORRIED.

DEMANDS PAVING.

As a far south sider who pays his taxes, I would like to ask politely when they are going to pave 106th street between Indianapolis boulevard and Bensley avenue. What is this, no man's land? Aren't we as good as the neighborhoods closer to the city council chambers? Come out here sometime and try driving along 106th, is our challenge! J. A. S.

To be recognized as neatest cadets are Private Joseph Bernasek, Corporals Dominic Garretto and Chester Palus, and Sergt. Fred Stastney. Receiving medals from Chicago Stock Yards post, No. 333, American Legion, are Majors Robert Szyman and Walter Landini, First Sergeant Paul Grunnet, and Private Melvin Kopping.

Medal presentation at Bowen High school will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock. At that time six cadets will be given Tribune R. O. T. C. medals. The names of the winners have not yet been announced.

Sodality Dance.

The seventh annual dance of the St. Therese sodality of St. Anthony's parish will take place Saturday evening in the Venetian ballroom, 153 Kensington avenue.

575 ARE CHOSEN IN FIRST DRAFT CALL FOR 1941

145 Prospects Rejected in Medical Tests.

A total of 575 draftees from Cook county were inducted into the army for a year of military training during the first four days of the January period, it was announced yesterday by Chicago selective service officials. Of this group 271 were volunteers who elected to start their year's service before their order number is called by their local draft boards.

Ninety-seven of the draftees accepted at the Chicago induction center in the 122d Field Artillery armory, 234 East Chicago avenue, during the four days were sent to the army reception center at Fort Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich. The remaining 478 conscripts were sent to Fort Sheridan.

720 Are Examined.

To select the 575 men who were inducted, army medical specialists and psychiatrists examined 720 prospects, rejecting 145. The main causes of rejection were: teeth, 42 men; mental and nervous conditions, 17; vision, 15; hearing, 14, and alcoholism, 12.

The January inductions, which began on Jan. 3, were ordered discontinued from Jan. 9 to Jan. 16 because of a delay in the construction of the camps in which the draftees will train.

In the list of men inducted for training the letter V signifies a volunteer.

FOREIGN POLICY OF U. S. WILL BE THEME AT CLUB

Bryn Mawr Women to Hear Quincy Wright.

Quincy Wright, professor of international law at the University of Chicago, will speak at the meeting of the Bryn Mawr Woman's club tomorrow afternoon in the Bryn Mawr church, 7000 Jeffery avenue. Prof. Wright's topic will be "The Most Recent Developments in United States Foreign Policies." Mrs. Howard B. Taft, 6943 Cornell avenue, will introduce him.

At the morning session Joseph Brye, assisted by Clayton Murphy, 7 year old pianist, will give a surprise musical program. Mrs. Mabel P. Allen, 7518 Ridgeland avenue, chairman of the music department, will have charge.

Arche Club.

Twelve members of the executive board will be entertained by Mrs. Earle Tanner, 7445 Bennett avenue, with a luncheon in her home following the monthly business meeting. Mrs. Carl Victor Wisner, president of the club, will preside at the business session.

"America Flies" is the title of an illustrated lecture to be given by Canfield Cook, world traveler and wartime pilot, before the club Friday afternoon in the Hotel Shoreland. Mrs. Wade Reece, state chairman of institutes, will discuss "Why Club Institutes?" In the meeting of the music class Albert W. Miller, baritone, will give a musical program and Mrs. Grace Jerger, past president of the club, will read a paper entitled "Life of Mrs. Theodore Thomas."

Chatham Fields Woman's Club.

A cooking school will be sponsored Wednesday at Antoinette Pope's, 2010 East 71st street, according to Mrs. Chester Nellis, 8012 Evans avenue. Mrs. Jack Staehle, 8327 Vernon avenue, president, will entertain the board at a luncheon Friday afternoon at Mickelberry's Log Cabin, 2300 West 95th street.

Hyde Park Travel Club.

Tomorrow will be Federation day for club members in the Hotel Windermere East. At the morning session Florence Bourke Ellis will review the "Hungarian Rhapsody," by Bertita Harding, and at the afternoon meeting Mrs. Arthur C. Lake, president, will present special guests.

Guests will be Mrs. Walter Seymour, former district president; Mrs. John B. Simson, district president, and officers and members of her board. Guest speaker will be Capt. Patrick Smith, who will give an illustrated lecture on "The Friendly Philippines."

Windsor Park Woman's Club.

Elvira Winter Gilmore will speak on "The Madonna in Art" at the Tuesday afternoon meeting. Mrs. Charles Richards, club member, will offer a group of songs and at 1 o'clock a study class in consumer education will be conducted by Mrs. Clarence Duner. At the morning meeting, which opens at 11:15 o'clock, a book review will be given by Mrs. E. S. MacKay.

Woodlawn Woman's Club.

Ruth Thomas and Wylie Hancock, dramatic readers, will appear before the art and literature departments at the Tuesday afternoon meeting in the Southmoor hotel. The department is directed by Mrs. Frederick Marx.

Mrs. R. C. Gibson, director of the current events class, has arranged a symposium by club members for the 11 o'clock meeting. Mrs. Walter Hipple will discuss current art, Mrs. Richard U. Halstrom will talk about music and Mrs. Warren H. Lutton's topic will be "What's Doing in Chicago." A program by the conservation class has been arranged for 11:45 o'clock by its director, Mrs. R. G. Penrose.

Roseland Woman's Club.

Mrs. C. J. Albrecht, state chairman of Indian welfare, will be guest speaker at the meeting at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Grant Chessman, 11346 Lowe avenue. Mrs. A. J. Zimmerman is chairman of the social committee. Other committee members are Mrs. C. E. Vanderbilt and Mrs. J. R. Dalenberg.

Opera Listening Group Is to Meet in Library

"Il Trovatore" will be featured at the exhibit of the Opera Listening group in the Woodlawn Branch library, 6247 Kimbark avenue, Thursday afternoon. Members meet Saturday afternoons to listen to the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts. The exhibit will include pictures and books relating to "Il Trovatore" and opera in general.

Queen of the South Shore

Miss Penelope Parker, 7215 Vernon avenue, has been elected "Queen of the South Shore" for the annual snowball frolic to be given by the Fox Secretarial college in the Hotel Shoreland on Feb. 7. The dance is being given by the college's Auburn Park and South Shore branches.

ORGANIZE NEW BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUB IN TEMPLE

Is for Those Who Have Been Confirmed.

An alumni club, open to boys and girls who have been confirmed in the temple, and their close friends, is being organized at the South Side Hebrew congregation. Its purpose is to promote a closer relationship between Jewish adolescents, and to better acquaint them with Jewish problems. Sponsors are Rabbi Morris Teller and Dr. Irving Barkan.

Norman Flanders is president of the new organization; Al Grossman, vice president; Sherwin Guilderman, vice president; Ethel Hartstein, corresponding secretary, and Margery Leventhal, recording secretary. Meetings take place in the temple social hall. The next will be held on Thursday, Jan. 23.

The South Side Hebrew Congregation Juniors will hold their regular open meeting at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the social hall at 74th street and Chappel avenue. Irving Rappaport will lead the dramatic group in several skits, and informal dancing will follow the business session. Max Fink, 8046 Woodlawn avenue is president of the group.

Jackson Park B'nai B'rith auxiliary No. 315 will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening in the South Shore temple. Mrs. Abraham Greenspahn, program chairman, announces that Stephen E. Hurley, secretary of the Chicago Bar association, will be guest speaker. His subject will be, "Nonchalance, or How to Treat a Crisis." Mrs. Walter Klein is president of the club.

The Sisterhood of Beth Jacob B'nai Bezalel will hold its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon in the community center, 6028 Champlain avenue. Motion pictures and a demonstration from a food company will be features of the afternoon. Mrs. Martin J. Stelzer is president of the group.

The A. E. Seniors, a newly organized group of young people at Am-Echod temple, 81st street and Maryland avenue, will give a free dance this evening to attract new members. The affair will take place in the community house, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Officers are Al Stein, president; Ralph Krause, vice president; Shirley Norton, recording secretary; Shirley Besser, corresponding secretary, and Sid Weinstein, treasurer.

The Am-Echod sisterhood will hold a luncheon in the temple at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Warden Joseph Ragen of Stateville penitentiary will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Temple Isaiah Israel Men's club Wednesday evening in the community house, 5035 Greenwood avenue. Mrs. Benjamin Levinson will review, "Fame Is The Spur," for members of the temple sisterhood at the meeting Wednesday afternoon in the community house.

Roles in Opera

Miss Ida Contos, 6334 Greenwood avenue, and Manuel Baroumis, Southmoor hotel, will have important roles in the Greek opera which will be given in the Civic Opera house this evening for the benefit of the Greek Red Cross. Miss Contos is garbed in the festive dress of a Greek mountain girl, while Mr. Baroumis, a well known tenor, is in the costume of a Greek mountain soldier.

WASHINGTON HIGH —AN AMERICAN CROSS SECTION

35 Lands Are Blended in East Chicago School.

of attention at Washington High, but are not overemphasized. The school has a good football team, a basketball team of championship caliber [it took the Northern Indiana High School conference title last season], and gives good account of itself in swimming, tennis, track, and wrestling.

Love of music wells up from all the nationalistic foundations of the student body, and so the music department is large and considered highly important. There are two a cappella choirs, one white and one colored, a concert band for boys and another for girls, a concert orchestra, and numerous smaller vocal and instrumental groups.

Follow Fathers' Trades.

The trades and industrial departments have excellent, up to date equipment and competent instructors. They naturally are highly regarded in a city which draws its major sustenance from the field of industry. Many of the pupils have become better artisans than their fathers, largely because of things they learned in high school.

The commercial course also enables those who make an early choice of business careers to point for their specialties and thus save time and expense.

Civics and social sciences are dramatized for the pupils by a governmental setup modeled after the municipal form, and by numerous clubs and similar organizations that give practice in the art of living amicably together.

Principal Robinson modestly disclaims the major credit for the school's spiritual and material prosperity, but his associates warn that his influence should not be underemphasized.

He was born in Vermilion county, Indiana, and attended country school and Helt Township High school in Dana, Ind. He has been teaching since 1909, when he became a district school instructor in the Clinton mining district.

Meets Future Wife in France.

After that he alternately taught and attended advanced educational institutions, competing in basketball, baseball, and track in addition to his regular work. In 1916 he came to East Chicago to live while attending the University of Chicago medical school.

War broke out the next year and Robinson entered the first officers training camp. He was commissioned in the infantry and served in France, rising to the rank of captain. While serving as an executive officer in the A. E. F. university at Beaune, France, he met Blanche True, assistant registrar, to whom he was married in New York on the final day of 1919.

By this time Robinson had determined on an educational career, to which end he took three years of graduate study at the University of Chicago, teaching school in East Chicago meanwhile. He was an elementary school principal for 11 years, and has been principal at Washington High since 1934.

As principal he succeeded Roy W. Feik, who has been superintendent of schools since he turned the reins over to Robinson.

The East Chicago school board under which Robinson and his associate faculty members function consists of Dr. A. A. Forszt, president; John Zarza, treasurer, and Herbert Rimes, secretary.

Junior Ort.

Chicago Junior American Ort will meet at the Standard club, 320 Plymouth court, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Guest speaker will be Morris Polin, managing editor of the Daily Forward and chairman of the Chicago Council of the American Ort.

Has Church Wedding

Blanche Piper, daughter of Mrs. Arhur M. Piper, 7150 Ridgeland avenue, was married recently to Vincent W. Owles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent W. Owles, 7914 Carpenter street, at St. Sabina's church. The couple plan to make their home on the south side.

YOUR NEIGHBOR'S TRIP

C. Franklin Smith, 6132 Greenwood avenue, is in Mexico again. Mr. Smith, who at 63 years old is one of the south side's most ambitious travelers, was in Mexico twice in 1938 and has toured China, Japan, India and the Philippines. This time he expects to return after going as far as Acapulco.

When not browsing around some remote part of the globe, Mr. Smith is a linotype operator for a South Chicago newspaper. His wife, however, has traveled with him only once, preferring to remain home with Duke, their bulldog. Mrs. Smith is not interested in anything further away than Ohio, she says.

About a month ago Mr. Smith returned from his last trip—a journey to Guatemala. On his junket to the orient, he carried with him letters of introduction from Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman, which, he says, earned him a royal welcome in those countries.

Mrs. Charles Thulis and her daughter, Mary, of 8144 Oglesby avenue, returned from Miami, Fla., recently after spending New Year's eve there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ringer, 6909 Crandon avenue, and their daughter, Mrs. Morgan L. Fitch, wife of the president of the Chicago Real Estate board, are vacationing in Hollywood Beach, Fla. They are accompanied by Mrs. Fitch's children, Patricia and James.

J. Warren McCaffrey, 7307 Bennett avenue, has just returned home after touring Cuba, Panama and a part of South America. He is a member of the board of trustees of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Murphy, 7607 Evans avenue, with their children, La Verne and Billy, and Mrs. George Skidmore, 7251 Cornell avenue, made up a party that is passing three weeks in Florida this month.

Holy Rosary Parish Group Fetes Pastor This Morning

Holy Name society of Holy Rosary parish, 113th street and South Park avenue, will fête the Rev. E. S. Keough as he begins his 35th year as pastor this morning. There will be a special communion breakfast after the 8 o'clock mass which will be addressed by the Rev. Edward J. Kelly, executive director of the Archdiocesan Holy Name union and personal representative of Archbishop Stritch.

P.-T. DISTRICTS PLAN MEETING ON EDUCATION

Conference to Be Held at Calumet High.

Districts 1 and 25 of the Chicago High School council of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will meet Tuesday at the Calumet High school, 81st and May streets. The theme for the day will be "Counseling Together for Training and Education."

Registration at 9:30 o'clock will precede the opening of the meeting by the president, Mrs. Milton L. Weiner, at 10 o'clock. Greetings will be extended by Mrs. J. D. Davidson, president of Calumet P.-T. A., and G. G. Worst, principal.

Appearing on the morning program will be Mrs. Frank Williams, Mrs. J. J. Sharpe, Mrs. Frank L. White, Mrs. W. J. Barnes, Mrs. V. D. McClurg, and Mrs. L. C. Monroe.

The afternoon session will start at 1:30 o'clock. The program will be a panel discussion of the subject, "Education—What Can It Do for Our Youth?" Participating will be Mrs. J. J. Sharpe, Mrs. Frank Damm, Butler Laughlin, Prof. Paul Douglas, and the Rev. V. F. Blair. Others are Mrs. Frank Williams, Joseph Connelly, Mrs. T. B. Stephenson, and Mrs. Arthur Guillaudeu.

Bowen High P.-T. A.—A panel discussion by members of the faculty led by Miss Edith Lynch will be a feature of the program at the meeting at 1:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the school.

Bryn Mawr P.-T. A. — "Major Mawrs Amateur Hour" will be the program at the meeting at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the school. Talented children of the school will participate and Arthur Riskind will take the part of "Major Mawrs."

De La Salle Mother's club—A card party will be given at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the school library. Mrs. Leo Walczak, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. John Bodinet as co-chairman.

Park Manor P.-T. A.—A safety program will be presented at the meeting at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the school, followed by a party for the school's patrol boys.

Kenwood P.-T. A. — Miss Francis Swain, director of home economics of the Chicago public schools, will talk on "Understanding How, What, and When to Buy" at the meeting at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the school assembly hall.

Oakenwald P.-T. A.—A benefit supper will be given in the blue room of the Better Lighting institute, 14 East Jackson boulevard, at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. Cards will be played during the evening.

Ray P.-T. A. — Mrs. Walter H. C. Laves will speak on "Our Latin American Policy" at the meeting at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Tilden P.-T. A.—Community night will be held in the school auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday. The theme will be "New Horizons for Community Life." W. J. Owens, president of the Community council, will speak on "New Horizons in Community Rights and Privileges," and the Rev. Lowell R. Ditzen of the South Shore Presbyterian church will discuss "New Spiritual Horizons." A social hour will follow the program.

Wadsworth P.-T. A.—Dr. P. J. Pettijohn, professor of geology at the University of Chicago, will be the speaker at the meeting at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

HOSPITAL COMMITTEE SPONSORS DRAMA AS BENEFIT TOMORROW

A. Morris Krensky.
[Bicom Photo.]

The performance of "There Shall Be No Night" at the Grand Opera house tomorrow evening is being sponsored by the Chicago committee of the National Jewish hospital at Denver, Colo. Proceeds will go toward the upkeep of Chicago patients at the hospital, which is open to all sects and creeds. Tickets are available at the Chicago office, 30 North La Salle street, Dearborn 7173, according to Co-Chairmen A. Morris Krensky, 1234 Madison Park avenue, and Melvin L. Strauss of Glencoe.

SCOTCH MEDLEY TO BE FEATURE OF CONCERT HOUR

Marion Claire Is Soloist of W-G-N Program.

Marion Claire, lyric soprano, will be featured in a solo presentation of a medley of Scotch folk songs on the Chicagoland Concert Hour tomorrow. This program of fine and familiar music will be heard from 10 to 10:45 p. m. over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. The W-G-N Concert orchestra will be conducted by Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company.

The songs to be presented by Miss Claire include four of the best known gems of Scotland. They are "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon," "Loch Lomond," "The Campbells Are Coming," and "Annie Laurie." Miss Claire also will sing Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan, and the favorite southern melody, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

The orchestra will play Massenet's overture from "Phadre," "Guitarre," by Moszkowski, "Cherry Ripe," by Scott, and Liadov's "Musical Snuff Box."

The complete program:

Next week the Chicagoland hour will move to the period now occupied by the Pageant of Melody. The Concert Hour will be heard from 8:30 to 9 p. m. Wednesday evening each week, starting Jan. 22, the Pageant of Melody will be heard from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Monday evenings, starting p. m. Monday, starting Jan. 20. William A. Bacher produces the Concert hour.

Gitta Gradova to Play with Chicago Symphony

Gitta Gradova, noted Chicago pianist, will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network as guest soloist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m. Thursday. As another highlight of the program Dr. Frederick Stock will give the first performance of Dr. Albert Noelte's work, "Symphonic Prologue," written and dedicated to the Chicago Symphony orchestra on its 50th anniversary. Dr. Noelte, the composer, is an instructor with the Chicago Civic orchestra. Miss Gradova will play "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" by Rachmaninoff.

W-G-N ACTORS EAT WAY INTO PROPER MOODS

Choose Cafes to Go with Operettas' Locale.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

To any artist mood and atmosphere are important. Walking in the rain is a favorite device used by some artists to provide the proper feeling for creative effort. Some actresses get the proper lift by acquiring a new hat. Taking a cottage on the sand dunes seems to help others. A pair of dark glasses does the trick for Rudy Vallee.

The singers and actors who appear each Saturday in W-G-N's Theater of the Air operettas have a special device, too. They simply eat their way into the desired mood. Before each broadcast they gather in a restaurant that suggests the locale of the particular operetta they are to present.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, is the host at these Saturday night "atmosphere" dinners. He invites not only the song and drama stars, but sometimes musicians and technicians as well.

Many Locales Discovered.

In the months the operettas have been on the air Austrian, old English, German, Hungarian, Mexican, Irish, and far northern locales have been discovered for the Saturday repasts.

For the operetta "Robin Hood," Bacher took his crew to St. Hubert's grill where an excellent old English atmosphere was developed over a roast beef and Yorkshire pudding.

A Costa Rican coffee shop served the purpose for the warm Mexican locale of "Rio Rita." For this production the noted Mexican singer, José Mojica, was a guest. The rollicking bierstube mood of "The Student Prince" was found in the Golden Ox restaurant.

Finding an Oasis.

No trouble was experienced in locating Hungarian, Irish, or Austrian restaurants, but the "Desert Song" presented an insurmountable problem. There are plenty of oases in Chicago, but none of the Sahara desert type Bacher had in mind.

"Rose Marie" also presented a problem—at first. The cast searched unsuccessfully for a French-Canadian restaurant. Wes Summerfield, singer in the augmented chorus, rescued the party.

"I've been all thru the Canadian Northwest," he said. "There was a Chinese restaurant on every corner."

So a chop suey house down the street was chosen to provide the mood of lumberjacks and big snows.

"Cyrano" Next Saturday.

A French restaurant, presumably, would be in order next. "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be presented from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday with Marion Claire and Conrad Thibault singing the leading rôles. Thibault helped Miss Claire inaugurate the season with the presentation of "The Vagabond King." Later he was featured with Miss Claire in "Rio Rita" and "The New Moon."

Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company, will lead the W-G-N Concert orchestra and augmented chorus in providing the musical background.

The text for "Cyrano de Bergerac" was written by William J. Henderson. Walter Damrosch wrote the music. It is adapted from the original play by Edmond Rostand. "Cyrano de Bergerac" was first presented at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York on Feb. 27, 1913.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Jan. 13.

Increase the supply of shrubs by taking the whips or vigorous growths of many kinds, cut them into lengths of from six to eight inches and bury in sand or well drained place and line out in the garden in spring. Currants and grapes root readily by this method. Lilacs are difficult to root from cuttings, but by using root-stimulants many will respond.

Cuttings from green wood made in June and placed in sand in a cold frame also may be made. By taking each cutting with a heel or with the base or bottom of the cutting attached, rooting will result more readily. A box covered with glass will suffice for a few cuttings. Shade with muslin to prevent rapid evaporation.

Tuesday, Jan. 14.

You can't make a telephone pole sprout roots and grow, but you can hide it by planting a Lombardy tree next to it. The Lombardy grows upward in a tall, slender manner and will grow sufficiently high to cover the pole's stark appearance.

Vines also can be planted at the base of the pole and trained to cover.

Wednesday, Jan. 15.

A common fault is selecting tall plants where dwarf kinds are essential for best results. Beneath a low window low growing plants should be used, such as spiraea bumaldi, Anthony waterer, deutzia gracilis, shrubby cinquefoil, a drouth resisting plant, Indian currant, and St. Johnswort.

Thursday, Jan. 16.

Bring in the potted bulbous plants for flowering in the house. Keep well watered. After flowering keep the soil moist and the plants growing until the leaves turn yellow, indicating the ripening of the bulbs. Save the tulip, hyacinth, and narcissus for outdoor planting in the fall.

Use vines to screen the garage. They may be either annual or hardy. The new morning-glories are excellent; the Japanese hop soon covers the side of the building and selfsows. Both need support.

Friday, Jan. 17.

Do not attempt a hedge at the front unless there is plenty of room, for it restricts the front or public area and is seldom kept in a vigorous growing, pleasing condition. City yards with a front of about 10 feet should not have a hedge along the sidewalk.

The parkway should not be planted with shrubs unless conditions warant their use. Shrubs offer dangerous conditions to children dashing out from them into the street and especially where traffic is heavy.

Saturday, Jan. 18.

Join a garden club or organize a new one. The men will find much that is educational if they become interested in one of the men's garden clubs.

If cut flowers are removed from the vase and kept in a deep container at night and placed in a cool room, they will last much longer. A dry, warm room soon causes them to wither. Keep all flowering plants well watered.

GLENVIEW HOME BLENDS MODERN WITH COLONIAL

Charm and Efficiency Well Combined.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Distinction can certainly be achieved in a small colonial home as well as in a vast home of 20 or 30 rooms. It is found in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Force, 1249 Elm court, Glenview.

This six room dwelling has the solidity and charm so typical of our early colonial houses, yet it is freely adapted to 1941 living. And this home is a good example of skill in blending an old vintage to modern taste.

The architects are Rapp and Rapp, 230 North Michigan avenue. They have designed the sort of house which will put down roots, a colonial type home with first story exterior of Williamsburg toned brick and the second story of ivory siding. The blinds are a dubonnet shade and the garade is serviceably located, serving as a wing and adding interest to the mass of the house.

Has Breakfast Bar.

When you enter the living room you get the immediate impression of light, and of closeness to the out-of-doors. French doors can be thrown open to what will be terraces and gardens next summer, and deep windows on the opposite wall reach almost to the floor. There is an appealing, simple fireplace with marble facing and built-in shelves of graceful design on either side of it.

The kitchen is a charmer. Its walls are cream colored with a delicate red pattern. The woodwork is white, and counter and double drainboard sink surfaces are of gray green mottled linoleum. There's a breakfast bar with white painted shelves for decorative accessories—and useful ones.

Ceramic Tile Bath.

The walls and the carpeting to the second story are the same lovely green as the living room and hall. On this second floor there are three bedrooms—a large master bedroom, a boy's room, and a little girl's room. Here also there is a handsome bathroom with walls of ceramic tile.

PORTRAY STORY OF MODIGLIANI ON W-G-N SHOW

How a cruel art dealer exploited the talents of Anadeo Modigliani, noted Italian painter, will be portrayed on the "Great Artists" program over W-G-N from 4 to 4:15 p. m. Tuesday. For a long time, Modigliani was imprisoned in the cellar of a Paris art broker. Food fit only for animals was the payment he received for painting masterpieces. No painting, no food, was the motto of his jailer.

Innumerable congratulatory letters from the W-G-N audience bear testimony to the fact that this program, presented weekly with the coöperation of the Art Institute of Chicago, is attracting the attention of a steadily increasing following among the art lovers of the Middle West. The listener response has been so great that a new switchboard has been installed at the Art institute to accommodate the complimentary phone calls.

Daniel C. Rich, director of fine arts at the Art insitute, in commening on the program said: "'Great Artists' has already stimulated tremendous interest in art, and is of educational importance to Chicago and the whole country."

The artists depicted on the show—artists who have representative work hanging in the Chicago Art institute—are vividly portrayed by members of the Goodman Memorial theater of Chicago, under the supervision of Dr. Maurice Gnesin and Mary Agnes Doyle. Scripts are written by the Illinois Writers' project. Blair Walliser is in charge of production.

Mutual Network Business Gains 34.3% During 1940

Mutual network officials announced last week that billings for the chain during December, 1940, of $576,983 represented an 81.6 per cent increase over the December, 1939, figure of $317,699. In November, 1940, political business bolstered the rate of increase over the corresponding month of 1939 to 91.9 per cent. The greatest yearly gain in Mutual billings was tabulated in 1940, too. A total of $4,767,054 for the year represented a 34.3 per cent increase over the gross for 1939, which was $3,329,782.

GEORGE FISHER GOT INTO RADIO REPORTING ALMOST BY ACCIDENT

Experience in several occupations as well as with film people from struggling extras to stars is the background that has added up to radio success for George Fisher, versatile conductor of the "Hollywood Whispers" program. Fisher is heard with his intimate glimpses into the film colony from 11:30 to 11:45 a. m. each Tuesday and Thursday over W-G-N and Mutual. Fisher has worked as theater doorman, fruit and vegetable salesman, truck driver, publicity man, and auto part peddler in his turbulent career. He worked at all these jobs before he ever saw a movie star or the inside of a radio station.

George Fisher.

Fisher got into radio almost by accident. A radio executive was impressed by Fisher's voice over the phone, advised him to try out as an announcer; a few days later Fisher was staff announcer on a local Los Angeles station. There he started a "Studio Whispers" program which reported news about the stars.

When Fisher moved to KHJ, Mutual's Los Angeles station, he took his idea with him and called it "Hollywood Whispers."

THE NEW GARDEN SENSATION
Azaleamum TRADE MARK
600 BLOOMS FIRST YEAR
1500 SECOND YEAR—VERY HARDY
KELLOGG'S SENSATIONAL FLOWER GARDEN NOVELTY!

SENSATIONAL new flower novelty, Azaleamum is world's greatest flowering plant! Six vivid new colors, gives an entire garden in itself, with breath-taking beauty for 3 solid months! First year grows bushel-basket size, produces hundreds of big, rich blooms—a gorgeous color spectacle! Sheehan, N.H., says: "Exceptionally large, 8 feet around." Bernard, Ill.: "You say 600 flowers. I'll bet there are 1000 on single plant!" Wood, Mich., counted 2,928 blooms on a first-year plant!

A GARDEN IN ITSELF!

Just imagine each plant covered with these great, rich blooms each year. All Azaleamum type plants are hardy perennials, blossom each year right up until frost. 6 VIVID COLORS! Bronze Beauty, in gleaming bronze shades; Cameo Queen Pink, opens deep orchid, variant centers; Two rich Golden Yellows; Magic White, one of the best flowers we ever saw; and Santa Claus, somewhat larger size blooms and startling deep red. A color feast for any garden. Write today for special low prices—get catalog at once!

SOUTH CHICAGO CENTER TO OPEN RENOVATED HOME

Cost of Alterations Totals $10,000.

BY PAUL HEALY.

Hundreds of friends of South Chicago Community center, 9135 Brandon avenue, have been invited to an open house today for the opening of the remodeled building. The renovation, which cost $10,000, included redesigning the entire quarters, in order to give the facilities more latitude.

Under the revised building plan the center is expected to serve more than the 1,200 individuals who participated in the program last year, according to Bert Boerner, director. The program also will be more varied.

The big, red building, which formerly housed Bird Memorial church, now boasts a suite of executive offices, a gymnasium 80 feet by 45 feet, a large social room for discussion groups, a reception room, a dark room for the photography club, an art and clay modeling room, a craft shop, a domestic science room, two large activities rooms, kindergarten, and nursery school rooms, primary grade pupils room, and an adjoining play yard.

Is Open to All.

The center is supported by the Congregational union, the Community fund, business and industrial groups, and the welfare departments of 32 clubs of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. The program is open to all races, all creeds, all nationalities, and all age groups. Representatives of 25 nationalities are enrolled, says Mr. Boerner.

The renovation was made after a staff member of the Council of Social agencies had made a study of the program in 1939, at the center's request. Mr. Boerner took charge of the settlement house in September, 1939, and the rehabilitation began last October.

One of the phases of the work Mr. Boerner expects to strengthen this year is the children's department. This includes a nursery class for children between 2½ and 4 years old, a kindergarten group for 4 and 5 year olds, and a primary grade group for boys and girls up to 8 years old. The latter unit provides daily lunch for the children and recreation after school hours.

Tips for Mothers.

In the children's classes the mothers take turns assisting the cooks and thus learn how to arrange proper children's diets.

Mr. Boerner also is planning to conduct a department of dramatics. Currently the center is teaching the art of puppetry. The boys and girls dig the clay out of the Calumet river, make their own puppets in class, and write their own puppet dramas. A stage for puppetry is under construction.

One of the most popular departments is the craft class in which adolescents and adults fashion useful articles.

Also, Mr. Boerner says, there is an excellent response to the painting classes, possibly since many of the nationalities have a natural "feel" for color. Last summer, he pointed out, 34 boys and girls contributed to the renovation program by painting huge, brightly colored pictures on the fences of the play lots in the rear of the building.

Mr. Boerner's staff consists of Miss Mary Louise Gariby, secretary; Miss Olga Giachetti, receptionist; Miss Margaret Schmidt, club director; Roger Middleswart, director of arts and crafts; Miss Edna Rapp, children's department supervisor; Paul Nichols, gym teacher; Louis Poppe, assistant crafts leader, and WYA, WPA, and individual volunteer workers.

Choirs in Musical Comedy

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

A PAIR of 3B students at Hirsch High school have decided to help their needy fellows with a Student Aid organization. They are Geraldine Besner, 7914 Champlain avenue, and Bob Hawkinson, 8248 Maryland avenue, who noticed that many classmates were poorly clothed for Chicago's winter climate and decided to do something about it. Hirsch students or adults who have clothes they would like to give away are urged to bring them to room 215 in the school or call Radcliff 6790 and the bundle will be picked up. Geraldine and Bob report there is a great need for boys' shoes and trousers to be distributed. The Student Aid has received much assistance from Mrs. Daniel Foreman, of the Grand Crossing Community Aid center. School sponsors of the project are Mrs. Caroline Perry and Mrs. Alice Jackson, faculty members.

LECTURE SERIES IS PRESENTED AS AID TO DEFENSE

U. of C. Talks to Cover 5 Months' Period.

The University of Chicago will offer five public lecture series on democracy during the next five months under the Charles R. Walgreen Foundation for the Study of American Institutions. It also has been announced that 19 of the university's graduate students have formed an auxiliary speaker's bureau.

The lecture series will cover "Basic Documents of Our Republic," "Democratic Government and National Unity," "Democracy in American Life," "The United States and Civilization" and "The Functions and Responsibilities of Education in a Democracy."

Are Aid to Defense.

The first of the series, all of which are designed to contribute to the defense program, is the one on "Basic Documents," which began last week and will continue every Tuesday in the Social Sciences Research building. William T. Hutchinson, associate professor of American history and secretary of the Charles R. Walgreen Foundation, will lead the discussions. The series will consider the state papers of Presidents Lincoln, Cleveland, Theodore and Franklin Roosevelt, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover.

Six speakers will present aspects of "Democratic Government and National Unity" in Mandel hall, starting on Jan. 29 at 8:30 o'clock and continuing thru the spring quarter. They are Thomas R. Powell, story professor of law of Harvard university; Henry F. Pringle, Pulitzer prize winner for biography and associated with the Columbia University School of Journalism; Herbert Agar, editor of Louisville, Ky., newspapers; Chris L. Christenson, dean of the school of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin; Harold G. Moulton, president of Brookings institution, Washington, D. C., and Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Prof. Powell to Talk.

Prof. Powell will deliver the first lecture, talking on "Conscience and the Constitution." Four weekly lectures on "Democracy in American Life" will be given by Avery G. Craven, professor of American history, at 4:30 o'clock on Thursdays, starting Feb. 6.

During the spring quarter John U. Nef, professor of economic history, will deliver eight addresses on "The United States and Civilization," starting April 2. "The Functions and Responsibilities of Education in a Democracy" also will be outlined by members of the department of education in eight lectures starting April 3.

RELIGIOUS WORK MEETING IS DUE THIS AFTERNOON

The annual "Fellowship of Faiths" program will bring a Jew, a Catholic, and a Protestant to the platform at the Wabash Avenue Y. M. C. A. at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon under the sponsorship of the religious work committee, headed by Edward M. Graham.

Speakers will be Rabbi Harry Essig of the Hillel Foundation; Dr. Louis Tordella, professor at Loyola university, and the Rev. A. Wayman Ward, pastor of the Greater Bethel A. M. E. church.

Beverly Glenadiers Band Gives Concert Wednesday

The Beverly Glenadiers, a hormonica band made up of business men in the community, will give a concert at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the fieldhouse at 1518 West 102d place. Harry K. Meech, 9001 Loomis boulevard, is band director. There will be a square dancing exhibition and a rhythm band performance, also.

CADETS FROM 13 SCHOOLS AWAIT HONOR MEDALS

237 Awards to Be Given This Week.

In recognition of their outstanding military work, cadets in the R. O. T. C. units of 13 Chicago public high schools will receive a total of 237 medals and awards this week. Of these awards, 91 are medals donated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Others are bestowed by R. O. T. C. headquarters and patriotic and civic organizations.

The awards will be given in a series of special school assemblies thruout the city beginning on Tuesday. The custom of giving Tribune medals was started in 1935 and has been continued each year. Aside from the high schools of Chicago, the Tribune sends medals to 45 universities, military academies and high schools outside of the Chicago area.

The schools where awards are being made this week are: Austin, Bowen, Crane, Fenger, Harrison, Hirsch, Kelly, Morgan Park, Schurz, Senn, Tilden, Von Steuben, and Waller.

9,800 Now Enrolled.

The active interest of the Tribune in R. O. T. C. training had its beginning in 1917 when, thru Col. Robert R. McCormick, its editor and publisher, it was instrumental in establishing the first units in the city. Since that time the units have enjoyed a steady growth, and this year reached an enrollment of approximately 9,800 cadets.

Cadets who receive the awards are selected by the military instructors after a series of tests to determine the cadet's military ability and his qualities as a leader. Cadets in 27 public high schools and one Catholic high school are given Tribune medals twice each year on a basis of one for every 50 cadets.

Schurz High School.

Nine cadets of the Schurz High school R. O. T. C. unit will receive Tribune medals on Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Those receiving the medals are Lieut. Henry Berry, Lieut. Henry Warchalowski, Sergt. Leonard Ringquist, Sergt. Robert Grant, Corp. Starr Jenkins, Corp. Otto Podlaha, Private Ted Radamaker, Private Edward Fensholt, and Cadet John Janous.

Others to receive awards include Master Sergt. Walter Kappas, noncommissioned officers efficiency; Lieut. Clifford May, officers' efficiency; Lieut. Robert Wagner, band efficiency; Lieut. Lester Goodheart, recruiting; Sergt. Don Anderson, and Privates Nicholas Dohrn, Arthur Lindstrom, Richard Krelling, and Jack Cullen, neatest cadets.

Medals will be presented at the Von Steuben High school Tuesday morning at 9:30. The winners will be Second Lieutenant George Moeller, Sergt. Elliot Rubin, Staff Sergeant Leonard Fript, and Privates Howard Erickson, Ray Soderstrom, and Lawrence Goodwick.

Other presentations will include First Lieutenant Walter Anderson, officers' efficiency; Master Sergeant Robert Busch, noncommissioned officers' efficiency; Privates William Nerving and Edward Wilander, neatest cadets; Second Lieutenant Sidney Meizel, recruiting, and Second Lieutenant Jack Prosky, rifle marksmanship.

Win Legion Awards.

Winners of American Legion awards are Second Lieutenant Melvin Gordon, First Sergeant Ned Mitchell, and Private LeRoy Hagen. Other winners are Second Lieutenant William Johnson, Reserve Officers association; Master Sergeant Robert Busch, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Maj. Robert Hafferkamp, American Legion auxiliary.

In a special assembly last week five cadets of the Roosevelt High school unit were honored with Tribune medals. Those receiving the medals were, Capt. Bernard Schneider, First Lieutenant Jerome Loeb, Sergt. Paul Goldstein, Cadet Earl Schultz, and Cadet Raymond Friedlander.

Receiving awards from other organizations were Maj. Donald Fox, officers efficiency; Corp. Seymour Applebiood, noncommissioned officers efficiency; Sergt. Jerome Fallert, band efficiency; Corp. Alvin Cohen and Corp. Marvin Graber, neatest cadets; First Sergt. Marvin Homer, marksmanship; Cadet Albert Rudman, recruiting; Capt. Edwin Curtis, duplicate medal bar; First Sergt. Herman Fire, D. A. R.; Second Lieutenant Jack Hollander, Reserve Officers association; Capt. Albert Rubin, Capt. Forrest Erickson, and Corp. Melvin Lewis, Albany Park post, American Legion.

Waller High School.

Cadets of Waller High school will receive their TRIBUNE awards at a special school assembly on Tuesday afternoon at 1:55 o'clock. Receiving the medals are Private Joseph Schreeder, Private Henry Roepkin, Private John Feratto, Corp. Jay Jones, and Corp. Donald Kinkaid.

Others to receive awards at the same time are, Private Bernard Miller, neatest cadet; Maj. William P. Cloppas, officers efficiency; Capt. Joseph Lazzara, Lincoln Park Post American Legion; First Lieut. Louis Sianis, Reserve officers association; Capt. Thomas Farina, D. A. R.; Corp. Paul Augustine, recruiting; First Sergt. Russel Swarthout, noncommissioned officers efficiency.

Flower Girls and Ushers at Norwegian Benefit

When Kirsten Flagstad, noted Norwegian soprano, sings at the Civic Opera house Friday evening for the benefit of Norwegian relief, these members of the Norwegian dance ring, known as the "Leikaring" dancers, will be on hand to act as flower girls and ushers. From the left, reading closewise, they are Olaf Berg, 4303 Potomac street; Marian Moe, 3039 North Le Claire avenue; Lillian and Harold Thorsen, 5152 Fulton street; Evelyn Anderson, 6855 Oriole avenue; Siguard Evenson, 6000 Canfield street; Oscar Jensen, 2537 Shakespeare avenue, and Mary Rodland, 3076 Elston avenue. Norwegian societies and groups thruout the city are co-operating for the success of the performance. Mrs. Lillian Swanson, 4610 Shakespeare avenue, is president of the Federation of Norwegian Women's societies which is handling ticket sales among its member groups.

January Fills Calendar for Kvech Family

It was not a special New Year event, but only a coincidence which gave Frank J. Kvech his official retirement from the Chicago fire department on the first day of 1941. For that was the date on which he reached his 63d year, and it marked the end of 33 years of fire fighting service.

Altho Mr. Kvech has answered many a call behind the heels of racing horses, and has seen the gradual installation of motorized fire fighting equipment, he is prouder of one fact in his career than of anything else. During all those 33 years, he was never once late to work; he was never reprimanded. "My card is clear," is his simple summary of this record.

Went to Engine 3.

Back in 1907 Mr. Kvech was in the laundry business when a friend interested him in taking the examination to enter the fire department. Examination passed, the ex-laundryman was called on Halloween night and reported for work at 6 o'clock on Engine 3 at Erie street and Milwaukee avenue.

Those were the days of badly paved streets, mud, deep snow drifts, and one horse wagons. "When we were on watch and got sleepy," Fireman Kvech recalls, "we would go down and open the stall doors. Those horses would practically talk to you. They knew when they were going to be called for a fire, too.

"But the poor animals used to suffer in those days," he added sympathetically. "In the heat of midsummer they'd have to run until they dropped and a new horse was added. It was the same with the men—'fatigue is no excuse,' you know. Sometimes we'd come in from 20 below zero weather, after wading knee deep in water, but we'd have to rub those sweating horses dry before we got dry ourselves."

Motor Power Comes In.

Gradually horses gave way to motor power. The first motor vehicle on which Mr. Kvech worked was Engine 91, in about 1921. During his long period of service he has fought fires in the north, northwest, and southwest sections of the city.

Some of the famous blazes which saw him working valiantly with other firemen were the stock yards fire of 1910, the last stock yards fire a few years ago, and the big elevator fires on 16th street.

Hearty and happy looking, Mr. Kvech thinks maybe he could fight fires just as well today as he ever did. He has not worked, however, since February of 1940, when he was so injured at a fire that he could not return to his strenuous tasks. So he anticipates enjoying his retirement with as much zest as he has always found in a life of work.

Will Live in Florida.

He and his wife plan to sell the home which they have owned at 5243 Warner avenue for the last 20 years, and probably will go to live in Florida, now that the children are no longer at home. They have two boys, neither of whom aspired to be a fireman. Robert, the older, is a chemist; Elmer, the younger, is doing office work, while their daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Mitz, is busy with her family. The senior Kvechs often enjoy the company of their five grandchildren, too. The oldest celebrated her 18th birthday last Sunday.

January, in fact, is quite a month of anniversaries for the Kvechs. There is Mr. Kvech's birthday and this year, of course, his retirement. Two of the grandchildren have birthdays in January, and so does a daughter-in-law. On Jan. 21, the elder couple will celebrate their 41st wedding anniversary. "Everything," sighs Mrs. Kvech, "happens in January. But we do enjoy it."

RECTOR OF PRINCETON CHURCH TO ADDRESS SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Princeton, N. J., will make his first appearance before the audience of the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall. His topic will be "Can God now Communicate with Men?" Clifford W. Barnes will preside at the meeting and the Scripture will be read by Hermon D. Smith.

Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving.

Dr. Kinsolving was a Rhodes scholar from the University of Virginia. After the expiration of his fellowship at Christ Church college he was called as rector of Grace church, Amherst, Mass., which he served for six years, proceeding thence to Trinity cathedral, Boston, Mass., renowned for the ministry of Bishop Phillips Brooks. He went to Princeton last year where he combines his parochial duty with pastoral ministration to the university students.

The Northwestern Lutheran male chorus of 75 voices recruited from Lutheran churches in the northwest area, directed by Edward Nelson, will sing at the 7 o'clock meeting.

Hopes to Find Car That Runs on Gunpowder

BY JOHN T. McCUTCHEON JR.

Roy Monsen's collection of early automobiles is already noteworthy, but as yet he has not attained his ambition to rumble into a filling station and call out "Wind up my spring," or "Fill up my powder barrel—a little more saltpeter this time."

In a private garage near his home at 1404 North Leamington avenue, Monsen has 15 well polished relics of the nineties, some of which have stood in old barns for as long as 35 years, and have cost as much as $1,000 each to recondition.

Until three years ago Monsen conducted an automobile business which his father founded, and it was thru this that he became interested in antique vehicles.

Most Went for Junk.

"During the first world war," he said, "prices for metal went so high that it was profitable to junk most old cars, which all but wiped them out. I began my collection in 1920 in the hope of preserving what I could for their historical value, as well as for my own interest.

"Most of the cars I have collected have been in fairly good condition, a few even as good as new because their owners had been afraid to drive them. Some were in terrible condition and required months of labor to repair."

In order to repair some of the cars it was necessary to read up on them in the Chicago Public library, Monsen said. His collection consists of gasoline, steam, and electric cars, and on the side he has bicycles and a carriage that is said to have come originally from England, where it had been built for the royal family in 1805, and that was used by Canadian officials until four years ago.

Tires Hard to Get.

"There have also been vehicles made to run by springs, gunpowder, and other means, but as yet I have been unable to obtain any," he said. "It is bad enough as it is, however, for if I blow out a tire it often is necessary to try several cities before I can replace it. Recently I had to get four tires for a car. One came from Minneapolis, two from Milwaukee, and one from Chicago."

The oldest horseless carriage in his collection is a tally-ho made in Chicago in 1894 at a cost of about $15,000.

The first car he purchased was a 1903 one-cylinder Brush, which he found in a farm yard in Star City, Ind., and in 1937 took to London. When the car all but blew up at Picadilly Circus a London bobby called it a "smelly old thing" and ordered him to keep it off the road, adding that it made too much noise anyway. He was unable to get it back to this country before the war, however, and it remains in England.

Search Carries Him Far.

Monsen's hobby has taken him to many parts of the United States, as well as abroad. Once he followed a tip to Fargo, N. D., where he had to shovel away a foot of dirt and cut down a tree before he could open the door of an old barn. Inside was a rope driven, two-cylinder Holseman which had been built in 1902.

"When a friend of mine sold a lumber yard on West Lake street several years ago," Monsen related, "the new owner decided to inspect some piles of old lumber. Underneath one he found a 1906 model N Ford, which the previous owner had never known was there."

On the other hand some relics were prized highly by their previous owners. A 1900 Baker electric which he found in River Forest was treated as well as a piece of furniture, being dusted off every morning by the maid.

ELECT MARTIN FUNK TO BE PRESIDENT OF BUSINESS MEN'S UNIT

Martin J. Funk, 5910 West Byron street, was elected president of the Irving Park-Crawford Business Men's association for 1941 at a meeting last week. He was secretary during the last year, and replaces Herbert A. Kuhn as president. Kuhn will become sergeant at arms.

Martin J. Funk. [Jaenel Photo.]

Other officers will be Dr. Maitland V. Shaver, vice president; Dr. Louis E. Schaeffer, treasurer, and Alice Schroeder, secretary.

The Progressive Community club, a newly formed northwest side civic organization, has elected Elmer G. Levine, 2830 North Kilpatrick avenue, as its president for 1941. Levine is prominent in American Legion affairs and has been a resident of the neighborhood bounded by Cicero, Belmont, Knox, and Diversey avenues, which the club embraces, for more than 20 years.

Carl H. Wilkens was elected vice president, Mrs. Margaret Hofmann secretary, Andrew O. Borgerson treasurer, and Robert Olker sergeant at arms.

Publicity Can Bring Worries to Tall Girls

"O, dear," sighed Miss Jewel Wolkenhauer, founder and president of the new Tall Girls club, last week. "Business is too good. We have already signed up for a club room holding 60 people for our meeting Jan. 28, and we have 73 applicants for membership, besides our six charter members."

When Miss Wolkenhauer, who lives at 3630 North New England avenue, organized five tall friends into the Tall Girls' club last month, they hoped eventually to have 40 or 50 members, girls who were at least 5 feet 7 inches tall [without high heels or stilts], and who didn't like being surrounded by shorter people.

Word Spreads Quickly.

But she had unwittingly hit on a long needed idea, because word spread quickly, and before she knew it the present dilemma was upon her.

"We cannot raise the qualification height," she lamented, "because two officers and charter members of the club are not much more than 5 feet 7. Any proposal like that wouldn't have a chance."

Letters have come in from office workers, nurses, and teachers, some as old as 30, altho the age limits were 18 to 24 years. "This is just what we've been waiting for," they all said.

Business at New High.

"Yes, business has reached a new high," said another officer of the club as she pointed to the application of a girl measuring 6 feet 2½ inches in stocking feet.

Miss Wolkenhauer explained that the Jan. 28 meeting would be held, as planned, in the Women's Community clubhouse in Independence park, but that larger quarters would be obtained thereafter.

St. Elizabeth's Hospital Auxiliary to Give Party

A card party will be sponsored by the woman's auxiliary of St. Elizabeth's hospital at 8 o'clock this evening in the auditorium at 1430 North Oakley boulevard. Mrs. Frank Deppe, 514 Aldine avenue; Mrs. Bernard Schlosser, 1907 North Halsted street, and Mrs. Anna Reis, 2937 Estes avenue will act as hostesses.

Order of Job's Daughters Council Will Have Dance

The Grand Council of Illinois of the Order of Job's Daughters will hold its annual card party and dance in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel on Feb. 21. Mrs. Robert Winslow, associate grand guardian, is general chairman of the dance.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

WHEN the Sabers Athletic club holds its first big dancing party at the St. Stanislaus B. and M. ballroom, 2318 North Lorel avenue, this evening, Ted Matus, who resides at 5343 Drummond place, will welcome members and guests. An active member of the club, he is chairman of the dance, in charge of all arrangements.

Ted Matus.

He's "Big Chief" Brems now. Frederick Brems, 2210 North Lamon avenue, was elected chief of the Owasippe lodge of the Order of the Arrow, national fraternity for honor Boy Scout campers, at an annual dinner reunion held recently. The fraternity is Indian in origin and operates as a service organization, taking an active part in community affairs. Mr. Brems has worked his way up thru the ranks of Scouting, joining the movement as a tenderfoot in 1932, and steadily advancing to the highest positions. At present he is assistant scoutmaster of troop 150, sponsored by the Holy Name society of St. Genevieve's Roman Catholic church, 4830 Montana avenue.

MR. AND MRS. AUGUST WALLIN observed an important occasion last Tuesday, the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The couple, who live at 2854 North Western avenue, have three children, Charles and Elmer Wallin, and Mrs. Ella Claussen, and twin granddaughters, La Vergne and Gladys Claussen. Mr. and Mrs. Wallin have been residents of this neighborhood for 40 years.

They haven't written the great American novel yet, but Marian Walsh, 2517 North Bernard street, and Bette Mae Mullins, 4313 North Tripp avenue, were both recently elected to membership in the Writers' club at Rosary college in River Forest. Miss Walsh was received into the club as a critic, which entitles her to attend meetings and criticize the creative work presented; Miss Mullins is a full member, from whom original compositions in poetry and prose will be demanded.

THE military aeronautical rating of "pilot," a pair of "wings" and a commission in the United States Air corps reserve as second lieutenant are the things to which flying cadet John E. Frizen, son of Carl J. Frizen, 5003 Berwyn avenue, can look forward when he is graduated from the Air Corps Advanced Flying school at Maxwell field, Alabama, at the end of this month. The young pilot also will be ordered to extended active training with a tactical unit of the army air corps.

LADIES AID UNIT PLANS TO GREET OFFICIAL STAFF

When Albany Park unit of the American Ladies Aid society holds its installation of officers on Wednesday afternoon in the Albany Park Masonic temple, 4660 North Kedzie avenue, Mrs. Cecil Bernberg, 4824 North Drake avenue, will assume the presidency for the fourth consecutive year. Entertainment and refreshments will follow the ceremonies. Other officers who will take up their duties Wednesday are Mrs. Harry Feldman, Mrs. Sam Berman, and Mrs. William Melnek, vice presidents; Mrs. Joseph Esrig, financial secretary; Mrs. Louis Karlin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jack Perlman, recording secretary, and Mrs. Norman Berk, treasurer.

Mrs. Cecil Bernberg.

Other leaders and standing committee heads who will be introduced include: Relief committee, Mrs. Abe Albert, Mrs. Hyman Tarrell; dining room, Mrs. Sam Mandlebaum, Mrs. Harry Bobb; trustees, Mrs. Sara Dakoff, Mrs. Michael Scher, Mrs. Harry Jacobson, Mrs. Sam Schneider, Mrs. Joseph Hoffman, Mrs. Jacob Korn; honorary past president, Mrs. Samuel H. Brezin, and organizer, Mrs. Jacob Korn.

R. O. T. C. CADETS TO RECEIVE NEW SHOOTING COATS

A shipment of 110 new shooting coats has been received by R. O. T. C. units in the city, it was announced by Col. William F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics for the schools. The new coats are of cloth with protective leather pads at the shoulders and elbows, and are designed for use by the students on the rifle range. The coats not only protect the shooter from grease and dirt, but they also serve as shock absorbers during firing.

Club to Dance.

Unique Social club of St. Hyacinth's parish will hold its 16th annual barn dance Jan. 25 at the Lions ballroom, 4310 W. North avenue.

271 VOLUNTEERS AMONG INITIAL ARMY TRAINEES

Next Call Is Delayed to Thursday.

A total of 575 draftees from Cook county were inducted into the army for a year of military training during the first four days of the January period, it was announced yesterday by Chicago selective service officials. Of this group 271 were volunteers who elected to start their year's service before their order number is called by their local draft boards.

Ninety-seven of the draftees accepted at the Chicago induction center in the 122d Field Artillery armory, 234 East Chicago avenue, during the four days were sent to the army reception center at Fort Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich. The remaining 478 conscripts were sent to Fort Sheridan.

720 Are Examined.

To select the 575 men who were inducted, army medical specialists and psychiatrists examined 720 prospects, rejecting 145. The main causes of rejection were: teeth, 42 men; mental and nervous conditions, 17; vision, 15; hearing, 14, and alcoholism, 12.

The January inductions, which began on Jan. 3, were ordered discontinued from Jan. 9 to Jan. 16, next Thursday, because of a delay in the construction of the camps in which the draftees will train.

In the list of men inducted for training the letter V signifies a volunteer.

DEMOCRATIC TOWN WARMING.

Your editorial on "Democracy in a Queer Setting," which appeared in the Jan. 3 issue, is most interesting and it opens up a vital problem in the needed revival of democracy.

There is indeed great danger that a town warming or town meeting movement centralized in New York City, in the same office building in which a theatrical monopoly, a musical monopoly, a radio monopoly, and other monopolies are housed, and promoted from this central point to spread over the entire nation—can become the tool of special interests for selfish purposes under the cloak of American democracy.

A regeneration of democracy, as our forefathers in this nation knew it, cannot come, I fear, thru the American Forum of Democracy, unless the citizens in every community are behind it and aware of dangers of monopolies at the central point.

Democracy must be revived, must be vitalized by the people of each community taking the initiative. It can be done; and it has been done in the Barrington community.

Late in 1938 the various Barrington civic, social, and other organizations organized a Barrington town warming committee for the purpose of setting up a town meeting program. The committee engaged 14 nationally known speakers who presented on 14 successive evenings in January, 1939, vital issues in the life of our democracy. A second Barrington town warming program was arranged for January, 1940, with 10 speakers to present the issues and entertain questions from the audience. Speakers at these two town meetings included Boake Carter, David Seabury, Norman Thomas, John B. Kennedy, Arthur H. Compton.

For the 1941 Barrington town warming program, to be held from Jan. 26 to Feb. 7 inclusive, with no meeting on Feb. 1, 12 speakers have been engaged including Representative Martin Dies, Raymond Moley, Father E. J. Flanagan.

The significant feature of the Barrington town warming movement is the fact that it is a local enterprise, that no admission charges are made, that the expenses of the entire program are met by donations of members of the community, that no reserved seats are held—the man on relief enjoying the same privilege as the man with a million dollars. Here is democracy working in its prime—and it can be done in every community in the United States. JOHN H. D. BLANKE.

LAUDS FOREST PRESERVE.

I write you this note in the hope that if it is published others may be able to enjoy the grand country atmosphere which can be had so near the city, thanks to the forest preserve districts. The city is no longer an area where people are condemned to spend their lives breathing smoke and playing on concrete pavements.

Last week-end my family and I went by street car and bus to the Des Plaines river, where we spent four hours walking along its banks without a sign of brick, concrete, or smoke. The weather was clear and crisp, and the snow on the ground had not turned black and slushy, as it does in the city.

When I got home I looked at a map and was surprised to see how much forest preserve area there is on the very outskirts of the city. From now on you will find me out there every week-end the weather is good. S. V. P.

WHEN WILL SUBWAY OPEN?

What is the situation with regard to our subway? I hear widely differing stories as to when it will be open, and no one seems to know just how it will affect us when it is open, for I live in Albany park and have always taken the elevated down.

Now some people tell me the elevated is going to be discontinued south of Division and I am wondering just what I'll have to do.

Some times my wife picks me up in our car at the office, and every time she is late she blames it on the subway construction going on on the near northwest side. That is another reason why I think about it a good deal. C. F. S.

Off the Trail

with HAROLD SMITH

Thirty-one of the 51 live-wire members of the Schurz Saddle and Spurs club turned out for the inaugural ride of 1941 in Lincoln park last Sunday. For the writer, flanked by the new president, Vito Balducci, and Ride Leader Fred Dudek, it was the first experience on the park bridle path. In spite of subfreezing temperatures and a raw wind, the jaunt was actually comfortable, thanks to full sunshine and well chosen clothing. The Schurz bunch rides every Sunday morning from Bernie Christensen's academy on Clark street.

Miss Agatha Peckham, 6831 Thorndale avenue, a regular week-end rider, and her brother, Joseph Peckham, Texas rancher, were among those who rode the northern Des Plaines river trail from the Valley Green stables during the holidays.

Called up for military service, William Skedd, 7721 South Hermitage avenue, a regular all-season rider at Jim Doyle's Four Seasons stable on River road, will say good-by to his horse, War Scribbler, some day this month, and don army khaki for a year.

Clarence B. [Billy the Kid] Daczewitz, bandsman and member of the Knights of the Trail riding club at the River road stables, who recently took time off to be married, is back in circulation again with his bride, the former Miss Florence Taylor.

It takes more than cold to immobilize the Elston Saddle club, 25 of whose members reported at the Elston stables for last Sunday's breakfast ride.

Jack Daly and W. E. [Candy] Hammer have become partners in a riding academy on Higgins road at East River road to be known as the Rodeo ranch. They plan to have about 50 head, and to teach both western and park riding.

IT'S NEWS! BIG VIADUCT OPENED AHEAD OF TIME

Mannheim Span Beats Schedule 5 Months.

When a piece of public construction is completed five months before it was scheduled to be completed, that's news. That is what has happened with the new Mannheim road viaduct near Franklin Park, which was not expected to be ready until June. It has been under construction only slightly more than five months.

The opening of the $400,000 half-mile span took place unceremoniously last week when workmen shoved aside a bunch of wooden horses and took down a "road closed" sign. Many motorists probably are still taking the five mile detour because it has not occurred to them that the bridge would be ready now.

Opening Is Sudden.

So sudden was the opening that neither the state highway department, under whose authority the bridge was constructed, nor the Chicago Motor club, whose West Area Council has for years urged the replacing of the old bridge, were able to plan any opening exercises.

The new viaduct which spans 13 tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad, is four lanes wide and 2,457 feet long. It replaces an old steel girder bridge which had two narrow lanes paved with wooden boards, dangerously slippery when wet. About $100,000 of its cost was paid by the railroad and the remainder from this state's allotment of federal grade crossing funds.

Traffic will be carried on two two-lane roadways, each 24 feet wide, divided by a four-foot concrete strip. The curbs are all built with wedges which reflect the light of automobiles and are thereby clearly illuminated.

Only Narrow Spot.

Mannheim road is U. S. route 45, and the Franklin Park viaduct has been the only place in a 45 mile stretch from Half Day, west of Lake Forest, to Spring Forest, opposite about 79th street, which has been less than four lanes wide.

The concrete construction work and paving was done by the Thomas McQueen Construction company of Forest Park. Superintendent of the work was Ernest Sporry, who said that good weather accounted for the fact that such rapid progress was made. The steel was manufactured by the Midland Structural Steel company and put in place by the Midwest Construction and Asphalt company.

HORSEMEN ELECT W. EARL BUTLER NEW PRESIDENT

W. Earl Butler.

W. Earl Butler, Chicago automobile distributor, was elected president of the Town and Country Equestrian association at its annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman last week. He assumed office immediately.

Butler succeeds Herbert J. Lorber, insurance executive, who had headed the organization, the largest of its kind in existence, since it was set up in 1937 to succeed the Chicago Equestrian Association of Illinois. Lorber, who had declined reëlection to a fourth term, remains as a director.

Frank W. Bering, hotel man, was reëlected vice president. John M. FitzGerald, railway supplies man, was chosen secretary and treasurer to succeed A. H. Sus, who also asked to be replaced.

Five new directors were voted in and 13 were reëlected. The new ones are Lorber, Gene Fletcher, N. J. Geib, Gerald Gorman, and G. Keith Line.

Those reëlected were: H. Leslie Atlass, James H. Cartwright, Wayne Dinsmore, Frank J. Fox, John C. Bowers, A. E. Grossmith, James A. Hannah, Albert W. Harris, Orvis T. Henkle Jr., Elmer J. Holdorf, John A. Klein, Harry McNair, Joy Morton II., Edwin Rothschild, Hubert S. Silberman, J. C. Thompson, Col. E. N. Wentworth, Fred L. Workman, and T. L. J. Klapp Jr.

Lorber revealed that the membership has just passed the 1,000 mark for the first time in the history of this or predecessor groups. That makes Town and Country the largest amateur horsemen's organization in the world, he declared.

Hanson Park G.O.P. Women Are to Hold Installation

Mrs. Anna Gergeman will be installed as president of the Hanson Park Woman's Republican club at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the clubrooms at 5639 West Grand avenue. Other newly elected officers include Mrs. Irene Tiberi, vice president; Mrs. Irma Rizzo, secretary; Mrs. Catherine Curwood, financial secretary, and Mrs. Lillian McCool, treasurer. Mrs. Dorothy Pollack was reelected sergeant-at-arms. Three new trustees are Mrs. Josie Rizzo, Mrs. Josephine Hovorka, and Mrs. Chickie Rizzo. Mrs. Ada Thompkins will handle publicity for the club.

Bethany Playmakers Plan to Give Comedy Two Nights

On Wednesday and Thursday nights the Bethany Playmakers will present the three act comedy, "Three Cornered Moon," at the Bethany Presbyterian church, 1847 North Humboldt boulevard. The curtain will rise at 8:30 o'clock. Raymond Binder will direct the drama. Members of the cast include Florence Jonsson, Harold Sheridan, George Robertson, Winifred Hoyt, Roland Friel, Andrew Clyde, James Cameron, Joanna Gelfius, and Margaret Clyde.

In a Speed Monster of 1904

Here is the old gray bonnet with the blue ribbons on it, the duster, the goggles, and, you might say, the chaise. But old dobbin has lost his job to two upstarts called cylinders. Every once in a while Roy Monsen, who collects antique automobiles, likes to bring back old times. He and Miss Lorraine Drew are in a 1904 two cylinder Maxwell. Monsen has more than a dozen well polished relics, all in working order, in a garage near his home at 1404 North Leamington avenue.

MARK 25TH YEAR OF HUNGARIAN CHARITY SOCIETY

Women's Unit to Meet at Dinner Tonight.

Mrs. Carolina Chany.

The Chicago Hungarian Ladies' Charity society will celebrate its 25th anniversary with a banquet tonight at the Midland hotel. The work of this group has been humanitarian; its projects charitable.

The society was organized in 1915 as a nonpolitical, nonsectarian charity organization. Mrs. Carolina Chany, now of Clarendon Hills, one of the charter members, is chairman of tonight's banquet.

250 Members Now.

The founders realized that postwar dislocation of industry was likely to create hardship among many former Hungarians, and they hoped to be able to aid their more unfortunate compatriots as much as possible. At the time of its organization the society consisted of about 25 members. Now the membership totals approximately 250, and distributes about $1,500 yearly to needy families.

This evening's banquet and program of entertainment will thus celebrate the successful maintenance of an ideal of charity thru stormy periods of depression as well as normal times of prosperity. Thousands of immigrants, old people, and needy of all ages have been relieved of trouble thru the society.

Leaders of Society.

Officers of the group will join in the direction of the anniversary celebration. Mrs. Bella Hoffman is president; Mrs. Gizella Szilagyi, vice president; Mrs. Laura Heilbrun, secretary; Mrs. Bertha Krause, financial secretary, and Mrs. Edith Weinberger, treasurer. All but two of the original charter members are still living and most of them still play an active part in the work of the society.

DES PLAINES P. O. EXPECTED TO BE EQUIPPED SOON

The new Des Plaines postoffice, into which the department moved last week, is expected to be equipped with furniture within the next week, according to Postmaster Arthur Larson. The next step will be to landscape the grounds of the one story yellow brick building at Graceland and Ellinwood avenues.

The land upon which the building is built cost $18,000, and the construction amounted to $82,200. Furniture and equipment are expected to cost about $35,000.

The Axel E. Johnson Construction company began work last February, and had originally planned to have the building completed by November.

New Home in West

The former Miss Fern Schelain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Schelain, 4626 North Le Claire avenue, is now Mrs. Frank C. Gross, and is residing in Los Angeles, Cal., where her husband is an engineer with the Lockheed Aircraft corporation.

DRAMA STUDENTS ARE TO PRESENT 'GROWING PAINS'

Steinmetz High school drama students will act the part of adolescents who drive their parents to distraction in their annual production Thursday and Friday nights in the school auditorium, 3030 North Mobile avenue. They will present "Growing Pains."

Miss Margaret Boller is directing the production, and Jacob Ferdman is in charge of the finances of the play, profits from which will go to the general school fund. Those who will have parts in the play are Roy Carlson, Violet Baske, Dorothy Lohff, Anthony La Ferla, and Jeannette Kaines.

Others are Tom Stacey, Robert Buckles, La Verne Zimm, Grace Tveter, Jeanne Carr, Bette Brown, Romolo Rossi, Tom Stratton, Francis Di Canio, Edith Gruhn, Harold Rud, Mary Kapsis, Virginia Blaylock, and Eileen Hartnett.

FIVE SEA SCOUT SHIPS AWARDED HONORS AT BALL

Advances in Rank Also Are Granted.

Five northwest side Sea Scout ships were awarded honors at the seventh annual Northwest squadron inspection and dance, held Friday night at La Follette park fieldhouse, and 38 Scouts were honored for having advanced in rank during 1940.

The awards, results of races and other events, were won by Sea Scout ships Buccaneer, sponsored by John F. Conley post of the American Legion; Smith, sponsored by Kelvyn Park post of the Legion; Ad Post Clipper, sponsored by Ad Post of the Legion; Dolphin, sponsored by North West Lions club, and Half Moon, sponsored by a group of citizens.

Is Guest of Honor.

Chris Christensen, Southwest district Sea Scout commodore, was inspecting officer and guest of honor, and Peter Demetros, 1625 North Kedvale avenue, skipper of the Buccaneer, was chairman of the program committee.

Three Scouts received quartermaster honors, the highest in sea scouting. They are Charles Rosenfelder, 4031 Kamerling avenue; Ed Zdanowicz, 1030 North Paulina street, and Robert Johnson, 2825 North Linder avenue.

Others Are Advanced.

Married 50 Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Zuncker, residents of Logan Square for more than thirty years, recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The occasion was marked by an open house at their home at 2312 North Kedzie boulevard. Mr. Zuncker, 73 years of age, is the founder of the Vette and Zuncker Packing company. His wife is 68 years old.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Jan. 13.

Increase the supply of shrubs by taking the whips or vigorous growths of many kinds, cut them into lengths of from six to eight inches and bury in sand or well drained place and line out in the garden in spring. Currants and grapes root readily by this method. Lilacs are difficult to root from cuttings, but by using root-stimulants many will respond.

Cuttings from green wood made in June and placed in sand in a cold frame also may be made. By taking each cutting with a heel or with the base or bottom of the cutting attached, rooting will result more readily. A box covered with glass will suffice for a few cuttings. Shade with muslin to prevent rapid evaporation.

Tuesday, Jan. 14.

You can't make a telephone pole sprout roots and grow, but you can hide it by planting a Lombardy tree next to it. The Lombardy grows upward in a tall, slender manner and will grow sufficiently high to cover the pole's stark appearance.

Vines also can be planted at the base of the pole and trained to cover. The Engelmann ivy is good and grows rapidly. In shady places, such as the north side of the house, where there is little room for shrubs, plants like the hardy ferns and lily-of-the-valley will do nicely. Poor soil should be removed and good soil hauled in.

Blue clay or heavy, poorly drained soils should be replaced and drainage worked into the underlying strata. The poor growth of plants is usually caused by poor soil conditions or bad selection of material for planting.

Wednesday, Jan. 15.

A common fault is selecting tall plants where dwarf kinds are essential for best results. Beneath a low window low growing plants should be used, such as spiraea bumaldi, Anthony waterer, deutzia gracilis, shrubby cinquefoil, a drouth resisting plant, Indian currant, and St. Johnswort.

The globeflower, with its light green twigs, is excellent when used in front of the redbark dogwood. It can be severely cut back in early spring. Too large shrubs on the small city backyard usually dominate and should be sparingly used.

A tall hedge along the back fence, if properly kept within bounds, offers seclusion and hides the alley. Where there is room tall shrubs like the lilac, when kept restricted, and pruned, will furnish many choice blooms and serve as an effective screen.

Thursday, Jan. 16.

Bring in the potted bulbous plants for flowering in the house. Keep well watered. After flowering keep the soil moist and the plants growing until the leaves turn yellow, indicating the ripening of the bulbs. Save the tulip, hyacinth, and narcissus for outdoor planting in the fall.

Friday, Jan. 17.

Do not attempt a hedge at the front unless there is plenty of room, for it restricts the front or public area and is seldom kept in a vigorous growing, pleasing condition. City yards with a front of about 10 feet should not have a hedge along the sidewalk.

The parkway should not be planted with shrubs unless conditions warant their use. Shrubs offer dangerous conditions to children dashing out from them into the street and especially where traffic is heavy.

Saturday, Jan. 18.

Join a garden club or organize a new one. The men will find much that is educational if they become interested in one of the men's garden clubs.

If cut flowers are removed from the vase and kept in a deep container at night and placed in a cool room, they will last much longer. A dry, warm room soon causes them to wither. Keep all flowering plants well watered.

CITIZEN DUTIES ARE TO OCCUPY WOMEN'S CLUBS

3 Groups Take Theme for Programs.

The responsibilities which accompany the privileges of American citizenship are a popular woman's club topic this week. Two Barrington clubs and one Norwood Park group have built their meeting programs around citizen duties.

Mrs. W. W. Ramsey.

The Barrington League of Women Voters, in conjunction with the Junior Women's club of Barrington, is sponsoring a meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening in the public school, to which all members and friends in the community are invited.

A forum on "The Responsibility of Citizenship" will be conducted by Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, vice president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, and a pioneer suffrage worker. In charge of arrangements are Mrs. George A. Fairweather, president of the Barrington league, and Mrs. Lester L. Higgins and Miss Doris Olson, sponsor and president respectively of the junior club.

Also on Tuesday, the Norwood Park Woman's club will demonstrate to its members the procedure of jury trials, in the Norwood park fieldhouse. The meeting will start with a dessert luncheon at 1 o'clock. Legal experts will assist the women in their mock trial. Ewart Harris of Irving Park will act as prosecuting attorney, Chester Gresher as defense counsel, and Walter L. Wenger of Norwood Park as presiding judge. The jury members will be selected from the audience and examined as to their qualifications.

Albany Park Women.

Karl A. Olson, teacher of English at North Park college and commentator on books, will address the meeting at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow at River Park fieldhouse, 5100 North Francisco avenue. Music will be furnished by Victor Carell, soloist, accompanied by Miss Evelyn White.

Belmont Woman's Club.

Culinary arts day will start at 1 o'clock Wednesday with a dessert luncheon at the Chopin park fieldhouse, Long and Newport avenues. Hostesses will be Mrs. George M. O'Brien, 1923 North Kildare avenue, and Mrs. Clarence Stahl, 3342 North Central avenue. Following the luncheon a food lecture and demonstration will be given by Miss Jean Metcalf, with four family-sized dishes prepared and given away. This program has been arranged by the club program chairman, Mrs. Glen Culberson.

Mrs. Glen Culberson.

Edison Park Women.

A lecture by Hal Corey on "Hawaii, Paradise of the Pacific," will begin at 1 o'clock Tuesday at the Edison Park Methodist church, Oliphant and Pratt avenues. At the fine arts meeting starting at 11 o'clock Miss Aloise Aigner will display pottery while Michael Waskowski, a Russian artist and student at the Art institute, will illustrate how pottery is made.

Hermosa Woman's Club.

The film "Conquering Trouble," and a speaker from the United Charities will be presented at 1:30 o'clock on Friday at Hermosa park fieldhouse, Kilbourn and Belden avenues.

Irving Park Sorosis.

A travelette by Rose Yarger, "Cycling in Europe" will be presented by the program chairman, Mrs. J. A. Robinson, at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Woman's Community house. Miss Fern Hammers will sing contralto solos.

Irving Park Women.

A full week of activities is planned by members beginning with the regular meeting tomorrow noon. At 11 o'clock Earl H. DeLong, associate professor of political science at Northwestern university, will speak on "Merit and Demerit in Illinois." At 1:30 Dr. Irving J. Lee, chairman of the division of the Northwestern university school of speech, will take as his subject "In the Uproar Around Us, How Can We Listen?"

The board of directors will meet at 12:45 o'clock Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Eugene J. Kuntzman, 3726 North Keeler avenue. Members of the public health department will sew for the Red Cross at 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. E. C. Watson, 4036 Eddy street. "How to Paint a Picture" will be discussed by Mrs. J. S. Eastman, chairman of the art department, when the members meet at her home, 3743 North Kostner avenue, for a dessert luncheon at 1 o'clock on Thursday.

Mrs. John H. Naser, chairman of the civil service department, will have charge of the program of the civics department meeting at the home of Mrs. R. S. Browne, 4118 North Kedvale avenue, at 1 o'clock on Friday.

Irving Park Juniors.

The Juniors will meet tomorrow evening at the Women's Community building, Byron and Hamlin avenues, under the leadership of their president, Miss Ruth Juhnke. Lillian B. Lee, a member of the senior club, will review two books for the evening's program.

Kelvyn Park Women.

"Certification and Better Trained Teachers" is the topic which Kermit Eby of the Illinois Education association will discuss at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday when the Kelvyn Park Woman's Civic club meets in Kelvyn park fieldhouse. Mrs. Charles E. Shaw, 7th district chairman, will be guest and Mrs. Frank Helm is in charge of the program. Entertainment will be provided by Kelvyn Park High school students.

Mayfair Woman's Club.

Tomorrow will be international relations day when this club meets at 1:30 o'clock in the Mayfair Community house. John A. Bekker, a native of Crimea and an extensive traveler, will tell his experiences in foreign lands. Miss Selma Fiddal, young pianist, will play. Hostesses for the day are Mrs. Alfred C. Hansen, Mrs. Norman L. Anderson, Mrs. Rockwell K. Bowder, Mrs. John E. Graf, and Mrs. Henning G. Nilsson.

Portage Park Women.

The music and art department will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Peter Tomchek, 6031 Waveland avenue, for a 1 o'clock dessert luncheon on Tuesday. The lives of Ferde Grofe, George Gershwin, and Irving Berlin will be discussed by Mrs. T. P. Quinn, Mrs. Herbert Taylor, and Mrs. Arthur Hood. At the literary department session, which starts at 1 o'clock Friday in the Women's Community bungalow, Hamlin and Byron streets. Mrs. Herbert Taylor will review "Allo-Goodbye," by Zephine Humphrey.

Woodstock Woman's Club.

W. J. Colahan, superintendent of the Woodstock schools, will be the speaker at 2 o'clock tomorrow in the recreation room of the Methodist church. His subject will be "Civic Responsibility for Youth," and he will be introduced by Mrs. Katherine Field, chairman of the public welfare and community service department. Mrs. Irving Kelsey will be the vocal soloist.

Kelvyn Park Holds Annual Ice Skating Meet Saturday

Kelvyn park will hold its annual ice skating meet at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Several hundred boys and girls from the neighborhood are expected to take part in the nine racing events, Park Supervisor Walter Schneider said. There will be two prizes given in each event, ranging from 110 yard races for boys and girls under 11 years of age to an 880 yard race for boys over 17.

Students Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zapka, 3049 North Avers avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeanne, to Leonard Marynowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Marynowski, 5010 Henderson street. The couple are both students at Northwestern university. No wedding date has been set.

Bride in Church Wedding

Miss Mary Ann Fitzgerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Fitzgerald, 5240 Henderson street, became the bride of John A. Portman Jr., recently in St. Bartholomew's church. Mr. Portman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Portman, 5405 North Lotus avenue.

Darwin—A review of the book, "Madame Curie" will be given by Mrs. E. H. Swenson, at 1:30 o'clock on Tuesday.

Edgebrook—Members who have attended meetings of the parent education group will give a panel discussion on the theme, "Building for the world of tomorrow in the home," at the meeting Thursday. Mrs. Alma Foss, of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial fund, will lead the discussion.

Falconer—The homemaking class will exhibit handwork at the meeting opening Tuesday at 1:15 o'clock. Mrs. R. A. Casperson will preside at the business meeting.

Farnsworth—The "Adjustment Program in Chicago Schools" will be the subject of Mrs. Leota Boetticher of the bureau of child labor, at the meeting at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday in the school assembly hall.

Hibbard—The third meeting of the parent education group will hear Mrs. Sora Barth Loeb, president of the Association for Family Living, in the school auditorium at 1:15 o'clock Wednesday. She will talk on "Our Children and How They Grow."

Hitch—Thursday afternoon's meeting will be on the subject of juvenile protection. Miss Jessie M. Binford will be the guest speaker.

Moos—The program of the monthly meeting, to be held at 1:15 o'clock Thursday in the school auditorium, will be built around the subject of "Legislation."

Mozart—"Pursuit of happiness thru community traffic safety" will be the subject on which Ross Deckham of the Chicago Motor club will talk at the 1:30 o'clock meeting Tuesday in the school assembly. A safety film will also be shown, and the Mozart Patrol boys will entertain.

Nixon — Regular meeting at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday, with Mrs. Mabel Simpson, executive secretary of the Citizens Schools committee, as speaker. Lila Lou Olsen, a pupil, will give a dance number. The Nixon group will enjoy a dinner tour thru Chinatown Saturday night, starting at 7 o'clock at 2252 Wentworth avenue.

Palmer—"Health" is the chief topic for the meeting at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday in the school assembly, and Dr. Franklin J. Corper will speak on that subject. Mrs. A. B. Brown, summer round-up chairman, will award health certificates. Pupils of room 209 will present "Fragments from the History of Art."

Parental School—Meeting at 1:15 o'clock on Friday in the assembly hall, the group will hear Mrs. Sarah B. Schaar, supervisor of the legal aid department of the Jewish Social Service bureau speak on "The Meaning of Social Stability."

Portage Park—Mrs. E. L. Myers, president, will open the January meeting at 1:15 o'clock tomorrow in the school auditorium. Mrs. C. B. Woolsey, president of the Northwest council, will present the educational platform as recommended by the Chicago Affairs committee. School children will give a demonstration.

PRESERVES 7TH DISTRICT CLUB NEWS SINCE 1914

Mrs. Baldwin's Scrapbook Pictures Activities.

When Mrs. Julia M. Baldwin was a girl she liked to collect and save things which interested her, and gather them into scrapbooks. Unlike many youngsters, however, she carried her childhood hobby into her later life. Today the women's club scrapbooks which she has collected are prized wherever they are shown. One of them is a valued possession of the 7th district in the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Seventh district chairmen say their scrapbook, with clippings which date back to 1914, is the oldest and most complete of any in the Illinois federation. It was started and kept up by Mrs. Baldwin for many years, and was given by her to the district in 1933.

Recall Arguments on Anthem.

The book is now in the possession of Mrs. John T. Bunting, 4112 North Keeler avenue, in her capacity as historian of the district.

According to the 1914 yearbook, which is the first program included in the scrapbook, the 7th district had 18 member clubs, with a total of about 1,631 members. Today the district has 57 clubs, comprising 3,853 members. Every year's program from 1914 to the current folder is included in the scrapbook, except one for the year 1920, when Mrs. Baldwin believes none was printed.

The 1915 I. F. W. C. convention, held at Rockford, is still remembered for the furor aroused by the 7th district there. The Humboldt Woman's club presented a resolution which had been adopted by the district, recommending that the "Star Spangled Banner" be sung at all club meetings. Hot discussions, both as to the suitability of such a "domineering" recommendation on the part of the federation, and to the difficulties which untrained voices had in singing the anthem, were recorded in the press thruout the federation district.

Billboard Fight.

The scope of 7th district activities may be inferred from the clippings and other souvenirs fastened in the scrapbook. A 1916 clipping headlines "Billboards Lose Fight; Decision Marks Big Victory for Women in Fight for 'Chicago Beautiful'; Plan Means Immediate Removal of Billboards in Residential Sections Thruout City."

A copy is included of a letter sent by the district to Secretary of War Newton D. Baker in 1917. It called upon those in authority "to protect our sons from that moral and physical contamination which we fear more than bullets," and added: "We confidently appeal to the war department to take necessary steps to rid military camps of the demoralizing camp followers. We ask this in the name of the mothers of America."

By 1922 the district had grown to include 29 clubs, the programs show. In that year, on Armistice day, the 7th district planted a maple tree in the Edgebrook forest preserve. Each club in the district followed suit, and a little park grew up in the forest, with a metal tag identifying each tree as the gift of one of the clubs.

May Resume Work.

With the help of Mrs. Bunting the 7th district scrapbook is being kept up to date. Mrs. Baldwin has other outstanding scrapbook collections as well. Her two volumes on the Chicago and Cook County federation are now on file at headquarters, and her own club and personal scrapbooks are equally complete.

After a three year retirement from club work, Mrs. Baldwin is thinking of again taking up these activities in which she has engaged since 1910. Her interest in permanent records is partly an outgrowth of the permanence of her own life, for she was born and raised in Chicago, and has lived for 32 years at 4838 West Warner avenue.

CITY'S SMALLEST PARK SERVES AS SETTING FOR BUFFALO FOUNTAIN

In Buffalo park, the northwest side can claim the distinction of having the smallest area in the park district, for this unique and well cared for little plot of ground measures just seven-hundredths of an acre.

Buffalo Fountain.

This "parklet," as it is familiarly known, is dominated by a fountain, nearly 16 feet high, which is decorated with the American bison or buffalo heads which gave the place its name. The triangular shaped grounds bounded by Sunnyside avenue, California avenue, and Manor avenue, are just large enough to serve as a setting for the concrete and granite sculptured structure.

Tiny Buffalo park was originally part of the Ravenswood Manor Gardens Park district, before the various park areas were consolidated into the Chicago Park district in 1934. Its huge fountain was designed and executed by Carl J. Nilsson, and was completed in May, 1918. It is equipped for electric lighting displays.

WORLD EVENTS REFLECTED AT WRIGHT COLLEGE

New Courses Scheduled for Second Semester.

Dean Wm. H. Conley.

World events and tendencies are reflected in the dozen or so new courses which will be offered in the second semester at Wright Junior college, 3400 North Austin avenue. The course schedule was announced last week by Dean William H. Conley, head of the college.

Aviation, engineering, and economic and social problems will be the subject of many new courses. They will all be treated from a practical point of view, almost as much so as a scientific laboratory course, since they are intended to prepare the student directly for work in those fields. Fewer than 10 out of every 100 Wright graduates continue their education further.

New Course Planned.

Norman Hedenberg will conduct a new course in engineering drawing and draughtsmanship similiar to the classes now operated by the government in its national defense program and which has been installed in five Chicago schools, including Schurz and Lane on the northwest side.

A course in the operation of public transportation systems, with special consideration of aviation, will be given by Frank Higginbotham. It will deal with legislation regarding common carriers, their liability, and other points in their relation to the public.

A laboratory study of community life in Chicago will be the novel basis of a sociology course to be conducted by William C. Resnick. Many field trips will be taken to distinctive areas of the city to study social conditions, housing, and future tendencies.

Course in Economics.

Dr. Peter A. Masiko will give a course in economic problems related to labor and industry, subjects which have not been thoroly treated in the social science surveys. It will be entitled "American Economic Problems."

Two new courses in mathematics are announced by Dr. Joel S. Georges, head of the department. One is in the mathematics of finance and deals with compound interest, evaluation of bonds, depreciation and capitalization, building and loan associations, and insurance. It is intended primarily for business students. The other is in statistics, covering various methods of classifying and representing data.

Perhaps the most unusual course at Wright, a remedial speech clinic which has been running on an experimental basis with 20 students since last fall, will be continued on a permanent basis with 40 or 50 students, Dean Conley said. It is conducted by John Link and helps students get rid of speech defects, such as stammering and lisping. Phonograph records made of each pupil's voice at the beginning of the course are used as guides for his improvement by means of oral exercises.

Course in Drama.

Link will also be in charge of a Little theater course which has been desired for several years but which has not been given as yet because of lack of money and personnel. Students will build their own sets, design and make their own costumes, and direct their own productions. The course will also include a study of dramatic literature.

The second semester, which begins Feb. 3, will also bring new courses in navigation, flying, and essay and biography.

It will also be the first semester in 82 that Harry Dornblaser, now head of the humanities department at Wright, will not be a member of the educational staff. He has been at Wright for six years and has been retired. He joined the Chicago Public schools in 1909 after having been a school teacher in Valley Falls, Kas.

Mr. Dornblaser says he may be found with his stamp collection or pursuing his hobbies of photography and reading—in Florida—in case former students want to call on him.

Colonial Home in Glenview

Much excellent architectural brain power has gone into the designing and building of many of our new homes. This home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Force, 1249 Elm court, Glenview, has the solidity and charm so typical of our early colonial houses, yet it is freely adapted to modern living. Architects: Rapp & Rapp, 230 North Michigan avenue.

GLENVIEW HOME BLENDS MODERN WITH COLONIAL

Charm and Efficiency Well Combined.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Distinction can certainly be achieved in a small colonial home as well as in a vast home of 20 or 30 rooms. It is found in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Force, 1249 Elm court, Glenview.

This six room dwelling has the solidity and charm so typical of our early colonial houses, yet it is freely adapted to 1941 living. And this home is a good example of skill in blending an old vintage to modern taste.

The architects are Rapp and Rapp, 230 North Michigan avenue. They have designed the sort of house which will put down roots, a colonial type home with first story exterior of Williamsburg toned brick and the second story of ivory siding. The blinds are a dubonnet shade and the garade is serviceably located, serving as a wing and adding interest to the mass of the house.

Soft Colored Interior.

Inside, the rooms are logically arranged and beautifully treated. On the first floor there is a reception hall with stairs to the second floor on the right of the entrance door and living room at the left.

Much of the charm of this home lies in the beauty of the soft coloring thruout. The living room and hall have walls of an exquisite shade of pale green. In the dining room the wainscot is dusty pink with wall paper in the same tone above. The carpeting of both rooms and hall is a rich green and the woodwork is white.

When you enter the living room you get the immediate impression of light, and of closeness to the out-of-doors. French doors can be thrown open to what will be terraces and gardens next summer, and deep windows on the opposite wall reach almost to the floor. There is an appealing, simple fireplace with marble facing and built-in shelves of graceful design on either side of it.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is a charmer. Its walls are cream colored with a delicate red pattern. The woodwork is white, and counter and double drainboard sink surfaces are of gray green mottled linoleum. There's a breakfast bar with white painted shelves for decorative accessories—and useful ones. This serves as a division between the breakfast nook and the kitchen proper. In this breakfast nook the benches are upholstered in red leather and lift up, revealing cupboard space for youthful belongings. The Venetian blinds and the windows in the kitchen are ivory with red tape, and the curtains are white with red bands.

The powder room on the first floor is treated with as much thought and beauty as the kitchen. The woodwork is painted a pastel blue, the fixtures are a deeper blue, and the floor is black with a mottled pattern. The wainscoting is an attractive shade of pink, with blue paper above patterned with pink.

Ceramic Tile Bath.

The walls and the carpeting to the second story are the same lovely green as the living room and hall. On this second floor there are three bedrooms—a large master bedroom, a boy's room, and a little girl's room. Here also there is a handsome bathroom with walls of ceramic tile. There is a niche in the wall for the telephone and a large linen closet. There are no overhead lights in living room or bedrooms of this house, but in the hall over the stairway there is a good looking crystal light fixture.

Next spring Mr. and Mrs. Force are planning to build a fence around their property, which is one-third of an acre. It will be a fence specially designed to harmonize with the house architecture and landscaping. Fences are as much for beauty as they are for privacy if they are designed as they should be. And if one has an outdoor living room a fence can be to this what the walls are to an indoor living room, a true background.

Should Harmonize.

If a house is new and there is no wealth of foliage around it, a fence will give it a homy look for hospitable comfort. If a house is old, a fence will add a note of interest and life to it. There's a wide range in design and material available. The main point to insist on is that the fence should harmonize in character with the house.

The chief materials for fences are wood, stone, or metal, or a combination of stone and wood or stone and metal.

Calls for Actors.

Lawndale Civic theater guild, 1423 S. Kedzie avenue, has started casting for its new production, "Counsellor at Law." Saul Siedman, director, invites try-outs.

MISS ANNA SCHOROW.

The engagement announcements of Miss Zena Yampolsky and Miss Anna Schorow, cousins, were made simultaneously at a Christmas dinner. Miss Yampolsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Yampolsky, 6150 North Rockwell street, is engaged to Dave Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Cohen, 1429 South Homan avenue. Her cousin, Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schorow, 4923 Roscoe street, will be married in the spring to Sol I. Alpert, son of Isadore B. Alpert, 1239 North Oakley boulevard.

TEMPLE GROUP TO GIVE DINNER FOR PRESIDENT

Samuel S. Byron to Be the Guest.

Samuel S. Byron.

Samuel S. Byron, 2754 Winnemac avenue, will be honored at a testimonial dinner this evening as he nears the end of his second term as president of Temple Beth Israel Congregation, the oldest Jewish congregation in Albany park. Byron has long been connected with the congregation as well as with philanthropic causes. He is engaged in the automobile business.

The dinner, which will be held at the temple, 4850 North Bernard street, has been arranged by a committee consisting of Oscar Stone, chairman; Dr. Arthur Elfenbaum, vice chairman; and Seymour J. Frank, 2d vice president of the congregation, David H. Gross, Mrs. Carl Apple, Mrs. Benjamin Gasul, and Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn, spiritual leader.

Tomorrow evening Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations, will deliver the third lecture in a series being given at Temple Beth Israel. His subject will be "The International Scene Today."

The Temple sisterhood will celebrate Reciprocity day with the sisterhoods of four congregations from other parts of the city, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the North Shore Congregation Israel in Glencoe.

◆

Hayim Greenberg, exponent of the philosophy of Labor Zionism, will address the Humboldt Boulevard Temple forum at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow evening at the temple, 1908 Humboldt boulevard. His topic will be "The European War and the Jewish People." Greenberg is editor of the Jewish Frontier. He lived in Russia for many years as a journalist and educator until he was forced to leave the country.

SCOTCH MEDLEY TO BE FEATURE OF CONCERT HOUR

Marion Claire Is Soloist of W-G-N Program.

Marion Claire, lyric soprano, will be featured in a solo presentation of a medley of Scotch folk songs on the Chicagoland Concert Hour tomorrow. This program of fine and familiar music will be heard from 10 to 10:45 p. m. over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. The W-G-N Concert orchestra will be conducted by Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company.

The songs to be presented by Miss Claire include four of the best known gems of Scotland. They are "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon," "Loch Lomond," "The Campbells Are Coming," and "Annie Laurie." Miss Claire also will sing Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan, and the favorite southern melody, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

The orchestra will play Massenet's overture from "Phadre," "Guitarre," by Moszkowski, "Cherry Ripe," by Scott, and Liadov's "Musical Snuff Box."

Next week the Chicagoland hour will move to the period now occupied by the Pageant of Melody. The Concert Hour will be heard from 8:30 to 9 p. m. Wednesday evening each week, starting Jan. 22. The Pageant of Melody will be heard from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Monday, starting Jan. 20. William A. Bacher produces the concert hour.

Experts in Several Fields on Your Music Quiz

Music experts from classical, symphonic and popular fields will compete on "Your Music I. Q." program over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. George Hamburg, tuba player with the Chicago Symphony orchestra for 21 years, and Remi Gossmann, composer and teacher, will represent classical fields. Upholding popular music will be Irene Daye, petite songstress with Gene Krupa's orchestra. Janice Abramson, 16 year old Austin High school senior, will be the third layman expert to appear on the program this season. Free tickets to an early performance of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be awarded to all listeners submitting questions that are not answered by the experts.

W-G-N ACTORS EAT WAY INTO PROPER MOODS

Choose Cafes to Go with Operettas' Locale.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

To any artist mood and atmosphere are important. Walking in the rain is a favorite device used by some artists to provide the proper feeling for creative effort. Some actresses get the proper lift by acquiring a new hat. Taking a cottage on the sand dunes seems to help others. A pair of dark glasses does the trick for Rudy Vallee.

The singers and actors who appear each Saturday in W-G-N's Theater of the Air operettas have a special device, too. They simply eat their way into the desired mood. Before each broadcast they gather in a restaurant that suggests the locale of the particular operetta they are to present.

William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production at W-G-N, musicians and studio technicians, as well as the song and drama stars join in these "atmosphere" dinners.

Many Locales Discovered.

In the months the operettas have been on the air Austrian, old English, German, Hungarian, Mexican, Irish, and far northern locales have been discovered for the Saturday repasts.

For the operetta "Robin Hood," Bacher took his crew to St. Hubert's grill where an excellent old English atmosphere was developed over a roast beef and Yorkshire pudding.

A Costa Rican coffee shop served the purpose for the warm Mexican locale of "Rio Rita." For this production the noted Mexican singer, José Mojica, was a guest. The rollicking bierstube mood of "The Student Prince" was found in the Golden Ox restaurant.

Finding an Oasis.

No trouble was experienced in locating Hungarian, Irish, or Austrian restaurants, but the "Desert Song" presented an insurmountable problem. There are plenty of oases in Chicago, but none of the Sahara desert type Bacher had in mind.

"Rose Marie" also presented a problem—at first. The cast searched unsuccessfully for a French-Canadian restaurant. Wes Summerfield, singer in the augmented chorus, rescued the party.

"I've been all thru the Canadian Northwest," he said. "There was a Chinese restaurant on every corner."

So a chop suey house down the street was chosen to provide the mood of lumberjacks and big snows.

"Cyrano" Next Saturday.

A French restaurant, presumably, would be in order next. "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be presented from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday with Marion Claire and Conrad Thibault singing the leading rôles. Thibault helped Miss Claire inaugurate the season with the presentation of "The Vagabond King." Later he was featured with Miss Claire in "Rio Rita" and "The New Moon."

Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general director of the Chicago Opera company, will lead the W-G-N Concert orchestra and augmented chorus in providing the musical background.

The text for "Cyrano de Bergerac" was written by William J. Henderson. Walter Damrosch wrote the music. It is adapted from the original play by Edmond Rostand. "Cyrano de Bergerac" was first presented at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York on Feb. 27, 1913.

Sports Experts

Bob Elson (second from left) is shown at the sports desk with Arch Ward, sports editor of The Chicago Tribune; at left is Ed Burns, and right, Irving Vaughan, Tribune sports writers, who together with Ward compile the news for Elson's broadcast on W-G-N at 7:45 p. m. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays.

PORTRAY STORY OF MODIGLIANI ON W-G-N SHOW

How a cruel art dealer exploited the talents of Anadeo Modigliani, noted Italian painter, will be portrayed on the "Great Artists" program over W-G-N from 4 to 4:15 p. m. Tuesday. For a long time, Modigliani was imprisoned in the cellar of a Paris art broker. Food fit only for animals was the payment he received for painting masterpieces. No painting, no food, was the motto of his jailer.

Innumerable congratulatory letters from the W-G-N audience bear testimony to the fact that this program, presented weekly with the coöperation of the Art Institute of Chicago, is attracting the attention of a steadily increasing following among the art lovers of the Middle West. The listener response has been so great that a new switchboard has been installed at the Art Institute to accommodate the complimentary phone calls.

The artists depicted on the show—artists who have representative work hanging in the Chicago Art institute—are vividly portrayed by members of the Goodman Memorial theater of Chicago, under the supervision of Dr. Maurice Gnesin and Mary Agnes Doyle. Scripts are written by the Illinois Writers' project. Blair Walliser is in charge of production.

EAST CHICAGO HIGH NEXT ON SCHOOL PROGRAM

The first Indiana school to be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N will be Washington High school of East Chicago. This program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and dedicated to the youth of America, will be heard from 4:30 to 5 p. m. next Tuesday. Special buses will bring 600 boys and girls from East Chicago to witness the broadcast, and 100 of the students will be taken on a tour of Tribune tower preceding the program.

R. F. Robinson, principal of Washington High, will speak briefly during the entertainment and the school's Choral club, directed by Pauline M. Shearer, will sing three numbers, including the school song, "Hail Noble Washington."

Philip Maxwell of the Chicago Tribune's editorial department is master of ceremonies and plays the rôle of the principal in the broadcast. Announcer Charles Victor will introduce six students from the studio audience who will participate in the Tribune News Quiz conducted by Mr. Maxwell. A highlight of the program will be the addition of three outstanding students to the roll of honor. They are Roe Campbell, president of the student council of Oskaloosa, Ia.; Ruby Watson, composer, of Sheboygan, Wis., and Richard G. Erdmann, amateur short wave expert of Elkhart, Ind.

'The Barber of Seville' on Great Plays Program

"The Barber of Seville," written by Beaumarchais and first presented in 1775, will be the Great Plays presentation at 2 p. m. today over WENR and NBC. The work was the basis for Rossini's opera of the same name.

SZIGETI TO GIVE 2D BROADCAST ON W-G-N TODAY

Joseph Szigeti, internationally famous concert violinist, will be heard from 6:30 to 7 p. m. today on W-G-N and the Mutual network in the second broadcast of his first radio series in the United States. Alfred Wallenstein and his orchestra will be co-featured on the program. Music critics thruout the world have acclaimed Szigeti as one of the half dozen great living violin virtuosos. This high praise, however, has not made a high brow of Szigeti. Last winter in Carnegie hall, before an enthusiastic audience of sophisticated concert patrons, he and Benny Goodman played a joint recital of swing music. They received a long ovation. Afterwards, Szigeti said: "Such a concert could not happen any place but in the United States; so long as it is good of its kind, nothing can grow stale here."

Pilgrimage to Dana Home.

The Cambridge, Mass., home of Richard Henry Dana Jr., American author of the middle 19th century, will be visited by Ted Malone during his American Pilgrimage broadcast at 1 p. m. today over WENR.

GEORGE FISHER GOT INTO RADIO REPORTING ALMOST BY ACCIDENT

George Fisher.

Experience in several occupations as well as with film people from struggling extras to stars is the background that has added up to radio success for George Fisher, versatile conductor of the "Hollywood Whispers" program. Fisher is heard with his intimate glimpses into the film colony from 11:30 to 11:45 a. m. each Tuesday and Thursday over W-G-N and Mutual. Fisher has worked as theater doorman, fruit and vegetable salesman, truck driver, publicity man, and auto part peddler in his turbulent career. He worked at all these jobs before he ever saw a movie star or the inside of a radio station.

Fisher got into radio almost by accident. A radio executive was impressed by Fisher's voice over the phone, advised him to try out as an announcer; a few days later Fisher was staff announcer on a local Los Angeles station. There he started a "Studio Whispers" program which reported news about the stars.

When Fisher moved to KHJ, Mutual's Los Angeles outlet, he took his idea with him and called it "Hollywood Whispers."

Stellar Robson Play Reopens Tonight

By Cecil Smith.

One of the finest acting performances of the season comes back to Chicago tonight with the reopening of "Ladies in Retirement" at the Harris theater. Theater Guild subscribers and others who were lucky enough to obtain seats during its engagement of a fortnight last autumn will remember "Ladies in Retirement" as the cold blooded, but surprisingly witty, melodrama in which Flora Robson secreted the body of Isobel Elsom in a large indoor brick oven, while Estelle Winwood and Jessamine Newcombe, as Miss Robson's crack brained sisters, made the evening lively with a succession of utterly batty remarks.

• • •

"Ladies in Retirement" belongs in the dramatic classification which also includes such effective theater pieces as Emlyn Williams' "Night Must Fall" and Edward Chodorov's "Kind Lady." It is a psychological crime drama — a play in which at least as much interest attaches to the mental processes of the central criminal character as to the details of the plot. These three plays are alike in that the audience possesses complete knowledge, and even foreknowledge, of sinister events as they happen. In "Ladies in Retirement" the audience discovers Miss Robson's guilty secret before any one in the cast does. It is a far cry from the old "whodunit" type of mystery thriller, in which the characters were mere properties used to support the plot.

If you have not seen "Ladies in Retirement," it would be unfair to tell you much about Ellen Creed, the character portrayed by Miss

Below: Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy are a happy married pair, indeed, in their current musical, "Bittersweet." The piece is now showing on the Garrick screen.

Errol Flynn is a dashing and gallant soldier man in "Santa Fe Trail." (Chicago.) Olivia de Havilland plays his heart.

You'd think their jaws would get tired—jawing—wouldn't you? Yes, of course, Fred Allen and Jack Benny confront you. They're in "Love Thy Neighbor." Apollo.

Music Benefits to Aid War Sufferers

By Edward Barry.

The greatly increased number of benefit concerts which the music calendar holds is one indication among many of the present melancholy state of the world. It used to be that there were only three or four of these events a year, and that their proceeds went to such local institutions as hospitals and nursing homes. Now the new world has become almoner to the old, and American generosity is seeking to lessen, in some slight degree, at least, the suffering caused by widespread war. In this task, musicians and concert patrons are coöperating splendidly.

• • •

During the next eight days there are to be no fewer than four major benefit concerts in Chicago. In the Civic Opera house tonight the city's Hellenic Orthodox community and the Church of St. Basil will sponsor an ambitious "Panorama of Greek Life" and will turn over half of the proceeds to the Greek Red Cross. In Mandel hall on the University of Chicago campus Wednesday night the Pro Arte quartet, whose home city was formerly Brussels, Belgium, will give a concert designed to raise funds for Belgian refugees in Britain.

At the Civic Opera house Friday night the great Norwegian soprano, Kirsten Flagstad, and her accompanist, the American, Edwin McArthur, will contribute their services to the cause of Norwegian relief. In the Gold room of the Congress hotel next Sunday afternoon a group of artists which includes Percy Grainger, composer-pianist; Michael Wilkomirski, violinist, and Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano, will provide the Percy Grainger, pianist and composer, will be among the soloists on the benefit program being sponsored by the Daughters of the British Empire in Illinois next Sunday afternoon in the Congress hotel.

Above: Ella Gerber and Al Eben parody old time melodrama in "New Pins and Needles," the revue at the Studebaker theater.

Right: A soloist with the "Romance of Old Mexico" program in the Great Northern theater this afternoon is Greta Rubio, soprano.

On Saturday night Tito Schipa, operatic tenor, will make one of his rare concert appearances, singing in the Civic theater.

Elmer Rice Pens a Fine Play About the European War

Realism Strong in Scene Aboard a Clipper Plane

By Burns Mantle.

New York [Special].—Another fine play has come out of the turmoil and tempests of the time. This is Elmer Rice's "Flight to the West," which takes up the European war and its effect on a variety of victims flying from Lisbon to America. Altho its action is confined to the lounge cabins of a Yankee Clipper in flight, Mr. Rice manages to stage several stirring melodramatic episodes and to sustain a tense audience interest in the individual characters of his drama and in their balanced and sanely reasoned arguments.

The mechanics of "Flight to the West" are fascinating. With the rise of the curtain the audience is facing the Clipper's lounge cabins with the near wall removed. The passengers are just embarking. The engines are being tuned up. There is the usual last minute confusion of departure.

Now the doors are shut and locked, the life belts adjusted, the flight begun. Once the ship is in the air, the motors are silenced. Not until an emergency and unscheduled landing in Bermuda is made are they heard again.

• • •

The passengers on this Clipper ship include a young married couple, the Charles Nathans, he an Anglicized Jew, she a seventh generation American; an American oil man who believes quite sincerely that big business can settle anything, including a world crisis; an American intellectual, a Jewish refugee, a Nazi diplomat bound for Washington, an international spy posing as a Russian professor, an American lady columnist, a family of Belgian refugees bombed out of Louvain, and the crew.

These interesting types are no sooner introduced and settled than we begin to learn a good deal concerning their private lives and current thoughts. The young married couple are in flight from the horrors of war. Young Mr. Nathan [Hugh Marlowe] is still frankly confused as to what part he should play, or seek to play, in the defense program. Young Mrs. Nathan [Betty Field] is looking forward to the peace and security of life in America.

The intellectual [Arnold Moss], a writer of liberal books, is also confused and troubled. The mother of the Belgian refugees [Lydia St. Clair] is bitter in her resentment of the Nazis for having blinded her husband and shot away her daughter's arm. The American oil man [James Seeley] is pompous and assured. The Nazi diplomat [Paul Hernreid] is dignified, calm, quietly patronizing, and eager to establish relations with the international spy [Boris Marshalov], who is looking to future fifth column work in America. The lady columnist [Constance McKay] would prefer to relax with a highball but, of course, if a story should break—

• • •

And a story does. Mrs. Nathan, whose father has been an American consular agent for years, thinks she recognizes the Russian professor as an old trouble maker. The lady columnist induces her to radio her father for confirmation, including the professor's former aliases. With identification seemingly complete, the captain of the Clipper decides to make an emergency landing in Bermuda, giving the English authorities a chance to investigate. Charge and countercharge rouse the Nazi diplomat to a dramatic burst of temper and enough boasting to excite the Belgian lady, who tries to shoot him and wounds the American, Nathan, instead. And there are both your drama and your melodrama.

Elmer Rice. [Acme Photo.]

Elmer Rice had one experience in letting his prejudices sway his judgment as a dramatist when he wrote "Judgment Day." Since then he has taken pains to keep his personal bias on leash. His sympathies are naturally strongly with the American viewpoint and violently against the totalitarian dictators, and yet he makes an honest effort to be fair to the opposition. The Nazi has his say, and his philosophy is coldly logical. This attitude strengthens the drama, which is superbly played. It is the strongest war play written since Robert Sherwood's "There Shall Be No Night."

HAS ROLE IN 'DU BARRY'

In that riotous musical frolic at the Erlanger, "Du Barry Was a Lady," Ruth Bond has one of the principal roles. Chief comic is Bert Lahr.

Robson Drama Will Return to City Tonight

Robson. It is necessary to look at Lynn Fontanne's Mrs. Valkonen in "There Shall Be No Night" or to Ruth Chatterton's Eliza Doolittle in the lately departed "Pygmalion" to discover so complete a realization of a feminine rôle in any of this season's plays. Miss Robson plays Ellen with such single continuity of emotional line and such relevant and economical use of gesture, business, and inflection, that she attains that rarest of successes, an impersonation without a false note in it anywhere.

No less remarkable than Miss Robson's individual performance in "Ladies in Retirement" is the unusual perfection of ensemble playing. Miss Elsom and Miss Winwood, particularly, are perfect in their separate rôles, yet like every one else in the cast they know exactly how to key their own performances to the movement and symmetry of the whole.

The play was directed by Reginald Denham, co-author with Edward Percy. In addition to the three actresses just mentioned, the cast includes Jessamine Newcombe, Patrick O'Moore, Rosanna Seaborn, and Florence Edney. The present engagement at the Harris theater will last for only two weeks.

Flora Robson owes most of her popularity in this country to the motion pictures. "Ladies in Retirement" is her first stage appearance on this side of the Atlantic. In Hollywood movies, she has played in such notable productions as "Wuthering Heights," with Laurence Olivier [who sailed for England and the army week before last] and Merle Oberon; "We Are Not Alone," with Paul Muni, and "The Sea Hawk," with Errol Flynn. Of her earlier English pictures perhaps the best known was "Fire Over England."

According to her own story, Miss Robson was forced onto the stage at the age of 5 by her father, who was determined that this particular one of his five daughters should become an actress. At that time little Flora was of no mind to rebel against her father's command, and she found herself forthwith in the hands of a dramatic teacher who gave her Goethe's "Faust" as her first assignment!

Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne, Richard Whorf, and all the other excellent players end their engagement in "There Shall Be No Night" at the Grand Opera house Saturday evening. On Monday, Jan. 20, the company will rest while the Lunts go to Washington to attend President Roosevelt's inaugural ceremonies. The cross-country tour will be resumed on Tuesday, Jan. 21, at the beautiful new Wisconsin Union theater in Madison, and will continue westward thru St. Paul, Minneapolis, Butte, Seattle, Victoria, and Vancouver to San Francisco and Los Angeles. When the tour is finished the company will have played in 42 cities in 19 states and two Canadian provinces, and will have covered a total distance of 11,644 miles. The matter of a return engagement here at the close of the tour is still highly uncertain, not to say improbable.

Louis Schaffer, executive director of Labor Stage, sends the following bit of information about the financial well being of the players in "New Pins and Needles": "Not only do the members of the 'Pins and Needles' cast earn more than the workers in the garment industry, but the yearly income of 80 per cent of the members of Actors' Equity is less than that of the 'Pins and Needles' cast, due to the fact that they are working 52 weeks of the year."

A musical version of "Rip Van Winkle" will be presented for the first time on Saturday afternoon in the Woman's Club theater by the Jack and Jill players. The juvenile production will be directed by Marie Agnes Foley, assisted by Cyril Janicki.

A persistent rumor, which we have been unable to substantiate, continues to make the rounds to the effect that February will see installed in Chicago a second company of the current New York comedy hit, "My Sister Eileen." Of "Kind Lady" and "Charley's Aunt," two other attractions mentioned for Chicago, nothing further has been heard since we recounted the first gossip a month or more ago.

In turning "Du Barry Was a Lady" into a smash hit at the Erlanger theater, Bert Lahr has received especially effective assistance from roly-poly Benny Baker, who invests the substandard mentality of the dauphin of France with humor and pathos. From his early school years in Lincoln, Neb., he was always stagestruck. He stuck out a year at the University of Nebraska, and then left to seek his fortune in the field of vaudeville. A lucky encounter brought him to the attention of Lou Holtz, with whom he subsequently toured the major vaudeville circuits. Before "Du Barry" he had Broadway assignments in "You Said It" [with Lou Holtz] and "The Shim-Sham Revue."

Berni Gould, one of the most amusing members of the cast of "New Pins and Needles," which is cramming 'em in at a dollar top in the Studebaker theater, did a little bit of everything before he reached the revue stage. Born in the Bronx, he was forced to shift for himself when his father lost all his resources in the 1929 crash. Just out of high school, young Gould found himself a job as a millinery salesman, with his territory reaching from Oklahoma City to New Orleans. After a spell of this, he came back to New York, and in order to finance night study, secured daytime work as a cloakmaker. Out of this more or less accidental association with the garment making trade he obtained his chance to try out for the original "Pins and Needles." In the present edition one of his best opportunities comes when he cast as the handsome union hero of "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl."

The Oconomowoc Coach House summer theater play contest, originally scheduled to close Dec. 31, has extended until Jan. 15 the period during which manuscripts will be received. All plays must be full length comedies, and must be sent to the Coach House theater, Oconomowoc, Wis. The Marjorie Montgomery Ward Baker prize provides an award of $300 to the winning playwright.

Recent publications of Random House, of interest to armchair playgoers, include the new comedy success by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, "George Washington Slept Here"; "Suzanna and the Elders," by Lawrence Langner and Armina Marshall, which was presented on Broadway last fall, and "Fourteen Radio Plays," by Arch Oboler, widely praised as one of the most skilful radio dramatists.

New Records Set by Schools of Commerce

By the Rev. John Evans.

Figures recently published show that during the last biennium the registration in schools of commerce and business administration in the United States and Canada reached an all time high. For the academic year of 1939-'40 there were reported from 121 universities and colleges 114,129 undergraduates and 7,397 graduate students, an increase of .023 per cent over the previous biennial survey, which has been made for the last 16 years by H. G. Wright, secretary of Delta Sigma Pi, a professional fraternity.

• • •

Of the schools reporting, 116 are undergraduate and five are graduate, while 20 do not admit students before the junior year and six not before the sophomore year. There are 37 universities offering evening courses.

The oldest school of commerce is the Wharton school at the University of Pennsylvania, organized in 1881; the youngest were organized in 1937—at Butler university, Indianapolis, Ind., the University of Winnipeg, and the University of Maryland.

The largest registration is reported by the College of the City of New York, which leads for both day and evening divisions. Eighteen of the universities have a registration exceeding 1,000 students in day divisions, and 13 universities with more than 1,000 in their evening divisions.

Cultural unity between Negroes of the British West Indies and those in the United States has been stimulated by the action of Hampton institute in Virginia in sending a representative to the British colonies to exhibit the work of Hampton's students. Ellis A. Williams, a native of Trinidad, is the representative, and he has lined up examples of the institute's work in art, design, photography, architecture, and painting. This exhibit will be shown at the 11 principal centers of the islands, and the direct beneficiary will be the British War Relief fund.

The art exhibit has been arranged by Viktor Lowenfeld, head of Hampton's art courses, who was formerly on the faculty of the Vienna Academy of Art up to the time of the anschluss. Mr. Williams is a graduate of Edinburgh university, Scotland, and of New York university.

Vaudeville

Offerings on the Chicago theater's stage show this week are the Four Ink Spots, popular harmony quartet; the roller skating comedian, Paul Gerrits; the Stuart Morgan adagio dancers; the comedy dance trio, the Lathrop brothers and Virginia Lee, and the theater's ballet. On the screen is "Santa Fe Trail," starring Errol Flynn, Olivia De Havilland, and Raymond Massey.

At the Oriental theater Marcus' "Continental Revue" is currently holding the stage. The cast of nearly 50 people boasts a chorus of two score beauties. Featured performers in the show are Ha Cha San, Ruth Burrell, Bob White, the Taynton Ballet, Florence Hin Low, Leon Miller, the Jigsaws, Flagg and Arnold, the Three Duds, Dorothy Coudy, and Lee Royce. "Behind the News" is the film.

The State-Lake theater is headlining Gray Gordon and his orchestra. Since the days when they played at the Merry Garden ballroom the outfit and its leader have gone east to win considerable recognition. Additional stage entertainers are Meredith Blake, Art Perry, the Gordon choir, the Andrews trio, Brown and Ames, Billy Van, Lester Oman and his puppets, Chet Bruce, "Babe" Fresk, and Harold Lee. The picture is "Here Comes the Navy," with James Cagney.

Dual Walter Role

New York gets Bruno Walter, the noted Austrian conductor, not only as guest conductor with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra this season, but also as guest conductor with the Metropolitan Opera company, where he will direct "Don Giovanni," "Fidelio," and "The Bartered Bride." In this way the musical public of the eastern city can judge at which task he is best, for some say that he is better as an operatic rather than symphonic conductor, while others claim the opposite.

Two Noted Soloists to Appear with Symphony This Week

Jubilee Season Continues Fine Musical Treats

By Cecil Smith.

In the current week's programs of the Chicago Symphony orchestra no sign of letdown can be detected in the interest of the music this fiftieth anniversary season is bringing before the Chicago public. Two distinguished soloists will collaborate with Dr. Frederick Stock. Emanuel Feuermann, the great cellist who played last Thursday and Friday, stays over to play the Lalo concerto in the Tuesday afternoon concert in Orchestra hall. On Thursday and Friday the eminent Chicago pianist Gitta Gradova plays the Schumann concerto, and also—by request of some anonymous person who knows Miss Gradova's persuasive way with the music of Rachmaninoff—the Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini.

During this golden jubilee season Dr. Stock has presented an impressive portfolio of brand new orchestral works by celebrated American and European composers. All of these compositions—which have already some from such gifted musicians as Igor Stravinsky, Darius Milhaud, John Alden Carpenter, Roy Harris, Nicolas Miaskowsky, and Dr. Stock himself—have been dedicated to the Chicago Symphony orchestra and written upon commission for the jubilee celebration.

The latest musician to join this distinctive group of creative artists is Dr. Albert Noelte, whose "Symphonic Prologue" receives its first performances anywhere in the Orchestra hall programs Thursday evening and Friday afternoon. A native of Germany, and a music critic and pedagog in Munich in a happier time than the present, Dr. Noelte has lived in Chicago for many years now, and has made many contributions to the repertoire of modern orchestral and choral music. The "Symphonic Prologue" is the fourth of his orchestral works to come to performance in the subscription concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Dr. Noelte is head of the department of musical theory in the school of music at Northwestern university, and until this year also instructed the members of the Civic orchestra in theory. Several Chicago composers are numbered among his pupils, among them David Van Vactor, Radie Britain, and Elizabeth Marshall.

Despite her Russian sounding name, Gitta Gradova is a native Chicagoan. Her early professional success was gradual rather than sensational, but by 1935 she had played with many of the leading American orchestras and had toured Europe with success. For a time, after her European tour, she was tempted to retire and settle down to domestic life, but fortunately for all of us she was dissuaded from this purpose, and she has now grown into a mature and perceptive artist of a major order. Miss Gradova made her first appearance with the Chicago Symphony orchestra in 1928, and her sixth in 1939.

The Thursday-Friday program, with Dr. Stock conducting and Miss Gradova as soloist, includes the following works:

Symphony No. 4, A minor . Sibelius
Concerto for Piano, A minor .... Schumann
Symphonic Prologue ....Noelte
[First performance]
Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini ......Rachmaninoff

Thursday-Friday patrons of the Chicago Symphony orchestra may well envy this week's Tuesday subscribers their opportunity to hear Albert Roussel's charming and fanciful music for the ballet, "The Spider's Banquet" ["Le Festin de l'Araignée"]. This work finds its place between two other excellent examples of French orchestral music. With Emanuel Feuermann as cello soloist, Dr. Stock will present the following Tuesday afternoon program:

Suite [Concert], G minor . . Rameau
[Orchestrated by Felix Mottl]
Ballet Suite, "The Spider's Banquet" ....Roussel
Symphony, B-flat major . Chausson
Concerto for Cello, D minor . Lalo

Under the direction of Hans Lange, the orchestra will repeat on Wednesday afternoon the young people's program first presented last Wednesday. Paul Parmalee, 15 year old pianist, is soloist.

The Illinois Symphony orchestra, Ralph Rose conducting, presents an unusual pair of soloists in tomorrow evening's Great Northern theater program. The Bach concerto for two violins will be played by Fritz Siegal [former concertmaster of the Illinois Symphony orchestra and present concertmaster of the Seattle and San Diego orchestras] and Herman Clebanoff [present concertmaster of the Illinois Symphony orchestra]. The two gifted young violinists went to Lane Technical High school together, entered and graduated from the Civic orchestra at the same time, and joined to Illinois Symphony orchestra in the same season.

A third soloist, Ben Vitto of the orchestra's percussion section, will present, as a remarkable novelty, Galen Holcomb's "Capriccio," for tympani [kettledrums] and orchestra. The program will also include another novelty, two interludes from Ernest Bloch's "Macbeth." The complete Illinois Symphony orchestra program for tomorrow evening is as follows:

Two Interludes, from "Macbeth" ....Bloch
[First time in Chicago.]
Symphony No. 1, E minor, ["Nordic"] ...Howard Hanson
Concerto for Two Violins, D minor ....Bach
Fritz Siegal and Herman Clebanoff.
Capriccio, for tympani and orchestra ....Holcomb
[First time in Chicago.]

An event of remarkable value will take place when Tito Schipa, the world renowned lyric tenor, sings in the Civic theater Saturday evening. The program is presented coöperatively by six downtown music schools, the Chicago Singing Teachers' Guild, and various private voice teachers. Prices are kept at a reduced level [50 cents to $1.50] in order to permit students to attend in large numbers; the tickets are distributed thru schools and vocal studios. Nelli Gardini, well known Chicago vocal teacher, writes, in terms of incontrovertible truth: "For students to have the opportunity to hear this great artist, this great exponent of bel canto, in the intimacy of a small theater at student prices is an event of sensational importance. . . . This is a nonprofit activity meant for educational purposes."

I for one hope that every vocal student the Civic theater can accommodate will somehow find the price of a ticket, for Tito Schipa is, as Mme. Gardini so well indicates, one of the most flawless practitioners of the traditional Italian vocal style known to our operatic and concert stages. The six coöperating schools are the American Conservatory of Music, the Chicago Conservatory of Music, the Chicago Musical college, the Cosmopolitan School of Music, De Paul university, and the Sherwood Music school.

ELMAN RECITAL TODAY

Mischa Elman, violinist, will give his only Chicago recital for the season in the Auditorium theater this afternoon.

String Quartet in Movies.

The Roth String quartet will be heard in "New Wine," a new film based on the life of Franz Schubert.

Music Benefits Provide Aid to War Sufferers

musical part of a program whose proceeds will be used to provide milk for the children of Britain's bombed areas. There will also be a one act play, "While Lilacs Last," which has been written by Blanche A. Van Buren and will be produced by Blair Walliser. The sponsors are the Daughters of the British Empire in Illinois.

The "Panorama of Greek Life" at the Civic Opera house tonight will enlist the services of 300 persons. There will be soloists, choral singers, instrumentalists, dancers, supers. Planned and directed by Jean Fardoulis who, under the name of Jean Fardulli, appeared often in baritone rôles with the Chicago City Opera company, this great pageant aims to give persons of Greek extraction a vivid picture of the life of their ancestral motherland. The emphasis is on present day Greece, but the matchless richness of the country's heritage is not neglected.

Among the artists to take part in the production are the soprano Marion Schroeder Booras; her husband, Minas Booras; the conductor, Nicholas Varzos, and the pianist, Marie Greanias. Note that the starting time is 7:45.

The Wednesday night program of the Pro Arte quartet at Mandel hall will consist of Haydn's Quartet in E-flat major, opus 64, No. 6; Beethoven's Quartet in C major, opus 59, No. 3, and Debussy's single Quartet. The present members of the Pro Arte quartet are Antonio Brosa, founder and first violin; Laurent Halleux, second violin; Germain Prevost, viola, and C. Warwick Evans, formerly of the London String quartet, cello.

Tickets for this concert may be obtained at the Chicago Press Building information desk, 5750 Ellis avenue.

Mme. Flagstad's recital at the Civic Opera house Friday will be sponsored by the Norwegian Relief Committee of the State of Illinois. That there will be a large fund available for relief is indicated by the fact that Mme. Flagstad and Mr. McArthur are not only contributing their services, but are providing their own transportation to Chicago.

The first half of the program consists of Scandinavian songs by such composers as Grieg and Sinding. After the intermission comes a group in English, then two Wagnerian excerpts, "Elsa's Dream" from "Lohengrin," and "Thou Art the Spring," from "The Valkyrie."

At the British benefit in the Gold room of the Congress a week from today there will be several attractions besides the ones listed at the beginning of this article. Anna Fitzu will present four of her artist students, and Rudolph Ganz the Trepel trio. This last consists of sisters—Anne, Shirley, and Freda Trepel, who play piano, violin, and cello, respectively. Miss Fitzu's students are Shirley Dickinson, soprano; Mona Bradford, contralto; Richard Gordon, tenor, and William Tabbert, baritone.

The Congress hotel is contributing the room in which the benefit will be held, and the sponsors have made the admission price phenomenally low.

Morley Acts in Own Play.

Christopher Morley has taken over a leading rôle in his own comedy, "The Trojan Horse," which is enjoying an extensive run at the Millpond playhouse, a little theater in Roslyn, N. Y.

Cabaret Notes

For instance:

Eddy Duchin comes back to the Palmer House Thursday night as the top attraction in a most promising Empire room show. And right there with him will be Eddy Howard, who not only knows how songs should be written, but how they should be sung.

Joe E. Lewis ends his most hilarious Chez Paree run tonight. He will be replaced by Rufe Davis.

The Edgewater Beach hotel is bringing Ray Herbeck back for a third term in its Marine dining room, starting Saturday.

• • •

Another Krupa coupa has won the Panther room over to the side of the famous drummer boy. Gene is unfailingly the star of any show he's in, and his tomtoms, his bonga drums, and his snares make night life in the Hotel Sherman a succession of spine tingling, elemental thrills. He's still playing the terrific "Blue Ribbon Fantasy" possibly under a different name, with every member of the band joining a musicless interlude with his own drum.

Irene Daye swings and sings with a relish that catches her audience, and Howard Du Laney baritones appealingly, sometimes in duet with her.

For conventioneers, the Sherman has installed the Dorothy Bytton dancers, Chuck and Chuckles, madcap dancers, and the Callahan sisters, a cute dancing duo. Bob Zurke continues to prowl around the keyboard in his own distinctive way.

Just to prove that they are Hepp to show business technique, Charlie and his producer, Dave Branower, have moved a fast and well balanced convention show into Harry's New Yorker. Still headlining the revue is Dolly Kay, who sells a song better than the visiting firemen sell shoes and sofas. Close behind come Claire and Hudson, a really likable, exciting acrobatic duo. D'Aubour and Rene are satisfactory ballroom dancers, but really come into their own in their adagio routine. Patsy Reed has the appearance to please the visitors, and Arne Barnett's music continues to rate superlatives.

Winnie Hoveler.
[Bloom Photo.]

Roy Sedley, the m. c., must have lifted his last gag along about 1924 for his material is grimy and bruised with much kicking about on tavern floors. But the guy's a likeable lad and works a smart show.

As unfailingly as ever, Winnie Hoveler and her Dancing Darlings again provide a highlight of the show.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

If one company can have "Christmas in July," I reckon there's no reason why another can't have a circus in January. . . . Anyhow along comes Twentieth Century-Fox with a screenization of Walter D. Edmonds' good story, "Red Wheels Rolling"—a tale of Big Tent life away back in the year 1841.

• • •

This is an honest and an interesting little picture, expertly adapted and decked out in beautiful technicolor. Its principal characters are members of Huguenine's one night stand circus. Chad Hanna is a country boy who gets in trouble with authorities thru aiding the escape of a runaway slave and, assisted by a sympathizer—Bisbee, advance agent of the circus — hides atop a wagon under a tarpaulin, rides out with the circus and joins it as roustabout. . . . He's very happy about the whole thing because he has casually met—and become infatuated with . . . the beauteous lady rider, Albany Yates. . . .

Chad and the runaway slave are instrumental in bringing also into the Big Tent family, pretty Caroline who has left home because of a beating bestowed upon her by her cruel father. . . . The whys and wherefores of her advent I'll skip. . . . Nor will I tell you who, eventually, Chad marries. . . . Nor whom Albany really loves. . . .

Mr. Fonda is convincingly gawky as Chad. Dorothy Lamour was never more attractive than as Albany, and fully clothed. Only once do you see her in anything that even faintly resembles a sarong. This is when she drapes a bed quilt about her during a scene with Chad. Linda Darnell is exquisite as gentle Caroline. Your heart aches for her during the episode of her first riding lesson.

• • •

Jane Darwell, as the owner's wife and fat lady of the show is a peach in a blonde wig and somehow or other blown up and padded to look about six times her usual size. . . . Other players are competent.

The piece just sort of ambles along. It has no big dramatic moments and no belly laughs. But it is human, entertaining, and informative and I liked it.

See you tomorrow.

Dowling's Tour Profitable.

Eddie Dowling is finding his tour of "The Time of Your Life" so profitable and audiences thruout the country so responsive to the Saroyan comedy that he has postponed his forthcoming production, Sean O'Casey's "Purple Dust," till late in the spring.

Old Acquaintance

The third annual "command performance," given for President Roosevelt on the occasion of his birthday, will be "Old Acquaintance," John Van Druten's current comedy success, starring Jane Cowl and Peggy Wood. The performance will take place in Washington's National theater on Sunday evening, Jan. 26. In the audience will be the President, Mrs. Roosevelt, the entire cabinet, and all other high ranking dignitaries of the capital's officialdom.

LEARN SHORTHAND in 6 WEEKS at home!

Win a good job, promotion, higher pay. Have the confidence that comes with ability to write notes fast and accurately. Fine for executives, too, students and others who need to make notes rapidly and read them readily.

THIS is the same famous SPEEDWRITING system of Shorthand for which thousands gladly paid $19.95 when it was offered as a correspondence course in six volumes. It is the EASIEST to LEARN because you use the alphabet you already know instead of signs and symbols.

Now for the first time you can have essentially this same great course—but made into one volume with complete SELF-TEACHING material so you can learn RIGHT AT HOME—for only $1.89 if you act promptly!

This is the same volume that now is used as a textbook in scores of business and public schools and never before was sold for less than $4.95. Our special offer SAVES YOU 60%! And in addition you get the Self-Teaching material that enables you to become a fast, accurate shorthand writer in only 72 hours of home study.

NEVER BEFORE SOLD FOR LESS THAN $4.95 NOW

only $1.89 IF YOU ACT NOW

PLUS A FEW CENTS FOR POSTAGE AND PACKAGING

the shorthand for everyone!

TRY IT ON APPROVAL

Yes, Only 72 Hours of Study

Many Do It in Less Time

A clergyman in Idaho writes: "I have spent on the entire Course not more than 60 hours. With almost no practice I can take dictation easily at the rate of 125 words per minute. And, what is more, I can read it after I have written it. I feel sure that if I had the time I could quickly raise my speed to 175 words per minute."

In a little over a month a lawyer wrote 150 words per minute.

The original letters from students, from which the foregoing statements are taken, may be seen at our offices at any time.

"You must have spent years on shorthand?"
"No, I learned it in SIX WEEKS."

Speedwriting

TRADE MARK, REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

PREFERRED BY 70,000 MEN AND WOMEN

Because

1 It is a Natural System making use of the letters of the alphabet instead of strange signs and symbols. No delay learning a "foreign language" before you begin to write notes.

2 It Is the Quickest Shorthand to Learn. The average student writes fast and accurately after 72 hours of study—many much sooner.

3 It Is the Easiest Shorthand to Learn. Since you don't have to learn an alphabet of queer hooks and curves but use the simple "A B C's" that you already know, you make faster progress right from the start.

4 It Can Be Learned at Home in Spare Time. 59 Lessons expertly prepared for self-teaching. No interference with other work or recreation.

5 It Is the Easiest Shorthand to Write. Once you know the principles, it is as easy as longhand. No worry over "slant," "halving," "doubling," "disjoining," etc.

6 It Is the Easiest Shorthand to Remember. In fact, it is almost as hard to forget as to forget your alphabet.

7 You Can Actually USE Speedwriting Sooner Than Any Other System. Many students can write 80 words a minute when only half through the course.

8 It Is the Easiest Shorthand to Transcribe because you never puzzle over your notes—easy to read as longhand. No shapes, shading, or position to worry about.

9 It Is the Most Accurate Shorthand to Transcribe. A "d" is always a "d"—never too long, too short, too slanting, or too straight—it is just "d." Compare with old systems in which one sign may have six meanings.

10 It Can Be Typed Directly on the Typewriter, if you wish, because it uses only characters found on the standard typewriter keyboard.

11 Approved by the Business World. Speedwriters have been selected for employment by many of the biggest concerns in the country.

12 Endorsed by Educators and Schools. Taught in scores of public and private schools. Highly recommended by teachers everywhere.

13 Costs Far Less. The price of speedwriting is only a small fraction of the usual cost of learning Shorthand. Present offer brings price down sharply further. Now costs only about 3c a lesson!

In silence he pulled it up, to find the thing dry.

GEORGE HELIPE, husbandman, was in one of the vilest tempers that ever seared the soul of a selfish man. Since he made small secret of this, his fellows were quite relieved when he left the Oloron bus—with a two mile walk before him, up to the hamlet of Ness. Helipe was relieved, too; the attention which he had attracted had very nearly driven him out of his mind. Of such is the vicious circle. . . .

The trouble was this.

At considerable inconvenience, Helipe had visited Larrenx that February day; this, in response to a summons from his solicitor. The latter's note had been deliciously vague, but Helipe had had no doubt that the Widow Lacaze was unable to pay the interest on one of his loans—with the happy result that the meadow which she had mortgaged would now become his. Helipe, however, was wrong. After 10 minutes smooth conversation, the lawyer referred to a matter which had been before the court for nearly three years.

"The dispute about Padu, my friend—that little, worthless meadow which you do not need, which Bourda, your neighbor, claims. At last it is settled—this dispute; the law is slow. It is settled in Bourda's favor. It is, of course, annoying, but——"

He got no farther than that, for his client went off the deep end. An hour and a half had gone by, before the lawyer could get him out of his house. He had always assumed that the meadow called Padu was his—that Bourda's impertinent claim would be contemptuously dismissed. His lawyer had led him to think so—had laughed with him over the costs Bourda would have to pay. And now he would have to pay them. What was ten thousand times worse, the spring which rose in Padu was all his water supply.

During the winter months, two or three tumbling rills would serve his needs; but these would fail in the summer—they always did; from May to November his holding depended upon Padu . . . depended upon the fair water which issued from Padu's spring.

Her father had just emerged from the Oloron bus, when Jeanne Helipe took her lover's face in her hands.

"I sent for you," she said, "because you must ask him tonight. He will be in excellent cue. The Widow Lacaze cannot pay, and her field is now his."

Paul Colomez raised his eyes.

"The good God preserve me from all usurers."

"I wholly agree," said Jeanne, begravely. "Whenever the field becomes mine, I shall give it back. But we cannot help her, my darling, by throwing away this chance of helping ourselves."

"I have a wise sweetheart," said Paul, and kissed her eyes and her lips.

The saying was true. Jeanne Helipe's brain was as quick as her features were good. The girl took after her mother, now nine years dead. Her nose was straight, her chin firm, her head well set on. She was shapely and very strong. She worked in the house or in the fields from morning to night; yet she was maidenly—a fact which distinguished her from the ordinary peasant girl.

"Good temper or no," said Paul, "your father is sure to object. He will, of course, call me a Spaniard—and other things."

"Naturally," said the girl. "But that will not worry me, and it must not worry you. Besides, a good well-digger always has Spanish blood. And every one knows that you are the very best in the Basses Pyrenees."

"I am doing well," said Paul. "He can't get away from that."

"What will weigh with him," said Jeanne, "is the fact that you will take me without any dot. That is the ace of trumps and will win us the trick."

In fact she was wrong. When 25 minutes later, her father flung into the kitchen with fire in his eyes, the oath he was meaning to utter died on his lips. Brought up, so to speak, all standing, he stared upon the young man, without seeming to breathe. Then a hand went up to his mouth, and the fire went out of his eyes.

"Good evening," said Paul, staring.

The other turned.

"Good evening," he said roughly. "What brings you here?"

This was not according to plan; but when Paul glanced at Jeanne, the girl, wide-eyed as he, had no directions to give. The absurd—the fantastic had happened . . . before her eyes. Her father had entered raging, and the spectacle of her lover had turned the storm into calm.

Paul Colomez took a deep breath.

"I was meaning, before I went, to ask your permission, monsieur, to make Jeanne my wife."

"That is great presumption—a landless Spaniard to ask for my daughter's hand."

"I am not quite landless," said Paul. "I have a house and two fields."

Helipe laughed.

"I have my profession, monsieur. I do not work on the land. And, whilst I am a good Frenchman, I am not at all ashamed of my Spanish blood."

"Your profession," Helipe said slowly. "And what is that?"

"I thought you knew," Paul said, "that I was a digger of wells."

"Can you find water?"

"Sometimes," Paul said, "if water is to be found."

"Find me water," Helipe said. "Find me water, my friend, and dig me a well. Two meters of drinking water that never fails. Do that, and you shall marry this daughter of mine. But I must have it at once. We may have a very dry spring. The well must be ready for use before April comes in."

Paul Strives to Veil His Surprise

Frowning upon his rough boots, Paul strove to conceal his excitement and veil his surprise. His heart, of course, was leaping. This was the sort of stuff with which he could deal. He was on his own ground.

"That gives only six weeks," he said slowly. "Half February is over, and it would mean going all out——"

"And what," said Jeanne, "what of your offer from Josse? . The one you were telling me of. The chance of pleasing——"

"To hell," screamed Helipe, "to hell with his offer from Josse. Is he being offered by Josse the woman he hopes to possess? What is money beside my daughter?"

"One engages to pay. Josse would give me a contract—a paper signed."

"Have I said that I won't?"

"I beg your pardon," said Paul. "If you will put into writing that Jeanne and I shall be married the first day of May——"

"That is too soon," said Helipe. "Your well may be full in April and dry in July."

"One can judge from the flow. If it is swift and strong, it may diminish a little, but it will never fail."

"Listen," said Helipe. "I will draw as much as I need on April the 10th. If, half an hour after I have finished, there is still two meters of water within the well, this girl and you shall be married the first day of May."

Paul gave a short nod.

"Very well," he said. "Let us write these things down and sign them. And then I will go. And tomorrow I will return, and when I have found the water, the work shall begin."

Twenty minutes later, the duplicate contracts were signed.

By half past two the next day, Paul was sinking his pipe. Altho he took care not to show it, he was depressed. If his rod was to be believed, there was not one decent spring on Helipe's estate. There was certainly water here—where he was sinking his pipe; but either it was not abundant, or else it was very deep. And this was the only place; the rest of the property seemed to be dry as a bone.

So now he was sinking his pipe—to be sure that water was there before he began to dig.

The pipe was a pointed steel tube, some three feet long. About the point were small holes, designed to admit any water, but not any earth. His hammer was a billet of wood, hoisted to the top of a tripod and then let fall. His two younger brothers worked it, whilst Paul stood by. When the tube had been hammered almost into the earth, Paul screwed on another section, some three feet long. Then he stood back, and the boys fell to work again. And so on . . .

There were three spectators, two of whom Paul could have spared. One was Jeanne, watching with a hand to her mouth. One was Helipe, his hard-bitten face like a mask. And one was Bourda, his neighbor, ostentatiously fencing Padu, some 20 paces away.

The work proceeded. When 20 feet of pipe had been sunk, the well digger lowered a tell-tale into the tube. In silence he pulled it up, to find the thing dry.

Bourda laughed and spat.

"Wells are expensive," said Bourda. "And when they fail, their cost has been thrown away. I should buy Padu, Helipe. I will let you have the meadow for 20,000 francs."

In a red mist of anger, Helipe turned on his heel and blundered away. The market price of Padu was 1,500 francs.

The work proceeded—more slowly. The lower the pipe was sunk, the harder it was to drive.

To the lovers' relief, Bourda was called away before it was time to lower the tell-tale again. But when Paul drew this up, it was perfectly dry.

Jeanne drew in her breath, but her lover summoned a smile.

"Courage, sweetheart," he said. "We are but 20 feet down. I am sure there is water there; it is only a question of depth."

Jeanne looked into his eyes.

"I am sure, too," she said slowly.

In the first flush of pride and excitement, she had not considered the fact that Paul's success or failure was governed by nature herself. She had assumed that springs were there to be snared. The rest, she knew, was easy. Paul was a master of his craft. . . . And then, this morning, fear had knocked at her heart. She had seen the look on his face, whilst he was using his rod. . . . And now she perceived the truth—that the dice were loaded against them, that water in abundance was simply not to be found.

To make matters 10 times worse, she knew that her lover would never throw in his hand. If he found a spoonful of water, he would dig his well on the chance that the spring, when opened up, might prove to be an excellent source. And so love's labor would be lost and six weeks' grueling labor would go by the board. And the business would do him no good. It would soon be everywhere that Paul Colomez had let a customer down.

Jeanne Discovers Her Father Has Company

"Mother of God," she whispered. "Our state will be worse than it was. My father will hound him out, and I shall be forced to marry that viper Birot. I cannot stay here much longer, and I am in love with Paul, and Birot is twice my age and has rotten teeth." She shuddered. "O, dear, O, dear, I am sure there is some way out. Mother of God, let me see it, before the damage is done."

It was as she was passing the house, to come to the byre, that she heard her father's voice from a chamber above.

"Sit down, my friend," it said. "I will give you a glass of my wine."

Jeanne stood still in her tracks. She had not known that her father had company. After a moment's reflection, she entered the house, and, stepping out of her sabots, whipped up the crazy stair and set an ear to the door.

"I thought it was that," said Helipe. "I thought it was that. And I do not blame you, Birot; my little daughter will make a most excellent wife."

"And the dot," said Birot softly. "What figure do you propose?"

"Dot?" said Helipe. "Dot? You must be out of your mind. You are not a viscount, are you—to ask for a dot?"

"But, my friend, consider——"

"You are mad," said Helipe, shortly, "as well as baseborn. You must provide for my daughter, if she is to take your name. What is 'Madame Birot,' I ask you, to a girl who has been known as 'Mademoiselle Helipe?'"

Birot grimaced.

"I could take offense," he said smoothly. "I have the right. But I prefer to honor a father's whims. I hereby renounce any dot. I will take the girl as she stands."

"That is all very well; but you must provide for her."

Birot raised his eyebrows.

"Do you suppose that I shall permit her to starve?"

Helipe shook his head.

"I must have something concrete," he said. "When I am dead, she will be a valuable wife. A contribution to her property is indicated."

Birot stared upon him, with open mouth.

At length—

"Are you suggesting," he said, "that I should purchase the girl? That so far from taking a pauper—"

"I am," said Helipe, "making no suggestion at all. I am simply pointing this out—that a Birot who marries an heiress must first contribute something to her inheritance."

With that, he emptied his glass—and filled it again.

After 10 futile minutes—

"Mark you," said Birot, "I do not say that I consent. The thing is preposterous—unheard of. But, if I were to consent, what figure had you in mind?"

"No figure," said Helipe, swiftly. "I ask no money at all. I simply require a gesture. Upon my death, Jeanne will become the owner of this very beautiful farm. To improve upon it is hard—if not impossible. The woods are pure, and the meadows are very rich. Still, as luck will have it, there is a little corner which could be rounded off. It is a meadow, called Padu, which Bourda owns. Give that to me—to add to my daughter's estate, and, tho I should not do so, I will consent to your marriage with that most desirable girl."

"But——"

"Those are my terms," said Helipe. He got to his feet. "Mark you, my friend, I do not desire the match. But the girl is looking around, and I feel that she should be settled without delay. And if you will make this gesture . . ."

Birot rose also, and Jeanne made good her escape. . . .

Wise in her generation, she did not tell her lover what she had overheard; but she did take care to meet Bourda and tell him that, afraid of extortion, her father had authorized Birot to purchase his field.

"My dear," said Bourda, "I shall give you the 10 per cent."

"Don't sell till I say so," said Jeanne. "I shall know how far he will go."

As the early dusk came in, Paul found a spoonful of water 40 feet down.

Three weeks had gone by, and the tragi-comedy was gathering weight.

Helipe was "sitting pretty." Birot was half out of his mind. Paul was nursing a hope which he knew was forlorn.

After his interview with Birot, Helipe had lost interest in the well; but as the days went by, and Birot failed to report, the value of a well of good water began to compare with the virtue of Padu's spring. This, extrinsically. Birot's failure to report could only mean that Bourda was asking a fancy price. And, tho he was not to pay for it, Helipe could not bear the idea that Bourda should get what he asked. Twenty thousand francs!

Helipe would have preferred Padu to any well. But if the price of Padu was this fantastic exalting of Bourda's horn, a well of good water was very much more to the point. The masonry, perhaps, would cost him 2,000 francs. Not a very high price for sending Bourda to hell.

Thanks to Jeanne and Bourda, Birot was losing weight. When he had stuck at 10,000 Jeanne had contrived to encounter him in the fields. That night he had gone to 12, and Bourda had laughed in his face and had talked about 25. Subsequent encounters with Jeanne had got him as far as 18, but Bourda had raised his price to 26.

"I am sorry, my friend, but I am becoming attached to this little field. I do not want to sell it, and that is the truth. If you will say here and now that you will buy it for 26,000

THE TORN LETTER

By EDWIN BALMER

(Copyright: 1940: By Edwin Balmer)

June stopped a little away from him, and she remained standing until it was finished.

CONCLUSION

JUNE watched her father as he went to the phone. For the moment, she could not move.

"This is Emory Stranton," he said to the operator. "Ready," he replied and June jumped up and stood beside him.

"Ready with Rolanne," the operator warned, and immediately he heard Norman Felladay's voice from far away. Old Norm spoke slowly, but directly; he did not deal in evasions. "One moment, Felladay," Emory finally interrupted him. "I want to speak to my daughter. She's here with me." He looked up at June, then; but he did not have to tell her.

"It was Ned," she said to her father, very quietly.

"Yes, it was Ned."

"Dead."

"Yes, he's dead."

"Killed."

"Yes, killed. But you didn't have anything to do with it, June!"

"I didn't?"

"No, not even most indirectly!" her father defended her to herself. "He wasn't shot as a result of—of police pursuit or of anybody trying to arrest him, because he was wanted here. He was shot by some one who wanted to rob him and did rob him."

"Have they the man who shot him?" she demanded.

"No, not yet, but it's perfectly clear what happened. Ned was hiding in an empty house. Two men—not officers—had been following him, they seem to have surprised him, when he was sleeping. He probably resisted them and they shot him and took the money he had with him. Felladay was sure, you know, it was a very large amount."

"Yes."

"They even cut the seats and cushions of the car, which Ned had been driving, to see if he had had more money stuffed in there. So it was Ned's own act—his taking so much money with him—that cost him his life."

Emory turned from his daughter and resumed his talk with Norman Felladay in the little village in Quebec. June, watching him and listening, heard him suddenly say: "What?" and she bent closer, hoping to be able to make out Old Norm's words in the receiver which her father held to his ear, but she could not.

"What is it, father? What is it?" she asked him, her hands on him.

He put down the phone, cutting the connection. "There's not the least doubt—none whatever—that it's Ned," Emory told her. "And no doubt that the fingerprints from his apartment, which were used to check with the fingerprint on the pin on Lily Leam's dress, was Ned's. They've checked that up there. It was he who touched the pin at her breast."

"Yes. . . . What else did Mr. Felladay tell you just now?"

"Nothing," Emory attempted to deny.

"O, yes, there was something more!"

"There was, but it was something he didn't completely explain. He'll come and see us tomorrow. He's starting down, with Ned, tonight."

. . . .

Paul Rogell walked a long way alone. His home, the very modest dwelling which his father rented, was on the outskirts of Paignton, and Paul, avoiding the village, had chosen a path which he knew was little used. He was in no mood to talk to friends, much less to welcome chance company.

Paul Speculates on Success of Symphony

He was glad that he had not gone to the studio in Newark, but had remained with his father and his mother, while his symphony was being played. It was not yet actually a symphony, he knew; it was little more than an arrangement of themes from a symphony which was yet to be written. A tone poem—the announcer had called it, and Paul himself would have described it to others even less pretentiously, but within him he felt as it might be and as he meant to make it—a symphony.

Would it stand, some day, with the great works? Had he the power to complete it so that, in years to come, some people—only a few perhaps, but yet some—would speak of it as some spoke now of Cesar Franck's symphony in D Minor, or Dvorak's, "From the New World"?

Paul had to wonder whether, if he had not been on the jury and if his music could not have been connected with the case, any one would have played it at all?

Reaction had set in—recoil from his first joy and triumph. He found himself upon a little footbridge spanning a brook and he stood, considering the tiny stream. A mile or so farther on it flowed below the terrace whereon Lily Leam had sat with Geoffrey Wardlan and where—after Wardlan had gone one night—another had come and killed her. Another who now confidently could be named; another whom June Stranton had meant to marry and whom—if now they brought him to her—she must accuse.

Accuse him of murder instead of marry him! How awful an alternative! Paul had no theme for this; no tones for it formed within him. Perhaps, later they would come; perhaps, in the end, they would complete his symphony; but he would never want her to hear it.

He wanted her to have heard what he had written and what, an hour ago, had been performed. Tom Knapp had telephoned him that he had phoned her home and left a message. Tom did not know that it had been brought to her; and of course Tom had not known whether she had tuned in. If she had happened to, had she heard the new passage—the part he had written representing herself, withdrawn from the jury and standing alone before the court?

Thru many hours, thru days indeed, he had sat beside her. And now, perhaps, he was never to see her again! O, he might meet her on the street; she might even stop and speak to him; but it would be in passing. No contact between them; on her part, no concern.

Paul turned back toward the town. Long ago, when June Stranton and Paul Rogell were children, he had happened to prove of some small service to her on an occasion of difficulty to her; and now, very recently, in this great emergency which had come upon her, he had happened to be the man seated beside her. It might mean nothing; at best it could be no more than a coincidence, he reasoned with himself; yet, as he returned to his home, he could not dismiss the thought that when fate intended to link one person with another, it went about that business often in the most preposterous manner.

His mother met him at the door. "So many people have been telephoning!" she cried and then told him what he wanted most to know. "Miss June Stranton telephoned."

"She did?"

"She was listening; and her father was listening, too; with her."

"She told you?"

"She spoke to your father. She said she more than liked it, Paul! She said Mr. Emory Stranton more than liked it, too. She said that he said to bring her the score and he would take it to people in New York."

"She said for me to bring her the score?" Paul repeated.

"Yes. . . . But, Paul, there's other news."

"What news?"

"On the radio. It's just been announced that the young man in Quebec has been identified. He's Mr. Melbourke, whom she was going to marry. The lawyer identified him, and is bringing him back to New York."

On the same day that Norman Felladay returned to New York, Geoffrey Wardlan was released from all custody. The indictment against him finally quashed; he was free.

He went immediately to the lodge in which he had lived and worked during the months before he met Lily Leam and during the brief weeks afterward, before she was killed. Many people wanted to see him; but while he had been waiting for the formalities necessary to clear away the charges against him, he had been visited by his few real friends; and he had no family; he preferred, in his freedom, to be again alone.

The Paignton police detailed men to duty at the lodge so that he would not be annoyed by curiosity seekers. Geoffrey had a couple of professional packers in the house to box his instruments and laboratory materials, but he wanted no one more personally associated with him while he went thru the rooms for the last time.

The grounds of the manor also were guarded to keep out the public; but Geoffrey knew that he would be allowed to enter again the big, empty manor house and no one would interfere with him, if he wished to go down by the brook. Nothing was further from his desire; yet he found it difficult to hasten his departure from the place. The lease of the lodge still stood in his name; he had the right to remain there; and, strangely, he stayed after the packers had gone for the day.

June Goes to Lodge to See Wardlan

He went to the room where he had slept and he even considered occupying the bed for one more night. This was not at all in accordance with the plans he had made when he was in jail and after it had become certain that he woud be released; his own mood surprised him. . . . He heard some one walking heavily on the stairs and, the next moment, the voice of one of the policemen.

"Mr. Wardlan!"

"Yes; I'm here."

"There's a young lady at the door. I told her I'd tell you she's here."

"Who?"

"June Stranton—Miss June Stranton."

"Who's with her?"

"Nobody; she's alone."

Geoffrey put his hand to the wall beside him. He stood, staring thru the dusk at the face of the man dimly outlined before him. "Ask her in," Geoffrey finally said and, as the man turned and started down the stairs, Geoffrey followed him down, but turned from the entrance door and went into the room which he had used for a study and switched on the light.

The packers had emptied the shelves of books, but otherwise the room was in fair order, except for the curtains which had been taken down. The window-shades had been rolled to the top and, while he waited, Geoffrey lowered them, but he raised them again before June entered the room.

"How do you do," she said to Geoffrey Wardlan.

"How do you do."

He had turned from the last window, still holding the cord of the shade. Her eyes were bigger, he thought as he stared at her, much bigger than had seemed when she sat in the jury box; and she was younger—or older—changed, at any rate; his own confusion of emotions affected him.

"I heard you were here," June said.

"How?"

"On the radio this afternoon."

"The radio!" he repeated, with distaste. "I'll not be on that much longer."

"No," said June. "No. I'm sorry I had to see you; but I had to."

"I didn't mean," he said, letting go the cord of the window-shade, "that you shouldn't have come. I'm glad you've come—or I should have gone to see you, I suppose."

"Were you going to?"

"No," he admitted. "But I waited here. I wondered why."

"You see, I thought you'd be gone tomorrow."

"I will be, I hope."

"Then tell me the truth tonight; will you?"

"The truth?" he cast back and she saw him stiffen.

"O, not about who killed her. That's over; that's done. Did you think I didn't accept it? What I want to know is—why? Certainly," she said, "certainly we can be very plain with each other."

"Certainly."

"You mean, was it you—or me?"

June winced. "Yes; I guess I mean that."

"For it was over one of us."

"Yes."

"I never saw Melbourke," Geoffrey said after a moment. "I never knew his name—until it came out thru you. He was extremely careful; of course I knew—he existed."

"You quarreled about him that last day, didn't you? That was why you didn't go to the table that Bianca set for you, three times that day, on the terrace."

"Don't talk about the terrace!"

"I'm sorry. You see, it means so much to me."

"How can it? He wanted her; he had to have her; she wanted me; he killed her."

"That's what you think it was?"

"That's what it was, I tell you!"

. . . .

"Where were you, June?" her mother demanded. "Where in the world have you been?"

"I went to see Geoffrey Wardlan," June admitted.

"What in the world for?"

"Who's here mother?" June asked, in reply.

"Mr. Felladay."

"So he got here! He's with father?"

Elaine nodded and June promptly went past her to the little room, beyond the library, which her father always used for a talk with a man. The door was shut, but she opened it.

"Where did you go, June?" her father asked her, almost in the same words as had her mother.

"I went to see Geoffrey Wardlan," she told him; and he said: "I thought so," and sank back in his chair.

"Tell me about Ned," she said to Norman Felladay.

Old Norm considered her for several seconds before he made any reply. He had lived a long time and he knew how important to her would be the brief, in regard to Ned and herself, which she must carry thruout her life. Finally he asked:

"You went to Wardlan about Ned, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"What did he tell you?"

"He never saw Ned."

"But he knew what was going on."

"He thought he knew."

"What did he say it was?"

"He said Ned wanted Lily Leam. Ned tried to make her break off with Geoffrey Wardlan; and Ned couldn't do it. Is that true? Is that what it was? If Ned never cared for me, after he'd found her, why did he send that letter to me—even if he only copied it?"

Old Norm looked quickly from June to her father and he saw that Emory realized what he wanted to say; and Emory nodded to him.

"Ned cared for you, after he'd found her; and she cared for Geoffrey Wardlan—and for Ned, too. Wardlan can tell himself, thru the rest of his life, that it was over him they quarreled; and you have just as much right to tell yourself that it was over you. However, Ned killed Lily Leam; and you—he would have married you, if you'd let him, never telling you first what he'd done."

"Yes," said June.

"It is perfectly clear that he'd made plans to take you away with him and keep you so far away, during the trial, that you'd never hear any details of the evidence. Yet—yet I think," Old Norm found himself impelled to qualify his own condemnation, "that if Wardlan had been convicted, Ned would not have let him go to the chair."

"What do you think," June asked, "would he have done to prevent it?"

"So you've been going over that, too!"

June nodded, her lips pressed tight together.

"I don't know what Ned would have done," Old Norm confessed. "For I don't think he knew himself. Probably he counted on Wardlan being acquitted anyway. Your father tells me that you recently have received a message Ned sent to you."

"Yes."

"It was one he tried to have delivered to you, when you were locked in the hotel with the jury."

"Yes. They didn't give it to me then; but I have it now."

"What does it say, if I may know?"

June Reveals Contents of Ned's Last Letter

June glanced at her father. "Why didn't you tell him?" she inquired.

"You tell him," Emory replied.

"He wrote me, 'Remember, remember,'" June repeated. "'I am waiting for you. We belong together, not apart. And at the earliest possible moment, let us be together again. I am waiting for you.' And more like that," June went on, "to make it seem just a love letter; for he knew that, unless it seemed only a love letter, there was no chance the constables would give it to me; but he meant it to tell me that he was waiting for me outside the hotel; and he was waiting there for me that night. I saw him, but I didn't go out to him—or even try to. Of course I didn't know what he'd written me; but it would have made no difference. . . . But suppose that night I had got away and gone down to him. That would have made quite a difference."

"He'd have taken you to the south seas," Old Norm informed her. "He had a cabin and passage for two paid for in San Francisco. He'd even written to Tahiti about getting a little boat there to cruise to other places. You'd have been with him on some coral island when the trial was beginning again; for after you'd run away from the jury—if you had—they'd have been obliged to begin all over again. Tahiti was his plan for you and him, together; there were other plans for himself alone—two or three others, carefully prepared. Yet, when the time came, he seems to have been afraid to follow any of them thru; so he just collected his cash, took another name, and went to Canada and tried to hide; but a couple of men found out about that cash he had with him; so they killed him."

"And you," Emory emphasized to his daughter, "had nothing to do with that."

"On that last day, before he was killed," Old Norm added, "Ned must have known from the newspapers, and from the radio, what had happened in Paignton; but he never blamed you, June."

"How can you say that?"

Old Norm glanced quickly at Emory; then very deliberately he felt in a pocket and took out a flat steel key.

"Ned was found with this in his hand."

"A key?" June said. "Yes; the paper said so."

"They didn't know what key it is. I do."

"What?" June asked him.

Exhibiting the key in the palm of his left hand, Old Norm produced from his pocket a bunch of keys and showed one, a duplicate of the first.

"They open a safety deposit box to which Ned and I both had access."

"What for?"

"I kept in it his will and some sim-francs, well then I will make the sacrifice. I am a man of my word. But less than that, no. I cannot for nothing tear a piece out of my heart."

Birot had to be assisted out of the house.

Realizing that, if here was water, there was not much, Paul had decided to double the size of the well. If the depth of its water is the same, a well two meters in width will hold more than twice what a well of one meter will hold. In theory, it should, of course, take just twice as long to dig. But Paul had got down to things, and theory had gone by the board. Early and late he had labored, as never before. It had torn Jeanne's heart to see him. The two boys who hauled up his buckets had never been worked so hard.

And now he had found his water, 40 feet down—a delicate film of crystal, which, when it was trapped, would yield, say, three gallons an hour. Three gallons. And nothing less than 30 would serve his turn.

Jeanne found him soon after midday, his dinner untasted, sitting with his head in his hands.

"What it is, beloved?" The girl went down on her knees. "You have labored too hard, and now——"

Before the look in his eyes, the sentence faded and died.

"Mother of God," she breathed, "you have not struck rock?"

Paul shook his head.

"I have found water," he said: "the water I sought. It is running under the soil on a bed of blue clay. It cannot pass thru the clay—and neither can I. I have heard of such clay, but I never saw it before. It is very much like rubber. My pick is useless: I have sent George for an ax."

"But if you have found water, my darling, what need to pass thru the clay?"

"Because I have not found enough." He threw back his head and laughed. "I have dug a well of two meters 40 feet deep—and found a spring that gives three gallons an hour."

Jeanne buried her face in her hands. After a little, tears began to trickle between her fingers. The man sat staring before him with sightless eyes.

"And . . . you cannot . . . pass thru the clay?"

"I am going to try. That is why I have sent for an ax. But when I am two meters down, I shall throw in my hand. You see, we are up against time. A bed of clay at this depth may well be 30 feet thick, and I should have started the masonry two days ago."

Jeanne put an arm around his neck and laid her wet cheek against his.

"Listen, sweetest," she said. "Until we know it is hopeless you must not let my father see your despair. If you succeed, he will embrace you. But the moment he thinks you have failed, he will order you off the estate."

Paul nodded. Then with a sudden movement, he turned and took her face in his hands.

"I should," he said, "I should have had a wise wife."

"I am going," said Jeanne, "to have the most valiant husband in all the world."

The man bent his head and kissed the smile on her lips . . .

But Jeanne did not feel like smiling; she made her way down to the farm with a hunted look in her eyes.

Four o'clock found her standing, regarding the rising ground at the back of the farm. Seventy paces away was the mouth of the well—with the tripod standing about it, and George and Marc, Paul's two brothers, peering into the depths. Above and beyond it was Padu, guarding its precious rill, which turned away to the left, to babble past Bourda's dwelling and then dive under the road. And above again was woodland, a pleasant screen of hazel, where Paul used to eat his dinner and take his rest.

Jeanne regarded the picture biting her lip. Then she looked to right and left and made for the well.

Holding to one of the timbers, she called to Paul.

"You cannot see down there. You have done enough for today."

"I can feel," cried Paul. "I am nearly a meter down. Not all over, of course. Still . . . But perhaps you are right. One cannot work in the dark."

Two minutes later, he climbed up to her side.

"Send the boys home," she said. "I have something to say."

Jeanne Outlines Her Plan to Paul

Paul told the lads to be gone and dragged himself into his coat.

"What is it, sweetheart?" he said. "Have you found the rod of Moses to conjure a spring of water out of a rubber floor?"

"I am not quite sure," said Jeanne. "First tell me this. If water should reach this blue clay, are you sure that it cannot soak thru?"

"Can it soak thru rubber?" said Paul. "But there is no water there. If only there had been water, all that I had to do was to dig a hole in the clay. I should not even have had to wall its sides."

"Had there been water," said Jeanne, "how deep would you have gone down?"

"As deep as I could. I should have aimed at two meters. Because of the water, I might not have got so far."

"Can you get so far now?"

"Of course. There is, alas, no water to get in my way."

"I have an idea," said Jeanne. "Please listen to me." She threw a glance about her, before going on. "Padu is just there, above us—and so is Padu's rill. If the water of Padu's rill could make its way down clay, tell me, dear, would it make its way into your well?"

"No doubt about that," he said shortly. "Unhappily Padu's rill is 40 feet up."

The girl caught his arm.

"Take it down," she breathed. The man started. "Sink your pipe in the rill, and drive your pipe down to the clay. Your pipe has holes at the base. If they can let water in, they can let water out."

Paul stood at the carved out of stone.

"It is a trick," he said. "A very good trick, I grant you. But I shall not do it, my dear. Your father signed that contract——"

"And double-crossed you the next day." Breathlessly she told him of Birot, and the promise her father had made, and how she had put Bourda wise and kept Birot at bay.

Paul went white with anger. His lips went pale. When he spoke, he spoke vibrantly.

"By heaven, I will do this thing. Your father deserves no less. The very next day, by heaven . . . I am sorry to have to say it, but he is a swine. Never mind. You have a fine brain, my beauty, and I shall do as you say. I shall take tomorrow and Thursday, to make my hole—my cuvette. No. It will take me three days—that terrible clay. Tomorrow, then, Thursday and Friday. And on Friday night, when it is dark, I shall sink my pipe. And on Saturday morning, my dear, I shall find two meters of water within the well."

Just before midnight on Friday the work began. Not daring to trust his young brothers, Paul worked alone—with Jeanne to keep watch.

The night before, the man had chosen a pool, where the water swirled for a moment, before going on. Padu's turf had here encroached on the rill, and blades of grass leaned over, as thro to veil the water from curious eyes. The pool being eight inches deep, two inches of pipe could protrude from the bed of the rill, yet never be seen. And the water would never be missed. Padu's spring had always enough and to spare.

The man worked feverishly—as he had worked for three days. The rubberlike clay had almost broken his heart. Mercifully Helipe had been confined to the house. His yearly attack of bronchitis had supervened. He was, therefore, bound to accept his daughter's report. This had excited him greatly. "Water in abundance had been found; tho they baled hard as they could, Paul was working in water up to his waist."

"Mother of God, have mercy. We are not more wicked than most."

When the pipe had sunk 35 feet, the rough operation became a delicate business, requiring infinite care. At this particular spot, the clay might be more or less than 40 feet down, and only the tip of the pipe must enter the clay, and only two inches of pipe must protrude from the bed of the rill. Paul had short lengths of pipe ready, some only six inches long.

Without a kindly moon, the work could not have been done. The wooden hammer, of course, made but little sound 100 yards off. It was lost in the rush of the rill.

The pipe descended literally inch by inch. Between each blow, Paul let down his precious tell tale, to see if it came up wet.

At last Jeanne could bear it no longer.

"Paul, my heart," she faltered, "I cannot be sure, but I think it is four o'clock."

"I think so, too," he said quietly.

Jeanne tried to pray, but her tortured brain refused to obey her will. Tho she had not said so to Paul, her father had declared his intention of sallying forth this morning, to prove the depth of the water within the well. And Bourda always rose early. Success was within their grasp. But success would be useless—failure, unless it could be achieved by five o'clock.

Strike . . . test . . . strike . . . The pipe continued to sink, at twenty inches an hour.

Neither knew exactly what time it was when Paul drew up his tell tale, and found it wet. The pipe was down to the clay.

After a careful calculation, he dealt the pipe one more blow; then he set about dismantling the tripod, as fast as ever he could.

So far as the pipe was concerned, his luck was in; two inches only were protruding out of the pool. If, then, he unscrewed the last length—some six inches long—the top of the pipe would be four inches under water; and that would do. He had aimed at six. Six inches under water, in case of drought. But beggers could not be choosers, and four would do.

Quietly, he adjusted his chain-wrench.

An instant later, Padu's water was pouring into the pipe.

For two or three moments, the flow of the rill seemed to stop, and then the pipe was full, and the pool rose up to the level at which it had swirled before.

Paul straightened his weary back.

"It is done," he said. "Four lengths of pipe should be left. I have one here."

"I have the three," said Jeanne. "And the timbers are close to the hedge.

"And the chain-wrench. I think that is all.' He threw a glance round. Then he looked at the western sky. "A little rain would help us. I think it is on the way. To cover our traces, I mean. If Bourda——"

"Bourda will not come here today. It is market day at Larrenx, and when he has milked his cows, he will make for the bus."

Five minutes later, the two were out of Padu, and all the gear was lying by the side of the well.

The man caught the girl to his heart.

"Back to your bed, my darling. I am going to set up the tripod, and then I shall go. And when I come back at seven, the well will be full."

Helipe himself measured the water at 9 o'clock. Finding a depth of two meters, his eyes bulged out of his head.

He turned to Paul, and indicated the boys.

"Let them draw 50 buckets," he said.

They did so, before his eyes and at 10:30 he measured the water again.

When he found a depth of two meters he put out his hand for Paul's.

"I am going to Larrenx," he said, "to order the stones and cement. I shall announce your engagement to such as I meet."

For once in his life, the man was as good as his word. To all and sundry he said that his future son-in-law had dug him a peach of a well. Bourda heard the news, while drinking at the Café de la Paix, and, starting up to his feet, upset two bottles of wine. Less than an hour before, he had refused Birot's latest offer for Padu—22,000 francs in notes of the Bank of France. Cursing all big eyed sirens, he sought high and low for Birot, with all his might; if only he could find Birot, before Birot heard the news . . . But Birot had heard the news and was seeking high and low for Helipe.

Larrenx is not a big place, but a puckish fate ordained that neither search should succeed till the driver of the Oloron bus was starting his engine up. Then Bourda saw Birot, as Birot saw Helipe. Then Bourda, too, saw Helipe—and broke into a run.

"Helipe," he cried, "I have sold Padu to Birot. The meadow is his."

Birot spun around. To lose Jeanne was bad enough. And now this filthy blackmailer. . . .

"You lie in your throat," he said shortly. "You know that——"

"I am not lying," screamed Bourda. "I have the compromise ready. All you have to do is to sign."

"What if you have? You refused. It is now too late."

"You are mistaken, my friend. I said 'I accept.' I call upon you too——"

"You excite my disgust," raved Birot. "Besides, I am not such a fool——"

"I say you are a fool and a knave. When the judge commands you to pay me——"

"Perjurer," shouted Birot, waving his arms. "You know that I declined your infamous terms."

"Never," shrieked Bourda. "The thing was settled this morning. Lies will not help you——"

"You say that I lie, liar? My God, I cannot support such clumsy treachery."

"Traitor yourself," yelled Bourda. "When you are languishing in prison . . ."

Helipe Denounces Daughter in Letter

Since the two were too much engaged to notice the sound of a horn the Oloron bus had to swerve, before it could go on its way.

Five rainless months had gone by, and Jeanne was regarding a letter, finger to lip.

"Be good enough to consider yourself cast off.

"For myself, I shall make it my business to ruin the lying Spaniard whose well is now utterly dry. If you were here, instead of 50 miles off, I would denounce you both, in the presence of witnesses. HELIPE."

That evening Paul "jumped a lorry" and traveled to Ness. With him, he took his chain-wrench—and a pipe, just four inches long. Nobody saw him arrive, and nobody saw him leave.

Helipe received a letter the following afternoon.

"My father,

"Paul is quite certain that you have made a mistake. The spring may have choked itself for 24 hours. He says that does happen sometimes with a new made well. Pray measure the water again, before you do anything rash. JEANNE."

"The lying jade," spat Helipe; but he picked up his measuring line.

When he went to his bed that night, he was weary of body and soul. In body, because himself he had drawn 50 buckets of water out of the well; in soul, because, an hour later, the well was once again full. This would have rejoiced his heart—if that morning he had not bought Padu for 22,000 francs.

As a daughter, Jeanne had her shortcomings; but she was a wonderful wife.

THE TORN LETTER

ilar personal papers of his. I have not told you about his will."

"No."

"It was scarcely proper, until I was sure he was dead. Of course I know the contents of the will. I drew it."

June waited.

"Ned made me make it," Old Norm continued, "largely in your favor. In fact, except for some few cousins of his—second cousins, in fact, for he had no near relatives—you are the only individual designated as legatee. The other considerable bequests are to institutions."

"When did he do this?" June asked.

"About the middle of the summer."

"Before—or after—Lily Leam was killed?"

"The date is about a month after."

"I see."

"After Ned disappeared, and I had learned that he had emptied some of his safety deposit boxes, I visited this one. I discovered that he had visited it also—only the day before—but that he had not emptied it or, in fact, removed anything from it. Specifically, he had left the copy of his will; and he had taken the trouble to write the date of his last visit and initial it and write, on the cover sheet, 'I still want this.'"

"O," June breathed.

"When he was shot at that cabin in Canada," Old Norm quickly went on, "he was not instantly killed. I don't mean that he suffered for any considerable time; but he did not die immediately. He had a few moments during which he could do some final, instinctive thing. . . . He was found with this key in his fingers. Very clearly, I should say, he was thinking of you—and not, blaming you, I'm sure."

. . . .

"Now you must go away for a long rest," Elaine argued with her daughter three days later. "I shall take you away with me."

"But I don't need a rest," June objected.

"You do; and you ought to want to go away and be as inconspicuous as possible for a while. It is the only proper thing to do, under the circumstances."

"I'd like to be inconspicuous again," June agreed. "But I don't want to go away."

"You can do nothing more for any one or about anything, by remaining here." Elaine reminded her without mentioning Ned, who had been buried, or referring to his affairs, which had been settled in so far as June was concerned; for yesterday she had signed a paper in Old Norm's office which made over to the other legatees her share of whatever might be realized from Ned's estate.

"June is stubborn and unreasonable," Elaine complained to Emory, when he returned that evening. "Nothing I say to her moves her or seems to have the slightest effect. I suspect that piano player."

"He's more than a piano player and you know it; much more," Emory corrected her. "I saw Markiloff today; he's gone over the manuscript of Paul's——"

"You call him Paul!" Elaine accused.

"Of course I do."

"I suppose he brought you his manuscripts and wheedled you——"

"He brought nothing; and I never saw him at all. I sent for the manuscript from the radio studio. And now that Markiloff has studied it, and I've talked to him, I sent for Paul to come and see me this evening."

"Here?"

"Yes: here."

"But June is here."

"My dear, did you possibly think that I was not aware that June was here?"

Paul had made amazing progress with his symphony since it had been played on the air. He had not completed it; he had prepared nothing like a full orchestration of all the movements; but he had added a new movement with a theme that filled him with wonder and awe. He had played it yet only to himself, not even to his father; it was still developing in his feelings, surprising him with tender phrases which formed themselves without his having to strive for them, without his making any deliberate effort of his own.

He realized what they were—representations of his dreams of June, now that he knew that Ned Melbourke was dead. He had put them on paper, but intentionally he laid aside those sheets when he gathered together the transcript of the other movements to take them to Emory Stranton.

Paul had not inquired of June and Emory had not referred to her during the brief telephone conversation; accordingly, as Paul drove to the house, he was not sure even that she was there.

Only her father was there and he had upon the piano some of the sheets of the score which Tom Knapp had taken to the radio station.

"I don't play," Emory said to Paul, referring to the music, "but I can pick out parts with two or three fingers. It's astonishing how much satisfaction it is to do it for yourself—when you like a thing."

Paul felt himself much more at ease with this man as they both sat down. Emory was direct and practical; he told Paul exactly what Markiloff had said; he urged Paul now to call upon Markiloff and cautioned him about some of Markiloff's prejudices and peculiarities. So they came to the end of their business.

"You daughter is here?" Paul suddenly said.

"Yes; she's here."

"May I see her, sir?"

"Yes; you may see her," Emory said. He went upstairs and, after he spoke to June, he did not return to the music room.

Paul went to the piano when he knew that she was approaching. He had not planned to; the impulse surprised him and took complete possession of him. What had he to say to her—if he used words with which to speak? Nothing of the slightest consequence could be phrased in words permissible to him now; but at the piano, he played his new theme which he had avoided playing for Emory Stranton and which he had not played even for his own father.

June stopped, a little away from him and she remained standing until it was finished.

"What is that, Paul?" she asked him then. "Your own, I know."

He turned and looked up at her. "It's for the end, June," he said. "The end of the symphony. You—you feel what it is?" he asked her.

She nodded. "A love theme—but not at all like the other."

"No," he said. "No; for this——" he stopped for he could not tell her then. Only later—very much later it was and by that time the symphony was finished and thrice had been performed, in Boston, in New York, and in Chicago—they spoke of it boldly between themselves; the theme of you and me.

BEAUTY NOTES by Eleanor Nangle — RECIPES by Mary Meade — ETIQUET by Helen Bartlett

Half-Hat Is Millinery Fad for the Spring

By Bettina Bedwell.

Coaxing the girls of this country in under a new hat, or any hat, for that matter, is one of the major efforts of folks who make millinery fashions. Hatlessness has, in the last few years, loomed up as a big menace to the hatters hereabouts, and what to do about it is their obsession.

For spring, Lilly Dache, clever designer of chapeaux, has an inspiration, which is what she calls the half-way hat, or the half hat. She shows various versions of this. It is actually a decoration consisting of bouquets of flowers, ribbons and such things that are clamped around the head by bicycle clips. These half-hats have nothing compelling about them, and it appears that the girls who decorate the rotogravure sections of our papers as glamor debutantes are taking them by the dozens to the south with them.

• • •

Hattie Carnegie also has half-hats for girls and women who have become antihat in the past years when mad hatters were on a rampage. Hers are mere crownless silken scarfs that are twisted to make a decorative frame around the head, with fringed ends cascading down the right side, usually. John-Frederics puts out enticing bait in the shape of chiffon weight triple skull caps of bright jersey, which may be shed one at a time if they become a burden. And there are others. You'll be finding them in your favorite shop any time now.

As for the women who have not rebelled against the hat, who feel that a good hat is always a big help, the milliners have certainly extended themselves to give these faithful something really fine, flattering and colorful.

A followup of the Victorian bonnet, and quite as quaintly charming, is the straw sailor worn back of the pompadour, and trimmed with colorful ribbons, or tied around with a veil just like Gibson's glamor girl wore hers. Other sailors are flattened to be about pancake high, and are worn tilted forward.

• • •

Brims are given treatment by all the great millinery makers to induce them to flatter. Double and triple gathered and shirred brims are all over the millinery style scene. Many of them may be draped up off the face, down or to one side. And single brims also are done this way. And for dressup doings the styles have borrowed lace from the South American señorita, lace that falls from brims over the face, or makes narrow ruffles that soften brims. This trimming is much newer and smarter than the veil.

Among the more sensational versions of the double brim is the awning brimmed hat, which has one brim with an upsweep and a smaller visor-like brim that lets down over the forehead like an awning. There are also deep, mushroom brims, cloche brims, and curving Breton sailor brims in great quantities and variations. Visored caps are being offered for sports. Crownless visors with rippled flattery in the visor are part of the half-hat movement.

• • •

Don't get the idea that our two big runner hats of this season are out of style, because they're in the big swim again. I mean the turban and the bonnet. Bonnets are newest in the Peruvian "cholla" shape, or John-Frederics' modified Moyen age bonnet made of chintz.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

To prevent or to clear the aggravating lip chapping that is a common winter ailment, try a new lip pomade that is either pink tinted or colorless and serves also as a lipstick base.

Most of us have troubles enough without putting up with the irritation of chapped and torn lips. And since it's so simple to keep them from chapping, why don't we?

Cold weather is the usual cause, that and a mannerism some women have of moistening their lips too many times a day. The first sign of trouble is excessive dryness; if this isn't checked the skin will become ragged or even torn and no lipstick application can be successful.

There's a new pomade for chapped and dry lips that has a beautifying as well as soothing value. It's rose tinted. If you don't use lipstick this faint tinge of pink will strike you as just enough color. If you do use liprouge you'll find that the coat of pomade makes an excellent base. Your lipstick will go on smoothly, even tho the skin is so chapped it's ragged.

Some pomades are thick and heavy, making lipstick look pretty awful when applied over the protective coating. This one goes on slickly; so does lipstick over it.

For men, or for children, or women who disdain any lip coloring at all this same pomade is also made without a pink tint. Men who are outdoors a great deal find this completely satisfactory not only in preventing chapping but in correcting it.

It's a nicely inexpensive little pomade, a very small investment that pays good dividends in winter comfort.

Here's Etiquet Rule on Naming Heir "Junior"

Are you a wall flower? Are you too shy? To help you overcome such a handicap, Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor, has written a helpful booklet, "Charm and Self-consciousness." It is on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 3 cents. Postpaid, 5 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

If you promise not to ask me why this rule is what it is, I'll go on to explain what recognized high authorities in etiquet consider the correct way of deciding whether a son and heir who is given the same name as his immediate antecedents shall be named Junior II., III., IV., or whatever it happens to be. The trick to the question and the answer to the puzzle that has furrowed your brow, too, is that Junior and 2d cannot be used interchangeably for the son of the father of the same name.

Junior is the suffix added to the name of the son who bears his father's exact name. But the title 2d means the nephew or cousin of the man of the same name. It is a different branch of the family, you see, and not a direct line. Then the son of either Junior or the 2d can be the 3d, provided his name is still the same as his forebears.

• • •

To explain further about this use of titles let me go on to say that it is not good form for a man to continue to use the suffix Junior after the father has died. The son then becomes just John Smith. And if he is married his wife becomes Mrs. John Smith. But his mother, if she is alive, adds the suffix Senior to her name in order that she will be distinguished from her daughter-in-law.

By the same token it is not correct for a man to continue adding 2d or 3d to his name when either the original John Smith or Junior are no longer living.

A mother and daughter who are well known professionally and who bear the same name distinguish between themselves by adding "younger" to the daughter's name. There are some instances where you see her called Mary Smith Jr., but Mary Smith, younger, is considered better because "junior" is a masculine form.

Many Puzzling Cookery Terms Are Explained

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Some day several gourmets will put their heads together, gather up their notebooks and a good deal of reference material, and write an exhaustive, concise and interesting encyclopedia of food, and dictionary of menu terms. I wish for such a volume [it probably would be many more than one volume] on the average of once a week, I'm sure, and I know that others interested in food from both the professional and amateur points of view often have need of information such as this work would contain.

Most foods have an extremely interesting history, even the lowly onion, which was once worshiped as a sacred object.

• • •

This information should be contained in the food encyclopedia, and more practical, if not quite so interesting, there should be also a dictionary of menu terms, most of which would be French, for we seem to have borrowed heavily from the French in our cooking.

Any cookery "dictionary" which could appear in a cooking column would necessarily be a brief, condensed one, but readers have indicated that information of this type would be a welcome addition to recipe scrapbooks, so herewith is mine:

DICTIONARY OF MENU TERMS.

A LA KING—Served in cream sauce containing green pepper, pimiento, and mushrooms.

ANTIPASTO—Italian appetizer course which usually includes a slice of salami, several hot little peppers, a slice of tomato, onion, and similar relishes, with olive oil.

AU BEURRE NOIR—French "with black butter," a dish served with melted, browned butter.

AU GRATIN—French "with crumbs," but most of our "au gratin" dishes also include cheese in the browned topping.

BEEF A LA MODE—Beef which is larded and braised with vegetables.

BISQUE—Thick soup made from shellfish. Also an ice cream with nuts.

BLANCH—To whiten. Nuts are "blanched" by covering with boiling water, which loosens the skins so that they may be slipped off.

BOMBE—Ice cream or a frozen pudding molded in round form.

BORDELAISE—French "of Bordeaux," a sauce with Bordeaux wine as base.

BORSCH—Russian beet soup.

BRIOCHE—Rich French coffee bread.

• • •

CAFE AU LAIT—"Coffee with milk."

CAFE NOIR—"Black coffee."

CANAPE—"Couch" or "sofa." The term has come to mean a piece of toasted bread spread with an appetizing paste. The bread is the "couch" for the paste.

CONSOMME—Clear meat soup, highly seasoned.

CREPES—French pancakes, thin, crisp ones.

CROISSANT—"Crescent." Crescent shaped rolls are called croissants.

DEMI-TASSE—"Half-cup," a term applied to after dinner coffee served in undersized cups.

ESCARGOTS—Snails.

ENTREE—Dish served between main courses at dinner. Americans use this French term improperly to denote the main course.

ESPAGNOLE—Spanish. A brown sauce.

FOIE—French, meaning liver. Pate de foie gras is "paste of fat liver," and it's usually goose liver.

FRAPPE—An ice which is frozen only partly, and is drunk rather than eaten with a spoon.

FRIZZLE—To slice thin or shred and fry crisp, as "frizzled ham."

GUMBO—Okra. A thick okra soup is called gumbo, as well as the plant itself.

GRILL—To broil.

JULIENNE—Vegetables cut in fine strips. Named after a French chef who used match strips of vegetables in soups.

MARINATE—To let stand in an acid dressing.

MINESTRONE—An Italian thick vegetable soup.

MULLIGATAWNY—East Indian "pepper water," a highly seasoned curry soup.

• • •

PERSILLADE—French, a dish containing parsley.

PETITS FOURS—Small, fancy cakes.

PLANKED STEAK—Steak cooked on a wooden plank, usually garnished with mashed potatoes.

PUREE—Food rubbed thru a sieve. Also vegetable soup.

RAGOUT—A well seasoned meat stew.

TORTE—German term for rich cake usually made from crumbs, eggs, and nuts.

TRUFFLE—A fungus similar to the mushroom, which grows below ground, in France.

VELOUTE—Velvety. A rich chicken or veal broth sauce.

VOL-AU-VENT—French, "flying with the wind," puff paste patties filled with meat or preserves.

Miss Meade contributes daily to the feature pages of the Chicago Tribune, guiding housewives to the best knowledge of cookery and hostessing.

Steak Meters.

A steak meter is now available which tells the exact time needed for broiling a rare, medium, or well-done steak. First, the thickness of the steak is measured and then a metal gadget indicates the time needed and the distance the steak should be placed from the flame.

The Lady of the House

Where Are the Pugs of Yesteryear?

What has become of Pug dogs? Call for Bob Becker! Call for Bob Becker!

Fashionable ladies used to set them on soft cushions and feed them saucers of cream; or take them for afternoon rides in their phaetons. It always seemed to me their funny faces added much to the gayety of nations. At least they tickled my risibilities and, by inspiring me in my earliest teens to essay portraiture, those of my family.

I had begun my lessons in oil painting; had progressed by painful degrees thru the "Yard of Pansies"; and shortly after, met the Pug. Abandoning the customary canvas, I did him on a wooden pail head. Didn't some of the old masters paint on wood?

I toiled thru hot afternoon lessons, but, try as I would, the eyes stubbornly refused to take on the proper expression, persisting in resembling those of a dead fish [if any fish has brown eyes]; and the wrinkles in his nose looked as tho made of corrugated iron. Eventually, after much brush wielding, with help of licking tongue and twisting ankles, I considered him finished, and my exhausted teacher let him pass.

Now for the proper framing. The head of the candy pail had a sort of flange which lent itself beautifully to my purpose. A bias fold of golden brown velvet was tacked all around this with gilt upholsterers' tacks in a rather wiggly row, then was drawn over the edge to the back and fastened there with ordinary carpet tacks. Two larger tacks held the ends of the wire and the portrait of Mr. Pug was ready to adorn the parlor hall.

Some one gave me a begonia with a profusion of lovely pink blossoms. It made me think of the old bay window at home and mother's collection of old fashioned house plants. There were always several begonias with brightly variegated leaves and fragile, waxy blossoms. They seem to need so little care and are such grateful things. Every time I think mine has brought forth the last blossom another little rosy bud creeps out and opens to the light. It's very heartening the way that little busy lizzie keeps working at her job.

Promises.

Winter with his phantom fingers
Whirls the snow and piles it high;
On the white world long shadow lingers;
Underneath, spring violets lie.
Winter with his fleecy cover
Tucks in wrinkled Mother Earth.
'Bove the friendly bright stars hover;
Below, red roses wait their birth.
Winter flaunts her coat, ermine white;
Scatters stardust o'er the lea;
Yet 'neath the glistening, icy night
There's the budding of a tree.

The "Lady" Goes to College.

A contrib writes:

Last Sunday, while preparing dinner, I heard my husband suddenly exclaim, "O, children, your mother has a poem in The Lady of the House today.

So, I thought, he also reads that column. Our oldest son, a university freshman, laughingly answered, "Wait until I see our English prof tomorrow; he reads that column, too." And then I discovered that he not only reads it, but suggests and advises that his students do likewise.

In Durance.

Were you ever ordered to bed to "rest that tired heart, or else?" . . . I look out of my window at the gray and white scene . . . silhouetted trees, their leafy green, which hid us in our cozy home a few short months ago, gone in the ever recurring cycle of leaf to earth, to tree, to leaf again. . . . The only touch of color a scarlet fire plug in front of the house which some one, with a perverted sense of beauty, painted a sky blue last summer, but which the indignant sun has faded to a dull bluish gray to tone in with the wintry scene. . . .

Across the street the man of the house came out and swept the porch in a strange, listless way. I wonder if his friendly little baby daughter, who waves her hand and smiles at passers-by, can be ill.

Soon I'll be listening for the sound of a horn. Sweeter even than the song of my little golden canary is my daughter's signal that once more she has returned safely from her daily 50 mile drive over treacherous winter roads, to and from the kindergarten where she is starting 45 little children on the road to becoming useful Americans. At the earliest possible moment the signal comes, and I relax and rest again. O. F. S.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

Needs No Cooking. Big Saving.

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never be without it in your home, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Winter Shows Bring Buyers to City Mart

By Edith Weigle.

The American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart here have thrown open their doors to retail dealers and buyers from all over the country. For another week the annual winter home furnishings shows will be on, and new trends in furniture, rugs, draperies, lamps, and accessories will be in evidence.

The exhibits stress modern design, with the well known period styles: 18th century, regency, colonial, and federal American coming next. And even Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton, and Duncan Phyfe will experience a modernizing touch. The trend is toward simplification, but away from the boxlike, purely functional type of furniture which we knew as modern for some years.

As proof of the growing demand for modern one manufacturer is showing in the Merchandise Mart 90 pieces in a single grouping. The new contemporary chests and case pieces have legs, short bases or no bases at all, but have a lighter, livelier appearance and a great variety of form.

Besides light natural tones of walnut and mahogany much oak is shown in the market this time. In limed effect, in dusty light hue, and in "peasant finishes," it will be seen in a gamut of styles ranging from modern thru French provincial and colonial.

One firm is offering nine different finishes in mahogany alone, as well as three in walnut. Fruitwood will be much in the fashion picture again, as simple French styles are revived. Plastics in combination with woods, and joined with rattan to fashion outdoor furniture will be seen in more lines than ever before.

In pastel colors these man-made synthetics are used with a clear finished maple—for example: to make apartment pieces. Outdoor plastics follow the lines of indoor, substituting rainproof and sunproof fabrics for the upholsteries. Porch and terrace furniture is following the regency trend in the winter market, using such materials as wrought iron and rattan. Hickory is taking on new rounded, flowing lines and making use of bold patterned fabrics—a great change in the porch pieces we've been seeing for years.

The Grand Rapids winter market opened Jan. 2 and will continue thru Jan. 16. A stunning new display of reed furniture is exhibited against a tropical, Hawaiian background. This is only one of a large number of completely redecorated showrooms which have been prepared especially for this market.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

Slam conventions that locate aces and kings are indispensable, but by no means perfect devices. For, when all is said, the sad fact remains that distribution is the bugaboo of slam bidding. Let's take a typical situation—the sort that causes master, expert, and average players alike, to shrug their shoulders and say in a resigned voice, "No way of getting there." The "there" in this case being a laydown slam.

NORTH.
♠K 10 7 4
♥Q 6 2
♦7
♣A J 8 5 4
SOUTH.
♠A Q 9 2
♥A K 4
♦8 5 2
♣K Q 3

South deals and bids one spade. [He could start with one no trump, or a more esoteric club or diamond bid, but the outcome would be the same]. North responds with three spades. [He might prefer two clubs; we'll get around to that later.]

Now South can make any one of a number of bids. Holding 4½ honor tricks, he is naturally aware that a slam is possible, but he does not overlook the dangerous diamond situation. However, it does seem that a contract of five odd should be safe, so South now tries out the Blackwood Four No Trump convention. North responds five diamonds, showing one ace. Where does this leave South? Exactly nowhere! One ace in North's hand can scarcely take care of South's losers, and tho the previous three spade bid marked North with other honors, there is no way of knowing where those honors are, nor is there the faintest picture of North's distribution, aside from his announced length in spades.

Now let us try out a different sequence of bids, to see whether we can throw some light on this obscureness:

South	North
1 spade	2 clubs
3 no trump	4 spades

At this point, South can bid five clubs, or five spades, or five hearts, or a number of other slam inviting bids, but the fact of the matter is that he is just groping around in the dark. Because—and here is the crucial point of the entire matter—there is utterly no reason why North's hand should not be:

♠K10 7 4 ♥7 ♦Q 6 2 ♣A J 8 5 4

For convenience sake, I repeat South's hand:

♠A Q 9 2 ♥A K 4 ♦8 5 2 ♣K Q 3

Now it will be observed the partnership is on dangerous ground at even the five level because the opponents may quickly snaffle three diamond tricks. North's values in the two hands are identical and, under our present methods of bidding, there is no earthly way for South to tell whether North's singleton is in diamonds where it is of inestimable value, or in hearts where it is so much dross. In connection with the first bidding sequence [where North bids three spades over South's one spade], North's hand might be equally disappointing—something along the lines of

♠K10 7 4 ♥Q 6 2 ♦A J 8 5 4 ♣7

Here, also, North would have the same values as in the first named hand, yet a slam contract would be fatal, since at least one diamond and one club would inevitably be lost.

Thus it is beyond argument that the honor trick value of a hand is not one iota more important than its distribution. The specific question of singletons throws a larger shadow on the slam picture than any other factor, and neither the Blackwood convention nor the Culbertson 4-5 No-trump convention can resolve this problem. The late lamented asking bids did solve it in a large proportion of cases. Admittedly, it was not easy to remember the schedule of these bids and consequently, the bridge public refused to play them.

This was just one more bit of evidence that the "royal" road to success, chimerical as it may be, is the only popular road. Apparently, players would rather achieve a painless 50 per cent rating on slam bidding than a painstaking 90 per cent rating. Yet, I cannot help feeling that this does not apply to all players—that there is a healthy minority who, if only for the sake of their pride, would be willing and eager to master a slam convention which would substantially raise the present standard. My aim, therefore, is to work out a system of slam bidding which will satisfy both factions; a system simple enough for the casual player to apply, yet accurate enough for the true addict. It is not an easy job, perhaps not even possible. Time will tell. Meanwhile, I shall welcome helpful suggestions from my readers.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Ordinarily, the combination of K-10-x in one hand and x-x-x-x in the other is not looked upon with much enthusiasm by declarer. However, on occasion it provides a slender but sufficient bulwark against defeat. Witness the following hand:

Rubber bridge.

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 diamond	3 clubs	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

"South had two reasons for this optimistic jump to five clubs: [1] He'd been going good all evening and felt that his luck would hold. [2] He wanted opponents to double rather than 'save' at five diamonds.

"South's luck continued good. Opponents didn't 'save' altho they would have been set only two tricks at five diamonds. Furthermore, they didn't double; and finally, West didn't lead a spade, which might have defeated South. Instead, he was kind enough to lead his king of diamonds. South took it with the ace, took two club leads, ending in his own hand, took the heart finesse, discarded his losing diamond on the ace of hearts, cleared hearts and diamonds, and led a small spade.

"Then, all he had to do was to cover whatever spade West played and East-West couldn't possibly garner more than two tricks. Quite simple. Almost routine! Yet several reputedly good players to whom I've shown merely the North-South holdings have failed to figure out the correct line of play. J. N. M., St. Louis."

This is just one more illustration—a good one—of the power of elimination play. It could do no harm and might do considerable good to clear away the red suits before attacking the spade situation. By recognizing this sound principle declarer received his just reward.

Hearts are trumps and South leads. North and South are to win three tricks against any defense.

Solution: South leads a spade. North ruffs and leads a diamond. East wins. East now has two lines of defense.

If East returns the winning diamond, South discards the spade. East then leads the trump. South wins with the king and leads the eight, forcing West to hold the trick. No matter what West leads, South's second best trump is safe.

If East leads the trump for the third trick instead of returning the diamond, South plays the king and leads his remaining spade. East can either trump or discard the diamond. If East trumps the spade and leads the diamond, we have the same situation. South trumps with the eight and his ten cannot be caught. If East discards the diamond instead of trumping, South's ten of trumps is still safe.

An article by Mr. Culbertson appears in the feature section of The Tribune each weekday.

Miss Corinne Zitenfield and Arthur Sachs to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Zitenfield of Cornell avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Corinne, to Arthur B. Sachs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Sachs, East 73d place. The wedding is planned for June.

Miss Zitenfield attended the University of Chicago, at which her fiancé received his bachelor of arts and doctor of law degrees. Mr. Sachs is now engaged in the practice of law.

Style No. 3410 is a jumper in the princess manner, with the two center gores forming the straps over the shoulder. Two pockets offer an unusual treatment, slanting in the same direction as the top of the bodice. It is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 54 inch material for the jumper and 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material for the long sleeved blouse.

Style No. 2826 is the tailored member of the group, having a most effective side closing from top to hem, and featuring only one pocket. The blouse features the popular and graceful bishop sleeves.

It is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch fabric for the jumper and 2 yards of material for the long sleeved blouse.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to New York address in coupon.

Home Owners' Querie

Chicago—[To the Home Building Editor].—Is there anything to keep rockers on rocking chairs from marring floor? We still have some of the o. f. rocking chairs some of my family like but they do mar a floor.

—MRS. F. H. C.

Answer: Try waxing the rockers well. Then you can "rock" in all directions with your chairs and the havoc will be much less.

Knitted Sleeveless Sweater

By Jean Macdonald.

It is interesting to note how many well dressed men prefer to wear a knitted sleeveless sweater under their sports suits instead of the usual vest. This good looking and thoroly masculine sweater is knitted in the old fashioned cardigan stitch. It is one of the easiest stitches and one which works up quickly. This type of needlework is grand to pick up when time lags on a southern cruise or just to work on while resting under palms.

For instructions in knitting the man's sleeveless sweater in cardigan stitch, No. 843, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Kirsten Flagstad Recital to Aid Norway Relief

Kirsten Flagstad, frequently hailed as the greatest living Wagnerian soprano, will sing in the interest of her fellow countrymen at a concert to be sponsored by the Committee for Norwegian Relief, Friday evening at the Civic Opera house. The famous Norwegian singer is donating her services to the Norwegian relief drive.

Mrs. Lillian Swanson, president of the Norwegian Women's federation, has organized ticket selling committees among the women's organizations affiliated with the federation.

Mrs. Reidar Rye-Haugan, president of the Norwegian Woman's club; Mrs. Carrie Lee, Mrs. Gerda Ericksen, Mrs. Caspara Sarheim, Mrs. Julia Lampa, Mrs. Axel Selrod, Mrs. Hjordis Nelson, Dr. Helga Ruud, Mrs. Bertha Foisted, and Mrs. K. Gundersen are among others prominent in the ticket selling campaign. Dr. Orlando Ingvolstad is state chairman of the Committe for Norwegian Relief.

Mrs. Harry Hughes.

British and French child war victims will be aided thru the proceeds of two benefits to be held next Sunday. Percy Grainger, noted composer and pianist, has offered his services to the Daughters of the Britain Empire in Illinois for a concert Sunday afternoon of the British hotel.

Michael Wilkomirski, violinist; Marie Sidenius Zendt, singer; Stephanie Noga-Courtney, Polish singer; Shirley Dickinson, Chicagoland music festival singer; Mona Bradford, contralto, and William Tabbert, baritone, both of the Chicago Opera company, and three young protégées of Rudolph Ganz also will be included on the program. A play, "When Lilacs Last," by Blanche Van Buren, will be produced by Blair Walliser, radio producer.

Lewis L. Bernays, British consul general, will open the program with a brief speech. Mrs. Harry Hughes, president of the Daughters, is working on arrangements with Miss Van Buren, executive chairman of the benefit, and a number of committee chairmen, including Mrs. George Cooke Adams, honorary chairman; Mrs. T. D. McCall, Mrs. W. G. Martin, Mrs. Maude Sweet, Mrs. Joseph C. Bolter, and Doris Mary Grist.

The Daughters of France, an organization of some 30 French born women who now are American citizens, will sponsor a program and tea at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the St. Clair hotel.

Mrs. Max M. Sorson, president of the Daughters, who is a playwright, will take part with Fernande Combet, actress member, in a presentation of one of Mrs. Sorson's comedies, and Mrs. Nelson Morris, also a member, who was an actress in Paris before her marriage, will singe several Parisian songs. Since their organization a year ago the Daughters have contributed funds to the Quakers for relief work among French children in unoccupied France.

Mrs. Ernest E. Irons.
[Koehne Photo.]

Mrs. Clyde E. Shorey was elected president of the woman's board of the Presbyterian hospital at the 57th annual meeting Monday. She succeeds Mrs. Ernest E. Irons, who has served for three years. It is Mrs. Shorey's second election to the office. She is a daughter of the late William A. Douglass, who was secretary of the hospital's board of managers for more than 50 years, and she is a sister of Kingman Douglass, present member of the board.

Mrs. David W. Graham, only living charter member of the original Ladies Aid society of the hospital, now the woman's board, read a unified report of the various committees at the meeting Monday. Asa S. Bacon, who is retiring as superintendent after 40 years at the hospital, bade the board farewell, and his successor, J. Dewey Lutes, was presented. Mrs. Graham was reëlected honorary president of the board. Mrs. Alva A. Knight was made a new vice president.

The board's appropriations committee will draw up the 1941 budget at its annual luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Fortnightly club.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning value. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

About six weeks have now elapsed since the final stamp of the Famous Americans series was issued. Six weeks without a new commemorative stamp and local collectors who a few months ago were praying for a breathing spell are now beginning to fear that future issues will be few and far between, and that they have seen the end of the first day cover furor. However, there is nothing definite to back up such a conclusion. The postoffice department is working on a stamp program for 1941 which may equal or surpass that of the last year. Many additional famous Americans have been suggested as worthy of a place with the 35 honored in 1940, and it is very likely that some of these will be included in the program. A stamp has been suggested for Vermont and another for Indiana, and there is a possibility that the coming year will see an entirely new series of airmail stamps and new designs for stamped envelopes. Definite announcements may be expected some time this month.

An interesting and instructive analysis of the Famous Americans issue has been made by William H. Rusch and published in Chambers Stamp Journal, Kalamazoo, Mich. Mr. Rusch has compiled the figures for first day sales and cancelations and finds that over five million first day covers were mailed and that more than 13,700,000 stamps were sold on the first days of the 35 stamps. The total cash involved in the first day sales amounted to almost half a million dollars.

On the basis of the figures alone, the Authors group was the most popular, with the others in the following order: Educators, Composers, Scientists, Poets, Inventors, and Artists. Mr. Rusch explains that the popularity of some of the groups has suffered thru a general loss of interest in first day covers as the series progressed. Undoubtedly the vacation of two months before the last two groups were placed on sale accounts for some loss of interest. The largest mailing of covers bore the Horace Mann stamp with Emerson and Foster not far behind, but when the cost of the stamps is considered, Mr. Rusch places Booker T. Washington as the most popular Famous American in the list with at least $16,350.70 spent for covers as compared with a third that amount in the case of the Mann stamp.

In order to stimulate stamp sales at the philatelic agency of the postoffice department, postmasters at all first, second, and third class offices are being supplied with printed lists of available stamps. These lists are to be displayed on the postoffice bulletin boards at all times.

The first two sections of "Who's Who on the Stamps of Latin America" are now available to collectors. The sections are released in alphabetical sequence and those at hand deal with Argentina and Bolivia. Brazil will be ready during the first week of February and others will follow at the rate of one or two each month. Rogelio E. Alfaro, a native of Panama, associated with the office of the counselor of the Pan-American Union, is the compiler and editor of this "Who's Who" and his familiarity with the language, his education, and his personal hobby of stamp collecting qualify him to ferret out the facts about the personages represented on the stamps of Latin America.

PITCAIRN ISLANDS
1d

These two pictures show one of the Pitcairn Island stamps recently issued for that remote community and the cachet affixed to the cover. Latest reports indicate that there is some excuse for the use of the plural form "Islands" on the stamp as three other remote islands are under the Pitcairn jurisdiction. The stamp is shown thru the kindness of Mrs. Alice Days of Chicago.

H. M. S. BOUNTY, 1789
"PITCAIRN ISLAND"
HANDS ACROSS THE SEA

Advance notices state that 95 per cent of the material contained in the various sections is not available elsewhere in the English language. This is readily believed by any one who has had occasion to look up the biographies of men shown on the stamps. Of 35 persons shown on the stamps of Argentina, 33 are not mentioned by the Encyclopedia Britannica, and 20 of the 22 personages shown on the stamps of Bolivia are unknown to the same reference work.

Each section carries a foreword written by the highest diplomatic representative from the respective country to the United States. The sections are offered to the public at 10 cents each, postpaid. Lots of 100 copies of a section carry a 25 per cent discount and lots of 25 are at 20 per cent discount. Direct orders may be addressed to Pan-American Union, Washington, D. C.

The story of the grilled issues of the United States which has been published serially in the official journal of the American Philatelic society, has now been made available to collectors in book form. These notes which were written by Lester G. Brookman of Minneapolis, Minn., fill 72 pages and include a discussion of the grills and the reasons for their use, a description of grilling apparatus, and illustrated study of experimental grills.

The major portion of the book illustrates and describes the grills actually issued between 1867 and 1871, but some space is devoted to the legendary grills of the Continental Bank Note company and to counterfeits of rare grills. This book is American Philatelist Handbook No. 6, and is priced at $1. It may be obtained by addressing an order to American Philatelist, 8118 Dante avenue, Chicago.

The annual exhibition, bourse, and banquet of the North Shore Philatelic society will be held on Jan. 24 to 26 at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The exhibition will present 250 frames of the finest material to be found in collections of Chicago and vicinity. The banquet will be held in the Michigan room of the hotel on Jan. 25, and will include a floor show and dinner dance. All Chicagoland collectors are invited.

Knits Taking New Place in Fashion Field

By Rea Seeger.

Knitted dresses and costumes have taken a new lease on fashion importance. No longer the uninspired practical models of a few years back, the new creations rival the smart thin woolens, crêpes or combines of silk and wool fabrics. Seams or streamlines no longer sag, back panels of skirts and sleeve elbows no longer bulge after a single wearing. These 1941 knits have all the clever detail and outline of any other new dress or ensemble. Besides being the best of the travel outfits such knitted apparel rates high as a midwinter costume for wear in town or country, under fur coats or fur trimmed cloth coats.

Even the colors are excitingly new and flattering. Everything that might be dull or uninteresting has been abolished. When you wear knitted clothes these days you are as smart as you are neat. The two piece models look like precisely fashioned tailored suits; ensembles are perfect threesomes of distinguished suit teamed with a topcoat. Dark street colors are as plentiful as the high and pastel tints ready for resort wardrobes.

• • •

Textures or weaves and clever new stitches make these knits definitly ideas of the hour! There are stunning plaid effects achieved with large crossed lines of contrast color knitted into the background color. There are the new ribbed effects that can be used so effectively in forty-five degree angles or diagonals for trimming, while the soft, nubby, semiknotty weaves that are almost classics offer a good assortment from which to choose.

There used to be just a few colors obtainable. Now color ranges are many and extremely flattering. There is a particularly interesting shade of dark green, a couple of very good grays, a copper tint while the browns are especially warm and the grays are soft, subtle, and easy to wear. Among the newer bright colors are a clear yellow gold and a cranberry red. The pastels range from baby blue, shell pink, maize, and off white to the natural shades of greige and biege. Navy blues and a few blacks complete the finds.

• • •

Jackets and blouse tops of the simple shirtwaist type fit with smoothness and will not bulge after a few wearings. But it is the skirts that make the news. They're cut with the same brief smartness as any woolen suits. Some have four flared gores that achieve a fine swing; others are flared in the knitting, which is some accomplishment, and still others are cut and flatly plaited with a knifelike precision formerly found only in wool fabrics.

Among these stunning machine knitted clothes will also be found the newest hand knitted sweaters, a most complete and varied assortment of beautiful sweaters ready for any occasion here at home or down where the sun shines. Sports sweaters are particularly handsome, having been copied from the famous Norwegian models. These have long sleeves, and simple high round necklines. Other hand-knits feature cardigan and slipover sweaters, a range of shades and colors that can't be equaled and fine new stitches that make for high fashion appeal.

Universal day—Get out of the grove. Make decisions and plans.

Vocations—Those born on the 12th have the single digit three as a vocation number, but behind that is the combination of the one and the two. They have a gift for words, either spoken or written, and at the same time must be original [1] in their field, or a leader, but with ability to work in coöperation [2] with others. Some of the best examples of this have been Sir Arthur Sullivan [3—expression] thru a partnership [2] with Gilbert; Ramsay Macdonald [spokesman—3] and [diplomat—2]; President Lincoln [orator—3, leader—1, and peacemaker—2]. These combinations will give you some idea of how the numbers within the combination work out. All these men were true examples of the three vocations, but with the difference of having the one of leadership first and the two, which has the keywords given above, as the second part of the combination. When we come to 21 you will see how that arrangement works out.

Mrs. Adela Moore, Chicago.—Why doesn't some ingenius manufacturer market small bottles filled with "scent of flowers" for white cakes? I always put rose geranium leaves on plate on which I place my fresh white cakes, which give them a marvelous flavor. But I could use other "scents," too, if I had them in usable form.

* *

Helen Tracy, Elgin, Ill.—I use the whites of stiffly beaten eggs when I want to restore glaze of my real leather pieces after I have cleaned them. I just rub on whites, and then rub briskly.

* *

Mrs. Elinor Thomas, Springfield, Ill.—Why doesn't every mother teach her daughters how to use table napkins so that red from lipsticks doesn't smear and stain them? It would save a lot of worry and work when laundering table linen, especially colored pieces. It's so easy to press lips together tightly, turning them inward. Older women might think about this, too. I speak from the heart—as I do all my own laundry and have three girls, 'teen age, and all their friends, at countless meals!

* *

Mrs. Ted Trottner, Chicago.—I should think it would be a good idea to have a roasting pan designed with a spigot at the bottom. In this way couldn't one draw off fatty juices easily when needed for basting or for gravies?

* *

Jennie May, Chicago.—After our two boys dropped their electric razors several times, my husband decided to save future damage. He taped a looped shoestring to razor cord. Now the boys slip this over thumb when shaving, and there's been no further droppage. Several of our friends have seen this arrangement and have given their electric razors the same protection.

Mrs. George Jordan, Milwaukee.—I find if I dip a banana in lemon juice as soon as I have peeled it, it won't become discolored so quickly.

* *

Kitty Proctor, Chicago.—Why won't they put up sugar in packages that pour out easily the way salt comes out of container?

* *

Mrs. Leonard Smith, Chicago.—I have one bowl I use especially for short stemmed flowers. I place moist sand in this bowl and find it easier to arrange flowers in this sand, and that they also last longer.

Laura Streeter, Peoria, Ill.—I rub my stuffed green peppers with salad oil before I put them in oven. This helps to keep them from turning such a sad, brown hue.

Parents Must Guide Child's Radio Tastes

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Arthur Jersild is consulting psychologist in connection with children's programs for a broadcasting system. These statements are from a broadcast of his, selected by me for their possible helpfulness to you.

"We need not be sour-faced reformers to recognize that the subject of children's programs is quite a practical one. The average child spends a good deal of his time listening to these programs. They should offer him something in return.

"Any scheme for good programs for children must necessarily build upon children's interests. This raises a problem right from the start, for the things children have liked best in dramatic sketches also have been criticized most. Now, who are wrong, the children or the critics? Actually, both may be largely right. Children have a right to their likes and interests. Broadcasters have a right to meet these interests. But critics [and anybody else] have a right to object if program-makers, instead of dealing constructively with children's interests, merely exploit them.

• • •

"Perhaps some one will protest, why not let the youngsters be youngsters and give them what they want? Fair enough. This slogan is just the thing. But when we apply it to other things in daily life, we try to do so with a sense of proportion, and with the child's welfare in mind. If a child has a sweet tooth, we do not feed him only candy. If he likes an exciting story, we do not proceed to frighten the daylights out of him. If he is ignorant on a subject and comes to us in good faith, we do not take advantage of his ignorance, but attempt to give him a good answer.

"The same sort of sincerity may rightfully be expected in a children's program.

"Standards can, of course, be too rigid, just as they can be too lax. The typical child is not a highbrow, steeped in culture and art. He is just a healthy-minded, somewhat naive youngster with a live curiosity and a strong desire, among other things, for vicarious adventure.

"Children have a right to enjoy vicarious excitement and thrills. A cold, intellectual diet does not fill all their needs, but in supplying adventure, programs have sometimes come under the charge that they are too exciting, make children 'nervous' and tense, and produce bad dreams, nightmares and fears. We can't dispose of this problem simply by noting that some children seem able to weather almost any amount of excitement, and that when severe symptoms do occur, they may be due primarily to other problems in the child's life.

• • •

"Another thing that children like is a story that involves conflict.

"We know that conflict and opposition are vital to all drama, whether for children or adults. An easy way to meet this interest is to give the child nothing but crime. Of course, a child can' hear about crime without thereby acquiring a motive for committing crime, but the usual 'crime formula' has no place in a children's program.

"A radio story which is grounded on knowledge or sincere fantasy can give a child all that he gets from a dime novel, and much more besides. Likewise, a hero with genuine qualities can be as interesting as a trumped-up hero who works wonders by hocus-pocus. . .

"When we appraise individual programs, not from the point of view of adult preferences or the tastes of exceptional children, but from the point of view of the large child audience, we can also be most constructive. Coöperation along this line would not only be helpful but would be welcomed by all concerned with broadcasts to children."

"What's on the Air for Children" is a leaflet of interest to parents, teachers and children. Send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

Do you have a yen for the beauty of marble? Does it rate high in your opinion for sheer loveliness? There's a durable and not expensive wallboard available which you can use to transform your fireplace into a "marble unit." This wallboard has the grain and color of real marble, and a high gloss and polish which gives it an enduring quality. It also can be used for bathrooms and for kitchens, and be brought into play for table tops, sills, and work counters, since it is moisture resistant.

There are ways to finish chestnut paneling if you would preserve its natural color and achieve at the same time a dull finish, or a highly polished surface. And chestnut paneling is highly effective for that room you may be modernizing this spring.

Basement ventilation isn't always easy, and basement windows can be hard to clean. Comes a new steel frame window which can be tilted at top to give indirect ventilation. And when you want to wash windows just take the sash out! Screens plus storm sash come with these units and are designed to be installed from inside of the house. Windows are available in different sizes and can be classed in low cost bracket.

Current Music News

Today's recital in the Auditorium theater will be given by Mischa Elman, the popular Russian-American violinist. Mr. Elman was born in 1892 in Stalnoje, the son of a Hebrew teacher and the grandson of a violinist. When he was 5 he made his first public appearance as a performer. Two years later Leopold Auer heard him and urged him to study in the St. Petersburg conservatory, which he did. By 1904, when he was 12, he was ready to make his professional debut in Berlin, where he was highly successful. In subsequent years he played thruout Europe, finally making his first American appearance in 1908. Since then he has made annual tours of this country with growing popularity. Because of his large repertory he distinguished himself recently by playing all the violin concertos used for demonstration on the National Orchestral association's series on "The Development of Violin Literature." When not on tour Mr. Elman makes his home in New York.

This afternoon, accompanied by Leopold Mittman, he will play the following program:

Partita, E Minor	Bach-Nachez
Sonata, A Major	Fauré
Concerto No. 9, D Minor	Spohr
Larghetto	Dvorak
Russian Dance	Tschaikowsky-Koutzen
Songs without Words	Mendelssohn-Elman
Polonaise Brilliante, A Major	Wieniawski

"Romance of Old Mexico," offered this afternoon in the Great Northern theater, is a musical program woven around the authentic adventures of Col. Ricardo de Escamilla. The colonel will relate his exciting experiences as a young member of Pancho Villa's army and of the United States army, interspersing them with pictorial impressions of the countries south of the border. His story will be illustrated with songs, performed by himself and Greta Rubio, a soprano born in Monterrey, Mexico. Much of this music has been prepared by Helen L. Vogel, a California composer, and she has based it on the folk melodies of the Latin countries.

An orchestra, known as The Charros, will play, with many of the members withdrawing from the ensemble to appear in solo numbers. Dancing, indispensable to Central American life, will be performed by Velma Montoya.

Eleanor MacKinlay, young Chicago soprano, will make her debut in Kimball hall on Friday night. Her program includes four classical arias and songs, four lieder by Schubert, "Vissi d'arte" from Puccini's "Tosca," three French and three Russian songs, and an English group. Composers represented in this listing are Handel, Fauré, Pierné, Mussorgsky, Rachmaninoff, Tschaikowsky, and John Alden Carpenter. Fritzi Siebach will be the accompanist.

Eleanor MacKinlay.

The new and lively music critic of the New York Herald Tribune, Virgil Thomson, will lecture before the Arts club on Wednesday morning—appropriately enough on "The Criticism of Music."

On Friday night the Chicago Dance council will hold the third of its studio evenings in the Illinois room of the Hotel La Salle.

Two members of the faculty of the Sherwood Music school, Leon Rosenbloom, pianist, and Helen Bickerton, soprano, will give a joint recital in Curtiss hall this afternoon.

A violin recital will be played by Daniel Braude in the Auditorium recital hall today at 3 o'clock.

Two young Chicagoans will make their debuts on Friday night with the American Concert orchestra on its bi-weekly Young Artists' series. They are Eve Harvey, soprano and second place winner in last year's Chicagoland Music Festival, and Benjamin Blackman, violinist and concertmaster of the Senn High school orchestra. The latter will be heard in Saint-Saëns' Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso for violin and orchestra. Ralph Cissne will conduct the program, being played in the Illinois music project concert hall.

The American Opera company will give performances of Gounod's "Faust" in English in the Woman's Club theater on both next Saturday and Sunday nights.

Irwin Fischer will conduct the National Youth Administration orchestra in a concert in the Illinois music project concert hall on Tuesday evening. One of the two soloists with this 50 piece ensemble will be Edward Ryszck, violinist with the Civic orchestra. He will perform Bruch's popular concerto in G minor. Wayne Steinbeck, a young tenor from Decatur who has sung with the St. Louis Municipal Opera company and on the radio, will also be a soloist with the orchestra.

The Heniot Lévy club will present Francis Aranyi, violinist, and Heniot Lévy, pianist and composer, in a sonata recital in the Allerton hotel tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Listed on the program are Brahms' Sonata in D minor, Mr. Lévy's Sonata No. 1, and the César Franck Sonata.

An operatic version of Edgar Allen Poe's famous tale, "The Fall of the House of Usher," will be given before members of the American Opera society on Wednesday at 3 o'clock in the lounge of the Chicago Towers club. Ethel O. Fergusson has prepared the libretto, and the music was composed by Clarence Loomis. Participating in the performance are Rosalind Phillipps, Suzon Osler, Farrell Scott, Forrest Scott, Lloyd Patten, Elaine De Sellem, and the Jordan-Butler Philharmonic choir, directed by Joseph Lautner.

New Year Notes from Here and There

By Cousin Eve.

Rarely amusing are letters coming from all over on how New Year's eve was spent. One from New York says: "This town is FULL of refugees, and they seem to have the best tables in the most expensive restaurants, eat the most lavish dinners and drink the costliest wines. Then they circulate and tell how broke and unhappy they are."

Even more entertaining were accounts of Palm Beach revelry—the glorious weather that framed it, soft, warm air, bright moon and stars, and the great world congregating at the Everglades club. The $10 table d'hote didn't seem to scare any one away. The palm bordered patio and stone paved courts were crowded with little flower decked tables. Bright colors were worn this year, and the gleam and twinkle of paillettes and diamante made a lovely scene. On one side the Cubans were strumming away on their banjos in white regalia, but the dancers were quite unrecognizable. The Everglades has gone modern and the whole show was transacted in the dark, in a spar- (Continued on Page 2.)

Above: Mrs. Bartle Bull, the former Rosemary Baur, and her little son and daughter are in Chicago while her husband is fighting with the British forces in northern Africa. They are staying with the children's grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Baur. The Bulls' home is in London.

Above: Mrs. Frank Bering sips sherry before luncheon in the Pump room and drinks, perhaps to the success of Great Britain, for she is devoting some of her leisure this winter to working for the British War Relief society.

Right: Miss Betty Coston is dressed in the most modern fashion, but she gives the effect of being a lovely lady of bygone days in velvet with lace ruffles at her wrists and long, becoming earrings.

Left: Miss Nadine Kinney is a favorite amateur mannequin, for she is unusually pretty. Recently she has been assisting at a series of fashion shows given during tea-time on Mondays in Camellia House, the Drake, for the benefit of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins.

New Year Notes Gathered from Here and There

kling gloom, divinely impersonal. With all its vast membership of 1,000 Palm Beachites it is superbly run, with nary a sight of how the wheels go round.

Here at home there was a chance to go to the last opera. Who wouldn't jump at an invitation to hear Grace Moore as "Manon," plus Tito Schipa? It was a wonderful house, full to the last seat, and in grand gala for the dancing later. On the stage everything was just as it should be. Grace Moore was the beautiful diva, in a happy mood, sweeping all before her with superb voice, admirable acting, and the sort of glamor that New Year's night exacts from its artists—something extra special. She was tender and modest as the young, unsophisticated Manon and radiant as the enchantress, with all traces of Hollywood gone forever. Her costumes were marvelous, a white satin robe style garlanded in pink roses, and a white velvet fluffing out with feathers, very beautiful.

Grace Moore is a friend of years from a dreamlike past on the French Riviera and around. Always one admired her winsomeness and her burning ambition to become a star of grand opera. Schipa had a great ovation that night, and so did George Czaplicki, the popular Pole. In fact the whole cast was excellent.

Other outstanding performances of our late season of grand opera were Mme. Kirsten Flagstad's "Isolde," the beautiful Mme. Jarmila Novotna's "Traviata," which had the Monday night people carried away with the enchantment of it, the second performance of "Rosenkavalier," which was extra fine, and a beautifully done "Rigoletto." One of the interesting things about our season which was amusingly developed by Giovanni Cardelli to the Opera Guild was the number of nationalities among the artists. Singing for us were French, Greeks, Belgians, British, Germans, Italians, Czechs, South Americans, Spaniards, Jugo-Slavs, Danes, Swedes, Norwegians, Russians, and a Japanese.

They got along admirably well, said Cardelli, like one happy family.

One of the interesting events of February will be the Chicago visit of Jan Ciechanowski, new Polish ambassador to the United States. The ambassador is expected to arrive in New York from Europe on Jan. 27 when he will proceed to Washington to present his credentials. Soon after, the Ciechanowskis will come to Chicago, which has at present the largest Polish population in the world. The ambassador speaks perfect English, having been chargé d'affaires for years in Washington, and also his wife is an English girl, very attractive, I hear.

Jan Ciechanowski is an owner of coal mines in Poland—or maybe one should put it in the past tense. He was at one time, and maybe still is, a man of great wealth. And oddly enough, his wife was a coal heiress, the daughter of the owner of coal mines in Wales. Mme. Ciechanowski is very gay and really great fun—a lively girl if ever there was one.

• • •

At the same time that the new ambassador is settling in, Count and Countess Georges Potocki will be taking up their residence in Washington. The count recently returned from Peru, where he traveled to persuade his lovely little South American wife to return to his domicile.

So Washingtonians will have the unique spectacle of two ranking Polish ambassadors, one being "ex" for the time. Count Potocki had the bad luck to lose his estates when the Russians took over eastern Poland, while his brother, Alfred, lives safely at "Lancut," near Cracow, in splendor. This magnificent estate was never touched during the world war, and last year was equally well protected. The German general staff stayed there for some months with Count Alfred and his mother, Countess Betka.

Countess Georges Potocki is a lovely little dark eyed creature, very sympathetic—and such diamonds! My hat, but they are the real, right thing! Old mine stones with depth and quality, and of a size! When they are clustered round the countess' slender white neck you realize you are in the presence of diamonds that are diamonds—and wonderfully set.

Last May, being in Washington and going to the Polish embassy on a quest, one was ushered into the sanctum of the Polish councilor. He proved to be a man I had met years ago in Warsaw and knew quite well, officially—a very charming man with a monstrously long name in four sections.

In those days I had this name printed on a card—in fact, the names of all my Polish hosts, and studied them surreptitiously under cover of the tablecloth.

After the hectic rush and rattle of the holidays the season has gone into reactionary jog trot most soothing to the soul. One can pause awhile to play with one's Christmas cards and prepare them to go ultimately to the Children's Memorial hospital. There the nurses teach the children to make screens and scrap books of them.

Also one has an occasional hour to look at and purr over one's Christmas books. Books have been pouring into this country from England for the last six months, uninterrupted shipments of richly bound and beautifully printed volumes. And you wonder, as you pass your hands over their satiny sides, what library housed them. My "Marco Polo" bears the bookplate of Lord Northbrook and from him went to one of the Barings. Its highly polished green calf is touched with Venetian red. A full set of Mme. de Genlis in beige calf picked out in gold is only 125 years of age—while the new "Sully" set, quaintly marbleized, is nearly 200 years old and has the book plate of Guy Pym, M. P., quaintly wreathed in laurel, and the loveliest paper.

There is no more friendly room in the world than one lined with book shelves on which are well bound books whose contents mean something to their owner.

We went stepping out on Wednesday night to meet our handsome governor elect, Dwight Green, and his charming helpmeet, our new first lady of Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Taylor's dinner at the Casino in honor of Governor Elect and Mrs. Green was a wonderful party—large, lively, gay, interesting. Women wore their prettiest frocks, and flocks of orchids perched on many a fair shoulder. The hosts received their guests in the Victorian salon of the club and there was a large circle assembled when the gubernatorial party came in. Mrs. Green has a hint of red in her smoothly coiffed hair and her pale green lamé frock with red orchids was lovely. Mrs. Taylor's frock was a dream too, a long waisted, pleated, black lace over pink satin with huge pink orchid nosegay. The vast dinner table lighted by wax candles stretched from one end of the Fountain room to t'other end—with huge set pieces of spring flowers—already! The yellow feathery acacias and red and white tulips spoke of spring just around the corner. Premature, perhaps, but definitely spring.

There were a lot of speeches at this dinner and before the party was over everybody seemed to be calling the honor guest Pete and Mrs. Green, Mabel. Mr. Green himself set the ball rolling by referring to his wife as "Momsie," and George Ranney quickly took this up and proposed a toast to "Momsie" and after that the ice, if ever there was any, was broken completely. Seated on Mr. Green's right was Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, who was charming in silver lame, and on Mrs. Green's right was Chauncey McCormick. An outstanding figure at the dinner was James S. Kemper, president of the American Chamber of Commerce, who had given that day a rousing address before the chamber of commerce luncheon on the state of the nation.

Women who were outstandingly smart at table were Mrs. Ralph James, in gold lame with a small tiara of diamonds; Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, in palest rose satin; Mrs. Walter Brewster, in pink lace that sparkled alluringly; Mrs. John S. Miller, in black and white tulle, and Mrs. James Offield, in gray satin. Among the old friends and admirers of Governor Elect Green who were present at the delightful party were Mr. and Mrs. Donald McPherson, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Robert Hall McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Corley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Ferre Watkins, Stuart Logan, Patrick Buckley, and Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Faroll.

Sunday luncheons are getting under way again with the New Year. It is one of the favorite winter forms of entertaining, whether in town or country. Busy men can be had of a Sunday and celebrities are coming along apace. Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter entertained informally for Mr. and Mrs. Leonide Massine of the Ballet Russe, who left with the company the next day. Asked to meet the Massines were Countess Giovanni Cardelli, Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weber.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter will be under way in a fortnight now for some island spot in the Carribean. Jamaica has great vogue this season, and some Chicagoans are going to the Myrtle Bank, which they say is a charming English inn.

Mrs. Robert Peck had an amusing luncheon Wednesday at the Churchill for the Wig and Powder club. This is a play reading society, inclined to be frolicsome and on the lighter side, in existence for three decades or so. The president of today is Mrs. George Foster and Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee is its treasurer. The first president and founder was Alexandra Carlisle, a charming actress.

As neither wigs nor powder are worn at the performances, the idea is to hark back to the precious days in the 18th century where plays and verse were read before fine ladies in fashionable drawing rooms. The play read in the morning before Mrs. Peck's luncheon was "George Washington Never Slept Here" by George Kaufmann and Marc Connolly.

Among the members of Wig and Powder are Mrs. Harold C. Smith, Mrs. Frank Mulford, Mrs. Howell Erminger, Mrs. Fletcher Durbin, Mrs. Paul Noyes, Mrs. Francis Dickinson, Miss Anita Blair, Miss Alice Moran, Mrs. Herbert Campbell, Mrs. Grant Laing, Mrs. Jenkins Otis, Mrs. Doris Curtis, Mrs. Joseph T. Valentine, and Mrs. Carl Zeiss.

WINNETKA GIRL IS BRIDE

Mrs. Ralph Spencer Stoetzel, the former Carol Elizabeth Schipfer, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Schipfer of Winnetka. Her marriage to the son of the Ralph E. Stoetzels of Glencoe took place in Christ church in Winnetka early this fall.

Varied Topics on Program for Home Economists

"Soup from Guns," "What's Brewing in the Coffee Pot," and "The Purpose of Educational Work by Industry" will be among the topics discussed by members of the Chicago Home Economics Women in Business, all experts in their fields, at that organization's dinner meeting Thursday evening at Normandy house. Mary Jan Henkel, Millicent Atkin, Leone Carroll, Dorothy Thompson, and Esther Latzke will be among the speakers. Miss Agnes Reesor has arranged the program.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Jan. 13, 1893.

Dear Julia: Will is sitting near the fire in the library, playing parchesi with little Esmond, and I am enjoying the sight from my vantage point at the library table. Blond head and white, bending over the gay colored board, are absorbed in the game which children love. I am wondering if I have spelled parchesi correctly. I believe there are differing ways. The game came originally from the East Indies, I think, and the dice used there are cowries—shells. The highest throw being 25, the game takes its name from the Hindustani word for that number—pachis. Will, wanting Esmond to have the satisfaction of winning, evidently has just let pass a chance for sending his small opponent back to the starting point. I hear Esmond crying: "You mustn't miss on purpose, Grandpa," and Will pretends to be puzzled by the accusation. "I must have stayed up too late at the charity ball," he says, yawning. "My head is dull tonight." But I think Esmond is not deceived by his excuse.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour.

The charity ball was lovely, as usual, but both Will and I were glad to go home early. The best part, I thought, was driving with Will in the cozy warmth of the coupé, skimming over the snowy streets, with the passing carriages a diverting sight, the steaming horses befogging the crisp air; the arched necks of the aristocratic steeds seeming to indicate that they knew they were taking part in our greatest social function of the year.

The Auditorium looked very gay, with the beautiful gowns which are always worn at the charity ball. Mrs. Palmer led one wing of the grand march, on the arm of Gen. Miles; while Mr. and Mrs. Orson Smith led the other.

Will had taken a box to which we retired when the march was over, and there we sat watching the dancers. Our younger friends came to speak to us in intermissions between dances, and I thought the young debutantes looked like clouds as they floated along in their fleecy white gowns. Miss Buda Peck was one of these visions, in white silk, while her mother, Mrs. Ferdinand Peck, wore a handsome blue brocade. Mrs. Dr. John B. Murphy, a great beauty, wore blue and gold brocade; Mrs. John Shortall a blue crêpe embroidered in silver.

The supper rooms were open at 11 o'clock and we went in early and then left for home. There was some criticism of the lightness of the repast, but to me it seemed sufficiently hearty — chicken consommé, oyster patties, hors d'oeuvres, chicken croquettes with peas, quail on toast, celery salad, fancy ices, fruit glacés, and coffee.

I haven't heard how much was realized from the ball, but it was so well attended that the beneficiaries—St. Luke's Provident, and Chicago Charity hospitals, the Free Kindergarten, the Visiting Nurse association, and Glenwood school—will receive substantial sums.

The day before we attended a meeting of the Twentieth Century club in the beautiful home of Norman B. Ream, 1901 Prairie avenue, when E. S. Willard, English actor, spoke on "Plays and Playgoers." He is appearing in Chicago in "The Professor's Love Story." We were interested in his plea for an endowed theater. He asked why the drama was left, a Cinderella, to sit among the ashes, while her more fortunate sisters, music and painting, are taken to the ball. There were people present who could start such a theater endowment fund, Mrs. H. M. Wilmarth, for instance, who has a large fortune, and only one child, a daughter, Anna; or Mr. Ream might, for he is fabulously rich. I wonder if anything will come of the suggestion.

Another event of the week was a reception given by Mrs. J. Ogden Armour at their beautiful house recently completed on Michigan avenue near 37th street. A sort of housewarming, it attracted a great crowd of society people. Mrs. Armour received in the green drawing room, surrounded by pink roses, which almost matched her pink and white striped gown. A golden girdle and a bertha of white satin and lace made her costume a thing of beauty. I really must give a reception myself, for I am so indebted to my friends.

With love, as ever, your devoted
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Fort de Checagou.

"Was there a fort at Chicago before Fort Dearborn?" Col. H. A. Musham, writer on local history, asks and answers this question. "Yes. Tonty in his memoirs written in 1693, says: Subsequently in the fall of 1685, after going 120 leagues, I arrived at the Fort de Checagou, where M. de la Durantaye commanded. Another authority, Jean Baptiste Louis Franquelin, hydrographer to the king, spent some years at Quebec, during which time he prepared a large map of the French possessions in North America. This great map, dated 1684, shows an Indian village of 80 men between the north and south branches of the Chicago river. He published part of this map, with minor corrections, in Paris in 1688. On this the fort is shown. Forts are not built without good reason."

Illinois O. E. S. to Have School of Instruction

The Order of the Eastern Star of Illinois will hold its downstate school of instruction next Saturday in Peoria, Ill. More than 1,000 grand lecturers, officers and members are expected to attend the meeting, which will continue from 10 o'clock in the morning into the evening. The board of grand examiners, all Chicagoans, including Mrs. Amy H. Berry as chairman, Mrs. Esther Gielow, Mrs. Agnes MacMeekin, and Mrs. Hilda McCrea, will conduct the sessions.

Mrs. Amy H. Berry.

Mrs. Minnie M. Caperton of Chicago, worthy grand matron of the order, and her official family will be special guests at a banquet Friday.

Federation Is to Have Second Annual Forum

By Betty Browning.

"The Federation is the homemaker's university," oft-repeated unofficial slogan of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, is exemplified in the announcement made today by Mrs. William T. Bruckner of Hinsdale, Federation president.

Mrs. William T. Bruckner.

The Federation, single handed, is sponsoring its second annual forum Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 29 and 30, at the Hotel Sherman. Entire responsibility for the planning of the two day program, which promises to be one of the major adult education projects of the year, rests in the hands of Mrs. Bruckner and some 17 fellow leaders of the Federation. Eight universities and colleges in the Chicago area are lending their coöperation.

"America United for the Future" is to be the theme of a many faceted program for which the Federation is assembling authorities in their respective fields.

Designed to interest men as well as women, all sessions will be open to the public. The only charge will be a 25 cent registration fee.

• • •

America's foreign policy is among several controversial topics to be discussed from opposing standpoints. This discussion is scheduled for the Wednesday evening session, the theme of which will be "Defense of the American Way." Military, labor, industrial, and educational slants on this subject also are to be presented.

"Other Philosophies of Government" will be the theme of a symposium scheduled for the opening session Wednesday morning. "Understanding the American Way" will be considered Wednesday afternoon, with government, people and cultural background coming in for discussion.

Thursday will bring "Youth and the American Way" in the morning, and "Whither America?" as the final program in the afternoon.

A luncheon is being arranged for Wednesday.

• • •

Assisting with preparations for the forum are the University of Chicago, Northwestern, De Paul, and Loyola universities, George Williams, Lake Forest, and Wheaton colleges, and the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Fred M. Tuckerman of Chicago, vice president of the Federation's northern region, is Mrs. Bruckner's chief aide in arranging the forum.

Since Mrs. Bruckner herself is directing preparations for the forum, she probably will not join the Chicago delegation which is leaving today to attend the midwinter board meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs this week at Washington, D. C.

The consumers' rôle in the national defense program will have an important place in the Federation's deliberations, as will citizenship, propaganda, Pan-American activities, and the Federation's golden jubilee celebration.

Mrs. Edward J. Lehman. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dr. Harriet Elliott, consumer representative on the National Defense advisory commission, will be the principal speaker at a consumer forum that is to be a highlight of the week-long board meeting.

In the Illinois delegation to the meeting will be Mrs. Edward J. Lehman, General Federation director for Illinois; Mrs. Clarence G. Goodwin, secretary of the General Federation board of trustees; Mrs. Fred R. Lufkin, chairman of the General Federation's press and publicity department, and Mrs. William E. Lewis, chairman of the General Federation's new division of crime prevention and control.

4 Chicagoans Represented at Art Exhibition

By Edith Weigle.

An important exhibition of modern paintings, drawings, and sculpture is on view at the Katharine Kuh gallery, 540 North Michigan avenue. The Chicago artists represented are Robert Wolff, George Kepes, Moholy-Nagy, and Archipenko.

The others are the Russian, Jawlensky, of Bauhaus fame, who, like Oskar Kokoschka, is influenced by Van Gogh and represents the modern German expressionist approach to painting; the Frenchmen, Lurcat and Mauny, the latter a critic as well as a painter, and the Mexican, Merida.

Archipenko has three or four large gouaches, a black and white drawing, and a number of pieces of sculpture in terra cotta, plaster, and chromium. The plaster figure is the original study of his gigantic "Moses," seen in the same gallery several years ago.

Moholy-Nagy has contributed two abstractions: One in plexiglass which, because of its reflection on a mirror-like background sheet appears to have another dimension, and the other of a slightly bowed sheet of a French transparent plastic on which he has painted in oils. This, too, casts its shadow on a background sheet and this form is utilized as part of the whole.

Three decidedly varied treatments of the same medium, gouache, are seen in the works of Archipenko, Merida, and Lurcat. Merida's abstractions are carried out in glowing, soft, mellow tones that remind one of the sun bleached pinks and grays seen in the walls of ancient Mexican buildings. Lurcat's palette is one of subtle, sophisticated hues. Archipenko delights in a vivid red-orange and in an amazing flat, light blue.

On exhibition in the Recent Accessions gallery at the Art institute are 13 paintings, the gift of the late Frederick Tudor Haskell. They include interesting examples of the 19th century French Barbizon school by François Millet, Théodore Rousseau, Jean Charles Cazin, and N. V. Diaz, with landscapes predominating.

Three English portraits are in the show: "Sallie Siddons" and "Lady, Portrait," by Thomas Lawrence, and "Mrs. Huddesford," by Joshua Reynolds. The picture of Sallie Siddons has a good deal of romantic interest. Lawrence fell in love with this lovely daughter of the famous actress, Sarah Siddons, and became engaged to her, only to transfer his affections after several years to her younger sister, Maria. It is thought he feared to marry Sallie because she was consumptive. The story goes that she sacrificed herself deliberately to make her sister happy.

It was Maria, however, who died first. It is said that on her death bed she made Sallie promise never to marry Lawrence. The painter remained a widower to the end of his life. The older sister died soon after his wife.

Other paintings in this exhibit are "The Minstrel," by Leon Gerome; "Mother and Child," by Albert Neuhuys, and "A Summer Day," by Charles François Daubigny.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

STEAMERS•PLANES

Climate + Ads Turn the Trick for Southland

By Frederic Babcock.

MIAMI, FLA. Thirty years ago Miami was a drowsy town of some 7,000 persons. On the other side of Biscayne bay what is now Miami Beach was a string of desolate, uninhabited keys. Today Miami has a population of 170,000 in the summer and twice that many in the winter. Miami Beach's off season total of 27,000 is swollen to 100,000 in season. The combined facilities of the two resorts provide one of the world's great vacation centers.

What brought about the transformation? Climate, plus clever promotion and advertising.

• • •

The average winter temperature here is 69 degrees. This—so the chamber of commerce officials claim—is 13 degrees higher than that of Los Angeles, 14 degrees higher than Cairo, and 21 degrees higher than Nice. Florida, farthest south of the states, comes closer than any of its rivals in tropical temperature and tropical atmosphere. Arizona, New Mexico, southern California, and the Gulf states vie with it, but can't quite equal it. Hawaii and Puerto Rico have near perfect year round climates, but they're still territories. When and if they achieve statehood, they'll give Florida a good run for its money. Until that time this state will stand alone.

Cuba and the Bahamas, a few hours from Miami, have about the same winter temperatures. So do Jamaica, Haiti, and others of the West Indies. If the traveler wishes to go still further south, he can find ideal winter conditions in such resorts as Rio de Janeiro. But, if his travels are confined to the United States, he can find what he seeks in this land of flowers.

• • •

Of course the thermometer recordings are not the only factor. The average vacationist at this time of year is looking for sunshine. He is not often disappointed here. It is claimed that Miami and Miami Beach average only six days a year without the sun breaking thru for at least an hour or so. And at St. Petersburg, over on the Gulf coast, an evening newspaper has made itself—and its city—famous by giving away its entire edition whenever the sun fails to shine in the course of a day. As nearly everybody knows by this time, the paper is seldom called upon to make good its offer. Free copies were issued only twice last year; the 30 year average has been four times a year.

The warm waters of the Gulf stream, the heat from the sun, and the ingenuity of man have given most of the state a weird combination of vegetable gardens and citrus orchards. Everything from tomatoes to oranges is raised in almost unbelievable abundance. The principal crop, however, is still the tourists. They add hundreds of millions of dollars to the annual total.

• • •

But other millions of dollars are spent to get those tourists. The climate isn't enough. It has to be broadcast to the world. The visitors don't swarm in unless they are told about the advantages of any particular state or resort or region. And that's where advertising and publicity come in. Florida knows the advantages of both. It has learned that it takes dollars to attract other dollars. So it hires topnotch copy writers and press agents to spread its story.

What do the copy writers write? Here are some excerpts from the 1941 Album of Florida:

"A state cradled by ocean and gulf. . . . The cerise sun pops from purpled waters. . . . The moon silvers thirty thousand lakes. . . . Great oaks in the graceful garb of Spanish moss, cypress trees thirty centuries old, Nature in a riotous mood, from the Satsuma groves and pine forests of Perdido to the frangapani blooms of the farthest key. . . . Sparkling sands of a thousand beaches. . . . Gleaming roofs of red, white and blue. . . . An empire where Health is king, Beauty is queen, and Happiness, Inspiration, Contentment, and Relaxation are members of the royal household."

• • •

That gives a general idea. Here is another sample:

"Nearly two million persons have taken it for their own, and yearly new multitudes come. From the streamlined cities and green garbed hills to the wild stretches of the mysterious Everglades, the tangled woods of the back country, and the fantasy of its inland waterways, Florida, dramatic in history and gaudy with gifts of Nature, makes its appeal for adventure and opportunity and pleasant living in a comfortable climate. None of its 58,666 square miles is without interest to the sightseer, the homemaker, the botanist, the geologist, the ornithologist, the investor, the business man, the professional man, or the person who wishes to retire."

Fantastic? An exaggerated picture? No doubt. But it seems to be getting the business.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What is the average temperature at Phoenix, Ariz.? —C. F.

About 70 degrees.

Please give me the dates of the carnival in Puerto Rico. —J. B.

Feb. 6 to 24.

What is there to do, besides sightseeing, in and around Havana? —D. W. E.

The visitor can go swimming, play golf, fish, and go motor boating. Entertainment in the evening includes the jai alai games and the night club floor shows of Cuban songs and dances. If the tourist has enough time, he can drive over the Central highway to such scenic places as Santiago de Cuba and Matanzas.

Several times in THE TRIBUNE I have seen references to the sahuaro cactus. What does the term mean? —H. P. A.

Sahuaro [sometimes spelled saguaro] means torch. Cacti of this species are found in the American southwest. They grow, at the rate of about an inch a year, to heights of 50 and 60 feet. The age of one of them, still standing in Arizona, has been estimated at 650 years.

DAYS OF SUNSHINE . . . NIGHTS OF SPLENDOR!
America's MIAMI
It's mid-season in Miami! Nights are filled with music. Winter's cares have folded their tents and faded away in a blaze of ultra-violet sunshine. America is at play in the tropics—the warm, inviting, gay, exciting winter wonderland where people from every state, from every age and "income group" have found their ideas of a rousing good time at costs that meet their ideas of what they ought to pay. Last year there were 2,000,000. This year it looks like even more—proof enough that virtually everyone can now arrange and afford to take time out from winter—this winter in America's Miami!

Resorters Find Many Interests at Palm Beach

By Helen Van Hoy Smith.

PALM BEACH, FLA.

It matters not what various directions the predilections of resorters may take, Palm Beach supplies the answer, and handsomely. As January advances, the season here is rather like the man who mounted his horse and rode furiously off in every direction.

For those who prefer the cultural side, there are the Society of Four Arts, the Round Table, and the Open Forum. Every other café offers an invitation to a waltz, should you care to dance. The multitude who like to play games are offered contract and duplicate bridge tournaments, towie, backgammon, and even shuffleboard, the last named at the Breakers. Golfers, fishermen, and tennis addicts are all taken care of in the grand manner. There is polo at the Gulf Stream. The Beach club opened Friday night with dinner at eight. Tombola luncheons were inaugurated on Wednesday at the Everglades club. All this and Hialeah, too. The racing season at Hialeah Park opened Wednesday, and was the signal for a steady flow of streamlined traffic going south.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Ray Berdeau flew down to Miami for the opening of the racing season in their own plane, remaining over for the air meet. Early in the week Mrs. Berdeau gave a small luncheon in honor of Mrs. Glenn Frank of Madison, Wis., who has been spending the holiday season in Miami Beach.

Mrs. Roy Bard of Winnetka is a guest at the Kenneth G. Smith villa on Ocean boulevard. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pope arrived New Year's day from Chicago for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Pope Hovey. Mr. Pope returned to Chicago on Friday, but Mrs. Pope will spend the season here. Mr. and Mrs. William Pope are expected from Winnetka in February. They will take a house here for the balance of the winter.

• • •

Palm Beachers are avid boxing fans, and Friday nights here are always anticipated eagerly as they are the nights of the bouts in the American Legion arena in West Palm Beach. It is a medium sized arena, seating some 2,400 with no seat more than 60 feet from the scene of combat. Occupants of boxes and ringside chairs read like a combination of Who's Who, the Social Register, and the personnel of the Stock exchange. Probably no arena of its size in the country has ever sheltered so many distinguished personages. Last Friday night, which wasn't a particularly big night, those noted included John Charles Thomas, Henry Carnegie Phipps, Michael Phipps, the Peter H. B. Frelinghuysens, Mrs. Margaret Emerson—wearing a smart printed pajama ensemble—the young George Vanderbilts, and many others. Chicago was represented by Charles M. Hayes and Franklin Miller.

Outside, a giant smiling Negro, flashes an ivory smile as he opens car doors and keeps traffic in order. Henry, imported from the cotton fields of Georgia, is magnificent in a uniform of royal blue with long fitted coat in brightest scarlet.

Before the bouts, transcribed music is carried by loud speakers, and just before the opening card, the house is dimmed, and every one stands during the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner." A large American flag is spotlighted.

The bouts are good fun, the best talent available being procured by Don Boggess, matchmaker. Proceeds go to the work of the local American Legion post. A special bout for Greek relief is being arranged.

• • •

Several speakers already have been announced by the Palm Beach Round Table, which is headed by Mrs. Alexander Haddon of New York. These include Sir Norman Angell; Le Ray Berdeau, whose subject will be "Manana Lands of the Americas;" H. R. Knickerbocker, Archduke Otto of Austria, and Col. W. Stewart Roddie.

Lee Gron, pianist, was presented early this week at the Everglades club in a program of classical numbers for the benefit of British refugee children. Patronesses for this recital included Mr. and Mrs. Georges De Cuevas, Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury; Mrs. Frederick E. Guest, Mrs. Hugh Dillman, Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. J. Leonard Replogle, Mrs. George A. McKinlock, and Mrs. Oscar Johnson.

Mrs. Jesse Spalding honored her son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Spalding III., with a cocktail party during the week. Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff is giving a series of dinner parties at Casa Marcheta. Gen. Peyton C. March, former chief of staff, is being honored at various events in the resort.

• • •

The Sailfish club has formally inaugurated its season. An eight foot five and one-half inch sailfish, one of the longest specimens in the history of the club, recently was landed by Thomas Armour, who was fishing in the waters off Stuart from the Snark, Howell Van Gerbig's boat. This catch was entered in the club's contest and heads the entries for length.

The Sailfish club will engage in three one day contests with the Miami Rod and Reel club, the first one taking place today, at Miami. Henry H. Windsor of Winnetka is president of the Sailfish club.

Mrs. Hugh Dillman will entertain her Towie club Monday at Playa Rienta, her Ocean Front villa.

• • •

The Romany chorus and orchestra have named Feb. 3 as the date of the annual concert. The first half of this event will be in the form of a backstage skit with John Charles Thomas, Romany sponsor, seen in a comic rôle. During the last half of the show Mr. Thomas will sing several numbers, both alone and with the chorus. The performance will be at the Paramount theater.

Last year the Romanies and Mr. Thomas presented a Gilbert and Sullivan opera as an outdoor performance at the Bath and Tennis club. The weather was freezing cold and the audience resembled a conclave of Eskimos. They wore fur coats, and across their knees were blankets of both the horse and hotel variety. Many of the men attending wrapped their heads up in knitted scarves and shawls while the Romanies bravely presented a "shivaree" along with an excellent performance. This year the Romanies are taking no chances, tho the weather has been all that fancy could possibly paint.

THEY'RE FRIENDLY FOES

Students of St. Petersburg (Fla.) Junior college gather on a leaning date palm while awaiting their turn on the campus tennis courts.

St. Petersburg to Display Its Wares

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 11 [Special].—Fruits, vegetables, and flowers with strange names and differing in size, shape, and color from those native to northern states will attract thousands of winter visitors to the Pinellas County Agricultural fair, opening here next Tuesday.

Exhibits of home grown avoçado, kumquat, guava, mangoes, papaya, and many varieties of oranges, grapefruit, lemons, and limes will prove of interest to those vacationing in a climate that produces three or four crops a year in the course of the longest growing season in the United States.

Floral displays will feature yellow alamanda, red and purple bougainvillae, the flame vine which resembles fire, and native jasmines, orchids, night blooming cereus, and other tropical growth.

Six Hatcheries.

The state of North Carolina operates six fish hatcheries, situated in Cumberland, McDowell, Haywood, Watauga, Alleghany, and Burke counties.

Fishermen at Miami Start Tourney Today

By Clarissa Greene.

MIAMI, FLA.

Miami's third spectacular water pageant in as many weeks will be staged this morning. Today's flotilla of 250 yachts, cruisers, and smaller craft will inaugurate the 99 day sixth annual open Miami fishing tournament, with prizes totaling $15,000. With every pennant aflutter the armada will pass the reviewing stand on board the United States coast guard cutter Mojave, anchored at her dock on the County causeway.

More than 200,000 persons are expected to enter fish in the contest which they believe will break existing records. It is anticipated that 80,000 will be women. Last year 167,867 persons, including 64,734 women, entered catches.

Highest 1940 award went to Mrs. Milton Lusk of Miami Beach for the 612 pound blue marlin which she caught and boated. In 1939 Miss Ruth W. Edwards of Newton Center, Mass., landed a 104½ pound sailfish. Neither record has been broken. In 1939 a Chicago fisherman, Glenn J. Chell, took a 93 pound wahoo, which is still unbeaten. Docks are crowded each afternoon as the fleet comes in and records are chalked up on the official bulletin board.

This year all eyes, masculine and feminine, turn longingly to the duke of Windsor trophy, offered by the governor general of the Bahamas for the largest eligible game fish caught in the Bahamas division of the tournament, which includes Cat Cay and Bimini waters.

A convertible coupe is top prize for Florida waters. The Philip Wylie "Tough Luck" trophy will go to the angler who can convince the judges, thru a written account, that he—or she—suffered the toughest break of the tournament. Wylie, creator of fishing yarns, is known locally as "Chief Head Hunter Wylie," due to the number of big ones devoured, all but the head, by barracuda or shark before he can reel them in.

• • •

Mrs. Marion Bertram, Miami aviatrix, served as liaison officer during the annual All-American air maneuvers closing today.

Mrs. Bertram is the first woman to serve on the contest committee. Due to the increasing number of feminine flyers participating, a women's division was established. Mrs. Bertram, who in private life is Mrs. A. J. Bertram, has many friends in Chicago where she goes annually with her doctor husband, who finds Chicago's clinics the best in the world.

Opening day at Hialeah was the usual brilliant combination of sunshine, color, fashionable clothes, and friendly greetings. Beauty of setting, the stately 100 foot palms, miles of green Australian pine hedges, walls of royal purple bougainvillea, thousands of flowering shrubs and plants, acres and acres of what seems the greenest sward in the world, sparkling waters of the infield lake in which stalk hundreds of dazzling pink flamingoes, all are a part of the background for racing which is Hialeah.

• • •

Joseph E. Widener, past president and creator of the magnificent park; his son, Peter A. B. Widener, retiring president, and Mrs. Widener were honor guests of the new president of the Miami Jockey club, and Mrs. Clark at a luncheon in the club house. Among Chicago guests included in the party were Mayor Kelly and the Warren Wrights. The Harvey Hansens and Mrs. Edward M. Meder were among guests of the Harry L. Vaughans.

• • •

The Indian Creek club held its first buffet supper Wednesday night. The Miami Junior league has announced its annual ball for next Saturday night at the Surf club. First of the Bath club's formal dinner-dances will be held Jan. 30. The Britannia ball, which will take the place of the annual hospital ball, which has been an outstanding event of the past three or four seasons, has been announced for Feb. 1 at the Surf club. It will miss by three days the date of the President's birthday ball, from which 50 per cent of income remains in the local county for work among crippled children.

Highlighting the past week at the Quarter Deck club, ocean going country club 10 miles off shore from Miami, was a roast pig dinner given for Miami's port authority. Pictures of club guests taken by a national magazine were shown.

A Writer from Arizona Visits in California

By Lolita Linn.

SAN DIEGO, CAL. An Arizona correspondent in California must have something of the feeling of a foreign correspondent who finds himself by mistake covering the wrong war. Fortunately, the color slides which Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen took on our recent journeys thru Arizona have preceded us to California, and she has intrusted them to us for the duration of this story.

Several of these pictures record one of our favorite experiences in Arizona, that of turning sharply from the dry bed of the Hassayampa river to climb toward the Remuda ranch at Wickenburg. The road winds up and up, past a swimming pool of turquoise blue and comes to a breathless stop at the very edge of a precipice.

The visitor's first glimpse—and if he is a photographer, his first shot—is of the corral sprawling below and of the Remuda horses—they always seem posed for a picture. His second glimpse usually takes in the hazy mountains which enfold Wickenburg and the horses and riders practicing their jumps down by the river bed. The other morning Toodie Burden, daughter of the Jack Burdens of Remuda, had her young horse, Freeplay, grandson of Man o' War, down there for a bit of homework.

No photographer willingly leaves the Remuda without several pictures of Carl Stibolt, formerly of Lake Forest, now associate manager of the ranch. This summer Mr. Stibolt tried out the new highway from Laredo, Tex., to Mexico City. He spent last July with the Lewis Parrys of England in Mexico City and at their summer home in Cuernavaca.

• • •

In his story of a winter's stay at Remuda, "Midnight on the Desert," J. B. Priestley marvels at the ability of the western guest ranch manager to do things without fuss and in the strongest possible time. A half-expressed wish for a house less accessible to dogs and children and, by evening, all a writing man has to do is to move in his typewriter. A hurry call to Hollywood in the late evening, and before there is time to hunt a timetable, the ranch car is at the door ready for a moonlight race across the desert.

The Priestleys are in London this year, but other Londoners, long guests of Remuda, have returned to the ranch. They are Ernest L. Simpson and his secretary, Miss Lea Metral.

Mrs. Hollis Kirk came out to Remuda in September. She returned to Chicago for Christmas, but is expected back at the ranch shortly. Mrs. Kirk has purchased a new horse, Antelope, by name.

• • •

The pictures before us make a fascinating record of one of the youngest guest ranches at Wickenburg, the Triangle W. The cattle gate . . . the arched patio between the low adobe buildings . . . the panoramic window in the living-dining room . . . ham and eggs garnished with superb views of mountains and desert . . . the genial host, Charles D. Williams [he couldn't be persuaded to pose without his cowboy hat] . . . the leaping flames of the night fire on the terrace, reminding one of the Indian council fires whose glare must often have brought anxiety to the hearts of the Arizona pioneers.

The Edwin M. Cloughs of Chicago were at the Triangle W for Christmas. Mr. Clough returned to Chicago before New Year, but Mrs. Clough will stay all winter at the ranch.

The burros which Mrs. Walgreen photographed at the old Vulture gold mine, out beyond Wickenburg, were no more amenable than the burro, which might be said to have discovered this fabulous mine. It seems that Henry Wickenburg, prospecting in Arizona in 1863, was having his daily argument with his burro. To make his point, Henry Wickenburg picked up a rock and prepared to throw it at his nonchalant companion. Fortunately, he was cautious. He looked at the rock before he threw it. He saw the gleam of gold.

In its best days, Vulture yielded something upward of $17,000,000 in gold. There is still activity in the thick walled adobe buildings which surround the mine. It is being worked now by John C. Lincoln, owner of Camelback inn, and by Ernest Dickie, who might be said to come from a gold mining family. His father and his grandfather made good and bad strikes in Colorado many years ago.

• • •

The California road takes off from Wickenburg straight across the desert. A traveler on this road would have to be strangely insensitive not to feel that only a ribbon of concrete and a fast car stand between him and the hardships which faced those who dared the desert only a few years ago. And it is not difficult to imagine the long breath of relief which the pioneers must have taken when they found water and shade at Palm Springs at the foot of the 10,000 footers which formed the last barrier between them and the valleys of California.

Apparently, these early travelers were not easily stopped, for there were only 11 white people in Palm Springs when Mrs. Nellie N. Coffman, who had been born on the banks of the Wabash in Indiana, founded the Desert inn.

Mrs. Coffman is no more proud of the world famous resort which she has built from a cottage and a tent than she is of the new high school of Palm Springs. From the beginning, she was determined that Palm Springs should have a school. But she could find only three children of school age—they were Indians and not too much interested. The state law provided that there must be six pupils before there could be a teacher. Way out on the desert, Mrs. Coffman found a Dutch farmer with nine children. He obligingly loaned her seven. Every day she washed their faces and sent them off to school.

• • •

San Diego is a fascinating place to visit just now. It has the feverish hum of a nation preparing to defend itself. Training planes soard and land, practically hanging on to each others' tails. Barracks are being built on all sides. The streets and docks are colorful with uniforms. Hotel lobbies look as if an oil boom were on. The brilliant lights of the airplane factories never go out.

It is something of an experience to be lost on a marine base after sundown. We wandered onto the great parade ground where the rookies were getting a little extra instruction; we peeked into a crowded mess-hall—the noise was terrific. We searched for "tent city"; surprised but courteous marines sent us in wrong directions. Finally, a big first sergeant from Texas took the situation in hand. He not only conducted us to Battery H, 2d defense battalion, but he regaled us with tall tales of his exploits in China and Samoa. He only flinched when we carelessly referred to the marines as the army.

We had come to see Private William Leslie, who enlisted in the marine corps four months ago. He is the son of the Roy F. Leslies of Chicago and the brother of Mrs. Charles Walgreen Jr.

WHO CAN TELL HER?

Chicago, Jan. 2.—To the Travel Editor: Will you please tell me how many homes for crippled children there are in Chicago? If you can't supply this information, can you tell me where I can find it?

I make scrapbooks. I know where the Martha Washington Home for Crippled Children is situated, as I have taken one book there; also, the Home for Destitute Crippled Children. Now I'm working on a third book, and am looking for a place to take it. The Shriners' hospital has refused one; somebody there told me such books are against the rules of the board of health.

My address: 6102½ Drexel avenue.

Mexico extends a cordial invitation to a Good Neighbor

Follow the sun over the border to Springtime. Stay out-of-doors and revitalize. Swim, sail, fish or just sun-bathe . . . climb to snow-capped peaks which rise over tropical valleys . . . discover a mountain stream and pick wild orchids along a forest path . . . see the thrilling ruins of ancient civilizations . . . stir your imagination in mediaeval palaces . . . relax in the softening influence of an ancient monastery. Do all these things and more on your greatest vacation at the smallest expense. No passport required.
